Rev. Rowland Speaker

Mrs. G. Harris presided for the monthly meeting of St. James Woman's Association in Wesley Hall Tuesday afternoon. An inspirational address was given by Rev E. W. Rowland, based on the Parable of the Ten Virgins. He represented the oil in the parable which we may obtain by prayer and meditation as the desire to live a life of unselfish service. The lamp is the witness or influence of the Christian and the bridegroom represents the opportunity to work and shine as lights in the world. The opportunity to serve is here now and it is up to the Christians to see that the lamps of the church are trimmed and burning, he said. Mrs. Henry Turner and the Rev. F. W. Craik rendered a pleasing duet "Have you been in the garden with Jesus?" accompanied by Mrs. Craik. Mrs. A. Brumwell, Mrs. B. Seabrooke and Mrs. K. Sloan thanked the association for making them life members at the annual church service on May 20th. Mrs. Harris thanked the ladies who helped her make sandwiches for the firefighters on May 26th. A resolution was made to endorse the resolutions of the Local Council of Women re the strengthening of ties with the British Commonwealth of Nations. Plans were made to send one of the CGIT girls to camp this summer.

Say Democracy Now Rules Summer Camps

TORONTO (CP).—Theories on summer camping, like everything else, have changed considerably during the last 25 years, says Margaret Govan, director of a small private camp for girls in the Muskoka district.

The original concept of a camp —a sort of outdoor school regulated by bells, whistles and a host of rules—is almost a thing of the past.

Today the trend is away from that kind of regimentation and more emphasis is placed on the development of individual initiative among the campers.

There's a general move to give the camp back to the campers, Miss Govan says, most camps are self-governing in all matters except health and safety. Campers are responsible for a large part of the planning of programs and an executive elected from members helps govern the group as a whole.

It's democracy in embryo, with children taught that the majority should rule and learning the importance of respecting the rights and views of others.

Camps offer a tremendous release from tensions children encounter in city homes, says Miss Govan. One of the most important features of any camp is the opportunity it gives children to pretend. They can forget themselves completely and with their camp mates be gypsies, Indians or pirates for a day.

Kinettes Arrange Children's Holiday

Peterborough Kinettes' last meeting for the summer season was held Tuesday evening in the form of a picnic at the summer home of Mrs. Vern Selkirk, Lake Chemong. Twenty-seven members were in attendance and President Mrs. Howard Powell was in charge.

The club project of sending two children to Ilahee Lodge, Cobourg, was discussed and details worked out to have the children taken to the Lodge and returned to their homes. The girl will go to the Lodge about June 18, for two weeks and the boy will go later—both for a period of two weeks.

About $50.00 was netted from the clothing exchange and this money is used for the club projects.

The club voted the sum of $25.00 to the Mayor's Fire Trust Fund. On Saturday next, the final day of the Fire Fund the Kinettes will man the booth on Charlotte Street to take in donations. Kinettes will be helping at the Kinsmen Carnival on June 21 and 22 at Riverside Park.

The rummage sale will take place on Friday, June 8, at 2:00 p.m. at 364 Water St.

Gift Replica May Yield Profit

LONDON, — (CP) — Because a queen's instructions were ignored 90 years ago, an English nurse hopes to make enough money to provide for her own retirement.

Nurse Diana Bernard is offering for sale an exact replica of a seal holder ordered by Queen Victoria in 1860 as a present for Prince Albert.

The queen had commissioned sculptor Frederick Beadle to make the two-inch statue of St. George and the dragon as a seal-holder for the Prince Consort. Beadle liked the result so much that he made a duplicate, although Queen Victoria had asked that no replicas be made.

This he gave to his wife who kept it safely hidden until her last illness. She then presented it to Nurse Bernard, who attended her.

Miss Bernard pushed the model into a drawer — thinking it of little value. Later she showed it to an art dealer who offered her £1,500.

"I felt as though I was dreaming," she said. "But I just put it back in the drawer."

Now Miss Bernard wants a cottage in the country to which she can retire and the model is being offered for sale.

Garden Party At Church Held By Murray St. YMCG

There were six gay attractions at the garden party held on the lawn at Murray St. Baptist church Wednesday afternoon: a gypsy lady in her tent; a pop stand, a candy booth, home baking, a "post office" and, of course, the tea. A pleasing crowd which included small youngsters and school children came to enjoy them and the hospitality of the ladies of the Young Married Couples Group.

A kaleidoscope of color in the decorations made this event outstanding. There were big lawn umbrellas and lawn furniture and the cups and saucers in solid, bright colors, mixed and matched. Novelties of all sorts and flowers went to make up the effective setting.

The tea table in the centre of the lawn was a small white metal one with shading umbrella and the tea pots were novelty designs in white and yellow china. A spreading wicker basket on the table held peonies, bleeding heart and spirea. The tea pourers were Mrs. E. L. Horning, Mrs. H. Frise, Mrs. A. V. Harnden and Mrs. S. Middleton.

Buy Mailed Parcels

The "post office" was perhaps the biggest attraction with the "boxes" filled with parcels mailed in from various points in US and Canada each ayalable for 25 cents and their contents often being found of greater value Postmistress Mrs. J. Arnott had sold every parcel and closed the wicket by four thirty.

Next big attraction was the gypsy lady (Mrs. Harry Westman), in her colorful attire with huge pockets in apron filled with balloons which she inflated for her small, and very anxious customers. Unsurprising was the short life which most of these toys enjoyed.

The home baking table, attended by Mrs. F. Trotter and Mrs. R. Beeler, and the candy book in charge of Mrs. J. Monteith and Mrs. H. Tranter were also sold out. Mrs. W. H. Tice dispensed the soft drinks to the young people who came after school.

Welcome Guests

Guests entered the grounds under an arch of lovely peonies and spirea and were welcomed by president Mrs. J. Buchanan and vice president Mrs. H. Doughty, and Mrs. Len Wilson at the treasurer's table.

Mrs. T. Smoothy invited them to have tea and the hostesses were Mrs. W. Osborne, Mrs. R. Smedmor, Mrs. R. Bishop, Mrs. G. Whatley, Mrs. K. Beeler, Mrs. G. Ross and Mrs. D. Fife. The serving plates were replenished by Mrs. G. Duncan and Mrs. D. Harwood and Mrs. E. Naish and Mrs. C. Wills made the tea and supplied the clean cups.

Mrs. Max Middleton was responsible for the decorations and the tea arrangements were made by Mrs. J. Hayward.

FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger

"That justice of the peace never overlooks a bet for more business!"

DOROTHY DIX

Judging Man By His Clothes Best Way To Get His Number

DEAR MISS DIX: What in the world can you do with a man who goes about dressed like a tramp and who is positively indifferent to his personal appearance? I am in love with a man who is clean physically and morally, but when I look at his sloppy old brown pants and his coat and waistcoat that seem to have been assembled from the ragbag, I wonder, if I married him, if he wouldn't become intolerable. He is very particular as to my appearance, and seems content just to worship me, never dreaming that I long to worship him in the same way.

Dorothy Dix

I have tried in a tactful way to make him aware of his slackness, but his only reply is, "That is why I need you." What shall I do? Swallow my pride and marry him because he is so fine in other ways, even if he is a living example of what No Well-Dressed Man Should Wear?

DISGUSTED D.M.

ANSWER: Slovenliness used to be considered the hallmark of genius. Perhaps your young man belongs to this class. But make very sure that he is a genius before you marry him for, as a general thing, carelessness about one's personal appearance is nothing but sheer laziness and shiftlessness, or lack of perception and up-to-dateness and all the qualities that make one get along in the world.

He's Too Lazy

A man puts on a soiled shirt in the morning because it is less trouble than to put buttons on a clean one. He doesn't shine his shoes because that would require five minutes' work. He doesn't send his clothes to the cleaner or take out the spots himself and press them because that is a little work. Such a man is a slacker by nature, and ninety-nine times out of a hundred he will spend his life sitting on the do-nothing stool. Judging a man by his clothes isn't as silly as it seems. It is about the best way we have of getting his number.

But, of course, there are exceptions to all rules and there are doubtless men who have all the virtues except clothes sense. So, if you are certain the man has plenty of intelligence along other lines, and that his sloppiness is not the result of laziness and stupidity, go ahead and marry him and save your sensibilities by making yourself his valet.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman of 40, in love with a man nine years younger than I. He knows I am older but not how much. When I first met him I told him we were not suited to each other because of the difference in our ages, but he said he didn't care how much older I was. He claims he would love me no matter how much difference there was in our ages. I don't have anything, so he couldn't be after my money. He has proved his love in many ways. He seems to enjoy every minute of the time we spend together. Is nine years too much difference?

SHIRLEY

ANSWER: While a marriage between two people with the woman so much the elder merits careful consideration and a thorough weighing of all circumstances, it is by no means a matter to be dismissed with a firm "Impossible!" Are you sure you are really in love with this man, and not marrying merely because you are lonesome? Is it certain that he loves you as a mature man loves his mate, and is not seeking maternal solace and protection?

Age as measured in years is not of itself important; the vital concern is the mental age. A man of 30 may be as old in his tastes and feelings as a woman of 40, and it really doesn't matter which has had more birthdays. No man marries a woman older than himself unless she has some quality of heart and mind that appeals strongly to him and he is much less liable to grow tired of her than he is of a young girl whose character is unformed and whose appeal to him is her youth.

As the wife of a man so much younger than yourself, you have a greater responsibility to keep yourself abreast of the times, smartly groomed, and eager to follow your husband's interests.

Before you marry, be sure your fiancee knows exactly how much older you are. Even though he says it makes no difference, the fact should be established to prevent later repercussions.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am the mother of five children. My husband and I are devoted to each other and have got along together splendidly, but the children are driving me into a nervous breakdown with their constant quarreling, calling each other names and arguing about everything. The two older girls even have fist fights and I am afraid to leave them together for fear I shall need the undertaker when I come back. What can I do with such children?

A DISCOURAGED MOTHER

ANSWER: Separate them, if possible. Send one of them off to school or away from home. In that way you will at least promote the peace of the household and save your nerves.

Fire Damage Being Repaired At Two Stores

Two extensive repair operations are now under way in the buildings which were either fire, water, or smoke-damaged during the Zacks building fire on May 19 which took the lives of four firefighters.

Scaffolds were erected on George street on Monday and Tuesday and work started Wednesday on the Robert Fair store which was on the edge of the fire. Although not damaged extensively by fire, the store and its stock, amounting to an estimated $100,000, suffered water and smoke damage.

Remove Cornice

As a safety measure the cornice at the top front will be removed. During the fire, men were stationed along the front to keep the blaze from spreading along the cornice. At the same time minor repairs will be made to the roof and to the windows at the rear of the building.

The store will be redecorated, both inside and out. Inside, the walls, floors and ceilings were damaged mostly by water and some smoke.

Today Harold Ephgrave's construction workers began erecting a scaffold on Hunter street, immediately in front of the Sands and Bateman office and James Marett's tobacco store.

There repair work amounting to an estimated $25,000 will be done. First to be removed will be the cornice and the burnt parts of the roof. Both will be replaced. Inside the walls and floors will be replaced on the third and fourth floors where the fire concentrated in the Braund building.

Two hours after the fire was discovered in the Zacks building, the blaze leaped the fire wall into the Braund building and spread across the top floor. Firemen brought this fire under control, preventing it from spreading further, but not before it had destroyed property of the IOOF stored there.

Millbrook Fair

open to any boy or girl under 20 who belonged, or whose parents belonged, to the Peterborough District Jersey Club. Every entrant in this class received a prize

Bruce Sargent did the announcing for the various classes over the sound system, brought by Ken Spears, of Port Perry. Operators were present from CHEX, who made recordings which will be heard over the air Thursday, Friday and Saturday, at 12.50 p.m.

The first day Tom Shaw will be interviewed, the second Harry Young of Springville, and the third the three who placed first in the calf club.

Among those who spoke from the judging stand were the Hon. Major John Foote, MPP for Durham County, and George Walton, warden of the United Counties.

Praises Fair

Major Foote said that at the Toronto Fair, the value of fairs as shops for buyers had been stressed. He said the Millbrook fair was one of the most important of the county. He congratulated the directors and exhibitors on their enviable reputation and wished them continued success in the years to come. Mr. Walton also offered congratulations and best wishes.

Society President

Jay Whittington, president of the Agricultural Society, thanked all those who had contributed to the success of the show. He made special mention of the grant from the Ontario government, from the United Counties and the surrounding municipalities, especially the township of Cavan.

A draw sponsored by Millbrook Lions' Club was made on the stand for a cocker spaniel puppy. This was won by Jake Miltz of Millbrook. It is only a few weeks ago that Jake won a quilt in a draw put on by the Women's Institute.

Among the special prizes were the silver rose bowl donated by Fred Brown, of Toronto, for the best ladies' driving horse, which was won by the horse driven by Mrs. Frank Baldwin, of Peterborough (this trophy to be won three times for ownership, the O'Toole cup for the champion Clydesdale mare went to W. F. Scott, of Campbellford; the Patterson Brothers' memorial trophy for the three best draft horses owned and exhibited by one exhibitor went to Garland Robinson, of Ida.

The Jeff Powell special for the best single hackney in harness that had not won at previous fairs went to (1) Lorne Hoskin, of Blackstock. (2) Frank Baldwin of Peterborough, and the Mathias special a box of 50 cigars, for the best gentleman's saddle horse went to Grant Henry, of Millbrook; the Roy Ferren special for the best Percheron yearling sired by one of his horses, 1, Percey Mantle; 2, Elias White; 3, W. Shea.

In the Percheron class the judge was Roy Hardy of Melbourne, and the directors in charge: Elias White, G. Robinson, J. H. McKnight and Roy Ferren. The prizes were as follows: Brood mare and foal—1 Roy Ferren, Cavan; 2 Eldridge Shea, Sunderland; 3 Elias White, Millbrook; 4 Gar Robinson, Ida.

Resort Operators Hold Dinner In Roseneath

The first annual dinner of the Rice Lake Tourist Operators Association was held on Wednesday evening at Roseneath. More than 100 guests, members and their wives, attended. Guest speaker was past president of the Canadian Tourist Association, George A. Martin of Toronto.

From his fund of knowledge of tourist resort operation—Mr. Martin owns one of the Muskoka district's largest hotels—he gave the Rice Lake people some advice.

"To be successful in the business," he said, "operators must constantly be on the alert to make sure the service they are providing is satisfactory to their customers."

Variety Appeal

Speaking to a branch of tourist operators who depend almost solely on one attraction, fishing, Mr. Martin warned them that they must provide other forms of amusement to make their guests' visit happy and enjoyable. Catering to the tourist traveller, according to his formula, could be boiled down simply to good meals, comfortable beds and a good time. Mr. Martin was also enthusiastic about the Ontario government's newly-announced policy of resort grading which will be introduced this year. He suggested that all operators should strive to secure a two-star grade, which indicates a "very good" establishment.

Association president Art Elmhirst acted as dinner chairman and the speaker was introduced by manager of Peterborough Chamber of Commerce James Fraser. Other head table guests who spoke briefly on subjects relative to their various governmental departments were district forester A. B. Wheatley of Lindsay, executive assistant to the Minister of Travel and Publicity Al Venn and the Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Minister of Welfare. Other head table officers of the association were vice-presidents Jack Doherty and Don Sidey and secretary-treasurer Arthur Brathwaite. A gift was presented to retiring secretary, Mrs. Harold Wilson.

Fire Fund Committee Ends Monday, Response Generous

Final meeting of the Mayor's Fire Fund committee will be Monday June 18 at 10 a.m. in the city hall committee room.

Mayor Swanston said this morning that the whole community was deeply gratified by the success of the fund.

"We have always felt that Peterborough has a warm heart and sympathy, and does not hesitate to be generous to such appeals as this fund," Mayor Swanston said.

The numerous receipt boxes which have been placed in stores and elsewhere will be collected next Monday. J. M. Fraser, manager of the Chamber of Commerce said he would arrange with the Fire Department for picking up the boxes. Their contents will be counted mechanically at the police station by several bank employees under the supervision of W. R. Wallace, assistant treasurer.

Mail Receipts

Red Cross Society is assuming the detail of writing and mailing receipts to those who have contributed to the fund with the help of business and university clubs.

In the meantime, subscriptions are still coming into the treasury, and in such volume that Mr. Wallace estimated the final total of the fund would exceed $50,000.

The committee is willing to carry on as long as necessary, but it is felt that the purpose will be quite adequately served by receiving contributions at the Bank of Montreal where Mr. Wallace is accountant. As to extension of the time indefinitely at present, Mayor Swanston mentioned today that the congregation of St. James United Church would make a special giving for the fund Sunday June 24, on the occasion of the last service conducted by the minister, Rev. Fred Craik.

The members of the committee attending today were: Mrs. Fred Hooper of the Red Cross Society, Mrs. Weldon Fanning of the Women's Civic Study group, Reg. Reid, J. M. Fraser, W. R. Wallace and Mayor Swanston.

Mayor Swanston said that the only change taking place in the fund campaign this week would be the calling in the offering boxes and closing the Jaycee booth on Charlotte St. which has been staffed by members of various women's associations for three weeks.

"I am sorry to report that Judge Smoke is ill," Mayor Swanston said. "I understand that his condition is just fair today, but we are all hoping that he will soon be well enough to be out again with us."

Judge Smoke is a patient at Civic Hospital.

Montrealer's Trent Cruise Halted When Cheque For Repairs 'Bounces'

ORILLIA, June 7.—A yachtsman with a smart 40-foot cabin cruiser and an air of prosperity had his Trent Waterway cruise interrupted Tuesday when he was arrested at Hastings and lodged in the town jail to appear in court Friday on a charge of false pretences.

Last autumn, Leo Dorfman of Toronto, left his cabin cruiser at Hunter Boats Ltd., with instructions for alterations and repairs. On Saturday he returned and took the boat out for a trial run on Lake Couchiching.

Worried when the trial was unduly extended, Mr. Hunter got in his car and drove to the narrows between lakes Couchiching and Simcoe. There he intercepted the cruiser. Called ashore, Mr. Dorfman paid his bill with a $700 cheque and continued his cruise.

On Tuesday the cheque was returned to Mr. Hunter by the bank. Orillia police were informed and an alarm sent out which resulted in Dorfman's arrest and his return to Orillia to face the false pretences charge.

Education, City Services Boost Municipal Taxes To $136,138,099 In Ontario

By The Canadian Press

Ontario's municipal taxpayers will pay a whopping $136,138,099 this year to cover the cost of education and city services in the Province's major urban areas. A Canadian Press survey of 26 municipalities showed all but one with higher tax rates in 1951 than 1950. Some $13,000,000 more than last year will be needed to meet rising local government costs.

The most expensive item on municipal budgets again this year is education. Nearly a quarter—$38,518,180—of the tax total is earmarked for public and high school projects. Cost is up some $7,000,000 from last year, most of the increase due to staff salary boosts.

Adding to education costs are the new schools being built to accommodate the increasing number of school-age children in the province. Classroom equipment and maintenance costs have gone up too.

More Expensive

Other municipal responsibilities—police and fire protection and public utilities such as sewers and water — are more expensive. Rising costs of materials, salary boosts to meet cost-of-living needs and large outlays for new equipment are eating into the tax dollar.

In an effort to keep spending and taxes to a minimum, many cities have cut out or postponed public works. As a result most budgets show little increase in capital equipment and construction such as new roads and public works equipment.

Taxes, however, have jumped anywhere from one to 22.5 mills across the province. The lone exception, Niagara Falls, managed to cut taxes 19 mills on the dollar this year when re-assessment added $18,000,000 in taxable property to the city rolls.

Sudbury, in Northern Ontario, boosted its rate from 60 to 77 mills for public school supporters to raise a record $1,836,644 in taxes. Most of the extra $478,711 raised will go to cover wage increases and a major program of street repairs.

Elsewhere in Northern Ontario, taxes went up. Teck Township, embracing Kirkland Lake boosted taxes from 68 to 81.5 mills to raise $1,002,472, and Sault Ste. Marie upped its levy to 62.5 from 53.5.

By paring school estimates as closely to last year as possible, North Bay held its tax rate to a 1.3-mill rise for a 54.5 level.

Hospital Costs

Peterborough, faced with costs of financing a new civic hospital, jumped its public school supporters' rate from 49.5 to 55.5 and its separate school levy from 50.5 to 57 mills.

Toronto, Hamilton, Windsor and London, relying on a large tax-paying population and having traditionally big budgets, managed to hold tax increases below the 10-mill mark.

Hamilton made the largest increase with a new rate of 56 mills. The rate, which will bring in $19,694,452 — some $13,000,000 more than last year — reflects an added 9.5 mills.

Even with this increase city council was forced to postpone several public works projects and to maintain city services at much the same level as last year.

Toronto boosted its taxes six mills to 39.3. A total of $69,631,281 is expected from Toronto ratepayers.

London and Windsor met salary demands from teachers, police and firemen with one- and six-mill increases, respectively. The added tax will net $142,777 for London and $1,458,961 for Windsor.

Welfare Measures

Social welfare measures — children's aid, hospital and ambulance service, clinics and so on—are proving a heavy load for municipalities. Many of them, despite Dominion and provincial grants, are having trouble meeting rising cost of upkeep. This is especially the case where city-run hospitals are operated.

Guelph, with an 11-mill addition to last year's 59-mill rate, is aiming at $230,000 added revenue. Of this, $86,660 is earmarked to cover hospital debt charges and $135,887 for salary increases. Kitchener and Waterloo are spending most of their six- and 5.5-mill rate raises for salaries and social services. The boosts will net them some $300,000 and $250,000, respectively.

Several cities have increased taxes to supply the needs of extra population. Kingston, in the midst of a mild industrial expansion, plans annexation of adjoining suburbs. With a tax boost of 9.5 mills from 36.8 mills, the city will raise a record $2,232,979. Much of this is planned for public works as well as for salary increases, additions to the fire department and debt charges.

Criticism of the mounting taxes in the municipalities was voiced during last weeks' meetings of the Ontario Association of Mayors and Reeves at Owen Sound. There, Premier Frost of Ontario, in the keynote address of the conference ,called for a meeting between provincial and municipal officials to discuss re-assessment, equalized tax burden and a shift in social service reponsibilities.

Mayor McCallum of Toronto, in his annual report as president of the association in 1950, stressed the need for immediate action on the municipal tax problem.

MARGARET TRUMAN visited the Tower of London recently, inspected an ancient dungeon, looked with awe on the axes once used to chop off peoples' heads, and shuddered at the thumbscrews and iron masks of the torture chambers. Besides all that, President Truman's daughter had her first encounter with toad-in-the-hole-sausage meat baked in a batter. Miss Truman learned about it at the Festival of Britain grounds. In England on a private trip, Miss Truman (right foreground) paid a visit to Chartwell, Kent, England, home of Britain's wartime Prime Minister Winston Churchill, wearing siren suit, 10-gall. hat, and smoking a cigar. Accompanying Miss Truman were Walter S. Gifford (left), US Ambassador to Great Britain, and Mrs. Gifford (second from left). At right is Christopher Soames, son-in-law of Churchill, and in right background is his wife, the former Mary Churchill. This picture was taken outside entrance porch to Mr. Churchill's home.

US Army Judged Famous Revolver Too Complicated

NEW YORK—(CP)—The Colt revolver, familiar six-shooter that became known as the peacemaker of the western frontier, was once turned down by the United States army as being too complicated.

The idea for the weapon was conceived by Samuel Colt when he was only 16. Working on a brig in the Indian Ocean he watched a helmsman spin the wheel and noted that each spoke came directly in line with a catch that could be set to hold it.

That gave him the idea for his famous revolver. But of his first two models, one blew up and the other failed. Without money, Colt went to work for his father but gave it up because of low wages.

Finally he earned enough to hire an expert mechanic to make a working model of the revolver, and borrowed an additional $1,000 from his aunt, with which he went to England and took out patents. In 1836 he returned to the US and obtained American patents.

Dogged By Poverty

Capital still was a problem, and after starting the Patent Arms Manufacturing Company in New Jersey the young inventor found nobody seemed to want his guns.

Finally he took two engraved revolvers to Washington and presented them to President Andrew Jackson. Jackson knew weapons and gave Colt a letter of thanks which got him a test at West Point. But the US army wasn't interested.

In the panic of 1837, Colt had to close the factory and pawn all the guns in order to eat.

While in Washington, Colt met Capt. Samuel Walker, of the Texas Rangers who had used his gun and liked it. An order of 100 guns for the Rangers was a minor encouragement.

Finally, Colt perfected a submarine mine system that would protect any harbor from an attacking fleet. Overnight he became famous and Congress appropriated $20,000 for a demonstration of the harbor defence. From then on, promotion of the revolver was easy.

New Tire Plant Shatters Quiet Of European Village

COLMAR, Luxembourg (AP)—P. Eischen, the mustachioed stationmaster of this ancient spot 18 miles from Luxembourg City, is a worried man. Gone are his dreams of ending his days quietly in an easy spot with few trains and no worries.

Since Colmar became the site of a new American tire plant the old village has become the "Little Akron" of Luxembourg. The station is the stopping point for more passengers and freight trains than ever before.

A nearby Alsatian farmer quit the farm he had rented from the property administrators of the Grand Duchess of Luxembourg. He said he didn't want to be atom-bombed. His farmhouse will be turned into a cafe for the rubber plant workers.

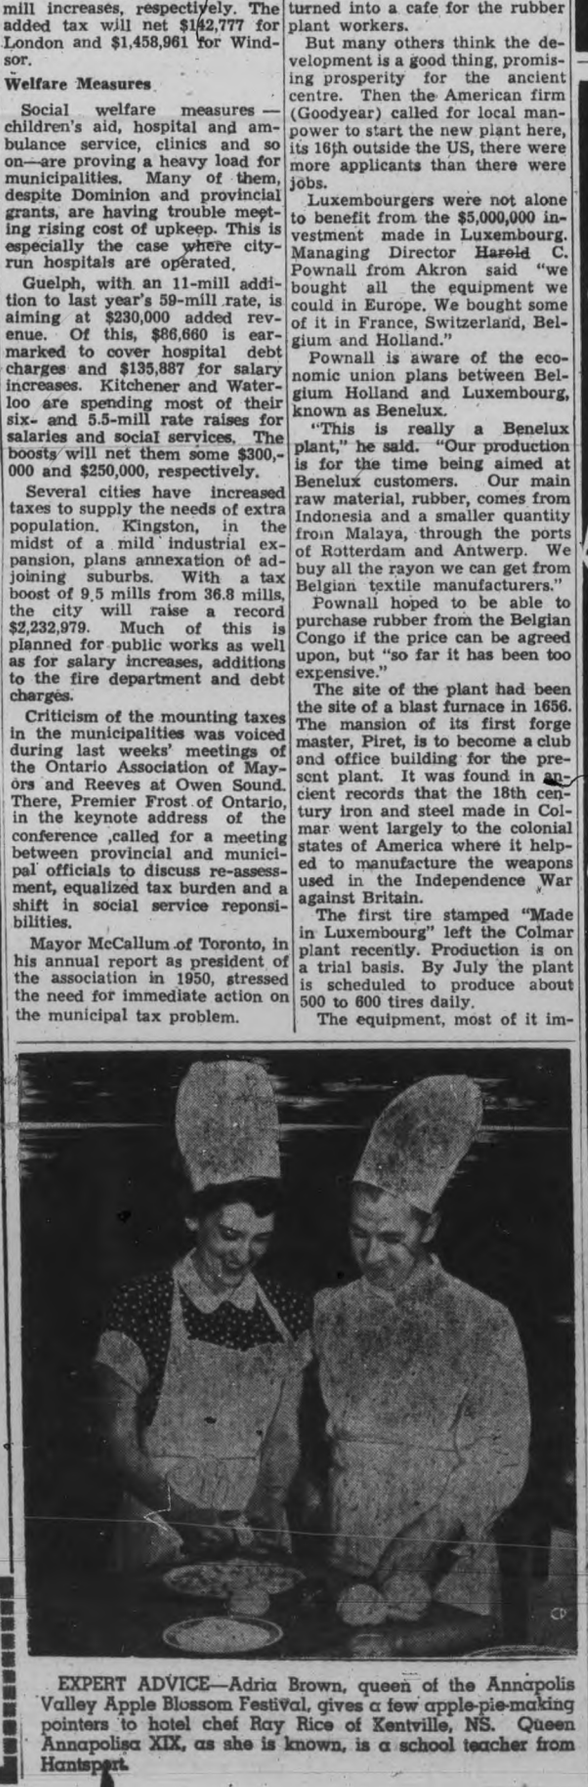
But many others think the development is a good thing, promising prosperity for the ancient centre. Then the American firm (Goodyear) called for local manpower to start the new plant here, its 16th outside the US, there were more applicants than there were jobs.

Luxembourgers were not alone to benefit from the $5,000,000 investment made in Luxembourg. Managing Director Harold C. Pownall from Akron said "we bought all the equipment we could in Europe. We bought some of it in France, Switzerland, Belgium and Holland."

Pownall is aware of the economic union plans between Belgium Holland and Luxembourg, known as Benelux.

"This is really a Benelux plant," he said. "Our production is for the time being aimed at Benelux customers. Our main raw material, rubber, comes from Indonesia and a smaller quantity from Malaya, through the ports of Rotterdam and Antwerp. We buy all the rayon we can get from Belgian textile manufacturers."

Pownall hoped to be able to purchase rubber from the Belgian Congo if the price can be agreed upon, but "so far it has been too expensive."



The site of the plant had been the site of a blast furnace in 1656. The mansion of its first forge master, Piret, is to become a club and office building for the present plant. It was found in ancient records that the 18th century iron and steel made in Colmar went largely to the colonial states of America where it helped to manufacture the weapons used in the Independence War against Britain.

The first tire stamped "Made in Luxembourg" left the Colmar plant recently. Production is on a trial basis. By July the plant is scheduled to produce about 500 to 600 tires daily.

The equipment, most of it imported from Akron, is set for car and truck tire production. Output of inner tubes also is on the future schedule.

About 30 workers are on the payroll. This will increase later to 500. Most of the staff is Luxembourg-born. Fifteen American workers will go home after their job of training local manpower is over.

Pownall said: "This will not be long. The Luxembourgers are surprisingly adaptable to United States production methods."

Marshall In Tokyo Denies Bringing New War Orders

TOKYO, June 8. (AP)—Defence Secretary George C. Marshall of the United States arrived tonight after a surprise visit to the Korean war zone and said the Allied troops were "in wonderful shape." Marshall, on his first visit since the Korean fighting began, said the purpose of his visit was "purely military." "I came over to see the Eighth Army and they are in wonderful shape," Marshall told newspapermen at suburban Haneda airport. "They couldn't be better."

Marshall said he had brought no new directives on the conduct of the war and added that his visit had no connection with current peace negotiation discussions.

He was accompanied to Korea by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme commander of the United Nations forces. He said that while in Korea he visited the 1st Corps and the 1st Cavalry Division and met all the non-American commanders.

(Reuters News Agency said Marshall's conferences with top commanders included talks with three British Commonwealth Brigadiers on the western front in Korea.)

He said he does not know how long he would remain in the Far East but that it would be a short stay.

Marshall said efforts are being made to obtain more troops for the Korean war from other members of the United Nations.

He considered the UN campaign in Korea a "military classic."

In particular, he pointed to the way the Chinese and North Korean Reds were repulsed during their May offensive and then were pursued by the UN army.

"We counter-attacked immediately," he said, "and disrupted the Communists' morale and certainly hurt the Communist prestige."

Marshall and Ridgway conferred for almost six hours with Lt.-Gen. James A. Van Fleet, United Nations field commander, at US Eighth Army headquarters in Korea. Before visiting Van Fleet, Marshall flew to a division headquarters on the western front where he told a plane-side press conference that news of any imminent peace feelers would have to come from Communist China.

He said he considered the Korean war no more of a stalemate than the situation in Berlin during the days of the airlift.

It was Marshall's first visit to the Far East since 1946, when he returned from China after trying for six months to mediate a settlement between Chinese Nationalists and Communists.

The surprise trip touched off speculation in Washington that he might be carrying new orders to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway for conduct of the Korean war.

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff, told the Senate MacArthur inquiry last month that "a definite new directive" for the campaign was in the works. He said it would be issued shortly.

In his May 25 testimony Collins refused to discuss the directive with the Senators, saying the matter was still under review by the joint chiefs of staff and a final decision had not been made at that time.

Reds Stiffen Resistance Before Chorwon

TOKYO, June 8 (AP). — UN forces hammered Friday at suddenly-stiffened resistance before Chorwon, gateway to the Reds' vital "iron triangle" on which their whole position in Korea depends. The US Eighth Army reported gains of up to a mile, and slightly more than that in drives up the central front. Tanks rammed up one road for three miles without trouble. These blows were aimed at Kumhwa, eastern anchor of the triangle.

But in the west, three Chinese battalions blocked all allied attempts to buck closer to Chorwon up to mid-afternoon, the Eighth Army reported. Later, front dispatches reported the allies battled their way for two miles through mud and deeply-dug-in Reds. Censorship prevented dispatches from saying whether this carried troops to the gates of the city.

In the east, it was a hacking advance over ridges; or no gain at all.

Open Flood Gates

Chinese Communists opened flood gates and employed a powerful new-type anti-tank gun in efforts to halt the relentless approach of United Nations ground forces.

Chorwon and Kumhwa are entries to the Reds' build-up and supply area, and centre of a vital road network.

The area, known as the "Iron Triangle," was blanketed with fragmentation bombs Thursday night by 23 UN bombers. They used radar technique. Far East air forces said 9,000,000 bomb fragments splattered over the triangle in "one of the heaviest operations of its kind."

Shifting Eastward

There were signs the Reds were shifting their weight eastward from the triangle. UN officers said the shift indicated the Reds were moving toward Wonsan, east-coast port at the head of Pyongyang Valley. Wonsan has been shelled daily by Allied warships for nearly four months. It is about 85 air miles north of the 38th Parallel.

Fiercest fighting was east of the triangle in the Yanggu-Inje area. Allied infantry men clawed up ridges. With grenades and bayonets they dug North Koreans out of fortified dugouts and deep foxholes where they have withstood artillery and bombing for days.

Snow Damage Million Dollars

CALGARY, June 8 (CP)—Power and communications officials Thursday night placed at $1,000,000 the damage caused by a freak June snowstorm that dumped some 15 inches of wet snow on southern Alberta in two days.

Communications still are snarled in many districts, although the sun came out Thursday and melted much of the snow. Rural roads were reported still in poor condition.

T. H. Holmes, superintendent of Canadian Pacific communications, said damage to company lines would amount to "hundreds of thousands of dollars."

King Unable To Go For Windsor Visit

LONDON, June 8—(Reuters)—The King, who has a slight catarrhal inflammation of the lung, will stay at Buckingham Palace when the rest of the royal family moves to Windsor next week.

The Queen, Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret are going to their country home at Windsor, 21 miles from London, Monday, for the racing week at nearby Ascot.

The King has been confined to his rooms at Buckingham Palace for the last two weeks following an attack of influenza.

Earlier this week he cancelled all engagements for a least a month at his doctor's advice.

8,500 Tons Meat Spoiling In Strike

LONDON, June 8—(Reuters)—More than 8,500 tons of meat and 5,000 tons of butter for this protein-poor country lay in ships' holds today as a parlyzing London dock strike went into its fifth day.

Unofficially staged by more than 1,500 checkers, who charge the Dock Labor Board with a breach of their recruitment agreement, the strike has brought the Port of London to a near standstill.

About 8,000 dockers and stevedores, who cannot work unless checkers supervise them, are idle, though work is required on 80 ocean-going freighters.

The food is mainly in the holds of three ships. Some of it is perishable and loss of 11,000 cases of Australian fruit is feared.

A mass meeting of checkers yesterday rejected official union appeals to return to work.

Mosquitoes, Black Flies Force Prisoners Surrender

SUDBURY, June 8 (CP). — After 14 days in the dense, fly-infected bush of the south Sudbury district and without food for the first five days, two escapees from Burwash Industrial Farm were captured Thursday by Provincial Police at the mouth of the Mahzenazing river where it empties into Georgian Bay.

Albert Joseph Cadeau, 29, of Orillia, and Honey Harbor, and William Ervin Kett, 23, of Windsor, gave up without a struggle to Cpl. Louis Needham, of Gore Bay, and Const. Gordon A. Gray of Little Current waiting for them on a rocky bluff overlooking the river.

"We were on a high rock and watched them come down the river," Const. Gray said today. "We let them come in close and then ordered them to the shore. They didn't try to get away. They had a .22 calibre rifle in the canoe and fishing tackle."

At Lake Penagoe, 25 miles west of Burwash, the prisoners told police, they discarded their prison clothes and picked up new clothing, a rifle and a white canoe at summer camps. They later painted the canoe green in an effort to avoid detection.

Police took up positions at the mouth of the Mahzenazing river as it was the only way out, unless the escapees abandoned their canoe and struck out overland. This possibility was ruled out in view of the dense bush and hordes of mosquitoes and black flies.

The men escaped on May 24 while working as trustees at the prison farm dairy barns. They appeared in court today on charges of escaping lawful custody and were remanded a week.

Windsor Man Murdered At Own Door

5 Children Sleeping Inside House, Hint Love Triangle

WINDSOR, June 8. (CP)—A 48-year-old factory worker was shot to death early today at the back door of his home. Another man is in hospital with a bullet wound in his chest.

Mike Lesko was felled by four bullets at his east side home while four of his five children slept inside. His wife was committed to a mental institution recently.

George Liska, 51, a fellow factory worker, is in hospital. He was found a mile and a half away in a state of collapse about three hours after the shooting.

Liska is under police guard in hospital.

It is reported that he gave a statement to two Windsor detectives But here was no confirmation and authorities said it could not be disclosed in the event it would prejudice any trial.

Police hinted at a love triangle involving Lesko's wife, as a possible motive.

Lesko's neighbors told police they heard four shots in rapid succession, followed by a fifth a short time later.

Two of the shots at Lasko are believed to have pierced his heart. The other two went wide.

Liska was found by F. A. Stearns who took him to the East Windsor Hospital. An ambulance removed him to Hotel Dieu Hospital and its driver, Leonard Simard, reported to Police Detectives Jack Blair and James McLaughlin.

Liska has a wife in Czechoslovakia. Lesko and his wife came from Czechoslovakia in 1928.

Had Argument

Lesko worked as a checker at the factory, on the afternoon shift. Liska worked the same shift but had not been to work since early in the week when the pair had had an argument.

A three-inch gash on Liska's forehead appeared to have been caused by Lesko's lunch box which was found beside his body. Apparently the two men struggled before the shots were fired, police said.

Plane Lands With 3 Engines

SHANNON, Republic of Ireland, June 8 (AP).—A Pan American Airways Stratocruiser with 57 persons aboard landed safely with one engine dead at Shannon Airport today after a 2,000-mile flight to nowhere over the North Atlantic.

The big plane developed engine trouble 1,000 miles at sea, just short of its point of no return. The pilot came back on three engines.

The aircraft made a routine landing without the usual precaution of a fire engine standing by.

The pilot reported his No. one engine had developed an oil leak. The ship, on flight 101 bound for New York, via Gander, Nfld., had taken off from Shannon at 6 p.m. EDT Thursday. It landed back here at 11:50 a.m. EDT.

STILL A LONG WAY from his new home, Per-olaf Back, 18 months old, rests in the arms of stewardess Viveka Themne of Stockholm, Sweden, at Montreal Airport recently as he paused in his journey from Finland to his new home in Vancouver. Per-olaf was one of 46 Finnish immigrants aboard a Scandinavian aircraft. This is the first time Finnish immigrants have flown to this country.

Weary British MP's End 22-Hour Unbroken Session

LONDON, June 8. (Reuters)—Weary, red-eyed members of parliament today completed their longest continuous sitting since the Labor government came into power six years ago. Since 3 p.m. local time Thursday, nearly 600 members of the House of Commons had argued over clauses in the national budget—22 hours and three minutes of unbroken debate.

As they emerged from the parliament building shortly after 1 p.m., enjoying the novelty of fresh air, London workers scurried past them bound for lunch.

But the marathon sitting was still a long way off the 34½-hour debate on unemployment in 1936 and the record of 1881 when members of parliament sat for more than 40 hours.

As it became obvious that the session would extend well into the day, Friday's normal sitting, due to begin at 11 a.m., was automatically cancelled.

Throughout the night the Commons had haggled over the committee stage of the finance bill authorizing government expenditures for the year. The debate was to pass the budget proposals of April into law.

Conservative leader Winston Churchill proposed Thursday night that the House rise shortly after midnight, but the government was determined to get on with the bill.

Afraid to Leave

Churchill left at 2 a.m. but most Labor members feared their absence might result in an important government defeat.

The 560 members present struggled to their feet about once every hour to vote on detailed points of the bill. Each time the government proposal was carried, on majorities varying from 21 to eight votes.

Canadians Soon Change Flash

OTTAWA, June 8 — (CP) — Canadian troops in Korea soon will be wearing a new shoulder flash that will identify them with the First Commonwealth Division of the Unted Nations forces.

The army said today they'll soon take down from their right sleeves the distinctive Canadian-United Nations flash of the 25th Infantry brigade group and replace it with the Commonwealth insignia.

But the Canadian brigade flash —red shield with the word "Canada" in gold and gold maple leaf set within the white Un laurel leaves—will continue to be worn on the left sleeve.

Each of the Commonwealth countries contributing to the Commonwealth division has agreed to the design of the new flash. It now is being manufactured in the United Kingdom and should be ready for issue in about three weeks.

It has a gold crown on a white background with the word "Commonwealth" written under the crown. The whole is mounted on a blue shield.

Seek 14 Million For CNR Line

OTTAWA, June 8 (CP)—The government put parliamentary machinery in motion today to authorize a 155-mile $14,725,000 Canadian National Railways line to help develop nickel-copper deposits in northern Manitoba.

Transport Minister Chevrier gave notice on the Commons order paper that he will introduce a bill to that effect, authorizing the CNR to finance the construction by a public issue of bonds which may be backed by the government.

The bill also will authorize "temporary loans" from the public treasury so the CNR may launch the construction program immediately.

The 155-mile line will link up Sherridon, Man.—550 miles northwest of Winnipeg — with Lynn Lake, site of a huge nickel-copper development launched by Sherritt Gordon Mines, Ltd.

In his notice, Mr. Chevrier gave no indication of how big the "temporary loans" by the government would be, but it was intimated previously the government may put up about $5,000,000 to get the program moving.

13,000 Men Target For European Brigade

OTTAWA, June 8—(CP)—The 27th Brigade group, primarily slated for Europe, will be roughly 13,000 strong or almost as large as a Second World War division, the Army said today.

About half those men would be slated to go to Europe while the other half would remain in Canada and train to rotate with those who are in Europe.

The Army said the first month's recruiting brought in 6,671 officers and men which "represents approximately the basic requirement for the brigade." A spokesman said defence headquarters is pleased with the response.

But officials emphasized that the campaign "will continue indefinitely" because nearly the same number of men are required for the brigade's replacement group.

Use Enlisted Man

PEARL HARBOR, June 8 (AP)—The navy for the first time in its history assigned an enlisted man as a representative of the United States government. Navy Chief Storekeeper Frederick A. Pobst, Pueblo, Colo., has left to take over administration of a group of islands dotting 30,000 square miles of the Far Western Pacific. They are in the Bonin-volcano group. His job is a small-scale cross between an ambassador and a governor with the headaches of both.

2 Diplomats Send Message From France

Police Scour Europe For Pair, Have No Other Clues

LONDON, June 8. (AP) — The Foreign Office said today messages bearing the names of two missing British diplomats —and sent from Paris by a mysterious third person—give no clue to their present whereabouts.

William Ridsdale, head of the Foreign Office news department, said three messages to relatives here appeared to have been composed by the vanished Britons but were not in their handwriting.

In Paris, the newspaper France Soir said the missing pair—Donald Duart MacLean, head of the American department of the Foreign Office, and Guy Burgess, until recently at the British Embassy in Washington—may be in Warsaw, Poland. The paper said French Army intelligence officers hold this theory.

French police said they did not know where the men are but expressed belief they had not left France.

Fear Secrets Taken

There is fear, both in London and in Washington, that the two may have taken top-level defence secrets behind the Iron Curtain, straining Anglo-American relations. MacLean had access to such information. Both speak Russian, are students of Communist theory and have reputations for getting along well with Communist diplomats.

One of the three messages was received early Thursday, the other two later in the day. One was sent to MacLean's wife, who is expecting her third child. Another went to MacLean's mother, Lady MacLean, widow of Sir Donald MacLean, a former Liberal cabinet minister. The third was addressed to Burgess' mother.

"There is no indication as to who handed the messages in," said Risdale. "I suppose you could assume that someone else is involved because the messages were not in the handwriting of either of the two men."

Personal Messages

The messages from Paris were described as purely personal and there is no intention to publish them, Ridsdale said.

There is no warrant out for their arrest. MacLean is 38 years old, Burgess 40.

Some of the movements of the two men now have been traced. They left Southampton May 25 aboard a weekend excursion boat

Indian Braves Pray For Peace

RAPID CITY, S.D., June 8 (CP)—Four Indian braves, painted with yellow ochre and wearing only loin cloths, prayed for world peace today from atop Near Butte.

The four Cheyennes will remain on the mountain four days and four nights fasting and praying.

Prayers are being made for a stop to the Korean war and for American forces to come safely through it.

The last Cheyenne peace ceremony was conducted in May, 1945; the Japs surrendered the following August.

Take It In Stride

KING, Ont., June 8. (CP)—Some 15 women attending a tea party in a summer home near here wound up fighting a fire today. The women, dressed in party gowns, climbed to the roof and fought the blaze for half an hour while Aurora firemen raced eight miles to finish it off. Fire Chief Harry Jones said: "They placed a ladder against the house and three were sitting astride the roof when we arrived. They had a garden hose rigged up and a bucket brigade to haul water."

Sir Eugene Fiset Dies In Quebec, Ill Long Time

RIVIERE DU LOUP, Que., June 8—(CP)—Sir Eugene Fiset, Quebec's lieutenant-governor for almost 11 years—a record term—died here today. He retired in September. He was 77.

He took office as lieutenant-governor Jan. 1, 1940, and his appointment was renewed in 1945.

Sir Eugene had been seriously ill for months and during his last year at Bois de Coulogne, official residence of the lieutenant-governor in Quebec City, had been forced to curtail his public activities.

He suffered a heart attack shortly after he retired here last September. However, he rallied and continued to live quietly in his lower St. Lawrence River home until a recent relapse.

Lady Fiset and members of his family were at his bedside in the big Riviere du Loup home when he died.

Longest Term

Sir Eugene was lieutenant-governor of his native province longer than any of his 17 single-terms predecessors.

He was sworn in to office on New Year's Day, 1940, and was re-appointed in 1945. He was succeeded Oct. 3 this year by Hon. Gaspard Fateaux, former speaker of the House of Commons.

Sir Eugene himself was a prominent parliamentarian and had pursued an active career as a soldier and doctor before his appointment as lieutenant-governor.

He directed his life toward the medical profession from the time his education started in Rimouski where he was born and served with distinction in the Boer War as a medical officer.

School Teacher's Car Dynamited In Quebec

VAL D'OR, Que., June 8—(CP)—Provincial police reported today an automobile parked in the rear of the home of Lorne K. Smith, chairman of the Protestant County high school board and the Val d'Or Protestant School Commission, was dynamited late Thursday. All windows in the area were shattered.

Owner of the car is Florien Benoit, a Val d'Or school teacher. Police are investigating.

Six Killed In Blast

NAPLES, Italy, June 8 (Reuters)—Six men were killed and two badly injured when ammunition left over from the war exploded in a cave near here Thursday night. The men had entered the cave in the archaeological area of Cumae, dating back to ancient Roman times, to dismantle some of the bombs and shells and sell the metal parts.

Canada Hopes Treaty Draft Released Soon For Japan

OTTAWA, June 8 (CP).—The Canadian government is hopeful that a joint British-American draft of a Japanese peace treaty will emerge shortly and open the way for resumption of normal relations with Tokyo, External Affairs Minister Pearson said today.

He said at a press conference that Fisheries Minister Mayhew has been to Washington for high-level discussions on the fisheries aspects of the treaty "which are of great importance to British Columbia."

Mr. Mayhew discussed the question with John Foster Dulles, US presidential envoy who is directing the peace negotiations.

Both countries are anxious to prevent revival of undesirable pre-war Japanese activities in the North Pacific fisheries.

Mr. Pearson said Canada has placed her official comments on an American treaty draft before Washington and has accepted the procedure suggested by the US whereby there would be no formal peace conference but agreement would be reached through diplomatic channels.

"In general," the Minister said, "we have expressed a large measure of agreement with US views."

These call broadly for restoration of Japan to a relatively strong position with limited forces to act as an anti-Communist stronghold in the Pacific.

Hitch-Hiker One Of 20 Questioned

75 Detectives Press Search For Slayer Of Toronto Woman

TORONTO, June 8. (CP)—A young hitch-hiker, picked up in connection with the hatchet slaying Wednesday of a 42-year-old woman, was freed by police today.

Officials said they were satisfied that Eugene Boyko, 21-year-old unemployed laborer from Winnipeg, had no part in the killing of Mrs. Edwin Derkison in her Yonge street hardware store.

Boyko was one of a score of suspects rounded up by police late Thursday night and early today.

He was held on a charge of vagrancy, before undergoing questioning. Police said the vagrancy charge still stands and Boyko will appear in court Saturday.

Mrs. Derkison was found in the rear of her small midtown store with a hatchet buried in her skull. Her neck and ankles were bound with wire and there was a towel around her throat.

Boyko was picked up at suburban Port Credit about 1:30 a.m. today and told officers he was travelling to Hamilton—50 miles away—to look for a job.

He said he was attending a downtown Toronto theatre when the killing took place.

Police said a careful check of all suspects failed to turn up a clue. All were released along with the Winnipeg youth.

Meanwhile, 75 constables and detectives continued their search to get the killer, described as "tall, blonde and with crooked teeth." A reward of $1,000 was posted Thursday.

Mrs. Derkison was almost decapitated. She had been struck 15 times by a hatchet taken from her store window case.

The killer casually left the small store and disappeared shortly before the body was discovered by Thomas Ireland, a bank messenger who came to the store to deliver a bank draft.

The murder motive still remained unknown. Money in the store cash register was untouched.

Iran Charges UK Exploitation

TEHRAN, Iran, June 8—(CP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh has drafted a strongly-worded note to Britain accusing the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company of exploiting Iran and violating concession and royalty agreements, it was learned today.

The note, a reply to Britian's missive of May 29 contesting Iran's "arbitrary" nationalization of the giant oil company, is expected to argue that Iran's action was correct because the company broke its agreements.

It was also expected to repudiate entirely the 60-year concession agreement, signed in 1933, on which Britain and Anglo-Iranian have based their charge against Iran of breach of contract.

The note is understood to reject arbitration by the world court at the Hague, which Britain has already petitioned.

Second Man Dies In Boiler Explosion

TORONTO, June 8 (CP)—William Kelly of Toronto died in hospital today, the second victim of a boiler explosion which rocked a downtown office building Thursday.

Kelly, a building engineer, suffered severe leg and internal injuries.

Elevator operator John G. Constables, 44, formerly of London, Ont., died in the blast Thursday.

Two others were injured, but not seriously. They were Percy Hill, 65, and Claude Feilder, 55, who were struck by flying glass as they strolled past the building.

Police said the boiler exploded when the safety valve failed to work properly and pressure built up.

Firemen had to don gas masks to bring Constables and Kelly out. The explosion embedded steel boiler sections in the basement walls.

Supply Shortage Curbing Building of Houses

OTTAWA, June 8. (CP)—The Canadian Government, amid warnings from one of its own spokesmen that there is going to be a shortage of construction supplies, was urged Thursday to do more to help the common man buy his own home. One Liberal joined with members of Opposition groups in urging that the Federal Government do more to spur private home construction in Canada. The discussion came after Resources Minister Winters called for debate on his 1951-52 estimates. He reports to Parliament for the Crown-owned Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. There was an immediate demand for a debate on housing.

Mr. Winters said that more than 89,000 new houses were built in 1950 and probably as many would be built this year.

But, said Mr. Winters, a number of real "obstacles" have arisen in the way of maintaining the current housing activitiy.

Growing Shortages

They included growing shortages, increased building costs, a tightening of mortgage money and the difficulties of an insufficient supply of serviced land. The expanding defence program, involving much new construction, got first call on materials.

Donald Fleming (PC — Toronto Eglinton) suggested the government should remove the freeze on housing loans and should revive a 1949 provision under which prospective home owners were given a second mortgage.

David Croll (L—Toronto Spadina) said that private builders cannot supply the need for housing. They cannot make enough profit in the field of low-cost, low-rental housing.

He asked the federal government to appeal to the provinces and to municipalities to do more in the public housing field.

Not Enough

Mr. Winters said that since 1944 Canada has constructed 460,000 new housing units. That, he declared, was an achievement which compared with the housing program of any country, but it still was not enough.

The rate of family formations—resulting from marriage and immigation—was greater than the number of new housing units constructed from the end of the last war.

The federal government, said Mr. Winters, is anxious to join with the provinces in undertaking low-rental housing projects, especially in areas where the defence program is aggravating the housing shortage.

SUB. LIEUT. W. A. B. (ALEX) Douglas who today is graduating from Trinity College, University of Toronto, with Bachelor of Arts degree. Just previous to his graduation he received a commission in the Royal Canadian Navy and he leaves Saturday for Vancouver, BC, where he expects to join the crew of the HMCS Ontario. Sub. Lieut. Douglas is son of Mrs. W. J. Gilling, 334 Rogers St.

Suggest Grain Sent To India

MEXICO CITY, June 8 (Reuters)—Delegates to the International Federation of Agricultural Producers here decided to urge their governments to send free or cheap grains and other foods to India's famine areas.

The federation, ending its fifth annual convention attended by 12 countries described the India appeal for food as "a challenge to the statesmanship of the democratic world and to the traditional sense of fraternity and hospitality of the world's farmers."

Delegates said they were pressing for implementation of measures approved by the United States Congress for wheat shipments. It was understood similar bills were being introduced in the Canadian, Australian and New Zealand parliaments.

Witness Says Kidnapped Boy Shows No Fear

KINGSTON, June 8 —(CP)—Thirteen-year-old Teddy Wainwright showed no fear of his alleged abductor while they were being driven to hospital after a minor traffic mishap last Easter week-end, a witness testified Thursday in the abduction trial of Owen S. Dulmage, 29, prominent Ottawa boys' worker.

The Kingston boy himself testified earlier that he was struck over the head, driven to a house, made to strip and don bathing trunks and then was strung up with a pulley in a basement. Under questioning, he said he probably could have escaped but decided against trying.

Judge W. S. Lane of Picton will rule today on the admissibility of police testimony concerning a statement which the crown alleges Dulmage made at the hospital after the accident.

William Murray, a district farmer, said he drove the civil servant and the boy to the hospital. They sat in the back seat while Murray was at the wheel.

"The boy seemed to be quite contented," Murray said. "I could not detect any signs of fear."

Doctor's Testimony

Dr. G. C. Lindsay, who examined the boy, said he found a one-inch jagged cut on his scalp, roughing of skin on both arms and legs and minor cuts on the neck. During another examination two days later, he found the boy's initials scratched on one thigh, apparently with a sharp instrument.

The boy testified that, when taken to the strange house, he was not frightened.

"The only thing I did not like was being hung up backwards."

He said he untied himself from a post in the basement.

"I didn't try walking upstairs because I thought the door was locked."

He also got out of ropes which later held him to a chair upstairs.

"It was then that I got the blindfold down and took a look around the room and went back to sleep."

Edmund Hall, defence counsel, suggested:

"The whole thing was a bit of an adventure, so you did not try to get away."

"Yes, slightly an adventure," the boy agreed. "I was not scared."

Car Hits Pillar Two Men Hurt

PORT HOPE, June 8 — Two Belleville men, both 29, were taken to hospital by ambulance here Wednesday night after their truck crashed a cement railway abutment.

Their injuries are not known, but both were semi-conscious when help arrived. They are Albert Smith and George Bryant.

Police say a charge of careless driving will be laid against Bryant, who was driving.

Bryant was thrown to the pavement when the truck smashed into the abutment, and Smith was juggled about in the cab of the careening vehicle.

In another Wednesday accident at Port Hope, police reported a three-year-old girl hit by an Oshawa car. The girl, Sandra Jane Pike, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Pike, was chasing her ball which had rolled into the street.

She suffered a broken right leg below the knee. Police say no charge will be laid against the driver, Frank J. Whitely.

Africans Continue Steady Progress

NOTTINGHAM, England, June 8 (Reuters).—South Africa continued to make steady progress today on the second day of the first cricket test against England. At the lunch break, South Africa had knocked up 322 runs for four wickets.

Dudley Nourse, South African captain, set a South African record when he hit his ninth century in test cricket, Nourse had scored 122 not out at lunch.

The South Africans continued to score at a slow rate today although the pitch was again ideal for batsmen. Only 83 runs were added in the two hours' play before lunch for the loss of Jack Cheetham's wicket. Cheetham was caught by John Ikin off medium [illegible] for 31.

The tests will be decided in a series of five matches.

36 Horses Die In Blaze At Buffalo Race Track

BUFFALO, NY, June 8. (CP)—Thirty-six harness-racing horses were burned to death last night as fire destroyed five barns in the stable area at Buffalo Raceway. The horses were valued at more than $100,000. Three hundred volunteer firemen from 10 communities around nearby Hamburg, home of the half-mile track, battled the flames while frightened horses, driven out of the barns by their owners, raced loose through the area. Many of the 4,000 spectators on hand for the evening's eight-race program crowded in toward the barns to watch.

The fire was discovered just before the third race, by Frank Mays, a trainer. He said it looked like just a little blaze and he thought he could smother it himself. But in the few seconds it took him to run to it, the flames licked into a pile of straw and the first barn was doomed.

James J. Dunnigan, president of the Buffalo Trotting Association, said the cause of the fire had not been determined. He estimated the total damage at $250,000. Racing at the track will continue as scheduled.

Valuable Horse

Among the horses lost was Archie Vologda, class-A pacer owned by Don Welch of Lock Haven, Pa. He is reported to have turned down $20,000 for the horse last week.

Heaviest single loser in number of horses was Richard Nesbitt of Rochester, N. Y., who saw only nine of his string of 21 saved. After leading several of his horses to safety, Nesbitt returned to action on the track and drove Czarmite to victory in the fifth race.

Dunnigan reported there were 640 horses quartered on the grounds. The fire left about 100 homeless for the present but they will either be moved elsewhere or stabled in private barns.

Total circulation for this year in the adult department up to the end of May is 52,650, and in the juvenile department 37,957, making a grand total of 90,607.

Mr Graff also reported that nine organizations used the auditorium and eight the committee room for meetings during the month.

It was announced that starting this month, a new work schedule will be put into effect whereby library staff members will be off duty one Saturday in four without any reduction in service to the public. Previously, staff members worked every Saturday.

Driver Jailed Four Months For Fatal Crash

LINDSAY, June 8 — James Evans, Bancroft, Thursday was sentenced to four months in the Ontario Reformatory when convicted on a charge of dangerous driving. The charge arose from the death last July 8 of Ed Covert, Highland Grove.

A Victoria county jury took nearly two hours to reach a decision and brought in a verdict of guilty with a recommendation for clemency.

Sentence was passed by Judge J. A. McGibbon, presiding at the general sessions in Lindsay.

Evidence was that Evans had been rounding a curve on the highway that runs through Highland Grove when he collided with Covert and a companion Cyrus Thoms.

Covert died from his injuries and Thoms was seriously injured.

Thoms told the court that neither of them were walking on the highway but were on the grass at the side of the road. This was corroborated by another witness, W. W. Lewis, whose car preceded that of Evans.

Evans contended that the men were walking in the middle of the highway.

W. J. Arthur Fair, KC, was counsel for Evans. Crown Attorney Lorne W. Jordan prosecuted for the Crown.

which put in at St. Malo, in Brittany, the next day. The two went ashore and did not return. They left bags bearing their names in their cabins, Scotland Yard was informed.

French police reported the two apparently reached Paris by automobile.

The search was centred in Paris but all exits leading to iron-curtain countries also were under close scrutiny by police of friendly countries. This police web was set up after reports circulated here that the two men might be trying to get through to the Communist east.

Office Mystified

The rumor that MacLean and Burgess might be in flight was published Thursday by The Daily Express, which quoted a friend of the two men as saying their destination probably was Moscow.

The foreign office gave no official credence to this report, but admitted it was mystified by the sudden disappearance of two trusted diplomats.

High British officials privately expressed fears that British-American relations might suffer if the two men are not found quickly and their actions explained.

Peterborough To Compete In Field Meet

Track and field enthusiasts from schools across Ontario will meet this Saturday at the Ontario Athletic Commission's camp on Lake Couchiching for the Ontario Secondary School Association championships.

After the Central Ontario district championships last Saturday in Oshawa, at least eight boys from PCVS and St. Peter's High school are eligible to compete. Oshawa collegiate trackmen practically swept the meet and therefore will have the largest representation this week. Others will compete from Orillia, Picton, Richmond Hill, Campbellford and Uxbridge.

Those Eligible

Only those who place first and second in the district meets are eligible to compete in the all-Ontario events. So athletes will contest from the Niagara district (although in the COSSA district, Niagara received a bye, last week they competed in the Dominion championships) NOSSA, WOSSA, EOSSA, and Toronto.

Examinations may cut down the representation from Oshawa, PCVS and St. Peter's. For on Monday for these schools the lower and middle school finals begin with the department Grade XIII examinations beginning Tuesday.

But eligible to attend from the Peterborough schools are: PCVS, Bryan Young, Hugh Outram, Dave Fortner, Jim Galoska and Jim Hendry; St. Peter's, Jack Richardson, John Jones and John Armstrong.

Three Events

Jim Galoska will have three events to compete in. Last week he led PCVS to second place by topping the individual scorers with 10 points. He went up five feet, five inches in the senior high jump for second place, swept the senior pole with a mark of 10 feet and won the open discus throw at 112 feet, five inches. In the junior jumping, the running broad jump, Bryan Young is eligible after placing first in Oshawa at 20 feet.

In the running events, Young is also eligible for the junior 100 yards. Williams of Oshawa placed first in the COSSA with a time of 10.7 seconds by Young pulled in second.

Two city youths, Dave Fortner of PCVS and John Armstrong of SPS, both may compete in the senior 100 yard event by placing first and second respectively in the COSSA. Jack Richardson of SPS by placing second in the senior 220 is eligible for the All-Ontario event also.

Bill Taunton of Bradford High school, also a trainee with the North Toronto Track Club "Red Devils" under Lloyd Percival, seems a likely Ontario champion. In 4:46.7 minutes he won the mile and in 10:27.9 the two-mile. Hugh Outram of PCVS placed second in the two-mile.

Javelin contestants from the COSSA district are both of Peterborough, John Jones of St. Peter's and Jim Hendry of PCVS. Jones won the COSSA event with a mark of 121 feet, 10½ inches.

Van Fleet Lauds Canadian Troops

SOMEWHERE IN KOREA, June 8 (CP)—Lt.-Gen. James Van Fleet, United States Eighth Army commander, expresed himself as well pleased with the Canadian 29th Infantry Brigade when he paid his first visit to the brigade in Korea this week.

He visited headquarters and two battalion areas, where he met officers commanding the Canadian units.

The commander of the United Nations Corps under which the Canadian force is in action said meanwhile that some 800 enemy dead had been found in positions over which an Ontario regiment had fought its first hard tussle with the Chinese Communists about a week ago. He said many were killed by Canadians, while others had been killed by other United Nations troops.

Brig. J. M. Rockingham, commander of the 29th Infantry Brigade, Thursday flew over positions occupied by his troops. He used a new acquisition for the brigade, a light aircraft which will be used for travelling to battalion positions and also for reconnaissance.

Rockingham said he is pleased with the plane, which will save him time in travelling to battalion positions.

PC's Boycott Bill In Nfld.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., June 8—(CP) — Progressive Conservative opposition members walked out of the Legislature Thursday after the government refused to postpone debate on its Newfoundland and Labrador corporation bill.

The boycott continued during the night sitting, leaving only Peter J. Cashin (Ind., Ferryland) on the opposite side of the House.

Debate on second reading was scheduled to continue today and indications were that the official opposition would not be in the chamber.

The bill, introduced Wednesday, would set up a partnership of the Newfoundland government and three United States and Canadian financial concerns, with the government holding 90 per cent or more of the shares.

CBC News Broadcasts Unfair–Senator

OTTAWA, June 8 — (CP) — Senator Thomas Reid (L, British Columbia) told the Senate Finance Committee Thursday he thinks CBC news broadcasts of the work of parliament are "not always a fair report."

He asked A. D. Dunton, chairman of the CBC board of governors where the CBC got its news.

Mr. Dunton replied that it comes from the main news agencies, The Canadian Press and The British United Press.

Senator Reid said he thought the CBC ought to have a reporter around Parliament Hill to keep an eye on things because as things stand CBC news broadcasts about parliament often are biased.

Prepare New Index For Cost Of Living

OTTAWA, June 8 — (CP) — The Bureau of Satistics cost-of-living experts are working on a new index that will bring their calculations more up-to-date, but no decision has yet been made what years will be used for the base period.

Harold F. Greenway, of the bureau's prices division, told the Senate's Finance Committee this Thursday as he reviewed how the cost-of-living index is made up from data gathered throughout the country. At present the base period 1935 to 1939 is taken to equal 100. The latest index stood at 182—a rise of 82 per cent from the basic period.

Talks Broken Off

ESSEN, Germany, June 8 (AP) — Wage negotiations between West Germany's coal mine owners and miners were broken off Thursday and the miners quickly started talking "strike." The negotiations ended when the owners of the big Ruhr coal pits rejected a demand for a 14-per cent wage increase.

Service Clubs Criticized In Presbyterian Report

OTTAWA, June 8 (CP).—Service clubs and fraternal organizations were criticized in a report on articles of faith concerning church and nation to be presented before the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of Canada in session here.

The report, released Thursday, said that these organizations make use of the Bible, but ignore or obscure its central testimony to Jesus Christ as Redeemer, and thus pervert the gospel and entangle men in human error.

The report, one of many to be heard before the 77th General Assembly, said these organizations wield great power over the lives of their members and throughout the community.

They hold up various standards of ethical conduct, direct the thinking of individuals on life's problems, and absorb the time, energies and talents of their members into projects of many kinds, the report said.

"The organizations bear witness to man's longing for security and fellowship, to his aspiration for a better life and to his desire for self-expression.

"In so far as such societies make use of the Bible but ignore or obscure its central testimony to Jesus Christ as Redeemer, they pervert the gospel and entangle men in human error."

Aid Human Pride

The report added:

"To the extent that they encourage men unto good works which, however, are not done from, in, and unto Christ as Lord, they minister to human pride and vain glory.

"They offer themselves as organizations for moral training, fellowship, and mutual aid, and deprive Christ of His glory when men substitute them for His Church.

"Yet, in so far as these organizations do enshrine certain elements of biblical doctrine and morality, their presence in society must be taken as a rebuke to a weak church, their teachings as a challenge to a non-witnessing church, their fellowship as an indication of lack of love within the church, and many of their benevolent activities as pointing the church to duties too long neglected."

New Cancer Centre Planned In Toronto

The Ontario-sponsored hospital will provide facilities for diagnosis and treatment of cancer and for research into its prevention and cure.

Miss J. Barber, Kitchener, won an award for surgical nursing.

Graduates included Betty F. Foster, Beamsville; Marjory McBurney, Walkerton, and Barbara Summerby, Paris.

Our University Graduates Are Disappointing

Canadian employers have for some years been making their disappointment in our country's university graduates known to university officials and particularly to those agencies attached to the universities whose task it is to find jobs for graduates. This fact was driven home once again by G. M. Morrison, chief of the National Employment Service's executive and professional division, in a speech which he made in Ottawa last Tuesday to a conference of university employment advisors, representing thirteen Canadian universities.

* * *

What is wrong with the graduates? Mr. Morrison made it plain that they were well-trained for their specific jobs, but every employer knows that a man who has been trained only for his job is of limited usefulness. If a man is to do more than routine work—however demanding that routine may be—and if he is to take responsibility, direct other men, represent his firm to the public or in professional organizations, and make a career which is satisfactory both to himself and to his employers, he must know many things which lie outside the scope of professional training. He must have the demeanour of an educated man, the conversation of an educated man, and the enquiring mind and the intellectual resilience of an educated man. He must not, in fact, be dumb about everything except his job. Too many university graduates, it must be said, are open to this criticism, and employers are making it.

* * *

Most courses of professional training at the universities demand much time in study and practical experience. But virtually every course of professional training includes a few courses in general knowledge—literature, history, elementary science and classics. Too many university students regard these general courses as impediments in their way. They should realize that a specialized training alone will not fit them for life. It does not matter how much they have learned to do if they have never learned to think. Professional training alone will not make them good citizens, men fit for promotion, or even first-rate men in the professions they have chosen. General knowledge—plenty of it—is a vital necessity.

* * *

How is a busy student to get it? The answer is that he should take a good store of it to the university with him. His acquisition of general knowledge begins in infancy, and he never learns as much again in his life as he learns between birth and his fifth birthday. But as he learns to read he should use his new skill to enlarge his information. He should be as curious as possible about as many things as possible. By the time he goes to university he should have read much and learned much. And when he has left the university he should continue to learn so long as there is breath in his body. Too many university graduates look upon their diplomas as certificates of ineffable wisdom; they never learn a thing after they leave college.

* * *

The newly-published Massey Commission Report makes an admirable point in its preliminary remarks on education; education is not primarily a federal or provincial concern, it says; education is first of all a personal affair. Schools are a help, but people educate themselves. There are far too many people of university standing in Canada who have never learned anything which was not thrust upon them by a teacher.

* * *

Our university graduates should take what Mr. Morrison has said to heart. For it was not Mr. Morrison who declared that most of them did not know enough to make interesting careers for themselves; it was a great number of employers, all over Canada, who said it. Our country is not getting the quality of work or the quality of citizenship from its university graduates which it has a right to expect, and the fault is not with the universities, but with our mentally lazy university students.

Keep Away From The Farm!

We are often asked to write editorials on special subjects, and we do so whenever we can. This editorial is written at the emphatic request of a lady who has sent us a letter in which she protests against the thoughtlessness of city people who visit farms at weekends, making themselves she says, "nuisances and real pests." City visitors, she continues, are unwelcome, for "they just cause a lot of work, excitement and expense," and the people whom they visit in order to get a little rest often need the rest far worse than the visitors.

If city people feel that they must go to the farm, says our correspondent, they might have the consideration to bring a well-stocked picnic basket with them, including enough for the farm family. But she much prefers that they should hire a cottage, and get their fill of the country that way.

The last paragraph of the letter is so forceful in its expression that we cannot hope to improve upon it and we quote it in full: "Lay on to those pests who are forever rushing and racing for the farm homes to get a good meal. Let them bring their eats with them. The farm women and girls are sick and tired of waiting on some of those city pests and nuisances."

There you have it. We have done as we were asked. If you are thinking of visiting a farm soon we suggest that you should 'phone or write ahead, and be sure to take plenty of provisions with you.

Festival London

"Earth hath not anything to show more fair," Wordsworth wrote a century and a half ago as he stood on Westminster Bridge overlooking the Thames. Wordsworth! thou shouldst be living at this hour. What splendid sonnet would the poet have composed could he have stood this month on Westminster Bridge —or the Bailey Bridge by the Hungerford, which crosses the heart of the South Bank Exhibition—and seen the Thames and London Town:

Ships, towers, domes, theatres, and temples . . .
All bright and glittering in the smokeless air.

London and her famous stream can never have looked more splendid.

If a visitor never sets foot inside the South Bank Exhibition, nor attends any of the brilliant concerts, recitals, ballets and plays arranged especially for the Festival, he can be thankful he has seen London in the Festival year, for the town has put on her finest garb. Because of building sites cleared by bombs, St. Paul's stands out in fuller view than Wren ever saw his Cathedral. Nor is there the post-war drabness and desolation in the City itself or elsewhere throughout the metropolis. Bombed sites have become gardens; marquees have been set out; flags are flying and office and home windows adorned with flower boxes. Flowers are everywhere. Fountains play afresh. Buildings are cleaned up and painted. The parks are verdant and trim. Even tube stations have had a face-lifting. Charing Cross underground station—a chief entry to the Exhibition—is almost unrecognizable with its pastel walls, spacious vestibules, indirect lighting and new escalators.

Visitors to London now, even if they would pooh-pooh the Exhibition and say they want only to look at London as she really is, can see the sights known from post-cards, history-books and films with greater clarity, convenience and delight than ever before. Nor is there any feeling of unbearable crowding in streets, at stations, or in the Festival grounds.

It is at night, when ten thousand lights play on antique domes, storied facades and splendid fountains, that the full marvel is revealed. Most stimulating of all are the views from the Embankment on the north, looking towards the Festival buildings; and then, on the other side of the river, on the south bank, the view from the bridge or an elevated position inside the Festival grounds. Both scenes are unique and new. The vista of Pavilions and the South Bank is gay, brilliant, exciting, there where for centuries warehouses and shacks have rotted on marshland. The view from the South Bank is new, too, and superb. The River, the Houses of Parliament, the twin towers of the Abbey peeping up behind, the sheen of light from Trafalgar Square, the ornate buildings on the Embankment: all are seen as they never were revealed before; and the whole is glowing with floodlights and pinnacle spot-lights.

Dull would he be of soul who could pass by
A sight so touching in its majesty.

The Scots As 'Etceteras'

Mr. J. M. Macdonnell, Progressive-Conservative member for Toronto-Greenwood, has protested in the House of Commons because the census forms refer to the racial origin of Canadians as "English, French, Irish, Jewish and et cetera." As a proud Scot, Mr. Macdonnell cannot brook having his race lumped in with the etceteras.

We can appreciate his feelings. We have been in the same boat. Not long ago we protested against a description of the British element in Canada as being made up of English, Scots, Irish and other races. The other races, of course, must have meant the Welsh, and we did not like it. It made us feel inferior and flea-bitten. And as we Celts must stand together—though not on each other's toes—we join Mr. Macdonnell in his protest.

And we have another complaint. What ill-educated ruffian put the phrase "and et cetera" into an official document? People who don't know any more Latin than that would be safer to say "and others".

Contented cows have become positively smug these days, standing around in all that high-priced meat.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

AVE! ALPHA: So this columnist foolishly expected to be received on his scheduled return by hosts of questioning readers whom he deserted in mid-April for Sunny Italy and other points. But the hope was vain: not a huzza, not a single question for this column. So this Friday Alpha must confine himself to Notes. Here are a few by the way, pulled from a medley of mixed impressions. (But have his readers disappeared with the questioners?)

✧ ✧ ✧

NEW YORK: Alpha and General MacArthur arrived in New York the same day, and seven million people turned out to see us; in fact, the crowds were so dense that I witnessed only the top of the General's hat, and I doubt if he saw me at all. The fabulous New York ticker-tape welcome is really a fable. Lots of paper: the air was dense with it, as high up as the 65th storey of Rockefeller Centre, and the streets were knee-deep in it —but the General (and I) were showered with toilet paper—rolls and rolls of it thrown from windows. One that I saw did not unroll at all in its descent and hit a policeman on the noggin. The General had some near misses. The headlines should accurately have read: New York Welcomes MacArthur with Tumultuous Toilet Paper.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUEEN ELIZABETH (the ship): Full of English war-brides of Americans and Canadians returning with nostalgia to the Thatched Cottage and the Pig and Whistle, and to show off to Mum (and foist on her) an infant or two or three. The crossing with so many children must be a harrowing experience for most of the young mothers, and certainly is for other passengers and the stewards. Some of the mothers literally unburdened themselves of the children once they got them on board, and let them run wild. The attitude seemed to be: Well, thank God, the worst that can happen to them is to fall off the ship. I was rather sorry for the husbands left behind to fend for themselves for two or three months — until I tangled with the children. Even the bar was not sacred. By the end of the voyage I felt that the best that could happen to some of the small fry was to fall off the ship.

FOLIES BERGERE (Paris): This celebrated naughty (and somewhat knotty) legshow is the most sumptuous display in Paris. The sets are lavish, the girls profuse, and the sentiment pure corn (with a few wisps of straw to cover the cobs). It is really an elaborate revue, expertly done, with snatches of concert, opera, ballet, bare bosoms and Drama. The orchestra is big and loud, the staging extravagant. The show lasts for four hours. By the end of the first half, eyes and ears can bear no more, and bareness has become common-place. But the seats are expensive, so one clings to them for the next two hours.

The piece de resistance near the close is an elaborate Drama on the execution of Mary Queen of Scots. The executioner is a loin-covered dancer; Mary is gorgeous in square miles of resplendent silk; female attendants are lovelies in flowing half-drapes (half on each side, none down the middle); and the close of this Cecil B. deMille extravaganza is an ingenious stage depiction of stained glass windows, all the figures alive and glowing in iridescent paint; the whole theatre is transformed into a cathedral of purple half-light and arches and stained glass. A throbbing voice of one of the lovelies sings Ave Marie while the orchestra plays mutedly, an organ rolls, chimes sound, and celestial trumpets peal at pearly gates to which the dead Queen is ascending. . . People were gripped by varying Great Emotions. . . I think the Folies Bergere might offend my archdeacon, who is rather a puritan about music.

VENICE: For the information of my readers who may think that gondolas are mere tourist-traps (like the horse-cabs in Montreal). The main streets really are canals, and one must get around by boat. There are no cars. The taxis are gondolas, the civic buses are motor-launches. Not all the gondolas are romantic, for instance, those used to transport cabbages, bricks and corpses. . . The canals do not stink in spring. . . Venice really is a peerless, exquisite city. . . Rooms in adequate second class hotels cost about a dollar a night. . . Poor people, of whom there are many in evidence even in northern Italian cities, still pick up discarded cigarette butts.

✧ ✧ ✧

COMMUNISTS: Since I have been in a series of Italian and French cities for as much as five days at a time I am fully competent to report on the political, economic and social conditions of those countries. The Communists are easily identifiable by big 'C's (in red) which they wear across their jackets. (The Communist women wear diamond ear-rings forming the letter C, except poorer Communist women who wear only one ear-ring — on the Left ear, of course.) Actually, from what little discussion I heard about political things, some knowledgeable French and Italians are more afraid of the Americans (in the present USA mood) than they are of Communists. A fifty-year-old Swiss grower of Alpine flowers who I met on board ship, Canada-bound, said he was emigrating to cultivate Alpine flowers in the Rockies and to escape Communism which he feared would soon engulf Europe, even Switzerland. But I distrusted his motives: he tried to make love on board to a wealthy English widow, who was beginning a tour of this country. . . He spoiled my beat, drat him.

✧ ✧ ✧

RETURN VOYAGE: Ship full of immigrants and families, and war brides returning with young fry a month or two ahead of plan. Did they find the cottage thatch unromantic, the Pig and Whistle not the chummy haven of fond memory; and Momma quickly weary of visitors, especially of the young fry? My steward tried to coax one cute little fellow to get out of his hair and go down alone to examine the gears in the engine-room.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR THE RECORD: Our current telephone book lists the names, in Peterborough city alone, of 53 practising doctors, 22 dentists, 23 lawyers, and 2 income tax consultants. This last figure is misleading; all chartered accountants and lawyers are willing to be consulted on such matters. Even Alpha could pinch-hit in case of need (for a fee). He put in for a rebate of $21.23 when sending in the tax form in April, and by golly, a government cheque for that amount was in his accumulated mail on his return from the spending spree in Europe. In the same mail were some chastening garage bills and city tax notices.

"MIND IF I BROWSE?"

Letters To The Editor

SAYS COUNCIL ARE DICTATORIAL

Sir: The reporter who wrote the item in last Saturday's paper re daylight saving time is greatly mistaken. It certainly does make a great difference. However, he was right when he said "It doesn't matter much whether you were for or against it when it first came up. Now you accept it as inevitable."

What is the use of complaining. The dictatorial council we have had in this city for a number of years now never considers the wishes of the people. They don't even bother to put matters to a vote, and when they do they disregard the outcome anyway. In 1921 Daylight Saving Time was last voted on and it was voted out. So of course our council—because they liked DST—promptly passed a by-law putting it in. So is it any wonder people have accepted it? It would probably be turned down if it were put to another vote. At first we only had it during July and August. That was bad enough, but now we have it from May through till the end of September.

Your reporter says "The change-over every year causes hardly a ripple. You have been on fast time for a month and you could stay that way forever without even noticing it." Not much you don't! Ask any parents when there are school children that have to be put to bed while it is still daylight if it "hardly causes a ripple." And when you do get them in they can't get to sleep until it starts to get dark, so they lose their hour of sleep, because they certainly wake up early anyway.

He also states, "When it means you can get an extra nine holes of golf, the most disgruntled die-hard decides it isn't too bad." I would like to remind him that very likely the vast majority of Peterborough people don't play golf, but probably all the aldermen do—well, anyway the majority. There are a few aldermen that really try to serve the people but they are overridden by the majority. Another example of our council's dictatorship is the moving of the market site. Why not have a vote on that? Another example is the recent permission given to the bus company to increase their prices. Of course, our worthy aldermen all own cars. They don't need to worry about the price boost in tickets. Making children 54 inches tall pay adult tickets is an outrage. Four of our children, 8, 10, 11 and 13 years reach the 54 inch line and over. They are children, not adults, yet they have to pay adults fare.

When they go to a show, they occupy a whole seat, yet they are classified as children and pay children's prices. Now, what is the difference? Believe you me, if I have to pay adult fare for them, they are certainly going to have adult privileges. They are not going to hand over their seat anymore to an adult, as formerly I used to teach them to do. And you'll find many people doing the same thing. Competition is good for all trades and it's about time the local bus company had some—as well as some of the aldermen.

One big mistake in our council voting system is that you must vote for a certain number of aldermen or your ballot is void. There are a lot of aldermen that wouldn't get many votes if we could vote for just the ones we want in.

I know I'm just wasting my time writing this letter because only the supporters of Daylight Time will write in. The ones against it know it's no use. You are right, Mr. Reporter, "now you accept it as inevitable."

Thanking you for your space,
I remain yours,
"DIE-HARD"

Use Of The Mails

(Windsor Star)

Members of Parliament who send their laundry home by mail, to save it from the wear and tear of Ottawa laundries, will not be able to have it franked in future. This is provided for in the new Post Office Act, and we suppose that cantankerous fellow, the taxpayer, will agree.

This taxpayer chap gives grumbling assent to a tax-free $2,000 for MP's. He even accepts the franking of bales of promotional literature despatched by members who are looking forward to the next election. But it can be doubted he ever favoured the free public conveyance of an MP's shirts and such, except when the MP was in them and riding on a pass.

The saving effected by this postal economy may be small, but that won't matter. It's the principle of the thing, the symbolism of equal sacrifice, the feeling that while the taxpayer is losing his shirt the politico's no longer is a garment of privilege.

Prayers For The King

(Edinburgh Scotsman)

Because an Act of George III, passed in 1792, has not been repealed, Episcopal ministers in Scotland are still liable to be fined or suspended if they do not offer a prayer for the Royal Family at every service.

This was revealed at the meeting of the Provincial Synod of the Episcopal Church in Scotland, held in Edinburgh.

The question arose on a motion that directions in the Prayer Book making a prayer for the King compulsory should be deleted on the grounds that it was archaic.

Because such a change would be contrary to the law of the country, the topic was referred to the Consultative Council for further inquiry and report.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Thus saith the Lord to his anointed, to Cyrus, whose right hand I have holden, to subdue nations before him; and I will loose the loins of kings, to open before him the two leaved gates; and the gates shall not be shut: I will go before thee, and make the crooked places straight: I will break in pieces the gates of brass, and cut in sunder the bars of iron: and I will give thee the treasures of darkness, and hidden riches of secret places, that thou mayest know that I, the Lord, which call thee by thy name, am the God of Israel. . . .

I am the Lord, and there is none else, there is no God beside me; I girded thee, though thou hast not known me: that they may know from the rising of the sun, and from the west, that there is none beside me, I am the Lord, and there is is none else. I form the light, and create darkness: I make peace, and create evil: I the Lord do all these things.

Drop down, ye heavens, from above, and let the skies pour down righteousness: let the earth open, and let them bring forth salvation, and let righteousness spring up together; I the Lord have created it. (Isa. 45: 1-3, 5-8.)

Death Of The August Sweet

(Ottawa Journal)

For about a century the old August Sweet stood behind the woodshed. Grandfather's father set it out when he brought his bride to the hill-side farm. With dreams in their hearts a young man and his mate founded a home on work, sacrifice, thrift and a creed based on the Golden Rule. The August Sweet was a giant among apple trees; its high, angular limbs reached toward the sky; its massive, rough-creviced trunk leaned at a 45 degree angle and in full sunlight there was a glowing, purple-lavender tinge in the bark.

Small boys delighted to climb that craggy, spreading tree. In its branches they made tree houses of old planks; they watched robins brood their eggs and feed their growing young. In later years as time began to exact its toll and the tree limbs became hollow, bluebirds made their homes there and went in and out the knot holes.

In Spring the pink and white blossoms opened to the sun and painted a picture in May's golden sunlight. Each Summer children waited impatiently for the big, handsome, yellow-skinned, sweet apples to develop the faint flush of pink that meant ripeness. On dew-spangled August mornings boys and girls rushed out to pick up the apples that had dropped during the night.

Now the old August Sweet has finished its span. For several years only a few leaves, only a few poignant blossoms, have responded to Spring's urgency. In Winter gales branches have broken and fallen to the ground. Woodpeckers have drilled holes in the limbs and chickadees and nuthatches have explored the bark crevices.

But a man who recalled his great-grandfather's stories would not put his axe to the ancient tree. Gaunt and angular, with many silver-weathered bare limbs it has stood through the cycling seasons. No more will leaves and blossoms appear; no longer will it be a living monument to meaningful days of yesteryear. A life has played out its role; time has been fulfilled. The old August Sweet is dead.

Not Your Shadow!

(Hamilton Spectator)

A statistician in Chicago has figured that the average man of 29 years will have paid $34,700 in taxes of one kind and another by the time he has reached the age of 65, which represents 22 per cent of his earnings during 36 years of his employable life. That reflection on the sidewalk isn't your shadow, Bub, it's the tax collector stepping right along with you.

Witch Doctors Still Powerful In Many Parts Of Africa

JOHANNESBURG, — (CP) — In parts of South Africa today the "Nyanga"" is still as powerful as he was centuries ago. The witch doctor or medicine man is a potent influence for thousands of natives.

In the lonely valleys of Natal province Zulus still secretly perform the dread Bula dance, when spirits who inspire evil are "smelled out" and killed. Reports of these affairs seldom reach police, for death is the penalty for a native informer.

The ancient practice has a more important aspect. Herbs used in native witchcraft have been k own to effect astounding cures, al.. ugh the herbs are almost unknown to modern pharmacy and white medical men can find no scientific explanation for their reported effects.

Strange Cures

The fact remains that many natives, treated unsuccessfully by white doctors, have returned to the tribal witch doctor and been cured.

Because the witch doctors are an important factor in tribal life, European doctors and pharmacists have asked for appointment of a commission to investigate their activities. The application aroused intense reactions among the native population of Natal, which fears recent draft amendments to the native code may be the prelude to a total ban on the medicine man.

Tribal medicine men were recognized in the natal native code of 1891 but since then numerous amendments have restricted their activities. At the same time government health services among the tribes have been expanded.

Services Swamped

The increasing industrialization of South Africa however, bringing larger numbers of native workers to the cities and townships, has reduced the effectiveness of the government services. The native medicine men have found an increasing field for their labors. The witch doctors gradually modernized their trade and made increasing use of the mails and newspapers to maintain contact with their clients. An unscrupulous minority seized the opportunity to get rich quick by selling quack remedies.

It was to remedy this state of affairs that the government proposed to ban shipments of medicine by mail to natives and to limit further the activities of the medicine men generaly. At this point the pharmacy board and the medical and dental council asked for appointment of a committee and pressed for standardization of all herbs of native origin.

Other Things At Stake

As far as the natives are concerned, it is not only the freedom of reputable tribal doctors that is at stake. The medicine men are an importance source of employment for native white collar workers; they are the only group for instance who employ native typists in nlarge numbers.

The natives also fear that restrictions would give white and Indian doctors a near-monopoly on native medicine at the expense of the African. They point out that many quack cures are still advertised by white. Meantime they resort to the witch in the centuries-old tradition.

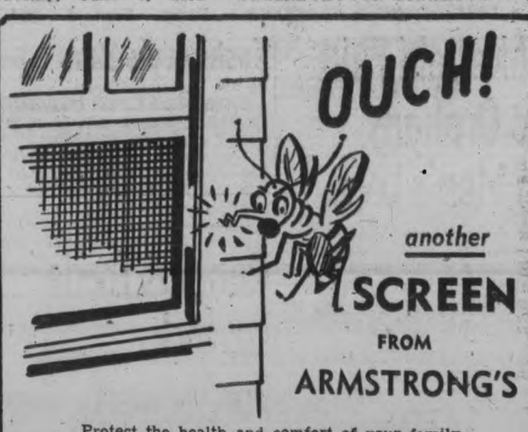
Decide Mice Not Coyotes Worst Pest

RED DEER, Alta. — (CP) — Farmers east of here are wondering which is worse, coyotes or mice.

Last year the farmers declared war on the pesky, wily coyote. They vowed they'd wipe him out.

And they fairly well succeeded. Too much so, perhaps, because now they are becoming increasingly aware of a new threat—mice, millions of them.

As experienced hunters and trappers and some farmers know well, the coyote is the mouse's greatest enemy. The coyote as a mouser makes the cat look like an amateur.



Uncanny Sense

The coyote trots with characteristic abandon across the prairie, his nose alert to the scent of mice. Then, uncannily, he smells them directly beneath his feet, just under the surface of the land.

Front feet thrust forward, the furry hunter drops on his prey. The dirt flies out behind as he digs down quickly and seizes the first mouse unlucky enough to be in his way.

It is estimated that in a year the coyote destroys many times his weight in mice. And compared with mice, the coyote's damage to the farmer's livelihood is negligible.

Said one farmer: "We should pen up our hens and small stock safely, then let the coyotes run loose. It's by far the lesser of two evils."

Tax Paradise

RICHMOND, Va., June 8 (AP) —Income taxes are gong down in Virginia. That's right—down. Revenues of the Commonwealth's general fund are zooming toward the $103,000,000 mark, and when they reach that figure, a state income tax reduction of 15 per cent becomes effective. A law passed by the 1950 General Assembly provided for the automatic state tax reduction.

Leprosy Gains In N. Australia

SYDNEY, Australia — (CP) — Leprosy is increasing alarmingly in Australia's northern territory, according to the Brisbane Cuorier-Mail.

Channel Island leprosarium in Darwin Harbor is full, and difficulty is being experienced in accommodating new patients.

In 1947 there were 70 patients in Channel Island. Now there are more than 140. These are all being, cared for by three Roman Catholic nuns.

Increase in lepers on the island is due partly to the fact that in the last 12 months the Commonwealth Health Department has intensified the campaign to get lepers out of the bush for treatment.

This was noticeably successful when lepers began to learn of the efficacy of new sulphone drugs after a number of patients were discharged.

But doctors think the incidence has inceased.

Lakefield Falls To Orphans In Men's Loop

Orphans defeated Lakefield 19-12 last night at the Bowl in the first game of the men's softball doubleheader to place one game behind Revoy and UEW who are now in a first place tie with three victories and one loss.

Fraser Wade went the route for Harold Dormer's boys in a free-hitting game and twirled well in the early stages as his mates racked up a comfortable lead off the slants of Bill Achison to lead 9-2 at the end of four frames. Lakefield rallied in the fifth as hits by Red Wasson, Hackaday Coyle and Achison and walks to Larkman and Hefferman netted four for Cam Wasson's crew and put them back in the game but Orphans steadied down to protect their lead.

Jack Larkman, of Lakefield, cracked out another solid homer, while Lewis clouted a four-bagger, double and single for Orphans to drive in three with a timely double and single to his mates. Other big stickers were Fraser Wade with a triple and single to bat in three and O'Donoghue with three doubles and a pair driven in. A smart double play Curry to Walton featured for Orphans in the game.

Rangers Trade Leswick For Stewart

By AL COLLETTI.

NEW YORK, June 8 (CP). — In a move to obtain much-needed scoring power, New York Rangers of the National Hockey League today traded little Tony Leswick to Detroit for sharpshooter Gaye Stewart.

Both are left-wingers.

The swap was on a straight player basis and involved no cash, the Rangers announced. It also was the second off-season deal the Rangers have made in an attempt to rebuild the team that finished out of the Stanley Cup playoffs this spring and missed a fourth-place tie by a single point.

Leswick, 28-year-old native of Humboldt, Sask., had been with the Rangers six years. A scrappy player, he led the team in penalties last season with 104 minutes and was sixth among the NHL bad men.

Leswick did not come up to the scoring potential the Rangers expected of him last season. He went into a bad slump after his linemate, centre Edgar Laprade, fractured a bone in his left leg last Jan. 18 and was lost for the season.

Tony finished the season with 15 goals and 11 assists for 26 points. His lifetime total with the Rangers was 113 goals and 89 assists.

24-Goal Average

In Stewart, the Rangers acquired a forward who has averaged 24 goals a season in his seven seasons in the NHL with Toronto, Chicago and Detroit. Last season with the Red Wings he scored 18 goals and chalked up 13 assists for 31 points and spent only 13 minutes in the penalty box.

A 175-pounder from Fort William, Stewart won the Calder Trophy as rookie-of-the-year in 1943 with the Maple Leafs.

Later he figured in two of hockey's biggest trades. In November, 1947, Toronto sent him and four other players to Chicago for Max Bentley and Cy Thomas.

Three years later Stewart was part of a five-for-four swap between the Black Hawks and the Red Wings.

Stewart will be 28 this month. His best season was in 1946 when he scored 37 goals. Leswick hit his peak with the Rangers the next season, scoring 27 goals.

Revoy's Edged By UEW In Fine Scrap

Last night's afterpiece of the exciting men's softball twin-bill saw UEW break Revoy's undefeated winning streak at three games as Reg Gordon hurled the Dalton squad to a 4-3 triumph over the motor boys. It was the finest game of the season to date, with excellent pitching and air-tight fielding between two hustling clubs.

Manager Ken Guilfoyle also went the distance for his team and matched Gordon all the way in a fine show. Reg scattered six hits, struck out four and walked three while the veteran Ken allowed six bingles, fanned a pair and also issued three free passes.

The finish of the duel came in the bottom of the ninth as Robson drove a hard one, too hot for Taylor at short, and scored when Castle smashed a screamer past Woods in deep left, to break a 3-3 deadlock. Wyatt tripled and Tom Walton doubled for the only extra-base blows. Wyatt's four assists at third for Revoys were sparkling while Thompson shone at short for UEW. Casey's catch of Wyatt's fly in the fourth was a pippin.

Oldtime Twirler Back After 40 Years Away

Back in Peterborough after an absence of 40 years is Dan McCorry of Chesley, Ontario. He has seen much country since leaving here four decades ago, but this is his first return visit to the Liftlock City. Dan was a star pitcher for the Petes back in 1907-8 and with the Trent Valley League champion Havelock team in 1909-10. Peterborough played then in the Midland League, forerunner of the Central Ontario League.

Mr. McCorry and his wife are visiting at the home Mrs. H. Jocelyn, 207 Simcoe St., this week and for a day or two next week. He would like to meet any of his old friends or teammates, if they will call on him there. He played with the late Dan McCabe, with Chris Graham, Bill Meagher, Walter Parnell, Bill Grady and a number of others, some dead now. He is amazed at the growth of the city since he last saw it in the horse-and-buggy days.

Raybestos defeated Mount Pleasant 8-6 last night on the latter's diamond in a tidy fastball fixture. Apart from three runs in the sixth the homesters were held to single markers in the first, second and ninth innings, while Rays counted a brace in the first, four in the third and one each in the fourth and seventh. Two tough contests face the local lacrossers this week. Its the Brampton Excelsiors here at 8.45 tonight, while the Petes go to St. Catharines tomorrow. As these three are all tied atop with eight points each, every game is most important. And will be hard-fought. Brampton has scored the only win to date over Don Crowe's squad, and they'll be trying for a repeat this eve. They have Eatough, Arthurs, Chard, Shepherd, Gowland, Steele, Ferri, Garbutt, Beattie, Sutherland, Sibbald, Caruso, Evans, Widdess and a few more; a fast, scrappy club with lots of young huskies aboard. It might be a pretty keen struggle and close all the way.

Ike Hildebrand drew a two-minute misconduct here last game for bawling out the referee. He sat in the cooler some six minutes and some fans wondered how come. A lacrosse misconduct penalty is the same as one in hockey. The team isn't penalized but can put a replacement on the floor immediately. The penalized player serves his time and then he must wait for a stoppage of play before he can return. Else when he stepped out of the box his team would have too many men in action and would rate a penalty for that. As it happened with Ike, there wasn't a whistle for several minutes after his time was up, so he had to sit and wait for a toot.

Kingsway Play Petes

Kingsway Lumbermen of Toronto make their debut at Riverside tomorrow e'en at 8.30, when they meet the Petes in a Viaduct Baseball League fixture. They took a close win o'er the Whitehill crew at Millen Stadium early in the week and are battling for a top spot in the loop standing. The Petes' ballsters got off to a fine start, but must hump it from here in as several of the other senior clubs are building and climbing up the ladder. In fact, Croftons appear the weakest at the moment, but will keep bolstering and should be tough enough later on. The Petes, too, since the Ottawa pair of Johnny Denofrio and Nobby Clarke pulled out, must miss no bets on players, as the schedule has a long way to go. Kingsway should draw a big crowd here.

Toronto Star editorial views with alarm the showing of the baseballic Leafs and urges "more witchcraft" for the team. It deals in facetious fashion with the many voodoos, jinx and superstitions of the diamond game, and figures the Leafs must go in for more charms. Points out how Cleveland Indians finally beat Ed Lopat of the Yanks, who had the Indian sign on them for two years. One game recently in Cleveland when Lopat of course was due to hurl, the first 15,000 fans to enter the park were each presented with a rabbit's foot. Lo, and behold, if the Indians didn't hammer Lopat off the slab in two innings! The Star therefore concludes that the Leafs should go and do in like manner.

Helps Even Things Up

Recalling the humiliating defeat Oshawa handed 'em last time they met here, the Petes rubbed it in plenty last eve to whitewash the Merchants 10-0. Of course, Oshawa won by a lopsided count in playoffs and that's when they count. Anyway, the Petes really rode roughshod o'er them this time with a 14-hit attack as they played errorless ball back of Lefty Dadson's swell hurling. Dick Golden was back and shone at bat and afield. The Holyoke, Mass., 20-year-old shortstop—on the Cubs' list—played here a short time last summer ere returning when one of his parents took ill. Andy Milne pulled a jumping one-hand catch in right that looked big league all the way. Joe Lowrey pulled another running grab and doubled a guy. They all hustled and really rate their spot on the top rung of the Viaduct Loop ladder.

Not many on deck at the Bowl last p.m. as Orphans took Lakefield 19-12 in a free-wheeling men's softball affair, and UEW edged Revoy's 4-3. That latter was a neat one with Reg. Gordon hurling UEW to the win in fine fashion, and Ken Guilfoyle also right up to par on the other slab. 'Twas Revoy's first loss to date and and these teams are tied on top now with Orphans but one game behind. Only one error each and six safeties apiece, Castle's bingle in the ninth accounting for the winner. Fraser Wade pitched steadily for Orphans against two Lakefield flingers, who did okay but had nine miscues behind them. Next Tuesday, UEW plays Orphans, and Lakefield meets Revoy's.

Leafs Crush Orioles In 7-0 Triumph

By The Associated Press

Johnny Hetki is pitching like he wants to get back in the big leagues. The Toronto righthander's three-hit shutout of Baltimore Thursday night was his eighth International League victory.

Hetki, formerly with Cincinnati, blew down the Orioles 7-0 without much trouble, allowing singles to Al Cihocki in the first and fourth and a double by Ferrell Anderson in the eighth.

The Maple Leafs, who have won only 21 games, sewed it up for Hetki with a four-run blast in the seventh, three on a triple by Grover Bowers.

George Bamberger, a New York Giant farmhand performing for Ottawa, also made a move toward the big show with a nine-hit 3-1 win over second-place Syracuse. Harvey Gentry's two-run single in the second inning was enough to give Bamberger the nod over Dutch Houtz. Bamberger was in trouble in the fifth when the Chiefs scored their run. He struck out Chuck Weathers with the bases full to end the threat.

Montreal boosted its league lead to five games with a 9-7 edge over Rochester. The Royals had to use five pitchers with the win going to Ross Grimsley for a one-inning job. Jim Russell and Jim Gillian hit homers for Montreal, and Don Richmond, who had four hits in five trips, homered for Rochester.

Buffalo led Springfield 8-7 when their game was called after eight innings to permit Springfield to catch a train. The suspended game will be completed in Buffalo, June 23. Buffalo put on a seven-run inning in the third when 11 men went to bat.

All-Star Game Held October 9

MONTREAL, June 8 (CP). — The National Hockey League's annual all-star game, under a different set-up this coming season, will be played Oct. 9 in Toronto, home of the Stanley Cup winners.

Formerly the Stanley Cup champions met the all-stars, with additions from second and third all-star choices.

The next all-star attraction, as previously agreed, will have the first all-star team against the second all-star team.

The first team will draw its reinforcement from American clubs in the NHL and the second team from Canadian clubs.

Joe Primeau, coach of the winning Toronto Maple Leafs in the last Stanley Cup final, will handle the first team. Coach Dick Irvin of Montreal Canadiens, who lost in the final to Toronto, will have charge of the second team.

The regular league schedule will open Oct. 11 and close March 23. Opening night games are Boston at Detroit and Chicago at Canadiens.

Out At The Kawartha

Ladies' Section

In the 18-hole group of the ladies' section; Mrs. Jack Condon was low net winner which entitles her to go into the third round of the Spring Trophy competition.

For the day's competition, most pars, Mrs. Howard Woodcox and Mrs. Doug. Anderson were tied. As Mrs. Anderson has already been a winner, she was credited with a point and Mrs. Woodcox received the prize of a cup and saucer.

In the ladies' nine-hole section, Mrs. Joe Gatfield now enters the second round in the handicap competition.

The day's competition was for low score on 3, 5, 7 and 9 holes. This was won by Mrs. Howard Allison.

Business Girls

The business girls turned out en masse Thursday night with approximately 56 members. The competition for the day was the lowest number of putts and this was won by Doris Skinner, who received the sterling silver spoon.

The low net winner for this week in the Spring Trophy competition has not yet been determined, but this will be announced at the meeting next Thursday.

Police Take PLC

Police arrested the PLC civic loop softballers last night with a 16-7 roadblock employed. They held them to three runs each in the first and fourth innings and one in the seventh. The winners started slowly with one, built up four more in the second heat and broke loose for eight in a big third chapter, adding three as anti-climax in the sixth stanza. Teams:

Police: Rowe, Traynor, Eady, Smith, McKendry, Mesley, Menzies, McGillen, Naismith.

Pet. Lumber Co.: Dyer, Powell, Burrows, Dummitt, Davis, Doherty, Payne, Shea, Sage.

Dadson Hurls Six-Hit Game As Petes Beat Oshawa 10-0

Pounding the ball hard here last night and playing an errorless game in the field behind six-hit hurling by Lefty Bill Dadson, the Petes shut out Oshawa Merchants 10-0. It was the sixth Viaduct Major League baseball win in seven starts for the loop leaders and the third loss in six for the third-place Merchants, who trail Kingsway Lumber by a game. Some 500 fans braved the chilly weather to view the one-sided contest.

The Petes jumped on Lefty Lauer's offerings early to score three runs each in the first and third, and one apiece in the second and fourth. He gave way in the fourth with the score 8-0 and one out, Paul Michael toiling then till the end of the seventh, Miller finishing up. Their support was wobbly in spots, but the Petes were in a hititng mood to earn it handily. Earned runs for them were seven. Dadson fanned seven, walked none and scattered the six hits in a masterful mound performance. His mates supported him solidly at bat and afield.

Return Of Dick

Dick Golden (on Chicago Cubs' list) returned from Holyoke, Mass.—he played here briefly last season—to look good on shortstop and lead the hitters with three for five. Bunny Maeson clouted a double and single in four, George Brabin and Freddy Garvey each hit a double and single in five, Joe Stewart two for five, and Joe Lowrey a towering triple to right. Lauer had one for one, none of the Merchants hitting safely more than once. The Petes pulled off two neat double plays and Kitchen had an unassisted one for the losers. Defensive features were running catches by Andy Milne and Joe Lowrey in the garden, and a pickup at third by Kitchen.

The Petes tallied thrice in the first on a walk to Lowrey, Garvey's double, a single by Golden and Brabin's two-bagger. Maeson doubled in the second and raced home on a two-base error at first on Lowery. Three more counted next heat on singles by Brabin, Milne and Maeson, with an out, walk and wild pitch figuring in on them. Golden singled in the fourth, took third on a wild pitch and scored on a hit by Stewart. They added two off Michael in the seventh on Menzies' single, a walk to Milne, an out, a passed ball and an error in left. The box score:

White Sox Blank Senators Use New Trick Every Day

By JACK HAND,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Fritz Dorish is the latest "waiver waif" to burst out as a shutout starter for the incredible Chicago White Sox.

Manager Paul Richards, who has a new trick every day, yanked Dorish out of the hat Thursday —his first start after nine turns in the bullpen—and he tossed a neat five-hitter to beat Washington Senators 5-0.

It was Chicago's sixth shutout and 20th win in the last 22 starts. No wonder they lead the American League with a 4½ game lead over the world champion New York Yankees.

Richards picked on Dorish in order to keep his top pitchers rested for the four-game series starting tonight with the Yankees.

The daring of his choice is indicated by the fact that Dorish had shown little before White Sox drafted him this season from Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League. He was with Boston Red Sox in 1947 and in the next two years he was down in the minors, unable to make a place on the weak Boston pitching staff.

Follows Tradition

His pitching effort Thursday was right in the new Chicago tradition. It was the 24th complete game by a White Sox pitcher this season.

The Sox confused Washington with their amazing speed and daring behind a nine-hit attack, stealing three bases in six attempts. It was the sixth straight win for Chicago's new streak and the 16th loss in 18 games for Senators.

The Yankees, meanwhile, barely averted another disaster in St. Louis, rallying with three runs in the ninth to pull out a 7-5 decision over the Browns.

Bobby Brown's double tied the score in the ninth and Ralph Houk won it with a two-run single. With Yogi Berra sidelined by a pre-game injury, Charley Silvera and Houk split the Yank catching duties. Berra was hit over the eye in a relay throwing contest.

Tommy Byrne, second Yank pitcher, won his first game of the year although Allie Reynolds pitched the ninth.

Snap Losing Str

Boston snapped its five-game losing streak at Detroit 5-3, as Dom DiMaggio kept his 27-game hitting streak alive and won the game with one blow. Dom singled to left with the bases full and the score tied in the eighth to hang the loss on Ted Gray. Ellis Kinder, who replaced Chuck Stobbs in the seventh, won his third of the year.

Big Luke Easter led Cleveland Indians back on the win path after two defeats with a three-run homer for a 6-3 edge over Philadelphia Athletics. Although nicked for 12 hits, Lou Brissie made his old mates become his first victims of the year.

While the star-dusted White Sox stole the headlines, Brooklyn quietly piled up a 6½ game lead in the National. At the rate the Dodgers are going they may sew it up by Labor Day.

One-run Win

Preacher Roe, the Brooks' meal ticket, skinned home with another one-run win, 2-1, over St. Louis. It was his eighth straight of an unbeaten season and fifth by one run.

The enterprising Cincinnati Reds knocked off New York Giants 5-4 to move into a second place tie with St. Louis. It's the Reds' best road trip in years, 6-2 against the east so far. Virgil Stallcup's three-run homer off Dave Koslo in the fifth was the big blow.

Bubba Church pitched Philadelphia Phils to a 7-1 romp over Chicago Cubs, allowing five hits for his sixth run. The Phils blasted three Cub pitchers for 14 hits including three by Eddie Waitkus and Dick Sisler's sixth homer. It was the Phils' sixth win in their last eight but they're still in seventh place.

Vern Bickford kept six Pittsburgh Pirates' hits scattered in earning his eighth win, 5-0, as Boston Braves went into a fourth-place tie with New York.

Little Dynamite Near Death After Fight

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—Little Dynamite, who liked a rough and tumble fight, was near death today from a skull fracture and brain bleeding after being knocked out in the last round of one of the most savage ring battles Washington has ever seen.

The victor in the district featherweight title event—another popular young Negro, Gene Smith—halted a wild ring dance of joy and broke into sobs when it became evident he had won on more than an ordinary knockout.

In his foe's dressing room later, Smith knelt and prayed for Dynamite's life.

Elijah Williams, real name of the 21-year-old ring victim, was carried away by stretcher and rushed to Garfield Hospital, where a nerve surgeon performed an emergency operation.

The hospital reported his condition critical, and would make no guess on his chance to live.

Williams was a victim of the furious, no - quarter - asked - nor-given style of fighting that earned him the name of "Little Dynamite."

The 10-round fight recalled the savagery of bare knuckle days. For the first seven rounds both Dynamite and Smith smashed one another with nearly unbroken two-handed attacks from toe-to-toe range.

Seventh Round Barrage

In the seventh round Dynamite staggered Smith with a barrage of lefts and rights to the head. It was the only time Smith seemed in trouble.

In the 10th, Dynamite slipped to his knees after a left to the face. Apparently fearing he was losing on points, Dynamite leaped afoot and charged Smith like a bull. Smith measured the rush, got set, and met it with a crackling right to Dynamite's head.

Dynamite flopped straight back, feet up and head down, apparently landing on the back of his head.

Smith danced joyfully to his corner. The referee tolled 10. Smith did a happy cartwheel as Reynolds turned to hold up his hand in victory.

Dynamite lay inert. Dr. David Gordon, of the District Boxing Commission, made a brief examination and called for stretcher and ambulance. Smith's joy changed to tears.

AND NOBODY WAS HURT—A stock car driven by Bob Nohlty of Waukesha, Wis., left, smacks into one manned by Milwaukee's Edward Anderson in the first lap of the feature race at Hales Corners, Wis. Despite the terrific crash and near general pile-up, neither strapped-in, helmeted chauffeur was hurt.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Legislative muscle collided with literary intellect on the front lawn of the parliament buildings on Thursday night. The upshot was an 18-1 landslide for the House of Commons in its annual softball game with the Parliamentary Press Gallery.

The writers rang in three members of Ottawa's International League Giants and, through a loophole in the rules, were allowed the use of a bucket in the outfield. But that didn't help much against the legislative larrupers.

The Rev. Dan McIvor (L.-Fort William), the 78-year-old manager of the Commoners, helped the cause with a snappy-by gallery standards—job at third base.

The game raised $118 for a fund for the Commons page boys sponsored by Mr. McIvor.

At New Rochelle, N. Y., it was just as if Bobby Locke had never been away as the jowled South African clicked off a methodical 68 over the Wykagyl Golf Club course Thursday to grab the lead at the 18-hole mark in the Palm Beach round-robin tournament.

He stayed away last year, but he made it more than obvious to his 15 competitors Thursday that he is back to pick up more of those dollars. First prize in this one is $5,000.

At Broadstone, England, Mrs. Kitty MacCann of Tullamore, Ireland, upset Frances Stephens of Southport, England, to win the British women's amateur golf championship Thursday, 4 and 3.

Playing with her sun-blistered arms swathed in bandages, the quiet Irish woman took the lead at the second hole in the scheduled 36-hole grind and was never caught.

Heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles and ageless Jersey Joe Walcott signed Thursday to meet in a title fight at Forbes Field July 18.

Walcott, who says he's only 37, will meet Charles for the third time in the first heavyweight title scrap ever held in Pittsburgh.

It will be the fifth attempt of the Camden, N. J., father of six to win the crown. Joe Louis beat him twice. Charles, who turns 30 next month, will be making his ninth defence.

Major league club owners appear certain to accept A. B. (Happy) Chandler's resignation as baseball commissioner at a special meeting in New York next week.

Warren Giles, president of Cincinnati Reds and a member of baseball's executive council, called Chandler's proposed severance pact "very fair." He said he was sure the owners would approve it.

Chandler Wednesday disclosed he offered to resign provided the owners agreed to an indemnity clause protecting "my entire worldly fortune" from pending and future personal lawsuits arising from his baseball rulings.

At Manchester, England, two of the three Canadian entries bowed out of the northern England championships in quarter-final matches Thursday.

Brendan Macken of Montreal beat Lorne Main of Vancouver 6-4, 6-4 to advance to the semi-finals of the men's singles, while Davis Cupper Henri Rochon of Montreal lost to Australia's eighth-ranked Don Candy 6-3, 6-8, 6-3.

NHL Governors Enlarge Goal Crease

By W. R. WHEATLEY.

MONTREAL, June 8 (CP). — A scrambling open market in player deals, which particularly might benefit weak clubs, was created Thursday by the governors of the National Hockey League.

In their annual summer-time, shirt-sleeve session, the top men of the ice game clipped from 17 to 15 the number of players each club may dress for a game. Goaltenders are not included.

Under new rule changes the goal crease was enlarged to give the goalie more manoeuverability. At the same time, the face-off spot in the defending zone was placed 20 feet directly in front of the goalie instead of off to either side. The new face-off scheme will be tried out in exhibition games and the all-star game be acted upon officially.

The governors also revised and added to the penalty regulations in half a dozen places. One of the more important changes is the imposition of a minor penalty if a player, other than goaltender, closes his hand over the puck instead of knocking it down or batting it down with open hand.

70-Game Schedule

The league heads decided they will stick with the 70-game schedule. The next season will open Oct. 11, two nights after the all-star game is played in Toronto.

Referees, beginning next season, will be included in the pension plan already in operation for players. The league will make a special contribution towards referees' pensions, with no effect on contribution towards players' pensions. Carl Voss was renamed chief of referees.

Consider Million Dollar Budget For Presbyterian Expansion

OTTAWA, June 8 (CP)—Commissioners of the 77th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada today considered a recommendation that $1,000,000 be raised for church extension.

The recommendation, presented Thursday, urges a campaign be launched this autumn and asks all presbyteries to canvass every church member.

The undertaking would be called "Christian Outreach — 1951."

As the Assembly swung into its third day there was additional discussion on church extension and the need for a live and vigorous church.

A young missionary from the Peace River and Yukon territory, the Rev. R. A. Davidson, of Grand Prairie, Alta., told a missions night assembly in St. Andrew's Church Thursday night that young men are interested only in a strong, vigorous and live church.

At the same Assembly the Rev. Douglas Herron, of Kimberley, B. C., said it is imperative to have a fighting church to draw young men and make them interested in the work.

Today Assembly delegates were due to consider their deferment Thursday of a recommendation that a further series of recorded broadcasts on Christian teaching and evangelism be prepared.

Defer Action

They deferred action on the recommendation when a Peterborough layman, James Dutton, said the board of administration did not wish to commit any considerable amount of money to broadcasting until it is certain the work is being done by people who have knowledge of the church and its message.

The Rev. Finlay G. Stewart, of St. Andrew's Church, Kitchener, told the Assembly the ministry of the church could be replaced every 20 or 25 years as the result of the great increase in the number of volunteers working for "a church on the march."

He felt the church need no longer feel anxiety about maintaining its work.

Mr. Dutton, reporting on the work of the board of administration, said that although revenue in the past year is higher than ever before it is not sufficient to meet current needs.

It was for this reason the board had found it necessary to set up a special fund of $75,000 for church extension.

Friends Raise $1,300 For Burned-out Family

LINDSAY, June 8 — More than $1,300 was presented recently to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Snelgrove and family, Manilla, by friends after their farm home was razed on May 27. Some insurance was carried but it did not fully cover the house and contents which were completely destroyed.

A cheque was presented to the family at the Manilla community hall by Morley Johnson on behalf of the community. Besides the money a large amount of clothing, bedding, furniture and food has been donated.

Since the fire the Snelgroves have been living at the home of Miss Constance Nokes, near the Snelgrove farm.

The committee gave it approval and sent the bill to the Commons.

The officials told members both management and labor representatives in the National Advisory Council on manpower agreed that any person enlisting in these critical times and serving three years or less should be entitled to get his job back.

Men enlisting in the 27th Brigade for Europe join up for three years. The special force 25th Brigade in Korea enlisted for 18 months.

Say Feeling Of Pessimism Dogging French Elections

By ALAN HARVEY.

PARIS, June 8 — CP).—France bids desperately for political order this month in an election of key importance to the free world.

The question is whether national voting June 17 can produce united leadership or whether French politics will remain the frustrating witches' brew of postwar parliaments.

Without much real hope, western diplomats watch campaigning convinced that:

A strong and stable France would help fill a European "void" which now aids nobody but Russia.

France COULD be strong and stable, given a government which united the people and exploited the latent powers of the French economy.

Few expect voting to result so congenially. One obsessing fear is of a stalemate between three main groups—a result that might be fatal for parliamentary democracy in a country that has been leavening western culture for centuries.

Reasons For Pessimism

The reasons for pessimism lie partly in fiercely diverse trends of political feeling, partly in social and economic conditions, partly in an emotional dead end caused by two wars and a soul-destroying German occupation.

For 55 months, France has been ruled by a centrist coalition of Radicals, Socialists and Republicans. These elements differed on almost everything, but were held in loose alliance by fear of two extremes—the Communists on the left, as violent and vociferous as Communists everywhere, and the "People's Party" (Rassemblement Du Peuple Francais) of Gen. Charles De Gaulle on the right.

Thus, observers note, all Gaul is again divided into three parts —Communists, Democrats and right-wing Nationalists.

Fear Autocratic Regime

The difficulty for moderate Frenchmen may be to decide between the Democrats, whose record in office has been marked by recurring crises, and the De Gaullists, distrusted by some as intransigent and autroitarian. The country yearns for stability and firm government, but notes with reserve that many De Gaulle candidates are military men.

The De Gaullists deny they are extremists. They say they just want to restore France to greatness and independence.

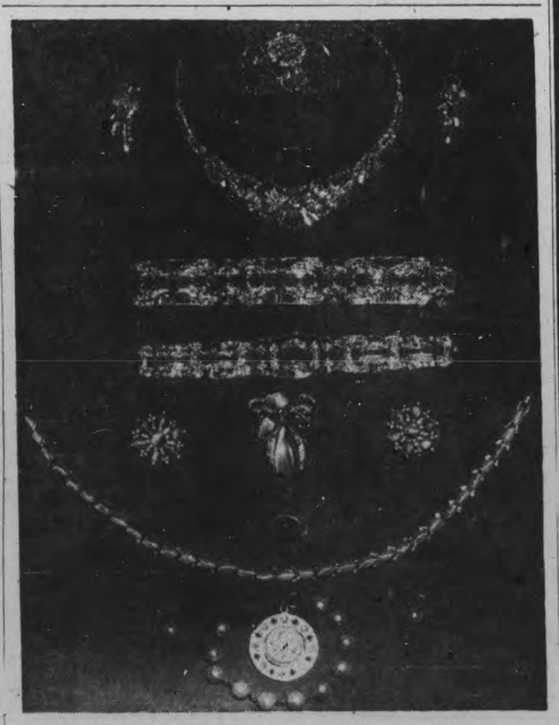
The main criticism of the centre is that its coalitions often crumbled, confronting the country with the eternal tragi-comedy of crisis and cabinet shuffle. At other times, critics say, the "third force" tried too hard to please too many assorted adherents, freezing itself into an immobility which paralyzed the functions of government, left France helpless in inflation's clutch and prevented rearmament from being anything but a paper program.

Yet through it all France retains a traditional vitality, expressed in a reviving birth rate and production figures now 40 per cent higher than pre-war. If she would stop tying herself in political knots and remain free from outside influence, the country that once was the light of Europe could suely shine again.

Buyers Snap Up Canadian Stamps

LONDON—(CP)—About 60 per cent of the Canadian and-Newfoundland stamps sold at a recent London auction went to North American buyers.

Sales totalled £7,132 and a Toronto dealer (Sissons) made the top purchase of the day bidding £500 for a set of four stamps commemorating the jubilee of Queen Victoria. Issued in 1897 and originally valued at ½ cent to $5, the stamps show the Queen as a young girl and as the reigning sovereign.



Early issue stamps were offered from New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Newfoundland and British Columbia. Many post-confederation numbers were also sold.

Among those bringing the highest price was a rare 6D. stamp issued in 1852. This brought £120 and its companion issue—the 10D. blue—went at £140.

A ½ cent stamp cut in half, brought £42. It represented a makeshift, lasting only four days in 1897 and was used only in the New Glasgow district of Nova Scotia's Pictou County.

Discuss Air Defences

PARIS, June 8 —(Reuters)— Plans for bigger and stronger air defences for the west were discussed at a closed-door meeting of air staff chiefs of the United States, Canada, Britain and France, it was reported Thursday. The four, who met at the French military college, were Gen. Francois Lecheres, France; Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, Canada; Air Marshal Sir John Slessor, Britain, and Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, United States.

$125,000 GEM CACHE, the property of a Monica, Calif., woman who "forgot it" in a Montreal hotel lobby, was uncovered in a 10-cent locker in a bus terminus recently. The jewel collection, owned by Mrs. Archie B. Mayo, comprises a diamond necklace with matching earrings, a gold bracelet with a detachable pin containing diamonds and rubies, two diamond bracelets, a moonstone set of earrings, brooch, ring and necklace, a set of pearl earrings and a St. Christopher medal inlaid with diamonds and rubies. The holder of the locker stub, when questioned, told detectives she picked up the bag containing the collection after two women—one of them was probably Mrs. Mayo—got up from the lounge and walked away.

Lower Draft Age

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)— The House of Representatives passed and sent to President Truman Thursday a bill lowering the draft age to 18½ years and laying the groundwork for universal military training. In addition to cutting six months off the present minimum draft age, the legislation extends the draft law until July 1, 1955, and requires inductees to serve 24 months instead of the present 21.

To Double Charge

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)— The House of Representatives post office committee voted Thursday to double the one-cent mailing charge for post cards and otherwise raise postal rates a total of $138,000,000 a year. The committee made no recommendations for higher rates on letter mail or air mail. Second-class rates (newspapers and other publications) would go up 60 per cent in three yearly increases of 20 per cent each.

Retail Clerk For 56 Years Havelock Man 50 Years Wed

HAVELOCK, June 8 (ENS)— Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Roberts celebrated the golden anniversary of their wedding on Tuesday at their home on King St. where a reception was held during the afternoon and evening when numerous friends called to offer congratulations.

The celebration was of a quieter nature than first planned owing to the fact that Mrs. Roberts is confined to her bed as the result of a broken thigh suffered last March.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert's daughters were home for the celebration: Mrs. Thomas Percival (Edith) of Peterborough; Mrs. Ray Moir (Bessie) of Cobourg; Mrs. J. W. Jackson (Mary) of Toronto.

Mr. Roberts and his wife, the former Emma Archer, were married in Marmora on June 5, 1901, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Archer, who were former residents of Havelock and Campbellford. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. C. Bell of Havelock Methodist church. The bridesmaid was Miss Alice Archer of Campbellford, cousin of the bride and now Mrs. A. Higginson of Ottawa and the groomsman was the bride's oldest brother John Archer, who now lives in St. Catharines.

Mr. Roberts is a native of Columbus, east Ontario county, and came to Havelock in 1894, about 18 months after the village was incorporated, and was employed by A. V. Fuller whose business was on the site where Harry Watson's garage is now situated on Highway 7.

Shortly after his marriage, Mr. Roberts entered the employ of J. V. A. Coon who operated a bakery and grocery where the Bank of Toronto now stands. In 1904 he transferrd to the store now operated by Gerald Buchanan known then as Wing's store. He worked there until 1907 for W. A. McMaster when the business was purchased by Harrison Wing after whose death it was taken over by Mr. Buchanan. On these premises, Mr. Roberts worked for 45 years, retiring in December 1949 after serving the public of this district for 56 years as a retail clerk.

Down through the years, Mr. and Mrs. Roberts have been faithful workers in Havelock United church (formerly Methodist) in all of its departments. Moir. The tea table was set with a cut-work cloth, centrd with a three-tier wedding cake and a silver bowl filled with gold dahlia lillies, on either side of which was a crystal candelabrum with three gold tapers. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts received messages of congratulations and gifts including money and flowers. Mrs. Roberts was wearing a corsage of yellow carnations sent her by Mrs. Herb Squire of Peterborough.

The day's festivities were brought to a close when the sacrament of Holy Communion was dispensed by the Rev. F. R. Vanderburgh, to Mr. and Mrs. Roberts, their family and a few friends, with Mr. Roberts and G. Buchanan the officiating elders.

Two Main Goals

LONDON, June 8 (Reuters)— John Foster Dulles, United States presidential envoy, said Thursday night Japan and Germany seem to be Russia's two main goals. Without them she would be "hopelessly outclassed" in a long general war. Dulles said he therefore considers there are few post-war problems as important as a Japanese peace settlement.

Wanted: A Harpist

LONDON, (CP). — Colonial Secretary James Griffiths was presented with a harp during his recent tour of Africa. On returning here, he said: "African musicians heard that the national instrument of my country, Wales, was the harp. But unfortunately, I don't play."

FIFTY YEARS WED are the above couple, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Roberts of Havelock. They are shown in their King St. home where Mrs. Roberts is recovering from a broken leg suffered in March.

Thieves Rob Car May Be Radioactive

WINDSOR, June 8 (CP). — Thieves who looted a car of more than $1,000 worth of medical equipment are in danger of radioactive contamination, police warned Thursday.

They asked that anybody finding a mahogany case with a suede cover, and containing instruments is asked to notify them immediately and to keep a safe distance away from it.

Jack C. Jones of Toronto, a surgical and medical equipment salesman, had his car looted Wednesday night as it was parked in downtown Windsor.

A $600 piece of radioactive equipment, a brief case of explanatory literature, a $200 surgical set, and other instruments worth about $400 were stolen.

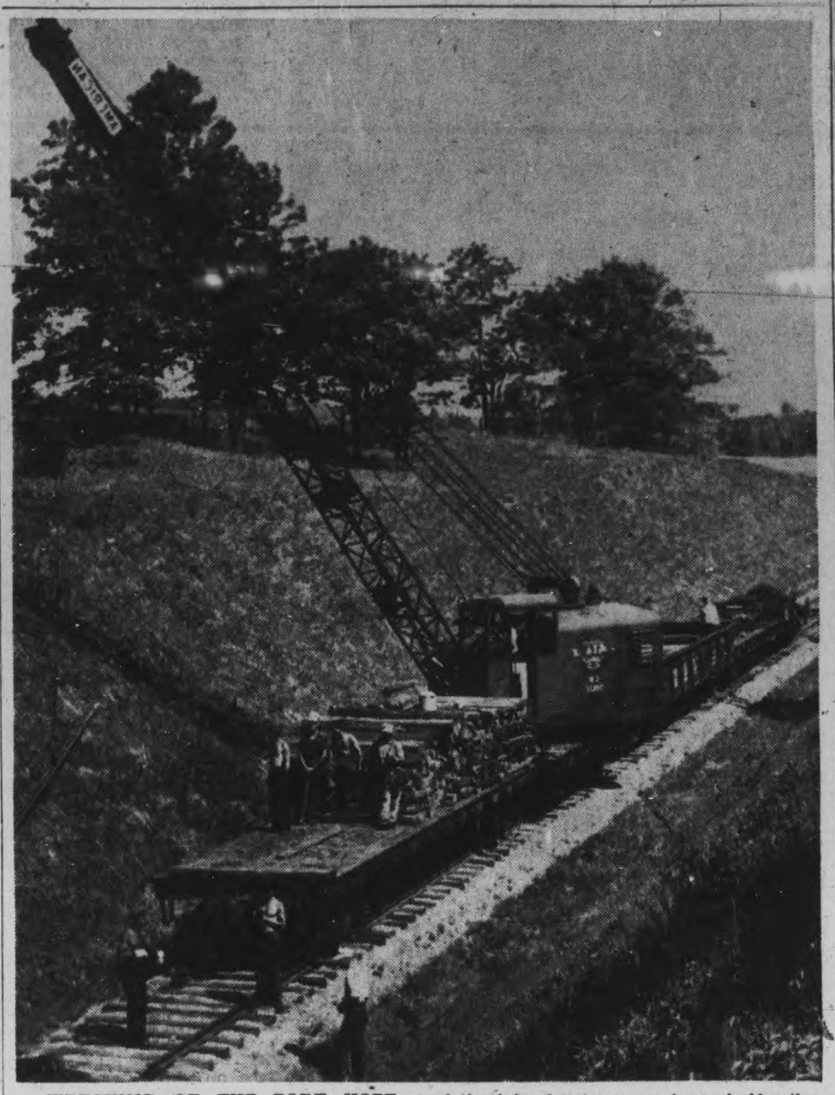
Mayor's Fund Has Total Of $45,824

$50,000 Assured Through Funds On Way To Treasury

Today's chapter of contributions to the Mayor's Fire Fund, $1,570.41, moves the total up another notch to $45,824, as tabulated by the assistant treasurer W. R. Wallace.



Outstanding in the industrial items are two relating to Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co. one of $250 from the company and the other $281.91 from the employees of that plant.

For the purpose of the Fund it may be mentioned here that tonight is the dance at Club Aragon. The publicity says the gross receipts will be turned into the Fund treasury. This is Jack Wineberg's voluntary offering, but to make it big he needs public cooperation.

Subscriptions that are on their way to the treasury are already enough to sweep the total over the $50,000 level, and that fact is not mentioned with any sense of urgency. People make their contributions in their own good time. It is their Fund, and they have built it up to a grand figure.

Last Market June 16 On Old Site

Saturday, June 16 will be the last outdoor market day on the present, and past, site at the corner of Charlotte and Water Sts.

That is the decision of a committee of the council on the local project which has been in suspension since the first of the year.

In the meantime, a meeting of representatives of the city and county councils has been arranged for Tuesday evening, at which the question of a permanent building at the new location on George St. is expected to receive immediate attention.

This action was precipitated by a note from City Engineer Chalmers last Monday night to the effect that grading of the new property on the west side of George St., between Rink and Townsend Streets, was then just about completed.

Meters Ready

That report also mentioned the fact that the meters for the market, ordered last year by the council, have been available for a considerable time. Mr. Chalmers was asking for any further instruction on the several phases of the market changes.

Publicity of the transfer of the outdoor section will be given during the coming week. The use of the market hall for the vending of butter, poultry, eggs and other produce which has customarily been displayed and sold there, will be continued indefinitely.

Vacating of the market on Saturday mornings will come into effect after the final selling on Saturday June 16. Metering of the square will be proceeded with, and the hope of the council is that the new location with ample accomodation for the automobiles of the buying public will soon be satisfactorily established.

Change Block

Changes affecting the entire market block will materialize this year. City council itself is mov-

Smelter Workers Stage Walkout

MARMORA, June 8—(ENS)—Day shift employees at the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company walked out Tuesday shortly after 11 a.m.

They returned to work Wednesday. Afternoon and evening shifts were not affected.

A conciliation meeting is to take place next Monday. Union officials refused to take part in one scheduled for today.

The contract between Local 889 International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers—(CIO) and the company, expired May 10, and since then, several negotiating meetings have been held.

Chief Demands

Chief demands of the union are: 40-hour week, 25 cents an hour increase, increased shift differential, expanded medical and hospitalization plans, additional holidays. In all the original demands amounted to 45 cents an hour.

At a later meeting, demands were re-adjusted as to holidays and overtime pay, which left the union demands at about 43 cents an hour.

In explanation, company officials said that the firm was operating at a loss, as only small contracts between the firm and several mining companies existed. As well, they said, the cost of a $2-million addition has strained the treasury.

Company spokesmen said the company believes "they are reasonable in requesting the union to hold off their demands until such time as we are able to pay from profits and not to interfere with the building up of the plant.

"When the company is not operating at a loss they would be glad to discuss increased wages with the union."

Unwashed Males Favorite Targets For Hungry Skeeter

Discrediting the belief that mosquitoes have reached the peak of a ten-year cycle, Prof. W. C. Allan of the entomology branch of OAC, blames their numbers on the dampness of an unusually wet month of May. The breeding cycle of the mosquito is ten days, he says, and already two or three generations of them have come and gone by now. These will be replaced by a later species.

The insects will breed wherever dampness is found—ponds, puddles, woods and long damp grass. A study of their biting habits reveals that the insects prefer persons of the male sex who have not washed for several days and who have the smell of gasoline on them.

Failing to find this type, it is said, mosquitoes will settle for a female of the same qualifications.

A Kawartha cottager said today that he is of two minds whether or not to go to his cottage on Stony Lake this weekend. He did not mind the mosquitoes so much but the black flies, which are also very active this year, were the bane of his cottage enjoyment.

Seeks Daughter Left In 1896

Fifty-five years ago, William McAvilla, 83, of Brooklyn, USA, left his daughter in Peterborough to live with her grandparents.

Mr. McAvilla went to Brooklyn and has heard from his daughter only a few times since; not at all recently.

Today he went to the city police station, asking for help to locate his daughter Eveline. He explained he was getting old and wanted to see her again, if she has not died since he left the city.

Since that day 55 years ago, Mr. McAvilla has worked as an engineer on one of New York state's larger railway systems. He retired a few years ago.

The changes in Peterborough since then, he said, are a little too much for him. "There didn't used to be numbers on the houses everybody knew everybody else. And of course there weren't any concrete sidewalks, just boardwalks and muddy streets.

His daughter was living with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hannom, her grandparents, when Mr. McAvilla left. Their home was near St. Peter's Cathedral, which Mr. McAvilla remembered as "St. Patrick's."

Award To County Reduced $2,500

A damage award against Gordon Shearer, Buckhorn trucker, in favor of the county of Peterborough, has been reduced in the Ontario Court of Appeal from $3,800 and costs to $1,300 and costs.

The original award was made by Justice R. I. Ferguson at the non-jury sittings last December.

Peterborough county sued Shearer after a two-truck collision on the Stony Lake road on Nov. 10, 1949, in which William Ireland, 23, Buckhorn, was killed and both vehicles wrecked. The accident was at Hamblin's Corners, four miles north of Warsaw.

The county claimed damages for the wrecking of its six-ton gravel dump truck, driven by Ed Payne, Lock St. So great was the impact that the two vehicles were fused together and it was more than two hours before the fatally-injured Ireland could be removed.

The reduction in the award was made by Justices Henderson, Hogg and Aylesworth.

B. J. Thompson appeared for Shearer and F. D. Kerr, KC, and Walter Howell for the county.

Erratic Driver Chased By Police Chief

2 Cars, Tow Truck Stuck In Mud—Cost $114

CAMPBELLFORD, June 8 — (ENS) — A night's entertainment in Campbellford cost Bruce C. Patrick, Frankford; $114 plus taxi fares.

About a month ago, Patrick came to Campbellford on a Saturday. That night, Police Chief George Hardy tried to flag a car driving erratically on Front St.

The driver wouldn't stop, and the chief commandeered another car to follow him. The wanted car turned up a dead end street and got mired in the mud. So did the car the chief was riding.

The chief got his man—Patrick—but neither car would move. A tow truck called to pull them out got stuck.

Finally, an 8,300-pound diesel tractor dragged the three vehicles out of the mud. And that's where Patrick's itemized bill started.

It cost him $12 for towing. There were no brakes on his car, so the chief put the car in a garage. It cost Patrick $47 to get it out.

He had to take a taxi back to Frankford, several dollars more. Patrick had no driver's license, and Magistrate R. B. Baxter fined him $50 and $5 costs on Thursday. The chief dropped the charge of driving without brakes.

Members of Clementi Lodge A.F. and A.M. No. 313, Lakefield, are to attend Divine Service at Warsaw United Church next Sunday, at 7.30 p.m. Cars will leave the Lodge Hall, Lakefield, at 6.45 p.m. and assemble at Warsaw Town Hall and parade to the church. Visiting Brethren Welcome.

27 On Relief Qualify For Pensions

Old Age Pensions 65 to 69 Class Save City $3,742.44

The city of Peterborough will be saved $3,742.44 if the plan for a $40-a-month old age pension becomes effective for those of 65 to 69 who need state aid. This figure was given by Arthur Metheral, welfare officer as tabulated on relief record figures for May.

Present figures show 27 on relief in this age group who, if this change comes into effect, will receive government aid. On a monthly basis this will save the city approximately $286.87.

The Dominion government will introduce legislation to bring in the pension with the cost paid half by the federal and half by the provincial governments.

These pensions would begin January 1 in provinces which reach a cost sharing agreement with the federal government.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

MARKING OFF SITE

Apparently Utilities Commission have begun laying out the site of their new office building at Aylmer and Dalhousie Streets. It is expected that work may be started next week.

STRAWBERRY MINIMUM

Minimum price of strawberries for processing will be 18¼c per qt. f.o.b. delivered at factory, announced by G. F. Perkin, chairman of the Farm Products Marketing Board, Ontario Department of Agriculture. The price last year was 17c.

EXPECTING

If the finding of a four-leaf clover is lucky, then seven-year-old Ray Bennett of 77 Empington Road is sitting pretty. On Thursday while playing in his neighborhood, he saw and picked a five-leaf clover and is keeping the prize to see what happens.

OPERATIC OVERTONES

Above the conversation of the passengers in the Monaghan Road bus this morning, on its Park St. way uptown, was heard the mild overtone of the driver's music whistle. It was that popular classic "My Heart At Thy Sweet Voice" from Saint-Saens' "Samson and Delilah." Note perfect, too; quite an acceptable performance; better than radio stuff.

FLORAL NOTE

The perfume of the lilacs and lilies of the valley is already gone from the year in the swift changes that soon forget them. The syringa is in fragrant flower this week, but somehow when the lilacs have shed their white and purple there comes a slightly sharper awareness of the advance of the year. A definite corner has been turned into June. The first briar roses are unfolding their beauty, the peonies are massing their colors, and in the woods the wild honeysuckle is just as lovely a production of nature's handicraft as ever. So say the the bees.

Knocked From Bicycle Boy Suffers Bruises

A 13-year-old boy suffered scrapes and bruises Thursday night when a car knocked him from his bicycle at Park St. and Parl Hill Rd.

Driver of the car, John Wolfe, 429 Downie St., told police he was driving east on Park Hill Rd., and applied his brakes at Park St. He said he was not used to the car, and it skidded, striking Garnet Alexander, 688 Park St., and knocking him to the street.

JAMES A. KAY who graduated in mechanical engineering from the University of Toronto and received his degree at the convocation on Wednesday. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kay, 536 Chamberlain St.

Grand Jury Brings In Four True Bills

The grand jury today brought in true bills on all four criminal cases listed for trial at the Peterborough court of general sessions. Judge J. A. McGibbon of Lindsay is presiding during the absence through illness of Judge S. L. Smoke.

Crown Attorney John Bradshaw, KC, early today began the Crown's case against Francis Spring, 66, arraigned on a charge of dangerous driving. He pleaded not guilty.

True bills were returned against: Spring, on the dangerous driving count.

Jack Allen Cockerill, Holloway Drive, committed on a charge of stealing bronze ingots from De Laval Co., valued at $750.

Hugh Imming, formerly of Peterborough, and Francis Sabotka, Oshawa, both charged with forgery.

Crown Attorney Bradshaw asked that trial on the two forgery charges be laid over to the next court having criminal jurisdiction.

Meanwhile the case against Spring is proceeding. The charge of dangerous driving came after his car collided with Miss Marguerite Beatty, Rink St., last January. Miss Beatty later died as a result of injuries sustained in the accident.

The grand jury is now inspecting the court house and other public buildings in the county.

On the panel are J. W. Paris, Douro, grand jury foreman; W. W. Dawson, Otonabee; Orville Miller, Smith; Lorne Mullen, Conger St.; Wiliam O'Donnell, Rogers St.; Edward Pearson, Smith; Harry M. Pomeroy, Sutherland St.; Stanley Richardson, Lakefield; Alexander Wagman, Clonsilla Ave.; Thomas Williams, Weller St. Clarence Watts, Dummer; and Stanford Purser, Engleburn Ave.

West Enders Protest Enumerator

Questions Branded Impertinent By Neighborhood

A number of west end citizens complained today that the census in a part of that district is being taken by a neighbor.

Some were bitter in their complaints and threatened to give wrong information.

They feel that some of the questions enumerators across Canada are asking, are impertinent. The fact that a neighbor is asking them only adds to this impertinence.

Ottawa Orders

Telephoned for comment today, Arthur J. McClelland, census commissioner, made the following statement:

"Nobody should take any exception to it. We have been directed by officials at Ottawa that this is the best way to do it.

'Enumerators are all sworn to secrecy. They're not going to carry tales; they've got too much else to carry."

For a wilfully wrong answer or a refusal to answer, the law provides a $100 fine or a three-month jail sentence or both. The fine cannot be more than $100.

But the enumerator is expected to be as persuasive as possible. If he or she fails, then the field supervisor is called in and he tries to persuade the unwilling person to answer.

May Prosecute

If the field supervisor fails, then the census commissioner (Mr. McClellan in Peterborough) is called in to try his persuasive powers. If he fails, the matter is reported to Ottawa, where proceedings for prosecution begin.

Every enumerator is provided with an identification card stating that he is authorized under the Statistics Act to collect informaton required. The card shows that it is obligatory to answer any question needed for the census survey.

G. E. Nelson Appointed Holstein Fieldman As Roy Ormiston Retires . . . Norman McConkey Sells His World Record Cow, Lifloc Macabar Re-Echo . . . . F. C. Paterson Urges Early Cutting of Hay . . . . Newcastle Disease Reported in Some Western Ontario Flocks.

G. E. (Gerry) Nelson of Campbellford, has been appointed fieldman for the Holstein-Friesian Association in the East-Central Ontario district, succeeding F. Roy Ormiston, Brooklin, who has resigned to establish a Holstein herd of his own.

Mr. Nelson is a native of Seymour township, Northumberland, where his father, George Nelson, is a Holstein breeder. He graduated from Ontario Agricultural College in 1945, and has since been a member of the agricultural representative (extension) branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

For the last two years he has been agricultural representative in Lincoln, with headquarters in St. Catharines and previously had served as assistant agricultural representative in the counties of Perth, Huron, Elgin, Norfolk and Lincoln. As a boy he took part in calf club work, and specialized in animal husbandry at OAC.

The East-Central Ontario district comprises the counties of Simcoe, York, Ontario, Victoria, Durham, Peterborough, Northumberland, Hastings, Prince Edward, and Lennox-Addington, and the districts of Muskoka, Parry Sound and Temiskaming.

Mr. Nelson will begin his new duties after July 1. As yet a definite location of his headquarters has not ben established.

Holstein breeders of this district will be inclined to regret the decision of Mr. Ormiston as it affects his relationship with them as fieldman, but they will wish him every success as a breeder. He stepped into a difficult spot when he took on the work which was established by the late Robert Holtby, founder of the Black and White field days.

Mr. Holtby was the first fieldman of the Holstein association with the whole of the province as his responsibility. He was highly regarded by Holstein breeders. They recognized his knowledge and experience, and availed themselves of his advice and judgment.

Roy Ormiston assumed the work which Mr. Holtby was forced by illness to relinquish, and he leaves a fine record in the service of the Holstein breeders association. He made friends readily, and he enlarged the value of the fieldman position by his industry, his attention to details and by an enthusiasm that will be pleasantly and profitably remembered in the counties which now become the field of G. E. Nelson.

It is a big job for the reason that the Holstein industry has developed into large proportions with no evidence of decline from the high level of sales and transfers of the last ten years.

G. E. NELSON, a son of Seymour township, is succeeding Roy Ormiston as fieldman for the Holstein-Friesian Association. He is equipped with experience as agricultural representative in the extension service of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Mr. Ormiston is retiring from field duties in the East-Central section of the province, including Peterborough, at the end of the month to concentrate his experience on a Black and White herd of his own.

Type qualities of this group of Stanley Wood's Holstein cattle, part of his Donwood Farm herd, are apparent from the roadside. This pastoral scene with its scattered shade is on the southeast side of the Warsaw Road, and opposite the home farm gate. For years Mr. Wood has had one of the outstanding Black and White herds in Peterborough district. Some of them were sired by "Elmcroft Patriarch," which was sold to the Belleville artificial breeding unit. The long-term pasture in which the cattle are grazing was seeded several years ago, and is typical of forage development on the dairy farms of this section of Ontario.

ANGUS CATTLE AUCTION

Average price was $477 as compared with $410 last year at the spring sale of the Ontario Aberdeen-Angus Association last Saturday at Markham. Twenty-six head grossed $12,420. Top was $860.

FIELD DAY AT MAPLE

Attendance was more than 500 farmers at the Maple Cattle Breeders' field day Tuesday. Fifteen were from the Peterborough area, including Norwood, Otonabee and Cavan. Among those from here were Cliff Johnston, John Manley, Ralph and Alan Drummond. One busload of breeders was from Vernor, near Sudbury. They had motored 250 miles.

The Maple association has enrolled more than 500 new members so far this year. Peterborough accounts for 94 since Jan. 1.

MACHINERY CLUB

Junior Farmers are planning a machinery club as a new project, with the organization meeting Monday, June 18, at the office of F. C. Paterson. R. G. Gregg, of the machinery department of OAC will be in charge. Young men between 18 and 30 are invited. Purposes include the study of economical operation of farm machines, safety factors and also the selection of machinery for individual needs.

Junior Farmers' district field day at Lindsay is Friday, June 29.

DIG TRENCH SILO

Fifty members of the Veterans' Land Act staff bulldozed a trench silo last Friday on the farm of Alvin Beggs at Sunderland in the Lindsay district.

This method of storing ensilage is new in this province but has been reported in some sections of the United States, with a few in this country. In some instances, it is enclosed by concrete walls. The form is horizontal, and deep enough for covering. Comparative cheapness is a reported attraction. Mr. Beggs estimated his cost at $250, exclusive of free help.

SHORTHORN AUCTION

Fifteen bulls averaged $518 and eight females $400 at the auction Thursday of Grey county Shorthorn Breeders' Association at Chatsworth, nine miles south of Owen Sound. The sale total for the 23 animals was $10,970.

BLAMES 40-HOUR WEEK

Guest speaker at Strathroy Kiwanis Club Farmers' Night, P. M. Dewan, former Minister of Agriculture in the Ontario government, blamed the 40-hour week in the city for a lot of farmers' troubles. "We shall have to give up that idea and go back to working harder," he said.

CLUB MEETINGS

Stuart Bowman will discuss registration of Cornell winter wheat at a meeting of the junior grain club Thursday evening, June 14, in the office of the Departmnt of Agriculture. Alan Drummond is club leader.

Wednesday, June 13, the tractor maintenance club is meeting at the shop of Cliff Curtis. Topic is ignition systems. Irvine McIntosh is leader.

Lorne Pimmett is taking the junior beef club to Louada Farms Saturday, June 9, for its third meeting of the season. That includes both picnic and educational features.

CALF SOLD FOR $520

At the Eastern Ontario Hereford cattle auction here May 18, Mervin Smith, of Cavan, sold his local champion junior heifer calf "Gleneveland Delena" to R. T. MacAlpine, of Fenelon Falls, for $520, and not $250 as reported in the Examiner. The first two figures were transposed, but the inadverdent error must have been obvious from the fact that the calf was mentioned as bringing the third highest price of the sale in between two that sold at $550 and $500 respectively. She is a daughter of Old Orchard Monarch 39th and Ringwood Delena 12th, and was junior champion at the 1950 Peterborough Exhibition; reserve junior at Lindsay and second at the regional show at Norwood Fair.

GRASS ENSILAGE WEEK

"When the alfalfa is breaking into bloom, that's the time to cut it," says Frank Paterson, agricultural representative, in his usual June "protein" appeal. When he uses the word hay, Mr. Paterson is thinking in terms of its intangible nutrients. It may be a little more problematical, for some farmers, to cut it just right, "but it is worth three times as much per ton."

About ten per cent alfalfa bloom and 60 to 70 per cent moisture, are conditions of the legumes and grasses which call for ensiling action. The experienced farmer can tell by [illegible] and noting the moisture it exudes, as a practical guide to estimating the moisture content.

Mr. Paterson's emphasis is, and has been, on the word "early", and its significance of timing in taking off the first crop of the fields.

From the conference of agricultural representatives at Kemptville Agricultural School last week, Mr. Paterson went on to Ottawa, and visited the government's Central Experimental Farm and the Ottawa Dairy Farm, a Borden property.

"I noticed that they were cutting grass with a swather at the dairy farm," he said, "It is more commonly used, and has the advantage of leaving more height in the grass stalk, and giving the aftermath a far better chance for quick growth."

They have 150 milking cows at Borden farms, sending 45 cans of milk daily to Ottawa at present. Cutting of grass began Wednesday, with four silos, each 40 ft. by 20 ft. to be filled. Growth has been exceptionally heavy as reported for the whole province a few days ago by Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Ontario's Minister of Agriculture in rating as virtually perfect May's gift to June in forage and grain crops.

Using a phase from sports affairs, Mr. Paterson says the legumes and grasses are a 'triple threat' to the cost of herd maintenance, embracing pasture, hay and ensilage.

Glancing back at that Ottawa field, he said the hay was left to wilt about three-quarters of the day, depending on the degree of the sunshine, was then ready for the forage crop harvester, to be chopped and blown into the silo.

Ten or 15 years ago, said Mr. Paterson, ensilage was mostly obtained from the corn crop, but the new pasture mixtures had brought about a broad and profitable change.

"Bacterial action is what produces the ensilage, but I guess we might as well avoid any detail in that particular. The crop can go in too green, but that applies even to corn, and can result in trouble with either crop."

With all the sweet forage in the field these days, one lot of dairy calves didn't get a nose into it. The main reason for that deprivation was the very lushness of the pasture. The owner was afraid of bloat if the cattle were let loose in that luxuriance. For them it will be a delay until the second growth is available, unless a handout of the first is fed to them in the barn.

Early cutting, and proper care will pay off in the struggle against feed costs, Mr. Paterson says (once more).

NEWCASTLE DISEASE REPORTS

Hatcherymen in Western Ontario are enforcing rigid precautions to prevent the spread of Newcastle disease which has already taken a heavy mortality toll of some flocks, especially in Oxford.

Patrons have to obtain special permission to enter some plants, and one proprietor in Middlesex requires visitors to step into a pan of disinfectant before proceeding into his premises. He also spreads lime liberally on the floor as a further preventive. Probably many producers have adopted this means of control.

At least five flocks were destroyed in the Thamesford and Lakeside districts of Oxford. Two Embro district farmers are reported to have lost more than 1,000 chicks. Another report estimates at 8,000 the loss to Herbert Conway, of Thamesford.

Allan Donley, of London, RR 6, says he has 'lost everything," but declined to disclose the size of his flock. Included was a "substantial number" of Black Australorps, a rare breed of heavy black birds raised for breeding purposes.

Mr. Donley expects to be reimbursed to some extent by the federal government, but meanwhile says he has been "put out of business."

Several other operators in that London district are reported hard hit. Dr. J. S. Glover, poultry pathologist at the Ontario Veterinary College, Guelph, reported outbreaks in Middlesex, Lambton, Wellington, Waterloo, Oxford, Wentworth and Halton.

SCOTS HERE JUNE 18

The four Junior Farmers from Scotland who are leisurely touring Ontario will be in Hastings area next week, and are coming on to Peterborough, Monday, June 18. They arrive at Stirling Monday June 11, from Newmarket. The whole week until Sunday night is planned for them, opening with "Scottish Young Farmers' Night" Monday at 8.30 in Stirling Community Hall.

Tuesday morning they are going to the Eldorado butter and cheese co-operative; and in the afternoon to the North Hastings high school at St. Ola, and to Gull Lake talc mine and lumber yards. Wednesday they are in Northumberland; Thursday in Lennox, Addington and Frontenac, and will see Wolfe Island, Fort Henry, Queen's University, the James Henderson Farm, and penitentiary.

These two young men and women are in Prince Edward Friday; and Saturday will be spent in and around Belleville. Sunday night they attend the County Junior Farmer Church Service and choir recital at St. Paul's Church in Stirling.

Peterborough Juniors this week outlined a somewhat similar itinerary for the visitors. They will be in Durham, Victoria and Peterborough counties.

Annual church service of the local Junior Farmers will be at Keene United Church Sunday evening June 17. Rev. W. H. Tonge of Lakefield will be the speaker. Juniors will assist in the service and their choir will contribute the vocal features.

RE-ECHO COWS SOLD

Norman McConkey confirms the rumors that he has sold his high ranking Holstein cow, Lifloc Macaber Re-Echo to F. B. Roman of Romandale Farms, King, Ont. She is now re-united with her dam, Re-Echo May Burke, in the Romandale herd, also recently purchased by Mr. Roman from John E. Houck of Brampton.

News of these purchases for the Romandale herd was herd last month, but Mr. McConkey was disposed to avoid publicity. He still declines to mention price, except that it was too attractive to turn down.

It will be recalled that Lifloc Macaber Re-Echo as a senior four-year-old produced 31,058 lbs. of milk containing 1,132 lbs. of butter fat in 365 days on three times-a-day milking.

This record stands second for milk and second for fat for all time in Canada in the senior four-year-old class. In the same lactation she established a world record for milk production in 305 days on three times-a-day milking with 27,978 lbs. milk and 995 lbs. fat. This record also stands second for all time for fat in Canada in the class.

Mr. McConkey recently told the Examiner that a factor in deciding to sell Macaber was the promising performance of her daughter in the Lifloc herd.

Mr. Roman was also the buyer of the Excellent eight-year-old Holstein cow, Jessie Rag Apple Supreme from Craig Nelson of Campbellford, recently published.

USE UN TECHNIQUE

Discussions and speeches at the IFAP conference in Mexico City last week were simultaneously translated into English, French and Spanish.

Delegates were supplied with portable radios and earphones, connected with interpreters in booths close by, who translate as discussions proceed. The system was adopted from the assemblies of the United Nations. By that means all the delegates heard the conference discussions in their respective languages.

India's delegation appealed to the world farmers' organization to urge upon surplus food nations that they give more practical assistance to hard-pressed India in the way of food gifts."

Herb. H. Hannam, who used to be a junior farmer in Ontario, is president of the International Federation of Agricultural Producers.

He said IFAP could not do otherwise than to voice again its keen disappointment over the timidity of governments in implementing objectives of the food and agriculture organization of the United Nations, and their failure to take more concerted action toward these objectives so ideally declared in the early years of FAO.

DISPERSAL OF AYRSHIRE

Col. E. W. Phillips of Oriole, five miles northeast of Toronto, has decided to sell by auction his herd of 75 Ayrshires at Oakville, June 25. His neighbor, Hon. George S. Henry, announced several weeks ago, dispersal of his Holsteins at the same sale.

Unsatisfactory returns, difficulty in obtaining adequate labor, and housing developments steadily reaching out from Toronto, are reasons for selling mentioned by Col. Phillips. He is switching to pure bred beef cattle.

Earl Kitchen, secretary of the Dairy Farmers of Canada, declared to Canadian Press his doubts that dairy farmers generally would transfer their interest to beef breeds. "But, milk alone won't carry a herd," he said.

Many dairy farmers affirm that, if it were not for the stock they sell, they could not keep operating.

Value Of Fertilizers Norwood Fair Project

More than 30 farmers have entries in the Norwood Fair field crop competition which is featuring the use of commercial fertilizers.

"Some of the owners are already noting a marked difference in favor of the fertilized sections of their farm," said G. A. Brethen, president of the Norwood Agricultural Society, in the Federation of Agriculture broadcast over CHEX, Saturday, June 2nd.

"Many of these fields are fronting main highways, and every effort will be made by means of official markers, pictures, etc., to attract the attention of the passing public to these demonstrations."

With the co-operation of a well-known fertilizer company, one special check field will display a non-fertilized plot bounded by four one-acre strips each treated with one of the four different fertilizer mixtures which are used on the various fields in this contest.

Accurate measurements of acre plots and weights of fertilizer have been taken, and at harvest time samples of grain will be field-threshed and grain weighed to get an accurate comparison of the relative value of the fertilizers, with one another, and also with the non-fertilized portion under the same conditions and in the same field."

Is Society's Duty

Mr. Brethen said this project was not intended as a money-maker for the Norwood Fair, but was planned to do what any "live agricultural society is organized to do,—display, improve and increase the products of our farms, thereby creating new wealth and interest in agriculture in the district which it serves."

Such is an outline of the 1951 propect and its purpose that is now being carried on in the Norwood countryside.

It is described as a combined field, grain and sheaf competition to determine the benefit derived from the correct use of commercial fertilizers.

"Increased grain production on Ontario farms is dependent, not so much on working more land, as upon cultivating our present acreage more wisely, sowing the highest grade seed obtainable, and feeding the soil a sufficient and balanced ration."

Norwood Fair directors received a great deal of commendation, followed by enquiries from other agricultural societies, from 1950. They are advancing this year into the field of fertility, as the success of their oats Derby in Mr. Brethen explained in his broadcast.

"Better cultivation should make the lant food in the soil more readily available to the growing crop, and secondly, destroy unwanted plants (weeds) that would rob the growing grain of essential requirements of moisture and nutrients.'

"Ration" For The Soil.

"Practically every successful Ontario livestock farmer today is alive to the importance of feeding a balanced ration to his cattle, swine and poultry if he is to get maximum and profitable returns from his beef, pork, milk and eggs.

When, however, it comes to providing a balanced fertility ration to the soil to secure maximum results from the growing crops and from the part played therein by the use of commercial fertilizer, this knowledge is not nearly so widespread or its application so manifest.

To counteract this seeming reluctance of many farmers "to try out" the value of commercial fertilizers, particularly with spring crops, East Peterborough Agricultural Society has initiated a Field Demonstration for 1951 to prove, right on the farms of this district, the benefits derived through the use of commercial fertilizers.

This project has the endorsation and support of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, the major fertilizer companies of Canada, and that of many others interested in the growth of bumper crops, while at the same time maintaining the fertility of the soil."

Veteran Trapper Dies Called Iron Man Of North

WINNIPEG — (CP) — The "iron man of the north" is dead. Lawrence (Louie) Tapper, 62-year-old fur trader who fought the elements from the stern of a canoe and freighted goods by tractor train in 50-below zero weather, died recently in general hospital here.

Louie, as he was known by trappers and traders throughout the north, became ill while transporting freight from Favorable Lake to Red Lake in Northwestern Ontario.

European-born, he came to Canada as a youth and spent 35 years in the north, working mainly out of God's Lake, Man., and Favorable Lake. He was president of the Northern Trading Company and the Northern Transportation Company, and also headed a lumber firm that supplied mines around Beren's River and God's Lake.

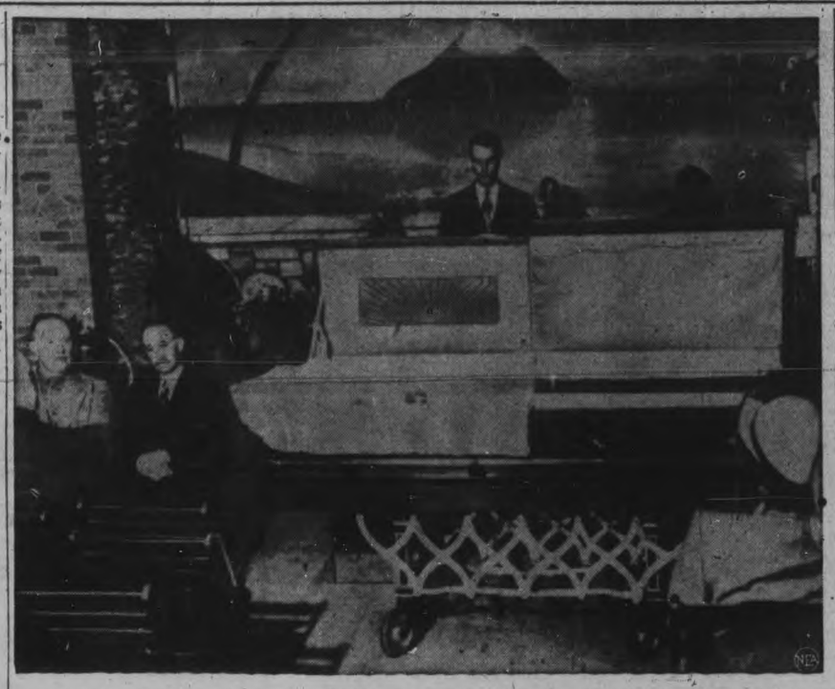
Tough Man

He was rated among the tough men of the north who consistently carried 300 pounds of furs and equipment on their backs over many a rocky portage.

A Hudson's Bay factor and rival trader, in paying tribute to Tapper said: "For travelling far and fast, in rain and shine, you can't beat Louie. I've seen him sit 22 hours at the wheel of a tractor crashing a new road through virgin territory at 50 below, without any shelter and his shirt unbuttoned at the throat.

"Then he'd come into the heated trailer, wolf down a meal and fall asleep on the floor. But in two hours he was up and at the wheel again."

Many Adventures



The trade also told how Tapper took on the toughest job in the north—fishing up a tractor and supplies that went through the ice. He would strip and dive repeatedly to fasten a rope around barrels of fuel oil and to hook a chain around a sunken "cat."

On one occasion, in 1935, Louie and his two sons (Syd was then 12, and Murray only five) hit the rapids broadside in a river near Island Lake, smashing the canoe in half.

Miles from the nearest post, the Tappers barely made it to shore. Louis blocked up the open end of half the canoe with tarpaulin and with this the hungry group struggled back to Island Lake.

Mr. Tapper, by tractor train, broke most of the northland's winter routes, going from one of his eight trading posts to the other.

When he started on his last trip, he told his foreman it would mark the end of his work in the north. It did, but among trappers, traders and factors, he still is the "Iron Man."

HE OUTLASTS HIS LAST RITES — While the minister reads his funeral sermon over an empty casket, James W. Gernhardt sits (at left, with hands crossed) and listens quietly. The 75-year-old Burlington, Colo., man arranged for a preview of his own funeral because he was not satisfied with the services given his late sister.

Key Weapon Sabre Jets Mass-Produced

MONTREAL—(CP)—The key weapon in Canada's defence program, the F-86E Sabre jet fighter, is being mass-produced in the sprawling Canadair plant here under a cloud of secrecy.

Made up of seven tons of man-made lightning, the Sabre today is recognized as the West's fastest operational fighter. Its manufacture has brought top Candian executives, designers and planners under the roof of the 50-acre Canadiar plant north of Montreal where 5,000 workers were switched from production of civilian aircraft to fill a $130,000,000 order for about 400 Sabres.

It's a gigantic order for Canada's young aircraft industry, but with technical assistance from the United States, and Canadian determination, the Sabres are now rolling off the mile-long assembly line and already have proven their worth over Korean battlefields.

These tigers of the skies cost about $300,000 each and are being produced under an agreement with the North American Aviation Corporation, a US firm, for use by the Royal Canadian Air Force.

It takes 7,445 pounds of aluminum, 1,733 pounds of steel, and 500,000 rivets, bolts and other small parts to push the fighter through the air in excess of 670 miles an hour.

At the Canadair plant where giant Trans - Canada Airlines North Stars are also built, a competent industrial operation is located for the handling of the most complex problems in aviation manufacture.

James Geoffrey Notman, executive vice-president and general manager of Canadair, believes that his plant can handle any aircraft orders the government wants to place. "Availability of supplies from the United States would be the only brake on output," he said.

Hearing Ended

TORONTO, June 8 (CP). — Hearing of Toronto's application for amalgamation with 12 of its suburbs ended Thursday, almost a year after it started. Only one suburb, Mimico, supported the Toronto proposal to set up a single administration for the more than 1,000,000 persons in the greater Toronto area and end duplication of services. Lorne Cumming, chairman of the Ontario Municipal Board, said he could not predict how soon the board will hand down its decision.

Clinic Helps Dailey Regain Health

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 7 (AP)—Dan Dailey told today how he undewent five months of mental treatment because he was "blowing his top."

Last fall, the actor was bordering on a complete nervous collapse. He had lost all confidence in himself, he said, and lacked the will to live.

"I almost blew up completely on my last picture," he told me. "Only the thoughtfulness of the director, Michael Gordon, pulled me through it. I was blowing my top."

Dailey realized that he was in need of mental treatment. He had heard about the Menninger Clinic in Topeka, Kas., and asked the advice of a Beverly Hills doctor who had studied at that institution. After talking to him, the doctor agreed that Dailey should go to Menninger's.

Temporary Release

Dailey obtained a temporary release fom his studio and left for Topeka. "The first three weeks at Menninger's consists of an observation," he recalled.

"At the end of the three weeks, they compiled the report and said I should stay there for treatment. They recommended six months. I stayed five."

His initial program consisted of chopping wood for an hour each day, playing basketball and volleyball, taking piano lessons, drawing and making objects of wood, metal and ceramics and watching television at night.

"I was supposed to get as far away as possible from being an actor," he said.

As Daily progressed in his treatment, he was allowed to take courses at Washburn University in Topeka. He took a writing course and received excellent grades. He got so excited about [illegible] started a novel, which he intends to finish here.

"I also took a course in political science," he said.

Ready To Leave

After four months at Menninger's, Dailey had to return to Hollywood for a few days to fight a separation action by his wife, who recently won a Nevada divorce. He went back to Topeka and told the doctors how he felt about his return home. In a few weeks, he decided he was ready to leave the clinic.

"They agreed with me," he said. "They told me that the doctors and the patient usually arrive at that decision about the same time."

Dailey said that the experience had been a life-saver for him. The treatment restored his confidence in himself and taught him a better attitude toward the hectic life of Hollywood.

Dailey now is back at work and starts "Mabel and Me" in a few days."

Opium Profits Will Aid Communists In Indo-China

By GRAHAM JENKINS

SAIGON, INDO-CHINA, (CP) —On the windy foothills of northwest Indo-China's forbidding mountains, old men with keen three-bladed knives are bending again over a Red Sea of Poppies.

Wth a dexterity born of countless generations, the thin, wrinkled tribesmen from the country's more remote areas are cutting the blooms with tiny, neat incisions.

Their sons and daughters follow in their wake, collecting in little cups the dark brown sap that oozes from the lacerations.

A few days' exposure beside their thatched-roofed huts in the sunny valley and the new season's opium harvest is ready for the "market."

Today, opium production is illegal. The French, adhering to the 1946 Bangkok convention, have officially stopped buying. Theoretically, there will be neither opium smokers nor opium production in Indo-China by 1953. But the drug drawn from this year's Poppy crop will be vital to thousands of unregistered addicts and some smugglers.

Important Role

It will, Frenchmen fear, play an important role in the battle between the French union forces and the Communist-led Vietminh (National resistance).

French reports indicate the Vietminh are doing all they can to collect a maximum opium harvest for salt to China and Thailand in exchange for arms.

The "opium front", indeed, is said to be an essential factor in the "war of attrition" being waged in Indo-China by Vietminh leader Ho Chi-minh.

Vietminh raiders and tax-collectors may get a large proportion of this year's opium crop. Also competing will be contact men working for opium smuggling rings.

The black-market price for a pound of Indo-Chinese opium averages about $635—more than double what the French official opium monopoly is prepared to pay or has the right to demand, But the monopoly will be out of business this year because it is reported to have all the stock it needs to sell to its diminishing list of legal smokers.

Hard To Stop.

Some opium from the remote northwest is sure to some down the rivers hidden in lumber logs, stuffed in truck tires or by a dozen of other means.

From the smuggler rings, it will find its way into the opium dens of every town and village. Huge amounts will find their way abroad to places like Hong Kong, Singapore and Japan, and eventually to American and European capitals.

In the northwest opium is one of the tribesmen's few ways of getting money with which to buy consumers goods. It is as natural a cash crop for him as rice.

Apart from the fact it is a serious offence to sell opium to a soldier, there appears to be little supervision over smoking in Indo-China.

Much of Indo-China's addiction is said to be a legacy of the Japanese occupation in the Second World War. Then production was encouraged. Japanese officers made money from the traffic and used it to bribe spies and informers.

THE ABOVE LABYRINTH of pipes and towers is the new and advanced catalytic cracking unit at Shell Oil Company's Montreal East refinery, extensions to which were opened recently by Hon. 400-Pound Bear Shot Hauling Away Trap

LINDSAY, June 8 — A 400-pound bear was trapped and killed recently by Mark Schell, Haliburton woodsman, in the Lake Kensis area. It nearly dragged his trap and anchor away before the hunter was able to fell it.

Schell set the trap in the lake area and when he inspected it, the bear was hauling the trap and log away. The log finally became lodged between two trees and Schell killed the bear with three shots.

Church Hearing Lasts Till July

TORONTO, June 8 (CP). — Hearings of a parishioners' dispute over canon law at St. Barnabas Anglican Church in Toronto are expected to last until July, a statement by the Toronto Synod Commission on Differences said Thursday.

The commission which began sitting this week to settle differences between members of the church over the canon law and the requested dismissal of a warden, was appointed by Bishop A. R. Beverley of Toronto. After hearing spokesmen for both sides, a report will be prepared to advise the Bishop "as to the action to be taken."

The dispute arose this year when the Rev. Henry Garbutt asked for the resignation of William Funk, people's warden, over interpretation of the church law.

At a closed meeting Wednesday night, commissioners heard testimony from the Rev. Harry Donaldson, assistant curate from 1944 to 1945, and the Rev. F. D. Lockwood, assistant curate from 1945 to 1946.

Protest Raise In Postal Rates

MONTREAL, June 8 (CP)—The voice of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association was raised Thursday against the proposed increase in newspaper postal rates, now being debated in Parliament, as a "further burden . . . which will force many small publishers to discontinue publication of weekly newspapers."

At the opening of the association's three-day divisional convention some 200 members from Ontario and Quebec heard their president—D. R. Wilson, of The Shawinigan Falls Standard — call for a "vigorous protest" against the proposed 100 per cent increase in urban delivery.

"With continued rising costs in every branch of our business," Mr. Wilson said, "it is high time that we did something about it or else many of us will be unable to survive. Newsprint has increased in price twice within a short time and is likely to take another jump in the near future. Labor costs are away up and everything we purchase for our printing plants has almost doubled.

"In my opinion there is only one way to meet this ever-increasing cost of production, and that is to raise subscription, advertising and printing rates."

MP Flees From Police Hides In Parliament

BONN, Germany, June 8 (AP) —A member of the West German Parliament went on a sitdown strike Thursday inside the Parliament building—as a refuge from the police.

He was Wolfgang Hedler, a member of the Extreme Right German Empire Party, who walked out on a court in Schleswig-Holstein, where he was being tried for alleged slander of German political personalities.

A squad of detectives was watching all exits to pounce on Hedler if he stepped out of the immune precincts.

The Bundestag (Lower House) yesterday gave permission for Hedler's arrest—but only out of parliament.

The fugitive slept on a couch in his office last night, is taking his meals in the parliament restaurant and says he has made arrangements for his laundry to be done and is writing a book to kill time.

"I can stay here for months," he said

Four Police Forces Turn Out At Accident

TORONTO, June 8 —(CP)— Four separate police forces and two ambulances turned out in the confusion Thursday when two men were severely injured on the Queen Elizabeth Highway [illegible] yards outside the city limits.

Injured when their car struck a light standard and went out of control, were Earl Hill, 34, and William Lockely, 34, both of Hamilton. Hospital officials said Hill, the driver, suffered severe head, facial and internal injuries and Lockely loss of blood from a gashed right arm.

Toronto police and ambulances arriving at the accident were delayed while getting permission to go beyond the city limits. Meanwhile an ambulance from suburban Islington took the men to hospital. Three suburban police forces also sent men to handle the accident.

Sheer Dresses Add Looks At Low Cost

By GAILE DUGAS

NEW YORK —(NEA)— During the summer, the problem of dressing on a junior budget goes on just as it does during the school year. In the case of a junior who's finished school and is on her first job, there's still the same old problem. Salaries on a first job are not notably high. And the junior on a job feels keenly the need to keep up with fashion.

This summer, the girl who invests in at least one bemberg sheer will find the strain on her budget eased. For dresses in this fabric are cool, often can be purchased for pin money. A great many designers work in bemberg, which means a wide range of style.

A sheath dress in bemberg (left) is washable. It has a small, detachable cape edged in self-pleating. In pastel prints, it has a medium U neck and a straight skirt that falls into soft, unpressed pleats. Altogether, it's a good bet for any youthful wardrobe.

Another bemberg sheer (right), is in white, pin-dotted with color. A tiny stand-up collar is ruffled and tied in ribbon matched to the color of the dots. More ribbon encircles the waist, making a narrow sash. Sleeeves are brief and ruffled. The skirt inclines to fullness but creates a slender look.

London Borough Refuses to Back Canadian's Play

LONDON. — (Reuters) —Plans to produce an unpublished play by Mary Bishop, former Winnipeg girl, have met with official opposition in the London suburb of Hampstead.

The play, "Shoulder the Sky" was to have been produced during Hampstead's festival season by a theatrical society known as the 28 Club.

But the financial support expected from Hampstead borough council has been withheld because of the play's "political character."

"We do not feel that public funds should be spent on political entertainment," a council official said.

Michael Reilly, leader of the 28 Club, denied that the play had any political message.

"It is ridiculous to suggest that it has the slightest propaganda value," he said. "There is a Communist character in it, but he is treated in a purely objective fashion. If all political plays were barred you would have to exclude most of Shaw's works and some of Ibsen's as well."

People To Judge

Reilly said the 28 Club planned to give a public reading of the play at which the people of Hampstead could judge for themselves.

"I am surprised that my play should be excluded on political grounds," Mrs. Bishop remarked. "I am certainly no Communist and have no strong political views."

The play, she added, was written in an impartial spirit as a commentary on contemporary times.

Mrs. Bishop is the wife of Leslie Bishop, former Winnipeg newspaperman now working in London as a free-lance journalist and lecturer on Canadian topics.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop came here in 1945 when Mr. Bishop was appointed London correspondent of the Winnipeg Free Press.

School Lunches Prove Benefit

TORONTO (CP).—The little lunches the youngsters eat at school are paving the way for better meals at home.

Here's how the Canadian Red Cross figured it today:

In a recent survey, nutritionally-balanced meals are served 300 school children. Their progress was compared with that of 300 children not served lunches.

At the end of two years, families of children being served lunches were buying better types of food. Other families bought [illegible] foods.

In dollars and cents it meant: Families of children served lunches were paying $1.09 a person more a week for food than they had been paying at the start of the survey. The others were paying 74 cents more than at the start.

Children eating the lunches were one-tenth of an inch taller than children who were not served lunches. There was a seven-tenths of a pound difference, too.

Miss H. Gerrard Exemplified "Criterion of Good Teacher" Is Feted By Associates

Retiring after 40 years of school teaching is bringing many honors this month to Miss Helen Gerrard of the PCVS staff, which she joined in September, 1928.

A dinner party and dance was held Thursday evening at the Kawartha Country Club by her fellow teachers and at this time she shared the limelight with five others whose resignations have been accepted.

Speaking for her associates, Miss Verna Burgess also expressed the feeling of the citizens of Peterborough when she described Miss Gerrard as a "good teacher."

"The criterion by which we judge a good teacher is that her pupils are satisfied in their work," she explained. "Not one of the household arts students has been heard to complain of taking Miss Gerrard's class, and they usually leave with satisfaction evidenced in a nicely tailored suit, a dress, blouse and sometimes a hat." (A fashion show by this year's pupils presented Wednesday afternoon at assembly illustrated this point.)

"The role of teacher is not easy" continued Miss Burgess. "She must have patience and persistence, and Miss Gerrard needs perhaps more of these qualities than some when she is surrounded by a group of eager girls anxious to have their sewing completed." Satisfaction to the teacher in this case comes from seeing the results of her teaching, not only among her pupils, but ex-pupils as well, and Miss Burgess remarked that few teachers, other than home economics, have the pleasure of knowing that husbands and friends are complimenting their pupils on what they have taught them.

Miss Garrard has gained wide friendship and respect in this city and wishes are extended for good health and contentment in her leisure. Chairman of the Board of Education, Dr. R. C. Honey, said "Miss Gerrard has left an excellent record for the teaching profession and of service to the community."

A table model radio was presented by the members of the Collegiate staff and a sheaf of roses had been sent to Miss Gerrard by the Board of Education.

Principal Mr. C. S. Browne also extended good wishes to Miss Gerrard and spoke of her fine record. He also expressed regret that five teachers had resigned and said it had been difficult to fill their positions. Miss Garrard's work is to be taken over for one year by a former teacher, Mrs. G. C. Tollington of Peterborough.

Gifts Presented

After two years on the staff Miss Doreen Pemberton is leaving to be married and will live in Norway, and Miss Kathleen Scott has secured a position as French teacher on the staff of Burlington High School. Mr. Alex Londry made an address to these teachers and presented to Miss Pemberton a silver salver and to Miss Scott a leather key case.

Miss Evangeline Begley, Miss Helen Wilson and Mr. Melville Prideau have resigned after one year on the staff. Each was given a copy of "At My Heart's Core" by Robertson Davies by the teachers and Mr. J. D. McNabb made the presentations.

Corsages of roses were sent to each of the lady teachers and Mrs. Prideau by the Board of Education.

Former staff members attending the dinner were Miss M. Lees who retired a year ago, Mrs. Wilbert Graham of Birdsall, Mrs. H. A. Toole, Mrs. G. C. Tollington and Mr. Tollington, Mrs. C. J. Ray and Mr. Ray and Miss Alexandria Howson. Wives of the present staff members were also guests.

Representatives of the Board of Education present were Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Honey, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Craw, Mr. and Brs. Blake Bell, Mr. and Mrs. S. Adamson, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Gordon and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jobbitt.

Mr. K. S. Wightman, secretary treasurer of the Board and superintendent of schools spoke in appreciation of Miss Gerrard's service and offered a few words of advice to other teachers leaving the city.

Each lady received a fresh flower corsage made up by the committee in charge, Miss Helen McGregor, Miss Margaret White Mr. R. L. Hale and Mr. A. J. Noftall.

The evening concluded on a gay note with the guests enjoying square dancing.

14,811 Enrolled In Canadian Nursing Schools

REGINA (CP).—More Canadian girls now are entering the nursing profession than ever before and there is no "actual shortage" of nurses, says Miss Gertrude Hall, general secretary of the Canadian Nurses' Association.

Miss Hall made the statement at the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan Nurses' Association in Regina.

She quoted figures to show that the nursing profession now is attracting as many high school graduates as can be expected.

"Our population is too limited to provide the vast numbers of nurses we could use in our expanding health services," she said. "As in many other fields, the demand is exceeding the supply."

The Winnipeg-born nurse stated that an all-time high of 14,811 are enrolled in the 174 nursing schools in Canada and "authorities feel that the limit has been reached."

Used More Efficiently

In order to compensate for the large number of nurses that could be used, Miss Hall said it is necessary to make more efficient use of present personnel and suggested many of the routine nursing procedures could either be accomplished by machines, or else be simplified or eliminated entirely.

At present, the Canadian Nurses' Association is attempting to conduct an analysis to determine the proper functions of nurses and to ascertain the quantity and quality of nursing services required for proper health care.

A graduate of McGill University and the Winnipeg General and Grace hospitals, Miss Hall is currently on a field tour of Canada.

Grenfell Tea Coincides With Appeal For Bale

The Peterborough Association of the Grenfell Labrador Medical Mission has been appealing to the citizens for donations of money and articles for a bale to be packed next week and sent for distribution to the coastal families in time for Christmas.

During this appeal it is customary to hold a tea to raise extra money for the purchase of children's toys and warm clothing for their Christmas presents. The tea was held Thursday afternoon on the lawn at the home of Mrs. W. E. Dorrington, 52 Victoria Ave., and was quite successful.

Donations of money were made by the guests to treasurer Mrs. F. M. Somerville and a number of promised articles of used clothing and toys which they will leave at Grafton's store in time for the packing of the bale on June 14. One offer of men's clothing was greatly appreciated as so few things for men are being donated.

Four dolls have been bought out of funds and they have been prettily dressed by Mrs. F. C. Anderson with the thought of how they will delight the young recipients next Dembr 25. More toys of any type are needed as this is the only way in which the Labrador children receive playthings.

Tea Assistants

Mrs. Dorrington was receiving with the president, Mrs. Gordon Langley, and the vice-president, Mrs. Gordon Rutherford.

The tea table was set with a printed linen cloth and centre bouquet of iris, peonies, lemon lilies and other tiny flowers. Mrs. E. Rutherford and Mrs. S. D. Carver presided throughout the tea hours.

Mrs. F. C. Anderson was tea convener and was assisted in serving by Miss Maud Rush, Mrs. Hal Bletcher, Miss Linden Hall and Miss Abbie Robinson.

A "fortune-teller" was an added attraction at this event and she was kept busy reading the tea cups.

Prince Sets Color Fashion

LONDON (CP) — Children's wear specialists say that Prince Charles is setting a new color fashion for the children.

Princess Elizabeth does not care for the traditional blue and pink and the Prince's winter coats included bright red. When visiting Queen Mother Mary on her 84th birthday, he wore a coat of light green.

Charles' summer linen suits will include buttercup yellow, a fashionable color for adults this year and one of his mother's favorites. Manufacturers are hoping this may result in a boost to the mother-and-child vogue so popular in North America.

The two-year-old Prince, who has changed from a left to right-side hair parting, will stick to the little round white sun hats that have already been dubbed "Prince Charles hats". The first time Queen Mother Mary saw the young Prince in these linen hats she smiled and recalled having the same type made for his grandfather, the King, at a price of 6d. (8 cents).

DOROTHY DIX

Twice Married, Didn't Tell Mother-In-Law About Child

DEAR MISS DIX: My problem is not a usual one, but I'm hoping you have a practicable solution to it. I married when very young and within a short time obtained a divorce, and the custody of my daughter. Six years later, I met a fine man and for the first time considered re-marriage. This man's home was quite far from where we were so it was impossible for me to meet his family until after we were married. My husband was the youngest child, and I did wonder how his mother would react to his marrying a woman with a child.

Dorothy Dix

We were only at his home a short while, and the entire time was spent just getting acquainted. Somehow I never found the right moment to tell them about myself, as I am naturally a little reserved. My daughter was in school at the time and I had left her with my mother. The point is, we left and as of now (a year and a half later), his mother still doesn't know about my daughter.

Now I just don't know how to break it to her, or explain the delay. I am reluctant to go back to see them and they are beginning to wonder why we don't come. Although we live several hundred miles apart we could manage a visit once a year. My husband is everything a man should be and he and my daughter are inseparable. He doesn't want to go home without us, and has left the decision more or less up to me. What do you suggest?

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: "Oh, what a tangled web we weave, when first we practice to deceive!" And even though your deceit was more or less unintentional, it still has enmeshed you in difficulties not easy to untangle.

Tell Her Now

The only solution I can see is the obvious and I will grant, very hard one. Your mother-in-law must be informed just as soon as possible of your daughter's existence, with whatever apologies you can make. You do not have a reasonable excuse for not telling her sooner, and in all likelihood she will be very much hurt. Just put your hope in the fact that she will be understanding about the situation, as she undoubtedly will and that your daughter's charm will win her over to happiness in having such a delightful grandchild.

When a situation like this arises, we are all too prone to believe that the "other party" will not understand. Fortunately, it seldom happens that way. Your mother-in-law will readily see how unhappy and sorry you are about not taking her into your confidence. The important factor is: don't delay! The first thing you know, she will get the information from some other source, and then you really will have a problem on your hands See her as soon as possible and get the whole affair off your chest.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My mother indulged me in everything I wanted to do or have from the time I was a baby. When I grew up I married the best man I ever knew, but I forced him to keep the house, cook scrub, do the laundry and care for the baby. I would frequently go to my mother's house and stay two or three weeks at a time without going home to my husband. He tried to defend himself on several occasions, but with my mother's support I wouldn't let him make first base. Now my mother is dead and my husband is making big money. He demands his freedom so that he may marry a girl he fell in love with during the time that I was enjoying myself making life miserable for him. What can I do now?

J. E.

ANSWER: Nothing will undo the wrong you have done or give you back the place in your husband's and son's affection that you have forfeited.

No doubt your mother is more to blame for your conduct than you are yourself, but you are the one who will have to pay the price of her weakness and folly. I always think of when I see mothers spoiling their children. I marvel that they do not see what a crime they are committing against the ones they love.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 15 years old and very much in love with a boy 19. We were going steady for two months when he called up and said he wanted to break up. He didn't think it was fair to me because I'm still young. His mother is fond of me and mine of him, so there's no trouble there. He hasn't called me since, but I know he goes to dances and parties stag and with his brother. He has no other dates. How can I get him to call or come over?

ANSWER: Since your boy friend has no other dates, I assume he still likes you. He sounds to me like a very considerate youth who realizes that you are much too young to go steady and is trying to bide his time until you are a little older. You could have a social gathering at your house some night and invite him over but don't do any further pursuing. Expand your own social life, go to dances and have a good time. "Going steady" can wait a few years.

White, Pastel Gloves Add Smart Look

By GAILE DUGAS

NEW YORK —(NEA)— Crisp gloves, wristbone length, put the finishing touch to almost any daytime costume all summer long. Perhaps they, more than any other accessory, impart a fresh, sparkling look to a summer suit or dress.

The short length is, of course, the cool length. Most often, this short glove is white. White goes everywhere, looks immaculate. But there's no fashion rule that puts pretty, pale pastels out of the picture. Pastels should be an integral part of the costume in a way that white need not be. Thus, pale pink gloves should be teamed with a pink hat, or pink shoes, or a pink handbag. But never should all accessories be in one color.

Double-woven, hand-sewn white cotton makes a lady-like glove. And because it's completely washable, it also makes a practical glove. It looks well when it's done with a curved cuff that ends in a stitched, asymmetric design. And it's handsome when it's whipped into a glove that has as its only trim a flared cuff. Red stitching, when it outlines a fresh white glove, creates bright contrast.

Pale pink nylon makes a pastel glove that washes and dries in an hour.

Cotton for after-five is entirely feasible when it's done in a medium length in pale beige. One such glove has as its trim double, surving bands of drawn work. This, too, is a beautifully simple glove, with only its length marking it for late day.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Grandmother's CherryCake Standby With Whole Family

QUESTION: I am one of your patrons. When your column first appeared I had a feeling that the name Mary Moore was familiar, as I clip many recipes from different sources. This morning I went through a file of some clipped from Montreal Standard dated December, 1938, and January, 1939, and lo—I meet Emem—then I know why it had seemed familiar. Writing or spelling out your initials like that is what registered.

Among the questions from those clippings was one from a lady who wrote: "My own cookbook is just bulging with your recipes—we love your recipe for Grandmother's cherry cake." Not being sure whether that spelled fresh cherries or not but being intrigued with it—I decided to write and ask for it in the column. . .

In the earlier years of my married life I had many custard failures. Most recipes suggested 1 cup milk to each egg. I find 6 ounces to be a beter proportion. Our son is about to be married and I'm sure my daughter-in-law-to-be will become a devotee of what Emem says.

✧ ✧ ✧

Oven-Poached Custards (Contributed by Ee-ee-es)

Seven eggs, (28 ounces to a dozen), 42 fluid ounces scalded milk, 1 scant cup sugar, ½ teaspoon or so of salt, 1½ teaspoon vanilla. Over large mixing bowl place large sieve. All ingredients go through this. Oven at 425 deg. F. with 2 dishes half-filled with boiling water in oven. Now fill individual custard cups (7 eggs make 14). After 10 minutes reduce heat to 325 for 15 minutes. This is important and also to remove them from their hot bath immediately and cool to room temperature. Subsequently chill in frig. overnight for best results. Half of the mix may be tinted a delicate pink. E. E. S. (Ee-ee-es)

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: That is a long way back. I do not keep file copies after two year so can only guess at the cake you refer to. It is made from candied cherries and is a pound-cake batter. I will give it to you below. The custard recipe is excellent and will become a standby with me. Thank you for your trouble.

✧ ✧ ✧

Grandmother's Cherry Cake

One cup butter, 1 2/3 cups sugar, 5 eggs, 2 cups unsifted cake flour, 1 cup chopped candied cherries. Work butter until creamy, using the hand if desired or electric beater, then add sugar gradually while beating; add eggs one at a time while beating between each addition. When the mixture is of a creamy consistency fold in the flour which has been sifted after measuring, and the chopped cherries which have been dredged with a little from the 2 cups flour. Turn into buttered paper-lined loaf pan and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. or a little lower until cake shrinks from sides of pan. Keeps excellently and improves with age if well wrapped.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: I am enclosing herewith several recipes I have enjoyed.

✧ ✧ ✧

Cottage Cheese Salad (Contributed by "Homemaker")

Boil ½ cup white sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, juice of 1 lemon and ½ cup hot water. Dissolve 2 tablespoons gelatine in ⅓ cup cold pineapple juice. Cool and add 1 cup sieved cottage cheese, ½ cup walnuts, 1 can (or 1 cup will do) crushed pineapple and ¾ cup cream whipped. Chill. This is nice served with whole pieces of fruit and orange bread. No taste of cottage cheese is noticeable for those who dislike it.

Lemon Delight (Contributed by "Homemaker")

Chill one tall tin evaporated milk. Roll 24 graham crackers fine. Add ½ cup brown sugar and ½ cup butter. Place about 2/3 in large oblong pyrex dish. Whip milk until double and add juice and rind of 1 lemon, ½ cup white sugar and 1 package lemon jello dissolved in ½ cup boiling water. Pour over wafers, cover with balance and chill. Cut in squares.

Strawberry Glace Pie (Contributed by "Homemaker")

Fill a baked pie shell with berries and pour over same the following: Boil until thick and clear 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1 cup white sugar (or to suit taste), 1 cup water, a few crushed berries and some red food coloring. Remove from fire and add a little butter and lemon juice. Cool slightly and pour over berries. Chill. Serve with whipped cream.

Wishing you continued success. Homemaker.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It is very kind of you, Homemaker, to sit down and copy out these favorite recipes for us. I am sure other readers will appreciate it too. I am going to publish my strawberry pie with glaze syrup soon and hope you will try it. It calls for arrowroot. The pineapple cottage cheese salad is new to me and I am anticipating tasting it. Write again when I can help you.

Last Market

ing up George St. four or five blocks to the new municipal offices.

Utilities Commission this morning took out a permit at the office of the city engineer for their new headquarters building at the corner of Aylmer and Dalhousie Sts. All the accustomed financial and administration business of both these civic departments is going to be dislocated, probably before the end of the year.

The outdoor market is going along with them in the necessarily slow and considered movement from the old block at Charlotte, Water and Simcoe Streets.

Pressure of different phases of use of the property, cost, income, and generally broader advantage to the city, considering the whole scheme of operation, has directed this transformation of the old civic site.

The market is only part of the block which has been under gradual discussion for years, and especially in the effects of the large bequest to the citizens of Peterborough in the will of the late W. G. Morrow, for the purpose of a new city hall.

Legion Gets Win

HASTINGS, June 8 (ENS). — Legion bested Tanners last night 10-8 in a well-played game in the local league. Richardson started for Legion and although his control was wobbly, he was given good support. Crowley replaced him in the seventh and after giving up two runs settled away for the remainder of the fray.

M. Richardson went the route for the Tanners, and showed improvement as his control was better.

Chinese Withdraw From Iron Triangle As Allies Advance

WEST CENTRAL FRONT, Korea, June 9. (AP)—Chinese Communists today began to abandon their "iron triangle" in North Korea in the face of strong United Nations attacks. The Chinese Reds were falling back toward Kumsong, 17 miles east of Pyonggang. Pyonggang is the top anchor of the triangle. Its other tips are Kumhwa on the east and Chorwon on the west. Eighth Army forces captured two ridges as Red resistance slackened. The Chinese offered token, long-ranged opposition as US troops gained 1,000 to 2,000 yards (up to more than one mile.)

The Reds changed their battle tactics. They pulled in men from the flanks and bunched them.

Despite this, they had to make a new but slight withdrawal near the base of the triangle with its vital east-west road.

Two Confer

In Tokyo, Defence Secretary George C. Marshall of the United States conferred behind a guarded door for an hour and 15 minutes with the supreme allied commander, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway. This followed close conferences in Korea yesterday with all allied commanders of forces in action against the Reds.

North Korean Reds fought hard to prevent a flanking movement near the east end of Hwachon reservoir some 45 miles southeast of Kumhwa.

UN troops there gained two miles in a day-long battle Friday but a Red regiment then attacked and drove them back.

North of the reservoir, allied troops twice won a hill, only to be driven off each time by 600 Reds.

On the reservoir's western side UN soldiers gained two miles after a day-long battle with 300 Reds.

The biggest gain of more than three miles was made northwest of Yonchon, a town seven miles inside North Korea on the road to Chorwon.

Northeast of Yonchon, closer to the road, an allied force advanced two miles and then was rocked back a mile by 300 Communists. Fighting in the area lasted all Friday. Field reports indicated it was continuing.

The Reds there were seen digging new defences.

Rain and wind interfered with allied air support.

Armies Welcome In Korea Says Bradley

LONDON, June 9 (AP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley said today the United States would welcome more participation in the Korean war by other countries.

The chairman of the United States joint chiefs of staff told a press conference President Truman's administration is running into political opposition on this question.

"We're always being asked how much help other countries are giving in Korea," he said.

At the same time, Bradley said the United States was aware of the big forces Britain is using to fight Communist terrorists in Malaya and other areas of the Far East.

Denies Report

He said no more talks than usual on the possibility of a new cease-fire attempt in Korea were going on between Britain and the United States. Bradley denied published reports that he had discussed any such new plans with Defence Minister Shinwell or the British chiefs of staff during his visit here.

Bradley said the set-up of the Atlantic pact command in the Mediterranean still had not been completed.

He said the question was complicated because Greece and Turkey were not in the area covered by the pact. He said it was hoped to get the southern command under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme commander of allied powers, Europe, started as soon as possible.

Both Greece and Turkey are seeking membership in the Atlantic pact. Bradley indicated that the military chiefs now were awaiting a decision by the political side on whether to admit them.

He said the talks now were going on in Paris on how air support would be supplied to pact forces in Western Europe. Because of language difference, he said he believed each country supplying troops should furnish its own air support.

He said the United States planned to send some additional air units to Europe, with the first possibly ready this year.

BRIGADIER J. M. ROCKINGHAM (RIGHT), commander of the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade, explains the disposition of his troops on the Korean battlefront to two United Nations officials touring the area. At LEFT is Constantine Stavropoulos, principal secretary of the UN Commission for Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea. Andre Cordier, personal representative of Trygve Lie, UN secretary general, is in the CENTRE.

Missing Man Sends Wire From Rome

"Long Holiday" Says Burgess In Message

LONDON, June 9. (AP) -- A Foreign Office spokesman said today the telegram received from one of the two missing British diplomats by his mother here had come from Rome.

The spokesman said the telegram was from Guy Burgess, 40, former second secretary of the British Embassy in Washington. It was to his mother, Mrs. J. R. Bassett, and said he was going on "a long Mediterranean holiday."

The two telegrams received here by relatives of Donald D. MacLean, 38, head of the American Department of the Foreign Office, had been filed at the Paris Central Post Office

William Ridsdale, Foreign Office spokesman, said the message from Burgess arrived here Thursday several hours after the messages to MacLean's relatives sent from Paris.

Reporters asked Ridsdale if authorities now believed the two men were separated.

"The search is still going on, and we have no news of their whereabouts," Ridsdale replied.

"The authorities are not excluding any theory."

Meanwhile thousands of detectives and intelligence agents ranged through western Europe today searching for two British diplomats who may have disappeared behind the Iron Curtain with top-level Anglo-American secrets.

It bid fair to be the biggest and most spectacular manhunt in Europe's history.

Report Denied

Reports that L. E. Wilkinson, deputy superintendent of Scotland Yard's famed counter-espionage division, the Special Branch, had flown to Paris to aid were denied today. The Yard said Wilkinson, an expert on Russian spy methods, was on leave somewhere in England.

Officials here, however, continued to insist that there is no reason to suspect the two of attempting to flee to Russia.

All Tumble From Group, No Reason

Engines Explode Some Die In Crash Landing

RICHMOND, Ind., June 9. (AP)—Eight F-84 Thunderjets fell out of the sky near Richmond yesterday in the biggest mass crash in the history of jet aviation. Three pilots died as their speedy Air Force fighter planes crashed and burned, and two others were injured. Two rode their damaged planes to crash landings without injury, and one parachuted safely.

The Air Force withheld names of the dead pilots pending notification of relatives.

No one could explain what occurred to cause eight planes to crash from a formation of 34 at the same time. The Air Force quickly dropped a curtain of secrecy over its investigation.

Country folk in a 25-mile radius north and west of Richmond were horrified as they saw broken planes tumbling out of the sky.

Saw Two Fall

Mrs. Fred Musser, near whose home northwest of Richmond two F-84s crashed and killed their pilots, said she thought she and her five children were caught in an enemy bombing raid.

Plane parts smashed four windows in the Musser house and tore several holes in the frame walls.

The third pilot killed crash-landed his plane near Mooreland, 25 miles northwest of Richmond.

Two pilots who survived crash landings said the flight was streaking along above a thunderstorm, but both said the storm was not the cause of the tragedy. They could not say more.

Capt. Bruce E. Long, 29, veteran of air battles over Europe, told a reporter he was flying above the storm when his power plant exploded.

Long was unhurt in the crash of his plane.

Capt. Robert Jackson, 24, who suffered face lacerations as he brought his plane down at Boston airport, south of Richmond, told a reporter he was flying about 15,000 feet and above the storm when "I decided to land."

Wasn't Weather

Jackson said he couldn't say why he made the decision, except that "it wasn't the weather."

The planes, based at Bergstrom air force base, Austin, Tex, were en route from Wright-Patterson Field, Dayton, O., to Selfridge

Duplessis Asks Cut Price For Newsprint

QUEBEC, June 9 — (CP). — Premier Duplessis yesterday put it up once more to Quebec's newsprint manufacturers to consider giving Canadian, and especially Quebec newspapers, special price consideration.

The Quebec Premier said at his weekly press conference that the old proverb, charity begins at home, would not be discriminatory if applied to the selling price of newsprint, due to take a $10-a-ton boost July 1.

(Quebec produces 51 per cent of all newsprint in North America, 90 per cent of which is sold in the United States.)

He said the old proverb, in a way, was applied in Scandinavian countries, and added:

Have Rights

"It is evident that the newspapers of Canada, and of Quebec particularly, have a right to be treated as Canadians.

"It seems to me inconceivable that our forestry resources profit foreigners more than the population of the province."

The Premier urged newsprint price consideration for Canadian publishers earlier this week in a speech to the Canadian Manufacturers' association and hinted the government may institute controls.

He did not hint at controls yesterday.

Mr. Duplessis said forests were "he indispensable medium of a healthy freedom of expression in our newspapers...."

He regarded newspapers as the co-owners of the forests which belong to the people.

"This problem," he said, "is therefore a problem of enormous financial importance and also of very considerable more importance....

"It must not be forgotten that the forests must not be employed and used in a way to deprive the people of advantages which flow from a healthy freedom of the press...."

2 Youths Hang For Murder

MONTREAL, June 9 —(CP)— Two 23-year-old youths who set out to rob a store Jan. 22 will be hanged Sept. 21 for the murder of William Sloan, 65, the store-owner who tried to thwart their plans.

Thomas Luckie and Thomas Mullins were convicted of murder yesterday by a court of King's Bench Jury that deliberated only 10 minutes.

The pair showed only slight emotions when the verdict was returned and when the judge sentenced them to death.

During their brief trial, they claimed repeatedly tha police obtained confessions from them after beating them up. Both made statements to police that were admitted as proof although they were almost illiterate. One, Luckie, signed the confession with an "X."

Shot Once

The pair was arrested less than a week after Sloan was cut down by a single bullet in the lung while trying to stop two bandits who were rifling the till of his downtown St. Antoine Street general store.

Mullins, squat, dark and bushy-haired, fingered his tie and loosened his shirt collar when the jury returned to the courtroom with the verdict. The taller, poker-faced Luckie sat quietly between two burly provincial policemen.

They were returned to their cells while Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure went to his chambers to don the tricorne and black gloves.

When asked if they had anything to say, the pair said they were innocent. Luckie claimed "plenty of evidence never came up."

Vogeler Out Of Hospital Says Confession Rubbish

WASHINGTON, June 9. (AP)—Robert A. Voegler, grim and unsmiling, Friday told of 17 months of torture and degradation in a Communist Hungary prison, and disavowed as "rubbish" his purported confession of sabotage and spying. Seemingly physically fit but still tense after four weeks in a hospital, the 39-year-old American business man detailed for the first time the ordeal he underwent before being freed. He was released April 28 through a deal with the Hungarian regime arranged by the State Department.

In a talk at the National Press Club, the official of the International Telephone and Telegraph Company said he was denied sleep and grilled for 78 hours following his arrest, plunged naked into ice water, slugged, and plied with strong stimulants.

"There comes a time when a person is faced with the utter futility of not complying with demands," Vogeler said. "He believes that he is abandoned, that he will be killed in any case, that an alleged confession will appear anyway—and so he signs the rubbish placed before him."

Lawyer Stooge

At his Communist-exploited trial at Budapest Vogeler said he was represented by a "perfect stooge." He was denied the services of an American lawyer and forbidden contact with the US Legation.

"As for my testimony at the trial, I seem to have created an unfortunate impression at my first press interview (at Vienna following his release) that the testimony was partly true," he said. "In my description of it, I sought to use irony when I said 'there was some truth in it.' Perhaps I have lost lost my sense of irony. The fact is that my name, my birthplace, my employer's name, and some other facts were indeed accurately given. But little, if anything else, applied."

Boy Kidnapped Search Continent

MONTREAL, June 9—(CP)—A four year-old boy's "disappearance" today touched off a continent-wide hunt as Quebec provincial police checked reports the child was kidnapped and may be en route to France.

Jean-Serge Rousseau, son of a former Montreal editor, Serge Rousseau, was last seen yesterday in front of a Terrebonne, Que., home, 20 miles north of Montreal, where he lives with a guardian. His parents are reported estranged.

Mrs. Oscar Coutlee, a Montreal radio commentator and the boy's guardian told police she is convinced the boy was abducted. A search of Terrebonne and dragging of a nearby river proved fruitless.

Investigators were sent to the Montreal airport at Dorval to check all flights to New York and France.

Attempts to reach the boy's father, who resides at Coaticook, Que., some 20 miles south of Sherbrooke, Que., were fruitless. Police said, however, they expected him in Montreal sometime today to take part in the search.

Police said Mrs. Coutlee told them the child may have been taken to Europe, particularly to France, by plane.

Mrs. Coutlee is a radio station CKAC women's commentator, better known to Quebec's French-Canadian population as Rejane Desrameaux.

In its annual drive to clean up the legislative program, the Commons will begin sitting morning, noon and night, clearing the decks of measures that are not to be held over for the fall session.

Improve Parks

Resources Minister Winters' appropriations were before the House, and the minister spent most of the night sitting piloting through the spending program for national parks. Members from many sections of the country called for various improvements to parks in their areas.

Earlier, Prime Minister St. Laurent told the House his government will never call for a further payment to farmers as a consequenceof the five-year wheat pool that ended in 1950.

The government already is paying $65,000,000 to western farmers to settle the claims of low prices on wheat sold to Britain, and they now are seeking another $48,000,000 on the ground of low domestic prices for the same period.

No Great Wrong

Mr. St. Laurent said he does not believe claims that the west suffered a "great wrong" through the domestic prices.

Fisheries Minister Mayhew told the House it seems likely an agreement will be reached on prices for Newfoundland salt codfish. Representatives of fishermen and buyers have been conferring on the prices.

Labor Board Orders CGE Vote

The Ontario Labor Relations Board has ordered a vote at the CGE plant here to settle the dispute as to which union will act as bargaining agent for the workers.

Both unions today received registered letters announcing the board's decision. The UE, present bargaining agent, has sent a wire asking speedy arrangement of the vote.

On March 22 the IUE announced it had applied to the labor board for certification as the bargaining agent for the 3,500 production workers at the CGE.

It was the IUE's second bid for certification in 16 months. A previous application, made in 1949, failed.

At the labor board hearing, UE representatives filed statements from a number of workers who said they signed IUE cards and had not paid fees.

The IUE claimed it represented roughly 1,800 of the production workers.

The IUE formed in the fall of 1949, after the United Electrical Workers were ousted from the CIO.

Marshall, Ridgway Conference

Conference Guarded, No Change In Plans Marshall Said

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD

TOKYO, June 9. (AP)—Defence Secretary George C. Marshall and Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway spent many closely-guarded hours in conference today, sharpening speculation that something big was going to break in the Korean war.

At mid-day the two military leaders met for more than an hour at Ridgway's headquarters.

Later they lunched at the United States Embassy and resumed sessions that continued late into the afternoon. There was no official announcement after the meetings.

Marshall has given no indication of the purpose of his visit except to say it was "purely military."

It stirred up peace rumors in Tokyo and the war area. In Pusan, Korea, the disturbed South Korean Legislature asked the Republic's defence and foreign ministries for their opinion on the Marshall visit.

Syngman Rhee, President of the Korean Republic, said Koreans "will do something in desperation if the United Nations should make any decision contrary to our national security."

Court Awards Woman $970

COBOURG, June 9 (ENS).—A county court jury on Friday found the Canadian National Railways negligent in connection with an accident which occurred Sept. 23, 1949, involving a locomotive of the Port Hope - Peterborough branch line and a car driven by Mrs. Lazelle R. Mitchener. The accident occurred at the Dorset St. level crossing in Port Hope.

Mrs. Mitchener sued for $833.67. Mrs. Lucy Garrett, who was in the car with Mrs. Kitchener, was plaintiff in a damage action for $1,000 in the same accident. Mrs. Garrett sustained a broken leg and was awarded $320.97. Mrs. Mitchener received $640.27.

The jury found that there was no negligence on the part of the driver of the car, and that the negligence was on the part of the railway in that the engineer failed to sound the whistle, that the engine bell was not in operation, and that the locomotive was travelling at excessive speed. The case was presided over by Judge M. A. Miller. German and Richardson acted for the plaintiff and W. R. Burnett for the railway company.

In the car were Mrs. Mitchener, Mrs. Garrett, Miss E. Speechley and Miss R. French. All the occupants testified they heard no bell or whistle. Mrs. Mitchener said that the engine appeared silently and suddenly as they were on the crossing.

George Hague, fireman on the locomotive, said the bell was ringing, and the whistle was blown as they approached the crossing. He said he saw a car coming toward the Dorset Street crossing. When the car was about 10 feet from the crossing it appeared to stop and then start up again.

"I shouted to the engineer to stop and he immediately threw on the emergency brakes. The engine was about 15 feet away from the crossing then and the collision occurred. The train had travelled 166 feet after the brakes had been applied.

W. Lowery of Port Hope testified that he was on his way home from work at the time of the accident and heard the train blow for the crossing. Frank Walton, painter, who was working on a house nearby, also heard the train whistle.

Evidence of the engineer, J. R. Graham, was that all precautions, such as the 10-miles-per-hour speed and the due warnings, were observed.

CGE Man Scours UK For Labor

Because the number of young men taking vocational courses has not kept pace with the industrial demand for skilled labor, L. J. Sparrow, supervisor of apprentices for the Peterborough CGE plant, has just completed a trip to England to obtain highly skilled men.

In January, Mr. Sparrow began his second trip to England seeking tradesmen, technicians and engineers required by the company. His previous trip was four years ago for draftsmen, and resulted in more than 30 coming to Canada with the company. This time toolmakers, draftsmen, tool designers and engineers were hired.

Advertisements were sent throughout England by the company, while applications by people wanting to come to Canada were sifted by Mr. Sparrow for possible workers. Replies to the advertisements took Mr. Sparrow into the industrial areas of Southampton, Oxford, Chelmsford, Birmingham, Rugby, Coventry, Manchester, Bradford, Liverpool and Newcastle.

Handicapped

Mr. Sparrow said today that a number of people wished to come to Canada, but were handicapped by the money restrictions. He explained that "it holds back people who have a home."

Seeking only highly skilled men, Mr. Sparrow described the trip as "highly successful." Already some men are now working in Canada, while others are coming to the Toronto, Montreal and Peterborough plants.

Draftsmen and engineers are being sent to the Toronto and Montreal branches, engineers to the head office, and engineers, draftsmen, toolmakers and designers to the Peterborough works.

Mr. Sparrow explained that the company would like to hire Peterborough district men, but that they were not available for the skilled positions. He added that not enough young men are taking the vocational courses to fill the requirements. The situation is the same across the province where the company has advertised.

Baron Says Dismissal On Political Grounds

ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 9 (AP).—Sam Baron of Montreal deposed director of the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO) charged Friday that his dismissal last year was on political grounds.

Baron, centre of a feud between union president Emil Rieve and executive vice-president George Baldanzi, said he was fired because he supported Baldanzi for the post against Rieve's candidate, Mariano Bishop, in the 1950 Boston election.

He contended he had been subjected to a continuous campaign designed to harass, undermine and force him out of office because he opposed attempts to oust Baldanzi.

Rieve's action in dismissing Baron has been referred to the union's executive council in a 10-day meeting here.

Rieve presented his side of the dispute Thursday. He said Baron attempted to lead Canadian members out of the union.

The foreign office said the two telegrams to MacLean's family were handed in to the central Paris post office by a mysterious "third man."

Separated

MacLean's message to his American-born wife, Melinda, said:

"Had to leave unexpectedly. Sorry, darling. I love you. Please do not stop loving me. Donald."

His mother received a wire saying not to worry.

Diplomats and investigators expressed the theory that either the two had separated or were using telegrams to lay a false scent.

If the two diplomats were pro-Communists fleeing to Russia it appeared to be a secret from London's Communist Daily Worker. That paper published a factual account of the story with none of the chortling that might be expected if it thought the government would be politically embarrassed by the disappearance.

Republicans Ask Marshall Talk

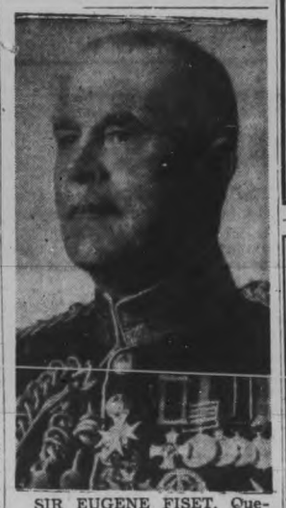
WASHINGTON, June 9 AP) — Republicans called today for a new statement of Korean war aims from Defence Secretary George C. Marshall as Democrats moved to wind up the MacArthur inquiry this month.

Senator Styles Bridges Rep.-N.H.) told a reporter as soon as Marshall returns from his current visit to Korea and Japan he should give the Senate armed services and foreign relations committee a new briefing.

"We want to find out whether he still feels we can win this war simply by killing Chinese or whether his survey of the situation there convinced him it is time to adopt a more aggressive policy," Bridges said.

"While he is out there, he ought to visit Formosa, too, and see why Gen. MacArthur suggested using Chinese Nationalist forces there."

Marshall and other administration witnesses have contended that a limited war in Korea in which Red Chinese trained forces are chewed up offers the best chance of stopping aggression there without bringing on a third world war.



Senator Lester C. Hunt (Dem.-Wyo.) said today he will move that the inquiry into MacArthur's dismissal as Pacific Commander end June 30.

Bridges said he would confer with other Republicans but personally believes the hearings can be ended this month.

"In his testimony yesterday Acheson denied Marshall's visit to Tokyo to confer with Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, MacArthur's successor, had anything to do with possible peace negotiations.

CRUISE ENDS — After a four-month training cruise to the Antipodes, the cruiser HMCS Ontario arrived back at home port three days ahead of schedule because of a 1,400-mile dash to aid a critically-injured British seaman. Gordon Lee, 17, of Kent, England, was injured in a fall aboard the British tanker Athel Chief. The Ontario answered the ship's call for aid, transferred the injured seaman and headed under forced draft for Esquimalt.

French In Strange Position Back Unpopular Candidates

By ALAN HARVEY

PARIS, June 9 (CP)—France's first national elections since 1946 will place many voters in the ambiguous position of helping to elect somebody they don't like just to freeze out somebody they like even less.

With the usual French flair for doing things the hard way, politicians have rigged up a complicated electoral law based on a system of alliances among parties which often aren't on speaking terms.

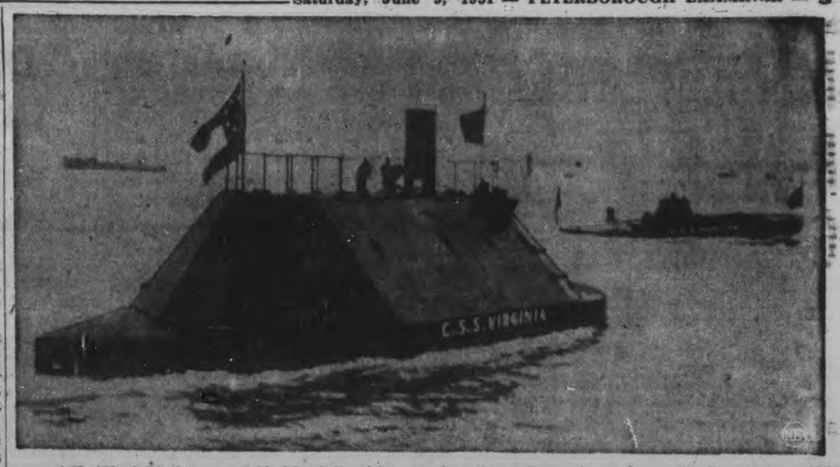
In some cases the effect may be that a voter who doesn't think much of M. le Candidat will have to vote for him anyway, because monsieur happens to be running in an alliance which is the only hope of defeating some even less-attractive candidate.

The new system is entirely artificial and will only approximately reflect the opinions of the electorate. Based on an idea borrowed from Switzerland and similar in some respects to methods used in the recent Italian municipal elections, it enables "associating" parties to pool their votes, even if their plaforms are different and their past animosities acute. They don't have to remain allied after the voting.

Thus French parties have the peculiar distinction of forming alliances before, instead of after, the June 17 elections.

Under the appartements, as the alliances are called, so-called "national" parties — those which entered candidates in at least 30 of the 90 election districts in continental France—can agree to bid jointly for election. If such groupings obtain a majority in any district, they win all the seats in that distrct and can carve them up among themselves.

If nobody gets more than 50 per cent of the votes, proportional representation will be used. It will also be used in the Paris area, where alliances are barred, but the type will be different.



When nominations closed there were more than 4,000 candidates for the 621 seats in the French national assembly. Because of the exclusive nature of Communism and Gaullism—sponsored by Gen. Charles de Gaulle's Rassemblement du Peuple Francais—almost all alliances are among the centre parties which have governed uneasily for nearly five years. These are principally radicals, radical socialists, republicans and independents grouped in what has become known as the "third force."

The new election law is aimed at the Communists, who made things tough for the government in the last assembly, but it may work equal hardship on the De Gaullists, who are running alone in all but a dozen districts.

The governing parties pushed the electoral law through parliament after a gruelling six-month struggle. They say it is the only way to combat the Communists, whose obstructionism impelled the government to go to the country in June instead of waiting until October, as once planned.

How the centre feels about left and right—which it considers may bring the threat of internal violence to France—was expressed by Paul Ramadier, former socialist prime minister:

"We are faced with bubonic plague and cholera. If the devil is also opposed to these diseases, let us ally ourselves with him on this issue."

AT IT AGAIN — Off Norfolk, Va., replicas of the "Monitor" and the "Merrimac" re-enact the famous battle between the two warships in Hampton Roads, Va., 89 years ago. The mock-battle—recalling the day when the two radically designed boats forecast the doom of wooden varships—was a highlight of the 61st and final reunion of the United Confederate Veterans.

Rule Kaye Film Too Risque

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 9 (AP)—Looking at the week's news:

What has happened to Josef Von Sternberg's comeback? The erratic director, famed for his oldtime films with Marlene Dietrich, made two pictures for Howard Hughes. But one, "Jet Pilot," has been in and out of production for about two years.

Now his second film, "Macao," is going back for four weeks of retakes, which means that it is virtually being remade.

No one could be happier than Gloria Grahame, who had virtually a bit role in the picture. Her part will probably be eliminated because she has since left the studio after a beef over the film.

The Johnson office may have overlooked the risque nature of the new Danny Kaye opus but not the Legion of Decency.

It classified the film "objectionable in part," citing "suggestive costuming, sequences and dialogue; low moral tone . . ."

Claudette Colbert is reported not happy about having it printed that she plays a grandmother in her latest film. Aw, Claudette. Joan Bennett and Dietrich are real grandmas and they still get whistles.

INJURED SEAMAN—Gordon Lee, 17, merchant seaman from Erith, Kent, England, was brought to Esquimalt, B.C., with 17 back and rib fractures suffered in a fall aboard his ship, the tanker Athel Chief. He was transferred in mid-Pacific from the tanker to the cruiser Ontario which rushed him to the west coast. The pretty nurse is Yvonne Rose.

Reds Claim Losses High Among Canadians

SAN FRANCISCO, June 9 —(AP). — The Peiping radio claimed Friday the Canadian 25th Brigade and two United States Army units suffered heavy losses on the Korean front last week. The Red radio identified the American units as the 25th Division and the 187th Airborne Regiment.

The broadcast, heard here by the Associated Press, said that during the last three days of May one Chinese volunteer unit "wiped out 760 American and Canadian troops at the cost of only 24 casualties."

Neighbour As Census Taker

This newspaper reported some dissatisfaction in the west end of Peterborough which was made known to us yesterday, because a census taker in that area was a neighbour of those citizens who were being questioned. There have already been reports of similar displeasure in other parts of Canada, and we think that it is time for the Ottawa authorities to correct the situation before annoyance becomes general. The following comment, from an editorial in the Ottawa Citizen is pertinent to the matter:

Insufficient care has been taken, it seems to keep the procedure always on an impersonal level. Many enumerators are working in their own neighbourhoods, an arrangement convenient for them but somewhat disconcerting to those they interview. The official explanation is that in the past this has been found to be the best method of getting the job done. But the defence is unimaginative, disregarding as it does the intimate nature of certain questions being asked in the current population survey. Despite assurances of secrecy, some citizens may be reluctant to divulge private matters to persons known to them. The census results may therefore contain an unnecessary degree of inaccuracy.

In the course of neighbourhood talk, the most conscientious enumerator might at some time in the future let slip a fact learned about the private affairs of a resident of the district. The information would spread, and very likely it could not be traced to its source. It might be a detail of age, relationships, or financial circumstances that had been revealed only in strict confidence. Census officials should have guarded against the possibility of such leaks, and even yet they should try to shift to other districts workers employed near home.

* * *

We are interested in the comment of the census authorities that it is convenient for census takers to work in their own neighbourhood; this reflects a governmental attitude which needs correction; it is not the convenience of officials, but of the citizens of Canada, which should be consulted. It may be pointed out, also, that the talent for complete discretion is an uncommon one, and that no amount of swearing census takers to secrecy will give them a degree of discretion which they do not already possess. We are sure that all census takers mean to be discreet about what they learn in the course of their work, but interesting facts have a way of springing to the lips unbidden, and census takers will be less tempted to talk about people that they do not know than they will about people who are known to them.

* * *

The present census is, unquestionably, the nosiest census that Canada has ever attempted. Very intimate questions are asked, and there will be a strong temptation to answer them incorrectly, for we all feel that an impertinent question deserves a misleading answer. It is silly to say that there is a fine of $100 for a wrong answer. Who is to know whether the answer is wrong or right, without further governmental prying? Very few people will refuse to answer the census questioner; thousands will give wrong answers with a straight face—especially if the questioner is someone well-known to them. Neighbours, it must be remembered, have a far better estimate of the discretion of another neighbour than the government can ever have.

* * *

The government would be wise to recognize that in the present census they are trying the patience of the Canadian people very high. They are asking more intimate questions than ever before, and it may well prove that they have pushed us a little farther than we choose to go. Unless they want trouble, and a census of very doubtful statistical value, they would do well to alter this method of census taking by neighbours at once. Re-allottment of census districts may mean a little trouble, but insistence upon a system which a great many people dislike and mistrust will mean far more trouble and, in the end, a great waste of money on useless, because untrue, information.

Is The Festival A Failure?

The Festival of Britain is nation-wide, but its focus is properly in London, and its very centre is the exhibition on the south bank of the Thames around Hungerford Bridge. The planners have hoped that tourists, particularly Canadians and Americans with dollar-filled pockets, would be attracted to Britain by the Festival in unprecedented numbers. They hoped also to have an average of 65,000 admissions to the South Bank Exhibition daily, to make it pay its way. Thus far tourist bookings from this continent have not been unusually heavy, and average daily admissions to the Exhibition have been far below expectations. What are the reasons?

The tourists one meets on board ship and on the Continent—before they get to England—are unenthusiastic about the Festival. The city and country will be too crowded, they say. The food will be poor and scanty. It won't be the old London and the old England I came over to see: I do not want to look at a false front. Exhibitions are a bore: sore to the feet and fagging to eyes and head. These are some of the reasons given by tourists. Londoners and people from the provinces on the other hand, think that they cannot get bookings; that the place is infested by tourists; that a scandalous amount of money has been spent on the Festival at a wrong time, and that the show is not as good as it is cracked up to be. (In the last year, the British press has been sharply critical of the delays, the designs and expense.) What is the reality which tourists find when they do get to London and the South Bank show?

There is no press of crowds. Hotel and restaurant accommodation is plentiful and not dear. The food is reasonable and ample. (Even second class hotels provide bacon and eggs for breakfast.) Bookings for most events need not be made long in advance. London is looking more wonderful than man has ever seen her before and the South Bank Exhibition is a triumph. Just to be in London this year and to see the Exhibition is sufficient justification for any length of trip; even if one does not dip into the sumptuous, wonderful bill of fare provided for the Festival: the concerts, plays, special exhibits, recitals, demonstrations and fun fairs.

London is still London, but a brighter, cleaner, cheerier London than we have known in more than a decade. Flags fly, fountains gurgle, flowers bloom, parks are radiant, and the night is a spectacle of light. The South Bank Exhibition itself is like no other exhibition human skill and imagination have devised. On a site long abandoned to mud flats, ramshackle warehouses and miserable sheds, has arisen a circuit of pavilions and the finest modern concert hall in Europe, as we believe (Sir Thomas Beecham to the contrary). The Exhibition is neither a museum of British culture nor a trade show. It does what the planners devised for it: "tells the story of British contributions to world civilization in the arts of peace."

"The tale of the continuous impact that this particular land has made on this particular people, and of the achievements that this people has continued to derive from its relationship with this land . . . a new sort of narrative about Britain: an Exhibition designed to tell a story mainly through the medium, not of words, but of tangible things."

The exhibition is contained in a comparatively few acres (compared, for instance, with American World Fairs or the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto). It is not foot-wearying. Neither is it mind-wearying. The buildings are designed and placed to give a sense of spaciousness and even graciousness. The displays are neither cluttered nor countless, and are set out in sequence to tell a continuance and continuing story. Even the captions are succinct, pungent and delightful. Throughout the entire show, liveliness combines with dignity, modernity with tradition, elegance with ease and gaiety with grace. There is nothing shoddy, and not a hot-dog on the grounds. (Canteens and fine restaurants provide other sustenance at fair prices.)

Tourists who have been cold to the Festival and the South Bank Exhibition are kindled to enthusiastic excitement when they do see the spectacle of festival London and the marvels of the South Bank. Britons who have delayed their visit positively glow; a glow which stranger' praise can fan into exultation.

The Festival a failure? Not by a long shot from Shot Tower (in the exhibition area, where one may press a button and get into radar communication with the moon!). There was harsh criticism too, about the 1851 Exhibition, and woeful predictions of financial failure. It was, history records, (and present other London exhibits recall) an astounding success, even financially. Canadian scholars are still having their tuition to British universities paid by proceeds from profits of the 1851 Exhibition. Whatever number of tourists and American dollars the Festival of Britain attracts, the British themselves will benefit. The generation bowed by war and post-war problems is getting the lift of its life. The greatest city in the world is putting on the finest show on earth.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Brain workers require more sleep than physical labourers, we read. Especially on Saturday afternoons, according to our investigations.

The Mine Works' Union calls for the dismissal of Mr. Justice Gale, who recently reversed a decision in their favour given by the Ontario Labour Board, because he is "utterly incapable of impartially administering the law." We wuz robbed! Kill the umpire!

There was a time when newspapers sold at three cents a copy; now, with newsprint at $123 a ton (and a ton doesn't go so far as you might think) and increased postal rates, the Hon. George Drew cogently points out that the spread of information is becoming more expensive than is good for a democracy.

Diary Of An Unillusioned Man

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: Chatted this afternoon with a lady who once saw the Russian Imperial Ballet in the Czar's own theatre, the Maria Theatre, in Moscow in 1912. I asked her for a description: "Like being in Heaven," said she. I asked for more detail: "Oh, just like Heaven!" she replied. I have often observed that people who have had some experience of this kind—have seen Irving, or heard Melba, or Chaliapin—are unable to give any satisfactory account of it. They remember only that they were uplifted; they do not know why or how. Perhaps it is best that this should be so. The aim of great art is to produce this sensation of ravishment, and not to explain its methods or reveal its secrets. The chief dancer on this occasion the lady said, was the Czar's "how do you say?—Favorita? What is favorita in English?" "Girlfriend?" suggested another guest. The lady's face filled with distaste. "Oh no," said she, "a favorita is much different. More—how do you say it—elegant." So much for girlfriends.

✧ ✧ ✧

MONDAY: Was talking to a man about politics today, and he expressed several opinions with which I disagreed, gently but firmly. "The trouble with you is that you are disillusioned," he said at last. "No," said I, "that is not true; I can never recall a time when I was illusioned, if you will permit such an expression. Even as a child I had a firm grasp of the fact that human beings are that and nothing more, and that it is unreasonable to expect them to behave like angels. It is unreasonable to expect the uneducated to behave like the educated; it is unreasonable to expect the ethical to behave like the unethical; it is unreasonable to expect the hungry to behave like the replete, the poor like the rich, and the unhappy like the happy. We must not find fault with people because they often fall short of perfect virtue. We may hope for the best, but we should not be unduly downcast when it does not come to pass. A great part of the world's misery is the result of this foolish expectation that people are always going to be on their best behaviour. Man is born sinful; the remarkable thing is not that man fails to be wholly good, but that he is as good as he is." But he continued to eye me sadly.

TUESDAY: I should like to learn something every day, but whole months pass during which I learn nothing at all. But today a crumb of information came my way which I had never nibbled before, and it was this: the handkerchief was invented by King Richard II. He was the first man known to history to carry a fresh piece of linen or silk, clean every day, for blowing his nose. This seems to me to raise Richard to a higher place in the ranks of English royalty than he is usually granted. We make a hero of Henry V, who was a loud-mouthed brawler, and we take an indulgent view of his father, Henry IV, who was a crook somewhat resembling Joe Adonis in character. Both of these fellows, though usurpers of Richard's throne, blew their noses on their fingers and slept in their underwear. But Richard, who invented the handkerchief and who seems to have been one of the very few English politicians who knew how to get along with the Irish, is usually brushed off as a foolish fellow who liked poetry and music, attended plays and wasted money on triflers like Chaucer. Richard was, in fact, a whole Massey Commission in one man, with power to sign cheques. And for his invention of the handkerchief I insist that he deserves a statue in pure gold.

WEDNESDAY: There are too many people in the world who think that frankness is an excuse for anything; so long as a man is frank and sincere, say they, he may talk as he likes. They also cling to the stupid and mistaken notion that people like and admire frankness and respond well to it. For instance, I was standing on a street-corner today, when a man in a windbreaker approached me and said: "Lookit, I'm goin' to give you no bull; I wanta get a coupla beers; will you gimme the money?" I looked deep into his eyes, and in a low, thrilling voice like Charles Boyer's I said "No"....For if he had given me some bull—some richly-ornamented tale of poverty, of undeserved ill-fortune, of being robbed while on some errand of mercy—anything in fact which would have revealed a spark of imagination in him, I would have given him a small sum, knowing full well that it would be spent on beer. But to ask me, flatly and baldly, for money to buy beer—! Is that the way to appeal to a Welshman, a lover of the spoken word and the gem-encrusted lie? No; no. Let such ruffians beg beer-money from those who admire frankness. Anybody who wants a quarter from me must first produce a quarter's worth of fascinating bull.

THURSDAY: Received a bookseller's catalogue today, and observed that several novels by D. H. Lawrence were offered under the heading "Erotic Items". Who, I wonder, finds Lawrence erotic? What strange bosoms are [illegible] prose? Once, in the hot blood and Maytime of my youth I read "Lady Chatterley's Lover," the book by Lawrence which is supposed to short-circuit the gonads of the coldest reader, but it merely moved me to laughter. All that rolling about in the pine-needles! But I suppose there must be people who can only read it when completely immersed in a bathtub full of ice cubes. One man's sex is another man's snicker, as the old Provencal folk-saying goes.

FRIDAY: To the movies tonight, and sat first of all behind a small boy whose hair had obviously been cut at home; the poor child looked as though an Indian had begun to scalp him, but had been called out on strike when half done. Behind me sat a woman with a package of sticky popcorn; I did not much mind her noisy champings, but it bothered me that she dropped a lot of the goodies on the floor, and they rolled down under my feet and gave me a sense of treading on broken eggs. So I moved, and found myself behind two girls, both at the very pinnacle of romantic yearning. The film, however, seemed to be beyond their modest intellectual grasp; it was about a period of history before the advent of the combustion engine, and everybody went everywhere on horses or behind horses. At one point a lady entered a room and said that she must stay awhile because a shoe had been lost. The girls whispered busily between them, and then agreed that she must be crazy, as she was wearing both her shoes, as any fool could plainly see. I leaned forward helpfully, "Her horse lost a shoe, poppets," I said. They viewed me with the scorn of youth. "Drop dead, Gramp," said one of them; "since when did horses wear shoes?" Since when, indeed?

✧ ✧ ✧

SATURDAY: A report in the press this morning informs me that the Massey Commission has made its report to Parliament, and that in the opinion of the writer of the dispatch, this would mean that "the little man" would have to pay more taxes to support "the longhairs". As a longhair who pays quite a lot of taxes to support little men in one way or another, I was saddened by this. There exists, in our dear land, a considerable body of half-educated, ill-conditioned yahoos (many of them journalists, unfortunately) who are determined to divide the country into two camps—a very small camp of longhairs and a very big camp of little men; the little men must be defended from the longhairs by the aforementioned half-educated, ill-conditioned yahoos, who think that all artists are freaks and frauds, and all ordinary citizens stupid oafs, who like nothing above the level of TV programs and professional wrestling. But the true fact is that every artist is also a citizen, and that he simply wants to do what he can for other citizens, and to receive whatever reward his work may merit. The real phoneys are the half-educated, ill-conditioned yahoos who believe that a nation can live without art; they are the enemy, and longhairs and shorthairs alike should turn and rend them.

Letters To The Editor

OVERDUE COMPENSATION

Sir: With reference to your editorial on Old Age Pensions, I would say that this legislation is to those eligible some compensation now overdue for their loss caused by the devaluation of money, so heavy in recent years.

There is more reason and need for this just now than for some other socialistic handouts.

The buying values of incomes of the older generation have all shrunk, while the people now working have more money and benefits for less working time. And for them the Rand formula provides a cost-of-living compensation. This escalator formula seems to be an effective device for prolonging the course of inflation.

Yours truly,
SENEX.

CORRECTS TITLE

Sir: To the writer of "On The Margin"—"Three Notable Novels": You mentioned "The Good Companions" and "Angel Street" among J. B. Priestley's works. I was sure the name of the latter novel is "Angel Pavement" because as it happened I liked it best, and considered it far better than "The Good Companions", which latter I am told is the more popular.

"Angel Pavement" showed how a smart cosmopolitan could fool British officials. This still seems to be the way of it. Remember these fellows who ran away with atomic bomb information to Russia. By their backgrounds and ancestry, their loyalty should be suspect from the beginning. They sure needed watching.

Yours truly,
ANDREW JACK.
274 William Street.

ED. NOTE: Our correspondent is correct. "Angel Pavement" is Priestley's novel: "Angel Street" is the name of a play by Patrick Hamilton.

Cradle Of Statesmen

(Ottawa Journal)

That was an interesting piece which Premier Leslie Frost wrote for The Journal's Eastern Ontario Industrial Edition.

With a keen sense of human values, and as much concerned with the pageantry and human values of government as with industry and economics, Mr. Frost pointed to the part played by illustrious sons of this part of Ontario in the building of Canada.

There was John A. Macdonald, chief architect of Confederation, from Kingston; John Sandfield Macdonald, Ontario's first premier after Confederation, of the County of Glengarry; Oliver Mowat, premier of Ontario longer than any other man, from the County of Frontenac; James Pliny Whitney, who came from Williamsburg, and, last but not least, George Howard Ferguson, born and cradled in Kemptville.

A rich contribution indeed; almost entitling Eastern Ontario to call itself the cradle of statesmen.

HOLD OUT

An irate member accosted the secretary of a golf club and said: "Give me your advice. I have been deliberately insulted by Colonel Brown. Without preamble he said to me, 'Sir I will give you fifty dollars if you resign your membership of this club.' What do you think I ought to do about it?"

"That's obvious," said the secretary, tartly. "Hold out for a better offer."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Now there is at Jerusalem by the sheep market a pool, which is called in the Hebrew tongue Bethesda, having five porches. In these lay a great multitude of impotent folk, of blind, halt, withered, waiting for the moving of the water. For an angel went down at a certain season into the pool, and troubled the water: whosoever then first after the troubling of the water stepped in was made whole of whatsoever disease he had.

And a certain man was there, which had an infirmity thirty and eight years. When Jesus saw him lie, and knew that he had been now a long time in that case, he saith unto him, Wilt thou be made whole? The impotent man answered him, Sir, I have no man, when the water is troubled, to put me into the pool: but while I am coming, another steppeth down before me.

Jesus saith unto him, Rise, take up thy bed, and walk. And immediately the man was made whole, and took up his bed, and walked: and on the same day was the sabbath....

Afterward Jesus findeth him in the temple, and said unto him, Behold, thou art made whole: sin no more, lest a worse thing come unto thee. (John 5: 2-9, 14.)

Pity The Red-Haired Bachelors

(B.B.C. Bulletin)

When Peter Donne visited the British Museum recently he saw a great many very precious manuscripts well over four thousand years old, which help to throw light on the civilization of Ancient Egypt and Assyria. Among them is the Book of Dreams and here the experts have deciphered much that is interesting and revealing about the Egyptian peoples' thoughts and outlook on life. Donne, broadcasting later in 'Radio Newsreel', said that the Book of Dreams had shown that the Egyptians had a strong antipathy for all red-haired people and simply could not do with red-haired bachelors, who were regarded as followers of the God Seth, a most unpleasant character. Red-haired bachelors were not considered to be subject to normal laws of behaviour and a special list of dreams and interpretations had to be prepared for them. From this list of dreams it seemed that the things that worried them and made them dream were the selfsame things that worry people and make them dream today, food, personal economies and professional advancement.

Amongst the faded brown papyri was a letter intended to guide a scribe in the correct official terms to be used in collecting taxes. Immediately below it, and likely to be useful to a tax collector of any period in any country, was a recipe for a magical cure for a headache. Donne also saw the texts of temple ritual, a collection of hymns, magical spells against disease and a long strip of papyrus that was intended to be rolled up, suspended from the neck and worn as an amulet by an unknown general who commanded royal troops somewhere around 850 B.C. From these numerous documents the picture of an ancient people grow clearer and they emerged as superstitious, romantic and practical. Their imaginative tendencies were seen from another papyrus which contained the first recorded use of allegory in fiction, and told how Truth was blinded by his brother Falsehood.

Freedom is achieved only by a complex but just structure of law, impersonally . . . enforced against both rulers and the governed.

Flynn started the American House on Hunter St., with 35 rooms, one of the finest hotels in town, room and meals $1 a day; as Flynn had been foreman for Dickson and then McDonald, he carried on the business of recruiting lumbermen, in competition with Tim Cavanagh of the Ontario House, also on Hunter St. On Dickson raceway, the main industries were the Dickson Sawmills, to the south Monroe & Dawson's Ontario Flour Mill (on the site of the first government grist mill), and Brodie & Paisley's Woollen Factory at the east end of Murray St. On the hill above overlooking their domain were the Dickson mansions.

1876: Wm. Helm sold his foundry (opposite Phelan's Hotel on Simcoe St.) to J. A. Dr. J. O'Connell was pulling teeth over Taylor's Drugstore. Thos. THIS SHOULD NOT LOOK STRANGE TO TOO MANY PEOPLE, despite the snow: The photograph was taken only twenty years ago at the corner of George and Charlotte Streets, before the C.D.S. (Eaton's) was built on the site in 1932. The hydrant stands in front of the Customs Building, and the entire block shown is now Eaton's. The billboards ("See and hear TALKING PICTURES at the Capitol") stand over the vacant site of the Moore Monumental Works at the very corner, and Harry Kingdon's barber shop. Next door is John Hill's wholesale grocery and china shop. Outside Madame Merriam's hairdressing establishment is a spanking new Chevrolet, and in the south half of the building is S. Levine and Son's fruit and vegetable store. Next is the only building now remaining, the three-storey brick one which is Eaton's annex. Beyond are converted houses, in the snow-roofed one being Dawson's Jean Ruth cake shop. The overhead wires, street lamp standards and fire hydrants are still common sights, but not the snow on George St. in late winter to support a team and sleigh.

Nice Old Gentleman Fools Police and Searchers

By JEAN E. STENTON

Although early Western Canada was not plagued by many Jesse James', G. W. Edwardes alias Bill Miner, led the CPR, police and the RCMP a merry chase for several years before he was finally caught and convicted of two Canadian Pacific Railway holdups in British Columbia.

The CPR was immune from holdups at the time it was built until September 1904. That month, the transcontinental was held up in the early morning at Silverdale, B.C., a flag station 38 miles from Vancouver. Three bandits cut the combination mail and express car from the train and covering the engineer and fireman with revolvers, ordered them some distance down the track where two of the robbers went through the cars and got less than $1,000. Then they took to the woods and nothing was heard from them for a long time. Police finally decided they must have crossed the Fraser River (beside the track) by boat. The trio had evidently expected a big gold shipment from the Placer Mining companies from Cariboo via Ashcroft.

NO FAINTING

The television of operations is even better than being right in the operating room.

—Dr. Henry Swan, of U. of Colorado Medical School.

This first train holdup in the history of the west caused great excitement and the manhunt was on. Police, railway officials, bloodhounds and civilians joined in the search. It was suspected Bill Miner was one of the desperadoes and pictures and descriptions of him were distributed all over the province, but he eluded pursuit.

It later developed that Miner was enjoying himself at Chilliwack, only a few miles distant. A partner, Louis Colquhoun, was there also at a different hotel.

Although Miner had served 20 years in San Quentin, he had been released on good behavior. More than six feet tall with long greyish mustachios, he might have passed as a retired colonel of the US army. He had considerable education and it was his boast that he never took human life.

Miner was a unique character. He was accustomed to playing with the children of the town and gossiping with the mothers. To the population he was a "nice old gentleman." To others, he became a sort of hero and there were always some ready to give him succour.

About the time of the first holdup he had been absent in New Westminster on a horse deal and no one noticed anything unusual when he disappeared from Chilliwack for a short time. Miner had great audacity and though his pictures appeared frequently in the Vancouver papers, he made a practice of visiting the railway office and discussing the robbery and the progress of the manhunt every day and sometimes several times a day.

Slips By Police

After a short time the humdrum life became too boring and he yearned to see the bright lights of Vancouver. Realizing the vigilance of the police, he finally hit on a scheme. He persuaded the Baptist minister and his wife to let him take their two boys, 12 and 14, on a trip to the city. He was such a respectable old man they agreed. Bill bought the youngsters some new clothes and off they went.

They had a wonderful time painting the town red. At Vancouver station when they arrived, one detective who was watching the trains said "there's our man." But another replied, "Oh no, can't be. He wouldn't be travelling with such respectable looking boys. He is a retired farmer bringing his grandsons to the city." And so Miner slipped through. A few weeks after his return to Chilliwack, when the heat was turned on, he disappeared, for a long time.

His next holdup took place in May 1906 near Ducks, B.C., 17 miles east of Kamloops. The morning train was stopped and a car cut off, but he drew a blank. He had held up the first section of the train while the mail and express cars were on the second. He forced the messenger to talk, but didn't dare wait for that second section.

Call In RCMP

The second holdup caused a great commotion. The provincial police and the Pinkerton detective agency were on the trail again but the CPR demanded urgent measures. They asked for two detachments of the RCMP, and these left Calgary at once.

The first detachment was a group of 10 men and they went south to Penticton to the boundary country to head off any escape there. The other detachment of seven got off the train at Kamloops and followed the trail located by Indians and the provincials.

After two days of hard riding, the Kamloops group came on the robbers early in the morning as they slept beside a smouldering campfire. The outlaws were armed to the teeth but after a sharp fight in which one of them was wounded, the Mounties took them to Kamloops.

When disarmed, Miner was wearing the revolver taken from the train messenger in the first holdup and the factory number on the butt corresponded to the one on the CPR property books. It was only through this important bit of evidence that Miner was connected with the Silverdale job and this greatly influenced the judge.

Miner was sentenced to life in the New Westminster penitentiary. But he there made his escape after a time, crossed the border and died in a southern prison. Colquhoun died in the New Westminster pen and the third member, William "Shorty" Dunn is still serving his term.

CPR holdup troubles have been few since then and their own railway detective department now handles cases of thefts and other such investigations.

Marmora, Lake Townships Raised $10,000 For Railroad

By W. J. COTTRELL

The railroad boom first started in Canada in the 1850's, but it wasn't until some 10 or 15 years later that it was spreading into the more remote districts, such as Marmora.

It was in 1872 that a railroad snared Marmora and Lake Townships. In July the United Townships Council passed a bylaw and received the backing of the local residents by which the townships made a grant of $10,000 to the Ontario and Quebec Railway.

Not only had the townships decided to grant the money, they had found a way to raise the money. The taxable property in the townships was assessed at $175,875.

The Townships Council issued 20-year debenture bonds with interest at six per cent. To build up a sinking fund that would be sufficient to pay off the bonds in the 20 years, plus the interest, the Council raised the tax rate nine mills which would bring in each year $1,132. The townships had no other debts.

However, the townships didn't give their money away without attaching a few strings which would see that they received something for their money.

The Council inserted conditions in their bylaw. The railway company had to grade and lay tracks from Toronto to the east boundary of the townships of Marmora or from Ottawa to the west boundary or Marmora Township before the debentures would be issued.

The railway company also could not use the debentures until the line of the railway came within one mile of the village of Marmora.

The date of the election on the issue was set for July 27, 1872. Township Clerk William Phillips was appointed returning officer. The voters of the townships voted in favor of the railway and Reeve Sol Johns signed the bylaw Nov. 13. The bylaw was to take effect Dec. 1.

The year 1872 was also leap year. Feb. 29, T. S. Agar, inspector of Public schools of North Hastings, told the Council in a letter that he and the reeve of Tudor Township had formed a union school section of parts of Tudor Township.

Entries in the minutes of the Council meetings of 1871 hold an interest for present-day residents of Marmora. When the Council began its new year in January, two new councillors took seats. They were J. J. Cook and T. J. Pearce.

Mr. Pearce was the man who bought the property of the former Cobourg, Peterborough and Marmora Railway and Mining Company in 1883.

At the same meeting it was decided that the reeve should ask the County Council for $400 to be spent on the road from Marmora to the Belmont Township line.

At a Council meeting May 1, the Council passed a motion: "Whereas William Caldwell and others having failed in erecting a crusher on the concession line between the 8th and the 9th concessions (contrary to an 1869 agreement), and H. S. Bowerman having erected a shingle mill on said water power (the Moira River), that permission be given to him to use the water power and pay as rental the sum of $5 per year."

That would be the site, probably, of the mill in the Deloro section.

Leaves From Gardener's Spring Notebook

By HENRY PREE

It's still wet in many places but planting of trees and shrubs must be done as soon as your soil can be worked.

Remember that winds are drying —so when you set out young trees, protect them from winds by wrapping from the la... under the thin tender bark and aids in the recovery of the tree's sap movement.

PROTECT YOUNG TREES from drying winds by wrapping trunk with burlap or sisal paper for a year.

Professional movers of trees spray wax emulsion on trees after they are transplanted. They say it is more effective.

✧ ✧ ✧

Evergreens may be pruned now for the removal of winter-injured twigs and branches and the shaping of trees that have lost their symmetry. Other than cutting out dead and broken branches—do not prune flowering shrubs until after they have blossomed, otherwise you will have fewer flowers. Some flowering shrubs bloom on last year's wood, others on two-year-o'-wood.

✧ ✧ ✧

If you have heavy clay soil, it is probably still too wet and soggy for plowing or digging. Wait until the soil has dried out to the point where it will not stick to the shovel.

Digging is lots of fun and an easy job for the man who labors throughout the week.

But if you push a pencil, or sell socks, five or six days a week, do no. try eight hours of spading over the weekend. An hour or two at one time is enough.

Perhaps is might prove good insurance to rent a rotary tiller or small tractor to work up the soil.

The crabgrass in your lawn can be reduced if you fertilize now to encourage a deep-rooted turf and a lush top to smother the crabgrass seedlings. Prevention is the best cure for crabgrass.

Few realize that it is the seed and not the plant that lives over winter. Crabgrass is an annual, therefore a close watch must be maintained and one must either pull them out or treat them with a chemical weed killer.

✧ ✧ ✧

One of the reasons for a poorly-grown hedge is the failure to add fertilizer to the soil each year. Many folk fail to appreciate the value and proper use of plant food. So cultivate into the soil a 4-12-4 fertilizer at the rate of one pound for each 25 feet of hedge; water immediately afterward. Repeat this operation in late summer.

Gardening Questions

...them.

A—The peony buds' sweet sticky substance provides an attractive food for the ants. However, the ants cause no injury. Spray with 50 per cent Wettable Chlordane to get rid of the ants. A 5 per cent dust is equally effective.

Q—Cutworms are a common pest in our garden and raise havoc with our tomato and cabbage plants. What can be done to control them?

A—Place a collar of heavy paper loosely around the stems of each plant when setting them in the rows. The collar, 4 inches high, should extend an inch or two into the soil, mounding up slightly to hold the paper in place.

Q—Is it important to dust or spray roses to insure good blooms? If so, when should it be done?

A—Yes, it is important. Dusting or spraying with an all-purpose mixture every 10 days and after every rain is recommended. Care should be taken that both sides of the foliage be covered. Early morning or late afternoon are best times for either spraying or dusting.

A BUNCH OF BOYS were whooping it up about this time two years ago, trying to spark a marathon canoe race in the Kawarthas. At the time it seemed difficult to arrive at a canoe route. Imagine. It appeared to be a greater problem where a group might turn to raise any decent prize money to attract paddlers. In short, it amounted to nought. That Peterborough is the largest canoe-building centre in Canada — if not on the continent — is all the more reason that this district should lead the country as a canoe derby centre. Ah, well, we tried, but not hard enough

Now down at Shawinigan, P.Q., the great Quebec classic will take place early in August and Peterborough-built canoes have been constant winning equipment there for 18 years. With all the Canadien flair for colour, it promises to be a wonderful show — speedboat races, large regatta, night water festival and the 100-mile canoe race to climax the big week. First, second and third paddling prizes are $1,000, $500 and $300, respectively.

It occurs to me that some of you factory chaps who fancy yourselves in a canoe might do a spot of practising so that come August 17 to 19, providing it fits in with your industrial vacation on those dates, you might give it a whirl and uphold the glory of our old Home Town. If you are interested, I have a lot of dope on the event.

SEVERAL PHONE CALLS lately about the opening of the bass and lunge fishing season. It is pegged at July 1st, a Sunday. People want to know why they can't start it on June 30th, the first day of the first big summer holiday weekend. I don't know the reason and unless the Department changes its mind soon there will be no change.

♠ ♠ ♠ ♠

WHEN SOME ANGLERS see a commercial bait fisherman along the waterways with his large net, they curse him for a low fellow and the cause of minnow bait shortage. T'isn't so. The small brooks and rivers which a few years ago produced minnows for bait are now entirely barren of them. Now streams are infested with small rock bass, perch and sunfish; these types have stripped the waters of minnows as clean as a whistle.

Another thing is the unheard of fishing pressure in the Kawarthas. Ask the bait men about this, and they will tell you of doubling their business this year over the same period in '50. But not on the minnow end of it. When they have them, lake shiners are selling for 60 to 65 cents a dozen and chub for one buck.

The minnow bait situation is not entirely hopeless. Artificial rearing is the answer. It will not be surprising to hear of two or three district bait men being forced into financing and operating a minnow hatchery. It is the only way this end of the business can make a comeback.

THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH and Chamber of Commerce will be hosts to a party of 40 American weekly newspaper editors at Tom Lawlor's South Beach Hotel on June 22nd. This, their eighth annual tour, is sponsored by the Department of Travel and Publicity. When the scribes go back home and start writing their enthusiasm of Ontario's wonderland, their stories reach newspaper readers of 25 States of the Union. Last year in 27 publications, including Time Magazine, a total of about 100 photos and 125 columns of copy told their story. This is the best back-handed publicity stunt ever staged.

THE POWER OF FISHING passeth all understanding. And crops up in the most unusual circumstances I attended the induction service of a new Anglican clergyman in a city church the other night and while waiting to take a photo of the clerical group in the vestry there was much quiet last-minute confusion.

Clergymen struggling into their gowns and surplices, hurriedly untangling their colourful hoods and stoles and taking a last peek at the prayer book ritual. Even My Lord Bishop was late and hurried. But one Man of God seemed to be contemplating calmly to himself. I respected his silence until he came slowly over to my corner and said: "About that trout picture in the newspaper the other day, was that REALLY a square-tail?" I assured him that it was.

"What a beauty," exclaimed the churchman. "Why up at my cottage on Blank Lake . . ." But the procession started into the church and a grand fishing story was left up in the air.

CONFECTIONER John Hooper saw a sight on Highway 7 the other evening that has him guessing. While stopping his car between Kaladar and Madoc to avoid hitting an ambling porcupine, a grey beastie sprang from the ditch to grab the porky and vaulted into cover again when it saw the car. John describes it as a large cat-like animal — in the wildcat or lynx class — but with a long club-like tail. He swears that it wasn't Ogopogo nor was he imbibing. The question is, what was it?

AN EXCELLENT AND ECONOMICAL DISH OF STEWED RABBIT, BACON, AND ONION

Take a pipkin, having a tightly fitting cover, and of sufficient size to hold a couple of rabbits, cut into small pieces, with four middling sized Spanish onions, in thin slices. Put a layer of onion in the bottom of the pipkin; on this a layer of the pieces of rabbit, previously seasoned with salt, pepper, and any other favorite condiments; cover with a second layer of onion. Put the cover on, and should the pipkin be placed on the fire, the stew will be liable to burn. When ready, let it be turned out into a dish, and served immediately. It will be found to supply a delicious, tender, succulent, moist dish—far superior to the insipid, dry, stringy, boiled rabbit and onion sauce of ordinary cookery.

English onions answer very well; and should the gravy, of which a large quantity will be produced, be required to be slightly thickened, a tea-spoonful of flour should be added to the seasoning when it is rubbed over the pieces of rabbit.

A gamekeeper, writing a letter to a friend, determined to send him some rabbits. "I have the pleasure to send you some rabbits . . ." "Tell me," said he, to a companion, "how many b's are there in rabbits?" "That depends upon circumstances," replied the rustic oracle; "how many rabbits are you sending?" "Four." "Then eight b's of course, two for each rabbit." The keeper, therefore, wrote "I have the pleasure to send you some rabbbbbbbbits!"

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

The senior ball game tonight in Riverside is at eight—not the usual 8.30 touch. Kingsway Lumbermen of Toronto take on the Petes in a Viaduct Major League fixture, the first showing here this season of the second-place Kingsways. They're the only squad to date to beat the loop-leading Petes, who have won six of seven starts in a fine showing. Doug Plunkett may be on the local mound for this one. The way the Petes are powdering the ball and going great guns in the field rates larger crowds of diamond followers. They've beaten the 1950 champion Oshawa Merchants twice in a row, and looked most impressive in so doing. This, too, should be a neat ball game.

Hockey keeps cropping into the papers with meetings of the NHL and CAHA. The latter has quietly raised the junior age limit by three months. Registration date in future will be Aug. 1, instead of Nov. 1, though this applies as of 1952, so it won't affect last winter's graduating crop of juniors. Those who reached their 20th birthday prior to Nov. 1 were too old before, but not in future, if their birthdays are between Aug. 1 and Nov. 1 of that year. Some sports—like ball, for instance—lifted the junior limit to 21 years, but hockey never followed suit. However, three more months have been tacked on.

A Few Puck Experiments

The NHL kindly gives the CAHA permission (?) to experiment for a year with the new icing rule, making the attacking team carry (not shoot) the puck over the defending team's blue line—else it would be icing. Idea is to revive stick-handling. NHL won't try it yet, being a cautious outfit. But the pros will go in for a larger goal crease, one four-by-eight feet instead of the present three-by-seven, for all exhibitions and the all-star game as an experiment. More protection for goalies. Also in exhibitions, the two faceoff corner circles will be replaced by a large one in front of the goal, with no player between the circle and goal crease to block the goalie's vision. Worth a try, anyway.

* * * * * *

In future, "icing" won't be called if the goalie touches the puck on such a play, even back of his own goal. The defence must race back and touch it before the attackers get to it, and then it is ruled "icing". Idea is to make the defence hustle and speed up the game — more action at all times. Then, too, a penalty shot is given if a player (other than the goalie) picks up the puck in the goal crease. Previously, it only called for a minor penalty. A player closing his hand on the puck—except the goalie—draws a minor. NHL teams must carry but 15 players in a game now, instead of 17. Also, with a goalie removed, a goal is awarded if an attacker has the puck in the clear with no one to beat and is interfered with illegally. These pro rules will eventually be used by all amateur puckists.

Up Where They Belong

Back alone in top spot in the OLA standing, the Petes tackle a tough foe tonight in St. Kitts, the A's being in second slot. Brampton Excelsiors were dropped to third position here last e'en with a 12-4 thud and some 2,500 customers were quite happy about it. That evens up the Petes' lone loss so far this semester to Brampton on their pitch. The game wasn't nearly as exciting as the previous one in Miller Bowl, and in fact it took the Crowe crowd half the game to really get rolling. They didn't fool, though, once they started to click. Dootch Vitarelli, Harry Wipper, Jerry Fitzgerald, Arn Dugan, Bob Thorpe and Russ Slater all figured prominently in the scoring, and Moon Wootton once more kept the opposition count well down. Fergus comes here next Wednesday.

Commenting that Lefty Dadson as usual had too much for the Merchants, the Oshawa scribe says the showing here Thursday of Lefty Lauer and shortstop Bill Donlin ends their stay in the Motor City. Sherry Rowland will arrive Monday and the club is on the prowl for several more USA ballsters. So, don't write Oshawa off for a while yet. Last season they also started out in slow fashion, dropping several decisions in the Viaduct League. However, a few weeks and some three dozen USA imports later they hit a sizzling winning streak and finished the season the strongest senior a-m-a-t-e-u-r (we use the word loosely) ball club in Canada. They'll be strong again this summer and ere long.

Montreal Wins, Ends Tailspin Hold Big Lead

Montreal Royals, back on the beam following a brief tailspin, once again are threatening to run away with the International League pennant.

Since dropping five out of six games the Royals have won three straight and boosted their lead to a commanding 6½ games over Rochester Red Wings and Syracuse Chiefs who are tied for second place.

Rookie righthander Ray Moore pitched the Royals to a 5-3 seven hit victory over Baltimore Orioles last night. More was wild, walking eight but was tough in the pinch. Jim Russell, Bob Morgan and Walt Fiala led the Montreal attack with two hits each. Russell and the Orioles' Marv Rickert homered.

Meanwhile, Rochester Red Wings split a doubleheader with Toronto Maple Leafs and Syracuse dropped a pair to Buffalo Bisons.

Leafs Split

The Red Wings downed the Leafs 6-3 in the opener but lost the nightcap 5-4. The Wings clinched the opener with five runs in the fifth inning. The Leafs sewed up the nightcap with three runs in the fifth. Lou Ortiz and Hal Rice homered for the Wings in the sixth to complete the scoring.

Rookie Tom Acker pitched the Bisons to a 2-0 one-hit victory over Syracuse in the seven inning opener. Claude Corbitt singled in the second inning to spoil Acker's no-hit bid. Walt Post homered for the Bisons' first run and a squeeze play brought home the second. Franklin Robinson, with help from Mike Schultz was the victor in the nightcap.

Bill Padget pitched Springfield Cubs to a 2-1 decision over Ottawa Giants. Padget allowed only four hits and won out on catcher Nelson Burbink's two-out, two-run double in the eighth.

Petes Gain Sweet Revenge Defeating Brampton, 12-4

The Petes gained ample vengeance on Brampton for giving them their only loss so far this season by trimming the Excelsiors 12-4 in Miller Bowl last evening before 2,500 fans. It put the locals back alone in first place in the OLA senior "A" standing, and dropped Brampton to third slot behind St. Catharines. After a slow 2-1 first frame for the Crowe crew, Brampton fought back to tie it at 4-all to end the half. The Petes began to get untracked in the third frame for a 3-0 margin and they rolled properly in the final frame for a 5-0 edge to clinch it. Play wasn't as fast or exciting as in the St. Kitts' game here, and the Petes drew five of the seven minor penalties.

GOES GOOD—Dootch Vitarelli went goo again here last night to figure in on four goals as the Petes' lacrossers dunked Brampton 12-4 before a big crowd.

Dootch Led

Leading point-getter for the homesters was Dootch Vitarelli with two goals and two assists. Three points each were counted by Arn Dugan, Jerry Fitzgerald and Harry Wipper, with two apiece going to Bobby Thorpe and Russ Slater. Singles were notched by Curly Mason, Lally Lalonde, Nit O'Hearn, Don Ashbee, Don Crowe and Ike Hildebrand. Moon Wootton again stood out in goal for the winners with some grand saves, and his defence clicked well to hold down the visitors.

Single goals for Brampton were scored by Al Garbutt, Gus Chard, Nick Ferri and Ralph Gowland, with an assist going to Evans. Gowland received a bad cut on the lip in a check during the second stanza and retired for repairs, not returning to action during the game. The tilt was 20 minutes late in starting when Brampton did not show up on time.

Scored A Pair

Vitarelli scored two neat ones in the first, aided first by Dugan and then by Fitzgerald, as Garbutt counted from Evans for the Excelsiors. O'Hearn dew a slashing penalty and Mason was gated for tripping. Brampton battled back for a smlight edge in the second to tie the count. Gowland tallied early alone and, after Mason scored from Hildebrand, Chard snagged a loose ball to bang it home. Thorpe and Steele got the nod for roughing to the "Tennessee waltz," and Gowland left for the doctor's office. Wipper put the Petes up on Crowe's pass but Ferri's free throw clicked to sew it up. The latter and Wipper roughed it slightly to get the air.

The Petes rang in three without a return in the third. Wipper hit the register first from Slater, and Thorpe followed suit with Vitarelli's pass. Lalonde went over for slashing but just got back in time to break free with Fitzgerald's good pass to score a $5.00 counter. O'Hearn's screened shot hit the hemp to open the fourth and Fitzgerald added another neatly from Thorpe. Ashbee ran up the count on fine combination with Dugan and Vitarelli, and then Dugan sank a solo effort. Wipper wound it up late in the tussle from Slater, no penalties occurring in the fourth quarter. Teams:

Brampton: Goal, Eatough; defence, Sheppard and Garbutt; centre, Chard; wings, Steele and Raine; rover, Sibbald; alternates, Gardhouse, Ferri, Evans, Berney, Gowland, Sutherland and Blakely.

Petes: Goal, Wootton; defence, Fitzgerald and O'Hearn; centre, Thorpe; wings, Dugan and Vitarelli; rover, Ashbee; alternates, Wipper, Crowe, Mason, Hildebrand, Slater, Magee and Lalonde.

Raschi Whips Sox Again Ends Chicago Win Streak

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Maybe White Sox fans should try the black cat and rabbit's foot curse on Vic (Never Lost in Chicago) Raschi.

It worked in Cleveland where the citizens routed the Eddie Lopat jinx with a strategic application of one tabby and 15,000 rabbits' feet.

Comiskey Park customers who never have seen the New York Yankee ace lost a game must rate him in the Walter Johnson class. Both losses in his 13-2 lifetime record against the Sox were suffered at Yankee Stadium.

3½ Game Lead

But the Sox can console themselves with a 3½ game lead and the knowledge that Raschi can't wook every day. Frank Shea, today's foe, may be a softer touch. Three big games remain in this important series of the season.

Raschi smashed the Sox' six-game win streak last night before 53,490 fans, a new Comiskey Park attendance record. Raschi turned the Sox back 4-2, on seven hits.

Eddie Robinson's 11th homer with Nelson Fox on base put Raschi behind the eight ball in the third. But the Yanks got to loser Kenny Holcombe for two in the fourth, driven by Johnny Hopp's double and Mickey Mantle's single. Three singles and two sacrifices won the game in the fifth with Gene Woodling and Bobby Brown singing home the runs.

It was the third straight win for the Yanks at Chicago this season, giving them a 3-1 edge over the Sox on the year. They are the only club to be ahead of the amazing Chicago club, who have an 18-10 record at home but a dazzling 14-2 on the road.

Pierce Today

In an effort to square the sries Richards will send Billy Pierce, his southpaw ace, against Shea in today's single. They wind up their home stand with a Sunday doubleheader with the Yanks.

Bobby Feller, only one win behind Raschi with his 8-1 record, dusted off Bocton 7-1, to get revenge for his one loss. It was Boston's seventh defeat in 10 starts since leaving friendly Fenway.

The Indians assured Feller of his eighth win with a five-run outburst in the second inning, routing Maury McDermott. After consecutive errors by Bobby Doerr and Vern Stephens and a walk, loaded bases, Jim Hegan drove home three with a whistling double. After Feller fanned, Dale Mitchell hit his second homer. Hegan also added a homer off Willard Nixon, third Boston pitcher, in the sixth.

Feller ended Dom DiMaggio's consecutive game hitting streak at 27 games. Dom, last stopped by Ned Garver at St. Louis May 10, flied out three times and grounded out twice. He hit .403 during his streak. Bobby gave only five hits, losing his shutout in the sixth on Les Moss' double and Tom Wright's single.

Detroit Wins

Detroit cut loose with eight runs in the third inning to smother Philadelphia 9-2, while Dizzy Trout scattered nine hits for his third win. The Tigers sent 12 men to the plate in the third to face loser Carl Scheib and Morris Martin. Jerry Priddy had two singles in the inning.

Rain washed out the Washington-St. Louis night game with the Senators leading 4-1 at the end of four innings. Sid Hudson, still looking for his first victory, was only three outs away, but it was just another postponed game for the records.

The National League all-night schedule was cut to one game by rain. Chicago at New York, Pittsburgh at Brooklyn and Cincinnati at Philadelphia all were postponed.

They managed to play at Boston where rookie Joe Presko of the St. Louis stopped the Braves with six hits, 2-1. The win gave the Cards undisputed possession of second place, six games behind the idle Dodgers.

Presko's sixth win missed being a shutout when Walker Cooper homered in the ninth. Both St. Louis runs were scored on errors by Bob Elliott who made three for the night. Max Surkont gave up all eight hits.

Mimico Wins Over Fergus

Mimico and Fergus paraded anything but good lacrosse in their tilt at Mimico Friday night. Thistles managed to stay within striking distance of their opponents throughout the entire game but Mounties led 4-3, 7-6 and 11-9 by periods and scored the lone goal of the final quarter.

Centre Don McPhail with three goals was top Mimico scorer while Harold Downer, Ken Dixon, Pop Chard and Denny Peterson contributed two each. Bill Horwood got the other tally. Don Smith and Russ Black each scored three for Fergus. One each went to Bob Gear, Bitts Abbott and Jay Hill.

Two games are scheduled for today. St. Catharines Athletics will meet the Petes at St. Catharines and Brampton will play West Yorks at Brarmpton.

DARNS SOX—Don Lenhardt fills the White Sox' need for a thumping right-hand hitter against left-hand pitchers. The outfielder was obtained from the Browns in a three-club trade in which the St. Louis club also received cash.

DEDICATION—Pope Pius XII blesses the new church of St. Eugene in Rome, which was built with donations from the world's Catholics in commemoration of the 25th anniversary of the Pantiff's elevation to the rank of bishop. It was one of the Pope's rare trips outside the Vatican. The church was named after his patron saint.

Jesus New Era Linked With Older Period

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D

The coming and ministry of Jesus of Nazareth was not just a great, and climaxing, epoch of the Bible; it was the beginning of an era, the Christian era, which continues to our time, and will continue to all time. "Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, today, and forever."

Yet the coming of Jesus, in its historical and spiritual setting is linked very closely with the period over five centuries earlier, of the Jewish exile in Babylon, and the restoration of the Jews in their homeland.

It was then that Jewish religion and prophecy reached its highest point. It is significant that the last of the canonical Old Testament prophecies dates back to four hundred years before the coming of Jesus.

But it would be a mistake to regard those four hundred years as a dry, arid, and uneventful period in Jewish history, or without deep significance for Christian beginnings.

The translation of the Bible, authorized by King James I of England (the "Authorized Version" in most common use), included originally the Apocryphal Books of the Old Testament. They will be found in many Pulpit Bibles, and are in many of the old type of "Family Bibles," that reposed in so many homes on parlor tables.

These Books have a great significance. The Books of the Maccabees, for instance, record the story of faith and fortitude under the bitter persecutions. They tell of the Grecian conquerors seeking to pervert and corrupt the religion and worship of Judaism with pagan elements and practices.

But the events of that period between the Testaments were even more significant It was the time of the great dispersion of the Jews throughout the Grecian and Roman world, with the development of the synagogues as centre of religion and education. In the story of the spread of Christianity, in the Book of the Acts, one can see how greatly that dispersion and the synagogues furthered the rapid growth and expansion under the leadership of St. Paul and the early Christian missionaries.

One finds many references to the proselytes among the Christian converts. These were non-Jews who were drawn to Judaism by its superior morality, in contrast with the licentiousness and corruption widely prevalent in paganism. The openness of mind and moral earnestness with which these proselytes had accepted Judaism made them readily accessible to Paul's presentation of the Christian Gospel as the fulfillment and crowning of Jewish faith and prophecy.

Much of that is clear in the record. But there was a closer link between the era of Jesus and the period of the Babylonian exile and the Jewish restoration. It was then that Jewish religion took on its world-wide note.

GUEST PREACHER at George St. United Church this Sunday will be the Rev. A. E. Kewley of Toronto. He will preach at both morning and evening services.

Grand Jury Criticizes Institution

Old People's Home At Lakefield Needs Improvements

There's plenty of room for improvement at the old People Home, Lakefield, in the opinion of the grand jury.

Friday afternoon the jury, picked for the Peterborough county court of general sessions, made their report to Judge J. A. McGibbon, Lindsay, presiding in the absence of Judge S. L. Smoke.

Larger items include purchase of a new water pump for the basement, the present one being described as obsolete and noisy; also a larger water tank, and new bathtubs; a new stoneboat, manure spreader, and a tractor which would help make the Home more self sustaining.

Superintendent

The jury also recommended that the superintendent and his wife be given holidays or reinbursement in wages if their constant attendance is necessary.

A woman should also be hired three days a week for extra help. And a buzzer system should be installed from the inmates bedrooms to the superintendent's room for warning in case of sudden illness.

Other suggested improvements at the Home: new toilet seats, disinfectant for the bathrooms, smoothing out of heaving in the main floor, repair of window screens, and replacement of the top of the barnyard well.

Jail Excellent

The county jail is described as "in excellent condition with the exception of the jail office." The jury say it should have fluorescent lighting. The board walk leading to the outside yard should be repaired.

St. Vincent's Orphanage was found to be clean and tidy. But it was suggested that a fire extinguisher of the vaporizing type should be placed in the chapel, and the roof shingled and made fireproof.

"Everything in very fine condition," was the way the jury reported on the Children's Shelter. The only recommendation was the installation of an automatic oil furnace.

Some old chestnuts: the courthouse should be completely redecorated; new equipment installed in the men's washroom outside the county council chamber, and the room enclosed; a drinking fountain with cooler installed in the lobby; fallen plaster replaced, and walls washed or redecorated where necessary.

DURHAM, THE BRIGHT LEAF TOBACCO COUNTY, is a busy district these days as mechanical planters clatter up and down the light sandy fields. In the left photo, young plants in a 30 by 125-foot greenhouse, are being removed to planting flats by Mrs. Richard Worr and Mrs. Gladys Woodward; less than two ounces of seed planted the entire crop. Owner's wife, Mrs. Hatcher Foster, (right photo), holds a flat of 1,000 plants which will be taken to the planting crews in the fields, more than 16,000 plants are placed in one day.—(Examiner Staff Photos)

Ex-Constable's Body Found; Plan No Inquest

The body of former city constable George Allen Edmison, 42, of 774 Water St., was found in his car at 8:45 p.m. on Friday by Constable William Scott. The car ignition key was turned on but the motor was not running.

Coroner Dr. Herbert Young said death was due to carbon monoxide poisoning and no inquest would be held.

Mr. Edmison was born in Smith township, son of the late George A. Edmison and Louisa Fowler, and before coming to Peterborough eight years ago, lived in Smith and Bridgenorth.

He leaves his widow, the former Flossie May Brown, and a sister, Mrs. James Shields of Buckhorn. He was a member of George St. United church.

Funeral service will be held on Monday at the Belleghem funeral home at 2 p.m. The Rev. A. A. Mathews will officiate and burial will be at Little Lake cemetery.

Doe Recovers Fawn

MARMORA, June 9—(ENS)—A Bonarlaw youth recently found a small fawn apparently abandoned on the track of the CNR spur into Marmora where it crosses No. 14 highway. He applied to Conservation Officer John Shannon for permission to keep it. The officer however searched the woods to find that the mother of the fawn was not far away. The fawn was released to be reunited to its mother.

Barber's Body Found In River

The body of a man identified as that of Edward Orville Labelle of 334 Dublin St. was found in the Otonabee River at the foot of Lansdowne St., at 8:30 p.m. Friday. It was located by Ronald Jones, 13, of 48 Morrow St., who immediately notified police.

A barber at the Empress Hotel for the past four years, Labelle disappeared after work last Saturday evening. At press time it was not known whether an inquest would be held.

Mr. Labelle was born in Lanark County, son of the late James Labelle and Margaret Ecklin, and before coming to Peterborough four years ago lived in Belleville.

He leaves his wife, the former Louella Redpath, one daughter, Miss Fern Labelle, and a son, Everett. There are three sisters, Mrs. James McFee (Jeannie) of Lanark, Mrs. Patrick Bartraw, Mrs. Peter Storey (Mary) and a brother Joseph, all of Watson's Corners, and two brothers, James of Smiths Falls and Jack of Winnipeg.

Funeral service was held at the graveside today and Major Cyril Everitt of the Salvation Army officiated. Burial was at Little Lake cemetery.

Workers Now Busy Planting Coming Year's Cigarets

It is tobacco planting time in Durham County these days. And those innumerable smokers who grouse about paying two cents apiece for cigarets should take a trip to one of these plantations. They will see some of the reasons why they cost so much. From the moment one drives into the gateway of a typical 40-acre farm and sees the buildings, the machinery, the stacks of bagged chemicals, the rows of kiln drying sheds, it is not difficult to imagine why it costs so much to produce a pound of tobacco.

A sightseer on a bright June day will see several hired hands busy in greenhouses, barns and fields — all of whom have to be paid good piecework wages.

But what he does not see or know are the heartaches of tobacco growing. Heavy rains after the first plantings, cutworms, hail storms and high winds, a depression in the final selling market and a hundred and one obstacles that draw a fine dividing line between profit and loss.

Veterans at Job

The Hatcher Fosters near Campbellcroft are typical tobacco farmers. In the first place they have been raised in the business, down in Virginia. Twenty years ago they came to Western Ontario and for the next 15 of them operated plantations. They have sharp eyes and when they saw the old tobacco soils being depleted by constant cropping, they looked for virgin areas. They found what they were looking for in the sandy loam section of eastern Durham.

Of the original 300-acre farm, the Fosters have managed to get 40 acres into production during the past five years. According to their recital of a year's activity on a tobacco farm there is hardly a fortnight of labor respite between grading last year's crop and planting seeds for the new one.

In a long greenhouse, 30 by 125 feet, they sow less than two ounces of bright leaf tobacco seed. By control of roof ventilators and constant spraying, the seeds germinate and grow rapidly. By mid-May the young plants are three to four inches high, a solid green carpet. Women are hired to remove plants into flats in lots of one thousand which are taken to the planters in the fields. A tractor-drawn two-seated sulky carries a driver and two planters. From a pile of fresh plants on their laps they drop them into the rows. They place more than 16,000 plants in a day.

Many Hurdles

Then comes the grief. A heavy shower might come down through the night and wash out thousands of the drooping plants. Or thousands more might be chewed down by waiting cutworms within a few hours. This damage has to be repaired immediately by replanting. Then comes constant spraying until the plants are too tall and vigorous for machinery to get through the rows.

By mid-August the mature leaves are picked and taken to the curing barns where they are sorted by groups of women and tied in "hands" to cross bars and placed in the barns. The key man at this stage is the "curer" who can make or break the owners crop grade. Naturally, he commands the highest wages and invariably these experts come from the large American tobacco districts.

Winter Sorting

After the curing, buyers arrive and haggle over grades, quality and final price. The dried tobacco is removed to storage barns and winters are spent sorting, packing and shipping.

The tobacco production cycle is then complete. And growers start seeding in their greenhouses. It is a life where working hours never end and where faith and stout hearts are tried to the breaking point.

Jury Acquits Frank Spring Of Charge

Dangerous Driving Case Dismissed Jurors "Merciful"

It took a petit jury just 20 minutes late Friday afternoon to find Francis S. Spring, 66, Prince St., not guilty on a charge of dangerous driving. Judge J. A. McGibbon, discharging the prisoner, remarked that the jury had been "merciful" and could have found otherwise.

The charge arose after an accident shortly after 7 a.m. January 23 when Spring, returning home from work, knocked down Marguerite Beatty, 19, of Rink St., at the Rink and Aylmer St. intersection. Miss Beatty died on her way to hospital.

Constable Harold Mesley, officer investigating the accident, traced tire and skid marks 176 feet down the left side of Aylmer St.

Spring had cut out from the main travelled portion of the street to pass a car ahead. As he drew abreast of that car, as the two vehicles entered the Aylmer-Rink intersection, he saw Miss Beatty ahead, and slammed on his brakes.

Spring testified that Miss Beatty was standing about five feet from the southeast curb and he was unable to avoid striking her.

Going To Hit

"I thought: 'Oh, my God, I'm going to hit her'," he told the jury, all but one of whom were Peterborough city residents.

Miss Beatty was tossed by the impact or carried a distance of 22 feet down the street, landing on the sidewalk, her head pointing toward the street. The car, after hitting a dip in the roadside skidded another 56 feet into a tree, and then continued on another 26 feet to the south.

Constable Mesley said the centre of the road was dry but there was snow and ice along an eight-foot margin adjoining the curb. He qualified this by saying that he found ice south of Rink St., but none to the north of the intersection where Spring first put on his brakes.

Going Home

Spring said he was returning home from his job in a plant as night watchman; that he was travelling about 25 miles an hour; and his 1949-model car was in good mechanical condition.

Constable Mesley said there was no suggestion that Spring had been drinking. There was nothing to show the point of impact, he said, nor whether the front left wheel actually touched the sidewalk.

The two chief Crown witnesses were brothers, occupants of the car that Spring started to pass. They were George Sweeting, 18, and Lloyd, 16, employed at the Peterborough Canoe Co.

George Sweeting, driver, said he was going south on Aylmer and signalled to make a left turn onto Rink. As he edged over the centre line he heard the "roar" of a motor and Spring's car started to pass him.

Sweeting said he saw the girl standing on the southwest corner of the intersection. The next thing he knew he saw her "throw out her hands to the right side," as the Spring car struck her. He estimated she must have been hit by the mid-front of the car.

His brother Lloyd also thought he saw Miss Beatty "pretty close to the middle of the car."

Prior Evidence

W. J. Arthur Fair, KC., counsel for Spring, put both the teenagers through a gruelling examination.

He read from the transcript of evidence at the preliminary hearing to indicate that George was less sure then of exactly where Miss Beatty was standing.

At that time, according to the evidence, George Sweeting said: "I couldnt say for sure whether she was on the road or not." Friday afternoon the witness amended this to: "she was standing about a foot outside the hydro pole so she must have been on the sidewalk."

Mr. Fair suggested this new information came from studying the photographic exhibits, and that the witness's mind would be fresher at the preliminary

New Donors Push Fund Over $48,000

Westclox Employees, Firm Give $1,046; Donations Pour In

The Mayor's Fire Fund this morning was just $1,400 short of the $50,000 level, which is now certain of being surpassed next week.

Today's list includes $796.75 from the employees of Western Clock Company, plus $250 from the company itself.

In three weeks the fund has snowballed to $48,592 as reported today from the assistant treasurer, W. R. Wallace. It picked up momentum from the outset, and rolled along with the volume of local contributions being largely augmented by gift cheques from many parts of the country, especially in Ontario outside Peterborough.

Generated Own Action

It may be recalled that the fund virtually generated its own action and vitality. When the numerous groups of citizens met Monday morning, May 21, in the City Council chamber, and then adjourned into a smaller group, the first contributions were quickly listed. The deep appeal of the fund to the sympathy of people was indicated immediately.

The first subscriptions came from within the committee: John David Eaton and the T. Eaton Co., $1,000; Don A. McGillis, $1,000; Quaker Oats Co. of Canada, $500; Peterborough Examiner, $500; Grafton Co., $500; Thomas Doughty, $25; Labatt Brewing Co., $250.

Then arrangements were made to receive contributions around town, and the industrial connection was established through Reg Reid with splendid response from the employees of Peterborough manufacturing plants.

Business and professional employees have been just as generous in their giving. But, all that is now a familiar story to the people who have followed the mounting progress of the fund through this daily news column.

Today's list follows:

E. O. Westbye, 513 Gilmour St.	$ 5.00
J. Wiggins & Son, Toronto	25.00
J. E. Edmison, Queen's University, Kingston	10.00
R. L. Innis, city	10.00

George W. and Mildred Clarke, 774 Fairbairn St.	5.00
C. Anne Heffernan, 263 Hunter St.	5.00

A Morning's Fun

Weighing Machines Know Best—I Guess

By DON GRANT

I'm quiet, have a retiring disposition, am sincere, loyal to friends, well liked by everyone and weigh either 184 or 216 pounds.

This may sound like an advertisement in a lonely hearts column, but these were descriptions of me provided by weighing machine cards.

Anytime you're feeling depressed, try putting a few coppers in a few weighing machines. Not only do they tell your weight—some guess like drunken carnival barkers—but they raise your morale with 20-word descriptions of yourself.

After consulting a few today, I found out that I'm the finest person I know. You will too.

The first set of scales I saw was hidden behind the door of a five and ten cent store. Glancing behind to see if anyone were watching, I stepped on lightly—as lightly as any other 240 pounder. I dropped in the coin. There was a whirring of gears and out popped a card.

I glanced at it and put in coppers twice more. I weighed 216, 213, and 202 pounds. The personality summaries were just as interesting. The worst thing they had to say about me was "you like to have your own way and to dominate friendships."

Curious now, I walked quickly to another machine a block away and found when I arrived that I had lost 32 pounds on the way. I was now a slim 184 pounds. I slipped in another coin to see if the second would verify the first. But I had gained four pounds. A third reading which added 14 more pounds sent me scurrying to another machine.

Three cents invested in it persuaded me that I weighed 216 pounds and had an attractive personality.

This machine told about more than just personality and weights. it produced cards which interpreted dreams and told some interesting historical facts such as Pearl Harbor was Dec. 7, 1941.

After some searching, I found a weighing scales that performed only the one duty: weighing. I stepped on the platform and was about to drop my coin when a voice chirped up, "Hey, Bud. Don't put that cent in." I looked down and the scales was reading 216 pounds.

I am concerned about only one thing. How much do I weigh?

Community Zoning Laws Aid Protect Property Values

The character and appearance of the community in which you build or buy will have considerable effect on the value of your property. Where adequate zoning by-laws and an official community plan have been adopted, your investment is protected.

Before you buy a lot on which to build be sure you obtain all information on existing building restrictions and plans for future community development. It is easy to understand what would happen to the value of your house if construction of a factory, garage or warehouse was allowed on adjoining property. This could happen if your community did not have restrictions to control non-residential building.

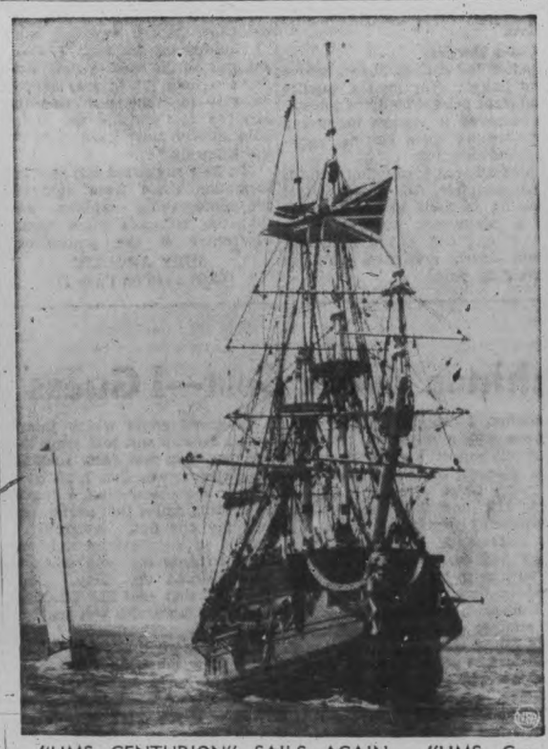
With a master plan, a community can properly arrange its expansion or re-development to provide adequate recreation and playground areas, to locate shopping, commercial and amusement centres in their proper place in relation to the residential areas, and to plan the streets with an eye to beauty, safety and economy.

Through the organization of the Community Planning Association of Canada, interested citizens are working more closely with civic authorities and planning experts to achieve a better layout for living in their communities. Your local branch members can offer advice which will assist you in attaining successful home-ownership.

Girl Wins Awards

TORONTO, June 9 — (CP) — Sylvia Ramcharan, of Trinidad, has been awarded the Cody Gold Medal, the Chappell Prize in clinical surgery and the Ellen Mickle Fellowship, the University of Toronto said Friday in announcing its faculty of medicine results. Miss Ramcharan, 26-year-old daughter of a Hindu merchant, will be graduated from the university's medical school this summer.



HOUSE No. 462.—Not only is this home well planned for comfort, but its site gives it a commanding view of a river, which is only a stone's throw away. As the owner says, "Our best loved view is of the sun setting across the water right in front of our living room bay window." And speaking of the living room, it has three walls of knotty pine, with the remaining one in plaster, painted pale green. French doors lead to the screened porch. The kitchen, with its dining alcove, is another feature of this little home. Notice the long counter with cupboards above, and the window directly over the sink. What will appeal to many is the inclusion of bathroom and bedroom on the first floor. No need to finish the second floor, with its additional bathroom and two bedrooms until the family grows! For working drawing, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Trainer Clocks 600

BELLEVILLE, June 9 (CP)—A T-33 trainer jet aircraft on loan from the United States Air Force flew the 620 air miles to Chatham, N.B., in one hour and 10 minutes, the RCAF disclosed Friday. Officials said the plane, one of four flown from Van Nuys, Calif., to Trenton more than a week ago, averaged more than 600 mph, while operating at 91 per cent of possible power.

Eighth Rape Charge

TORONTO, June 9 — (CP) — Toronto detectives Friday arrested Anthony Capicciotti, 18, and charged him with rape in connection with an attack on a 16-year-old girl in west-end Willowvale Park. Capicciotti was the eighth youth to be charged in the case. The girl told police she was attacked by 11 youths in a secluded portion of the park while returning home with her younger sister.

"HMS CENTURION" SAILS AGAIN — "HMS Centurion," a replica of the famous vessel in which the first missionary of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel sailed to the American colonies in 1702—passes a smaller sailing yacht during a sea trial off Brightlingsea, England. The "Centurion" sails up the Thames to the Houses of Parliament in London to celebrate the Society's 250th birthday.

Mother's Pay Scored

MONTREAL, June 9 (CP)—The annual convention of the Eastern Canada Region of the International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL) today described as inadequate mothers' allowances in Quebec and Ontario. Payment in Ontario is $40, plus $20 for each dependent child, and in Quebec, $20 for the widow and $8 for each child. The convention recommended a minimum of $100 plus $25 for each dependent in both provinces.

7,000th Couple

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 9—(CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Nadeau, of Sandford, Me., on their way home from a three-day honeymoon at the Falls, were moved right back into the bridal suite at the General Brock Hotel yesterday when the Chamber of Commerce discovered they were the 7,000th couple to register for a honeymoon certificate.

Female Cadets

LONDON, Ont., June 9 (CP)—Central Collegiate is planning to recruit a female section for its cadet corps and the effect is worrying some of the students. They have given varied opinions ranging from "an invasion of man's last refuge" to "a terrific morale and recruiting booster."

23 Strikers Of Ontario Marble Co. List Complaints

In a statement issued today, striking employees of the Ontario Marble Co. plant listed four reasons why they oppose the man who has been promoted from the ranks to the position of assistant to the superintendent.

Production at the plant has been almost completely shut down since May 22 when the majority of the men laid down their tools in protest at the promotion.

Last Monday the company fired 23 of the men when they defied an order to report for work at 7 a.m. or else. Two production workers complied with the company order and the other 23 were fired.

Picket Plant

The 23 have been picketting the plant all week. They have not prevented either of the two who want to work from entering the plant. Police have been on hand to see there was no trouble.

The picketters say the work stoppage came after a period of bad relations with the company. The men want a wage boost or the equivalent in take-home pay, based on a 44-hour week. But the company turned them down.

Appointment of the foreman was the last straw, they say.

The four-point objection to the promotion is as follows:

1. He was appointed by the company in violation of the agreement.

2. He is incapable of giving proper supervision because of lack of ability and knowledge of the job.

3. No group of workers should be asked to work under supervision of this calibre.

4. Previous supervision was sufficient for 30 production workers. The company could have paid the extra money to the workers in wages instead of "making more unnecessary overhead costs."

Men Fired

Ernest Young, manager, stated previously that as far as the company was concerned there is no strike. The men are fired.

He says the employees never filed a union grievance, the required procedure in a union contract. And the company has the right to promote or demote anybody it wishes.

Plan Your House For Fun As Well As For Necessities

A very important part of gracious, pleasant living is the relaxation one may enjoy in his home. There should be an area in every home where the pursuits of active living can be taken care of adequately. For this reason, we have developed the activities room, the hobby garage, space for outdoor recreation, and accommodations for pets.

Activities Room

The activities room is an all-purpose room, a bright and informal place where children may play without restriction and where parents and older children may enjoy themselves. It may be used as a study, home office, game room, a hobby room, or for any of countless other purposes. It may have a washroom adjacent to it, and with the addition of a built-in bed may be easily converted to a guest room. The activities room can take the place of a finished basement room. It may contain a bar, a screen for home movies, a ping-pong table and plenty of built-in storage space for toys and games.

Building in the furniture will allow more space for activities. It is well to investigate the possibilities of having the furniture and fixtures built at the time the house is built, as this may be the more economical plan. With an activities room, you have an area where all members of the family can enjoy themselves, and where you can entertain guests. A built-in radio phonograph is an excellent addition, and the unencumbered floor space can be enjoyed by all the family and their friends.

Hobby Garage

When you plan your home, consider the pursuit of hobbies carefully. One space that offers a natural spot for hobbies is the garage.

A radiant heated garage, with adequate extra space, is a fine place for a work bench,lathe, and the endless tools and gadgets with which the hobbyist surrounds himself. Taking the hobby out of the house achieves two purposes: It separates the hobbyist from activities of the home which might prove disturbing, and, if his hobby is a noisy one, it allows the other members of the family respite.

Here again be sure to take into consideration needs for extra floor space in the garage when planning your home, to accommodate any hobby activities you may wish to move to the garage.

Outdoor Recreation

Earlier we considered the surrounding grounds and landscaping as an integral part of the house. In planning the home, an important feature to consider relative to the house itself is that of outdoor recreation. After the family check list has been analyzed, plans should be made to provide for the activities of each member. It might be well to consider the need for active recreation and for quiet recreation, and to allot each its proper space. For active recreation, the grounds of the new house might have a badminton court, a putting green for golf practice, a wading pool for small children. For quiet recreation, a terrace with deck chairs for relaxation, or a small garden plot or flower bed, will add to the enjoyment of the home. Almost any plot can be arranged to provide necessary recreational facilities if the needs are cited in the original plans.

Arbors, screen plantings and garden walls are very attractive outdoor partitions, and can be constructed economically.

Another interesting addition to the home, and one which offers not only recreational possibilities but also serves as a pleasant way of entertaining guests, is the outdoor grill. Almost anyone with the initiative and a few inexpensive materials can construct such a grill himself. The family is certain to enjoy food prepared and eaten outdoors, and the arrangement gives the men of the family an opportunity to display their cooking talents.

The possibilities for outdoor recreaton are unlimited, and depend only upon the desires of the family and the use of originality in planning the house site.

Pets

Since so many families include a pet as a member of the household the original plans should include them, too. Many cities and neighborhoods restrict the freedom of animals to such an extent that it seems only right and proper that they be given some degree of freedom in the home. A fenced enclosure adjacent to the service area or garage, with sleeping quarters in the garage, provides a comfortable place for them and enables you to care for them conveniently.

For the suburban home builder who contemplates keeping large animals, special facilities will have to be included in his plans to care for them, with perhaps the purchase of additional land for maintaining them.

PLAN 50-45—Designed by M. G. Dixon, architect, this six-room house is planned especially for the larger family but is also a good investment for a young and growing family. The smaller bedroom on the first floor is suitable for a nursery, while the two upstairs bedrooms may be completed at the outset or left unfinished until required. A well-lighted dining space is included in the compact kitchen. The wall space in the living-room offers many variations for furniture placement, while the three windows grouped at the front ensure sufficient natural light and fresh air and could be the centre of a pleasing interior decorative scheme. For estimating purposes, the total area of the house is 1,075 square feet. Cubic contents are 15,768 cubic feet. (Working drawings may be obtained from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at minimum cost.)

Newsprint Lack Hard Blow In Australia

SYDNEY, Australia —(CP)— Australian newspapers, harried by the newsprint shortage and its high cost, are pegging circulation, reducing sizes and in some cases raising the price to the public.

In 1939 imported newsprint could be landed in the Commonwealth at under £18 a ton. Today it costs about £100 a ton when it can be obtained.

Australia imports most of its newsprint from Scandinavia and other European sources while part of its needs are met by production in Tasmania where paper is made from hardwood. Canada's newsprint exports to Australia dropped from 212,000 tons in 1947 to 33,000 tons in 1950.

New Hope

New hope for worried publishers comes from New Zealand where the government has organized a £15,000,000 project to pulp softwoods. The project is based on the Kaingaroa state forest, now nearing maturity over an area of 260,000 acres. It is estimated that in six or seven years the plant will supply a substantial portion of the pulp and newsprint needs of Australia and New Zealand.

Another scheme for the manufacture of pulp in New Zealand is also well advanced. This projeect will cost about £1,250,000 and is being financed mainly by an Australian newspaper proprietor. It is expected the first consignment of this pulp will arrive in Australia within the next 12 months. Conditions of the scheme guarantee Australia 60,000 tons yearly.

Mounties Putting End To Fraser Log Piracy

VANCOUVER—(CP) — "Log piracy" on the Fraser river and the approaches to Vancouver harbor is dropping off sharply. The reason lies in a little 46-foot RCMP launch that arrived here recently from Esquimalt.

In the official books of the force she's listed as MP 67, but informally the sea-going craft is known as "Little Bow," a name commemorating a historic RCMP station on the prairies.

But by certain hard-boiled characters along the Vancouver and New Westminster waterfronts MP 67 is regarded less affectionately.

They are the log pirates, a species of thug virtually unknown to landlubbers here until recent weeks. To shorebound citizens the word "pirate" has a romantic ring, but to dozens of worried mill operators it's a real and urgent problem.

Straight Piracy

Canadian maritime law minces no words in referring to the kind of thieving that has been going on in the inlets near here. It flatly desigates it as "piracy."

Biggest haul was a 40-log boom that was bodly filched from its mooring on the Vedder river one night this month.

Last week, K. K. Reid, chief of New Westminster's harbor commission, estimated the bill for log losses was running to tens of thousands of dollars a month.

This week there was an abrupt change. The explanation was summed up pretty well in two words: Little Bow.

Skipper Eric Scoates is a former Nova Scotian who won his deepsea ticket in the merchant service before he joined the RCMP.

Has Polar Medal

Engineer Bill Peters is one of the few men who have been awarded the Polar Medal. Peters received it for being one of the famous group who took the RCMP St. Roch on two history-making voyages through the Arctic Ocean.

These sea-going Mounties intend to see that justice is done as quickly as possible the moment they nab their first pirate. The magistrate may even try the case aboard ship.

The Mountie motto is 'Maintain the Right" and they intend to do it.

Actor Given Honorary Degree

TORONTO, June 9 — (CP).— Gratien Gelinas, Canada's talented actor and playwright from Montreal, said that an honorary degree he received Friday from the University of Toronto honors all Canadian playwrights who have worked towards establishment of a national theatre.

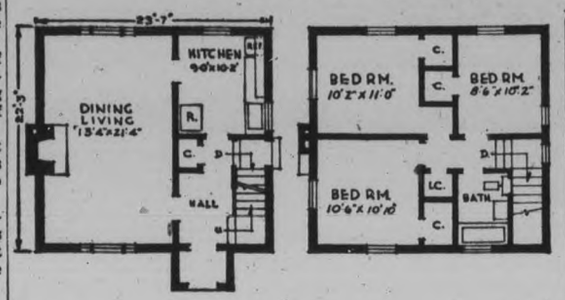
Gelinas, better known by his stage name of Fridolin, spoke at a convocation luncheon before receiving the degree of Doctor of Letters from the university's chancellor, Vincent Massey.

The recenlyt published report of Massey Commission on Canadian culture, he said, outlines "a Magna Carta for Canada's culture."

Canada can import many fine things, Gelinas said "But what no other country in the world can make for us is our own culture—a culture of our own that will give us our own personality.

"Without that personality, we'll never be a real nation, whatever our economic structure."

Seven other men received honorary degrees: Dr. L. T. Ride, Vice-Chancellor of the University of Hong Kong; Lawren Harris, Canadian artist; R. A. Laidlaw, chairman of the Board of the Hospital for Sick Children; Charles Rupert Sanderson, Toronto's chief librarian; Dr. W. T. Brown, President-emeritus of Victoria College; Most Rev. Richard Downey, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Liverpool, England, and Walter Palmer Thompson, president of the University of Saskatchewan.



Union Charges Lockout

OSHAWA, June 9 — (CP). — Ontario Steel Products' suspension Thursday of 160 employees constituted a lockout, Lou Ashton, spokesman for Local 222, United Auto Workers (CIO) said Friday. Ashton said the workers indicated no intention of walking off the job and the negotiating committee was surprised at the company action. W. A. Washington, factory manager, said men were suspended because of a slowdown in the plant.

HUGE CRISPER HOLDS MORE THAN 14 QUARTS—International Harvester's new 9.5-cubic-foot refrigerator for 1951 has cold-to-the-floor refrigeration. This means more food storage space without increasing the size of the cabinet. The exclusive "Egg-O-Mat" in Model UA-95 holds 16 eggs, dispenses them one or two at a time automatically. A huge covered meat drawer stores almost 17 pounds of meat. The freezer locker holds up to 35 pounds of frozen foods. (Advt.)

PLAN 50-67—Designed along conservative lines, this two-storey house offers an interior as distinctive as its exterior. The full-length dining-room area with fireplace affords a variety of possible decorative schemes, while the kitchen is spacious and well-planned. The three bedrooms located on the second floor are well-lighted and provide ample closet space. The self-contained vestibule eliminates the square appearance so common in this type of architecture. For estimating purposes, the total area of the house is 1,066 square feet and cubic contents 14,642 cubic feet. (Working drawings may be obtained from Central Mortgage and Honusing Corporation at minimum cost).

Eliminate Moisture in Home Stop Paint From Peeling

By JIM CHANDLER

Written for NEA Service

Home owners lose $1,000,000 a year because of paint-peeling caused by moisture trapped in walls of their homes.

That is just the price of otherwise unnecessary repainting. It is just a conservative figure. It does not count loss by rotting timbers or siding.

Conditions vary in different areas. Generally, expert surveys found ruinous paint-peeling conditions in developments of newer (10 years or younger) homes. Blisters occur most frequently on small houses.

On one block were counted 13 of 15 homes with serious sears on their painted surfaces, where sun's warmth had drawn water from soaked siding, sheathing and possibly insulation.

Few Sealed

In older neighborhoods occurence of paint peeling might be as infrequent as one in 30. Not so many old homes have been sealed up with storm sash, weatherstripping and insulation.

Rules to stop paint peeling where it occurs or to prevent it from happening to any home include:

Improve facilities for ventilation, winter and summer.

Guard against excess humidity in your household.

Install barriers to halt the attack of moisture before it gets under way.

As to ventilation, we can review the case of the home of W. J. Chamberlain of 1355 Homeland Dr., Rocky River, Ohio. The Chamberlains installed an automatic clothes dryer in the basement laundry room. In 18 months the paint fell off the inside basement walls.

Used Vent

Installation of a direct vent to the outdoors corrected this condition, but then paint peeling on the outside of the house was noticed. That probably was from moisture trapped in walls before the vent was in use.

Now weep holes have been bored in the siding where the moisture was gathering and when the wall is dry again it will be safe to repaint. Such stories could be told by the score.

At the University of Illinois Small Homes Council we are told that best ventilation is controlled ventilation rather than reliance on cracks around doors and windows.

Air brought into the home by ventilation should be heated, except when brought into unheated attics. If home is heated by warm air furnace, an outside air intake can be added to the heating plant.

Ventilation can be arranged in attics under roof peaks and at eaves. Best solution to moisture in attics is to prevent it reaching the attic by use of moisture vapor papers, foils or paints.

To ventilate attics by exhaust fan, one and a quarter air changes an hour are recommended.

It has been found in actual practice in this area that kitchen, laundry and bathroom exhaust fans control excessive humidity if used when needed.

A moisture meter in a home is a good form of insurance against wet walls and paint peeling.

By watching the moisture meter as often as you consult your room thermometer you will know when to bring ventilation controls into use.

Just as humidifiers are helpful for excessive dryness, dehumidifiers are excellent in too-wet homes. They run by electricity and work automatically except that the water they take out of the air must be emptied occasionally.

Here are humidity control rules:

When outdoor temperature is under zero, keep relative humidity under 25 at indoor temperatures of 70 degrees. When its' between zero and 10 above outdoors, hold indoor humidity at about 35. At outdoor temperatures above 10 degrees indoor humidity should not exceed 40.

Here is another "commandment" in the war against water. Prevent exterior moisture from getting into your home by repairing defects in construction and making sure your paint protection is adequate.

Tighter and tighter seals, inside and out, are not the only answer to excessive moisture produced in everyday living.

Controlled ventilation is urged by experts who know the cause of multi-thousand paint failures. Does your home have controlled ventilation? Does anybody's?

I predict that the home of the furture will have automatic humidistats that will move moisture-removal equipment into action before furniture, walls and paint are endangered.

The house of 1960—in the upper price brackets—will have such control, and you won't even have to push a button. It is most needed, however, in the smaller, lower-bracket home where just as many people are bathing, cooking and washing clothes in smaller space.

Irish Mainland Boy's New World

GREAT BLASKET ISLAND, Ireland —(CP)— The wonders of a new world were opened for five-year-old Gerald Keane when he left this lonely island, off the Kerry coast, for a new home on the mainland.

And the first wonder Gerald saw was another child. During the little fellow's brief career he had never seen a boy or girl. There were no other children on the island.

Gerald lived on an island which has no church, school nor shop. It is without doctor or policeman and has no telephone. The lad grew up speaking gaelic and still knows not a word of English. He has never seen an automobile, train nor bicycle and doesn't know the meaning of radio.

Fifty years ago 300 people made a good living on Great Blasket, catching fish. Then the fish deserted their shores. The islanders scattered to new homes throughout the world, mainly in England, Canada and the United States.

When Gerald, his mother and fisherman father left the island the population was reduced to its all-time low of 27.

Oldsters Not Split

KINCARDINE, June 9 (CP)— Bruce county has decided that its home for elderly persons will no longer include the words "for the aged" so often seen in other places. Couples requiring admission to the home will now be allowed to continue living together instead of being separated.

Minesweeper Begun

PORT ARTHUR, June 9 (CP) —The keel for a $1,000,000 coastal type minesweeper for the Royal Canadian Navy was laid at Port Arthur shipyards Friday. Officials said a new type of ship construction will be used on the vessel. The hull will be made of hardwood and no steel will be used in her entire make-up.

Treasurer Dies

TORONTO, Jun 9 — (CP) — Donald F. McMillan, 67, former treasurer of the Toronto Stock Exchange, died here Friday. Mr. McMillan was a member of the Exchange for 30 years, and played a prominent part in the consolidation of the old Toronto Stock Exchange and the Standard Mining Exchange.

Chimney Swifts Speeders In Canadian World Of Birds

Written for The Canadian Press
By PERCY GHENT

Chimney swifts are the speed demons of the feathered world. It has been estimated that these birds, during migration, travel as far as 1,000 miles a day, but there has never been any verification of this remarkable span.

But the swifts have to be speedy on the wing, for they travel far. Their breeding range in Canada stretches from Newfoundland to Alberta and immense flocks spend the winter in Brazil.

Chimey swifts have other interesting ways apart from their rapid transit. More at home in the air than elsewhere, they actually snap off dead twigs for nest building while in flight. These are carried to caves, hollow trees and tall chimneys and attached to the walls of such cavities with the lavish supply of sticky saliva which they secret; and the building process is continued in the same way.

Audubon, on one of his pioneer bird trips more than a century ago, brok away part of an immense hollow tree where swifts were nesting. Their nests were ranged, dormitory fashion, and covered every available inch of the hollow. Swifts were nesting there, he records, literally by the thousand.

Expert aerial hunters, the swifts find most of their insect fodder a-wing, and their economic value is high. They have large, keen eyes and seem to share the ability of owls to penterate the gloom, for their hunting continues after dusk.

Romantic Woodcock

"Whistler, wood snipe, timber doodle." These are three of the popular names given to that low, stocky bird, the woodcock, encountered in the summer woods of Canada. Appearance of this bird with its broad bill and long squat frame inspires a grin which broadens when the call, a curious nasal pee-ee-nt, is heard.

The woodcock is a romantic soul and mating time finds him winging above his prospective mate and serenading her with a warbling whistle. Approaching her on the ground, he straddles along with a stride so proud and stilted that obstructions in the path are unseen and the woodcock stumbles over stone or branch in a most ridiculous sort of way.

Laughing Loons

Summer trek of tourists to the lakelands of Canada is now under way, but the loons were ahead of them, and their crazy laughter sometimes disturbs the rest of vacationists:

Still the night with a ghostly moon,
And you toss, awake, by a northern lake,
For the weird, loud laughter of the loon
Makes slumber sweet your couch forsake—
Shrill laugh on laugh o'er a watery mile
—Why can't that mad bird merely smile?

HISTORIC PLANT

Science Develops a "Wrist-Ear" for the Deafened

What is believed to be the nearest approach to perfect human hearing has finally been achieved with the aid of a tiny electronic "ear" which is worn on the wrist hidden under the sleeve of the coat, shirt or blouse.

This tiny "Wrist-Ear," because of the way it is worn, eliminates most of the objection the hard of hearing have against conventional hearing devices. You wear it on your wrist to gain advantage that not even your head can give you! In this manner you can hear in all direction, understand everything being said, and it arouses no curiosity because it is always worn under the sleeve.

This amazing new development may be seen and tried without cost or obligation at Acousticon Quinte Co., 172½ Hunter St. W., Peterborough, Ont., Phone 22528; or, a FREE illustrated booklet will be sent by writing to Public Education Dept. 6, Acousticon Laboratories, Jamaica 1, New York.

Polymer Shuffles Top Brass, Barrington Head

OTTAWA, June 9 (CP).—J. D. Barrington, Toronto industrialist, was appointed president and managing director of Polymer Corporation Limited Friday as the Crown synthetic rubber plant realigned its top brass.

Mr. Barrington, president of Light Alloys Limited and vice-president and general manager of Dominion Magnesium Limited, succeeds E. J. Brunning, the corporation's president since 1946.

Due to pressure of other work, Mr. Brunning resigned as president but continues as chairman of the board.

E. R. Rowzee, manager of the $50,000,000 plant, becomes vice-president and manager, succeeding J. R. Nicholson, who resigned.

One Moves Out

Mr. Nicholson, who was with the plant since its origin in 1942, was executive vice-president and managing director. He is taking an appointment with another corporation.

The shuffle and resignations were announced by Production Minister Howe, following an annual meeting of the board of directors. The plant now is in the midst of a $10,000,000 expansion program.

"Mr. Brunning and Mr. Nicholson, working together in the past few years, have made a tremendous contribution to the successful operation of Polymer Corporation," Mr. Howe said.

"It is with regret that the Government loses the services of Mr. Nicholson, but we are fortunate that we can retain the benefit of Mr. Brunning's knowledge and experience."

Police Testify Man Admitted Imprisoned Boy

KINGSTON, Ont., June 9 (CP) —A policeman's testimony quoting Owen C. Dulmage of Ottawa as saying he took a Kingston schoolboy prisoner last Easter week-end and drove him to Ottawa in his car was admitted as evidence yesterday at Dulmage's trial on an abduction charge.

Detective Everett Luker of Kingston said he talked to Dulmage in a Kingston hospital last March 25. He said Dulmage, 29-year-old civil servant and boys' worker, told of trailing 13-year-old Teddy Wainwright by car and then on foot, of striking him with a stick, then taking him to his Ottawa home. Dulmage said he was returning the boy to Kingston when his car crashed into a culvert near here.

Another police officer, Inspector A. E. Ready, is scheduled to testify when the trial, which started Wednesday, resumes Monday.

Earlier in the trial, the boy said he was taken to a house and held captive 32 hours. He said that during that time he was forced to don swimming trunks, was blindfolded, trussed up in various positions and had his initials scratched on one thigh. He said he probably could have escaped, but did not try to do so.

For the second time since the start of the trial, Dulmage yesterday complained of feeling ill. A recess was declared for 15 minutes while he rested on the bench of the prisoners' dock and his mother talked to him. A similar incident occurred Wednesday.

Steel Supplies Short Future Worse—Official

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont, June 9 — (CP). — Col. V. S. Thompson of Ottawa, an official of the Defence Production Department, Friday predicted a dim future for Canada's steel supply situation.

He told the convention of master plumbers and heating contractors that the situation is growing worse and prospects do not look too bright. This is because of the controlled materials plan scheduled to go into effect July 1 in the United States.

Col. Thompson said the steel restrictions will bring hardship to the small contractors engaged in building stores and other restricted projects.

"We can only ask you to be patient and shop around among your suppliers for the steel," he said.

5 Generations Of Men In Bowmanville

TORONTO, June 9 — (CP). — There are only two families in Canada that can wish a happy Father's Day to father, grandfather, great-grandfather, and great-great-grandfather on June 17.

The Canadian Father's Day Committee, after conducting a nation-wide search, says one is the John Edmondson family of Oshawa and Bowmanville; the other is the Cleveland Forbes family of Lower East Pubnico, NS.

The committee declared the Edmondson family tops because the great-great-grandfather is four years older than his seafaring Nova Scotia rival.

The search turned up many five-generation families, but only two in which the male links all were living.

Great-great - grandfather Edmondson is 90 and his great-great-grandson Howard is four.

Growing Number Of Beggars Major Headache In India

By T. K. PARTHASARATHY

BOMBAY, June 9 (Reuters) — India's growing population of beggars is one of the government's major headaches.

Begging for alms now is an offense in most of the Indian states. Yet nearly 2,000,000 persons earn their living by begging on the streets in India's cities, towns and villages.

Social welfare schemes are slow in taking shape and beggars' homes and work houses are too few to take the large number off the streets.

Home Minister Sir Rajagopalachari told parliament recently: "To outlaw beggary is legally easy, but to abolish it is beset with great difficulties."

Three Reasons

Administrative authorities and students of social science attribute the increase in beggar population to three main factors—growing unemployment among unskilled workers; near-famine conditions in many parts of the country; and the age-old belief that giving alms is an act of merit and atonement for one's sins.

Many wealthy people in India set aside regular sums for charity, especially during religious functions and on the eve of pilgrimages.

According to unofficial estimates, the Indian people distribute a sum of 10,000,000 rupees ($2,100,000) a year in charity.

A Bombay sociologist, who conducted a survey of the city's beggar problem, reported that an average beggar's daily earnings ranged from the equivalent of 20 cents to about $2. Juveniles, cripples and physically handicapped people make a better turnover than the others.

Some beggars make artificial wounds in their bodies and shout for alms lying on the pavements. Some exploit their crippled and maimed "brethren" to make a good collection. These cripples are carried in pushcarts around the city's main thoroughfares.

A considerable number of the beggars are lepers and many of them suffer from other communicable diseases. Leper beggars alone total about 220,000.

Former Teachers Assemble To Honor Three Retiring

About 30 former teachers and principals of Central School were happy to be in the old school again when they assembled there Friday at the tea hour to pay tribute and honor to three women who are retiring from the profession and from the staff of Central School.

They are Miss Ethel Richardson who has taught only in the Central School, Miss Stella Bennett and Miss Jean Buck who have been on the staff for a number of years.

Mr. R. F. Downey who was principal from 1908 to 1923, and who is now retired, delighted with some reminiscences from that period, and then extended good wishes and hopes for the future and some advice: "Keep up your associations; have hobbies." He then presented a lovely silver tray to Miss Bennett.

Mr. K. S. Wightman, also a former principal, had this to say: "There is something about Central School, perhaps its age and traditions, which lends happiness to the teachers and pupils, and makes teachers reluctant to leave the staff." He spoke especially of Miss Richardson who has always had the kindergarten class and of the value of the child's introduction to the school. "When he is made to feel welcome, is understood and is looked after he is happy, as were Miss Richardson's pupils." A similar tray was presented to her by Mr. Wightman.

Major R. J. Bolton, ex-principal had one thing in particular to say about Miss Buck: "She has been a teacher." He explained that many try to be teachers and work hard at it, but not all are teachers in the true sense. He said that Miss Buck had succeeded in "keeping out of the rut which some of us fall into" by her eagerness to try out new systems. Her gift from the staff and former teachers was a silver water pitcher, presented by Mr. Bolton.

Mr. D. T. Crawford, present principal, welcomed all the teachers present, on behalf of the staff, some of whom had come some distance for the tea. Telegrams and messages were sent by those unable to be present.

Another former principal who spoke briefly was Mr. F. H. Dearborn.

A pretty tea room was arranged in the special class room which was profusely decorated with lovely flowers. Mrs. Crawford and Miss E. Thomlinson, former teacher, filled the tea cups and guests were served by the present staff members.

Rabbit Comes Out of Hiding Style Show Features Bunny

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK, June 9—(AP)—If you can't get mink, take rabbit.

That's the advice of a group of America's top fashion designers, who co-operated in a style show entirely devoted to glorifying the once humble rabbit.

Urging the feminine public to "get the rabbit habit," the show's sponsors yesterday displayed every imaginable kind of garment made of rabbit fur in all colors of the spectrum.

From bathing suits to evening gowns, the rabbit definitely is in the picture for 1951-52.

Most remarkable, the lowly rabbit is called by his right name this year—not lapin, or coney or pseudo-mink, but just plain rabbit.

College girls, it is predicted, will go for the handsome camel-colored greatcoat of rabbit fur, made on the style of the beloved polo coat. The one shown, designed by William Seifert, featured pearl butons, patch pockets, vent back and Scotch plaid lining.

Purple Rabbit

Another high spot of the show as a dramatic at-home costume designed by Harold J. Rubin, consisting of a purple rabbit fur wrap-around skirt lined in turquoise jersey and worn over matching turquoise leotards (another word for tights).

Tina Leser, famous sportswear designer, showed a little evening jacket, cardigan style, made of rabbit fur dyed to look like chinchilla, bound in grosgrain and felt and lined in turquoise brocade.

A red rabbit fur skirt and bolero, designed by Clifford of Delmar, was recommended for college weekends or football stadium wear.

Sally Victor, noted millinery designer, was represented by a pixie hat and matching outsize muff of bright red rabbit fur, while the college blazer turned up in blonde rabbit fur, complete with breast pocket emblem.

All the rabbit styles shown will sell for less than $200, it was pointed out, to the accompaniment of fervent applause.

Nancy Sootheran Is Bride In Ceremony At St. John's

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Sootheran of Peterborough and the groom the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Luxford of Walkerville.

In an all-white setting tall standards of larkspur, stocks, roses, gypsophilia and Esther Reid daisies with candlelight at the altar, the ceremony was performed by Ven. Archdeacon W. P. The bride wore a gown of deep cream satin with insets of heirloom lace at the neckline and front of the skirt and the train a part of her great great grandmother's wedding dress lined with shirred peach chiffon. DOROTHY DIX

Married At 16, Girl Fears Romance Fading Quickly

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a very unhappy bride, and unless you can help me I do not know what to do. I am 16 years old and have been married eight weeks. I was very happy for the first six weeks, but since two weeks ago I can see that my husband's love for me is dying and it breaks my heart. He doesn't kiss me good-by when he leaves in the morning and I have to kiss him if I get a good-night kiss at all. I try in every way to please him, but nothing seems to do any good. We made a promise before we got married that we would never let our romance fade, and here it is going right before my eyes. What can I do?

Dorothy Dix

AN UNHAPPY WIFE

ANSWER: If you have any common sense, use it. At any rate, try to act like a grown-up married woman, since you are married, instead of a silly crybaby who has developed a fine case of self-pity and is making herself miserable over her imaginings.

If you were old enough to have any knowledge of life, you would know that your marriage is just going through the inevitable period of settling down that every marriage does when a bride and groom descend from the heights of courtship to the flat realities of matrimony.

Make The Best Of It

You can't help it or change it. You will have to make the best of it and realize that because your husband doesn't kiss you every time he goes and comes is no sign he has ceased to love you. It is because kisses used to be a rarity when he was courting you and now they are commonplace. And it is no sign he has ceased to love you because he doesn't make life a perpetual petting party for you. He is doing something a lot better. He is trying to make you a comfortable living, and believe me, the test of a husband's love is not how many pretty speeches he makes nor how often he kisses her but how hard he is willing to work for his wife.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a very nice friend, the mother of two children who are completely undisciplined. She frequently telephones and asks me to meet her for lunch and shopping, but as I am a nervous wreck after a session with these youngsters, I am always making excuses for not meeting her. In a restaurant, the children throw food around, climb on the tables, argue, and in general act like a couple of untrained animals. My friend is very sensitive and I don't want to hurt her feelings, but I would like to know what excuses I can make to get out of these dates. R. R.

ANSWER: You could invent an ailment that requires you to be completely quiet, or some work that keeps you continuously busy, but that's about all I could suggest in the line of drastic excuses. The conventional social fibs for getting out of unsought engagements—a sudden headache, dentist's appointment, etc.—can only be used temporarily. I doubt if your friend is as sensitive as you think, so why not come right out and tell her the children are a bit too noisy for you to take in unadulterated doses?

If the savants who gather around television cameras and tell us what's wrong with the world would cast their eyes nearer home, a very potent source of trouble could be seen in the rude, undisciplined, inconsiderate children of today. Too many parents lack the time to teach manners, or consider such teaching unimportant. It is actually one of the most vital things a child should learn, coming only after respect for the authority of God, country and family. No one will ever extend a welcome to an unmannered child — or teenager — or adult. The youngster who has never learned manners and graces that should be almost inherent, will grow up to be the person who sit around all day moping, "Why don't I have friends?" and "Why can't I be popular?"

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: When I married three months ago, I already had a five-year-old daughter I have never been married before, and my husband wants to adopt the child. We want to know how to go about this. GLORIA

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Local laws in adoption matters vary so much from place to place that it would be best for you to seek legal advice. You will need this eventually anyway, for drawing up the necessary papers.

Readers' Saturday Column Conducted By Mary Moore

QUESTION: Please send calorie chart. Also basic reducing diets as I am 50 lbs. overweight and love to eat. But I'm determined to lose it or—— Already I have cut out potatoes, gravies and creamed sauces. Would appreciate very much further help. Mrs. Leonard H.

ANSWER: Good stuff. But butter and sugar have to be the next two casualties. You may have one pat—inded should have—one pat of butter or margarine per day. A pat is one-inch square by ¼-inch thick. It is easier for me to do without butter on my bread than on my vegetables so I horde this one pat and use it on my vegetables at dinner. An easy and simple way to cut out sugar is to leave it out of tea and coffee of course, and if you must have them sweet use saccharin or sucaryl. Then — eat no desserts that contain sugar. This boils down to eating fresh fruit for dessert which I think is quite a treat—especially with fresh fruit season just starting. There is no punishment in eating an oversize bowl of fresh ripe strawberries is there? This serves a triple purpose: You thus avoid the flour and fat included in most made desserts containing sugar; you do not have the work of preparing them—and besides, fruit is much better from a health standpoint. So—you will feel better, plus weighing less.

You may have one potato—medium-sized—every other day but it should be baked or steamed with skin on. You eat the jacket too. The day you have this use your whole pat of butter on it. Stress vegetables too. Have at least 2 vegetables that are not potatoes for dinner every day. Eat salad and 1 slice whole wheat bread for lunch. Use cottage cheese on your salad to take the place of mayonnaise. Try this advice and write me news of your progress. Calorie chart will be mailed.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER continued to Miss Irene P. from last week asking for

Cabbage Rolls

One medium head cabbage, ½ pound hamburger, 1 cup cooked rice, 1 minced onion, 2 tablespoons fat, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 can condensed tomato soup, ½ cup sour cream. Remove most of the leaves from a medium head of cabbage and cook in boiling water about 3 minutes or just long enough to make the leaves flexible. Drain, and cut the thickest part away from the midrib. Melt the fat and saute the onion in it until transparent. Remove from heat and add the meat and the rice and seasoning. Drop a tablespoon of this mixture at stem end of each leaf and roll up, folding the outside edges in so that filling cannot escape. Place open side down on baking dish to prevent them unrolling. Pour undiluted tomato soup over. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 45 minutes. They may be very gently simmered on top of stove if necessary. Five minutes before serving pour over sour cream. Sour cream may be omitted if desired. Tomato soup may be replaced with sour cream. Raw rice may be used instead of cooked, when you will need to add double the quantity of tomato or sour cream.

QUESTION: I appreciated your diabetic recipe for jam last fall. Would you have one for strawberry jam? That's my favorite.

Mary—I can some of my own fruit because all diabetic foods are so high-priced. I have the best luck with peaches and pears. Prepare fruit in the usual way then crush about 1 cup of the fruit to make juice and add ½ cup water. Stew until tender. Then working very fast put in very hot sterile jars and screw tops down. This, of course is free of sugar. Sometimes it's a little tart, but I like the fresh fruit taste. Hope this will help someone. (Mrs.) Gordon B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I am testing all the fruits in jam for diabetics and will have the recipes in this column in plenty of time for preserving. Thanks for yours.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: I'm sure having fun collecting and trying out your recipes. Baked the whole wheat bread on Saturday and my mother visited us and she said it was the best whole wheat bread she had ever tasted, also loud applause from hubby—thanks to you.

You printed a recipe for bread and I have mislaid it and I'm anxious to try it while Mom is here. The only thing I can remember about it you said it was so light and tasty it was more like cake than bread. I believe it also called for beer (optional). Would also like calorie chart.

Please print more recipes for puddings, and also date loaf at your convenience. I have enjoyed your reeipes and helpful hints. Cooking isn't at all humdrum any more. I find myself eagerly going through your recipes to find a cake or bread recipe, etc., anxious to try my luck at the finished product. Mrs. R. E. H.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Sounds Irish and full of blarney but I love it!

Limpa (A Swedish rye flour and molasses bread)

Two lbs. coarse rye flour, 1 quart ale or water, 2 quarts milk, 3 yeast cakes, 6 lbs. white flour, 1 quart molasses, 2 tablespoons fennel, 3 tablespoons chopped orange peel, ⅞ cup butter. Warm the ale or water. Put the rye flour in bowl, and add the ale or water. Work for 15 minutes and let stand for 12 hours. Add lukewarm milk with the dissolved yeast and white flour. (Dissolve the yeast in a little lukewarm water.) Set aside till dough has doubled in volume. Work in molasses, the chopped fennel and orange peel, and enough white flour to make a stiff dough. Let rise once more until light. Shape into oblong loaves, put in warm place to rise and when very light brush over with cold water and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. Brush with cold water twice more while baking, and when taken out of oven, brush again. Baking time is about 45 minutes.

Quarter this recipe when you make your first batch. It is too much until you find out whether you like it or not.

Date Loaf

One and one-half cups dates chopped, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons boiling water, 2/3 cup brown sugar, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1¾ cups flour, 1 teaspoon each salt and baking powder. Add soda and boiling water to dates, mix well and let cool. Add the sugar, beaten egg butter and vanilla. Sift flour, baking powder and salt and add them. Stir well and turn into greased loaf pan. Bake at 300 deg. Fahr. about 1 hour and 15 minutes.

I hope you saw the column containing pudding recipes earlier in the week. I will send the Calorie Chart when I receive my new supply.

James Fleming, police court stenographic reporter, was called by Mr. Fair to testify as to the accuracy of his transcription.

Late For Work

As it was after 7 a.m. when the accident occurred Mr. Fair suggested that the youths were certainly in a great hury to get to work as Spring was to get home. Both brothers admitted they were several minutes late.

Lloyd Sweeting told the jury they weren't concerned with being late, and were, in fact, late quite often.

"You don't like being late do you?" queried Mr. Fair in a shocked tone.

"Oh, you sort of get used to it," was the casual reply. This brought a guffaw from the jury.

After Jury Foreman Charles J. Ray announced the "not guilty" verdict to the dangerous driving charge, Judge McGibbon asked Spring to stand.

"The jury have been very merciful," he said, "they might well have found a verdict of guilty on the evidence. I hope this will be a lesson to you."

Crown Attorney John Bradshaw conducted the case for the Crown.

Milk Production At Year's Peak

TORONTO, June 9 — (CP).— Lush pastures almost everywhere in Ontario during the last few days have brought milk production close to what will probably be its peak for this year, the Ontario Agriculture Department said Friday night. In Frontenac County, the milk flow has been well above average.

With ideal weather conditions and adequate moisture in the soil, crops continue to grow rapidly.

Tent caterpillars were numerous in many districts and around Palmer Rapids in Eastern Ontario an outbreak of grasshoppers was reported.

The department reported hay crops and pastures showed great promise in every section off Ontario and springg rains were growing rapidly. There was every indication of a bumper crop.

An increase in grain corn acreage was indicated in Stormont County, and an acréage increase in husking corn was also expected in Ontario County.

Cement Workers Get 12-Cent Increase

MONTREAL, June 9 (CP). — Canada Cement Company and the Cement Workers International Union (AFL) have signed a collective labor agreement providing for general hourly wage increase of 12 cents and further increases throughout the year with a reduction in working hours amounting to another 28 cents.

The new contract, ratified by union members yesterday, would affect 400 employees of the company's Montreal East plant. Another 1,00 cement workers in Belleville, Ont., Winnipeg and other cities will be affected to some extent.

The 12 cent increase will begin immediately. Employees will reduce their present work week from 48 to 44 hours, beginning June 15, equalling a wage gain of nine to 11 cents an hour. The rest of the increase is to be granted during the year in accordance with a special agreement taking into consideration the operational gain of the company.

Invention Models Of Bell's Neglected

OTTAWA, June 9 (CP)—Resources Minister Winters promised Friday night in the Commons to look into the possibility of bringing the early experimental models of inventor Alexander Graham Bell into federal safekeeping.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, suggested that be done and reported that the models which Bell used in early developments on the telephone, the gramaphone and the airplane are housed in a wooden shed at the old Bell homestead near Baddeck, N.S.

They should, he urged, be placed in a fireproof building as a historic sight.

Mr. Winters said he had mentioned the question of the Bell models to Premier Macdonald of Nova Scotia. Mr. Macdonald said many of the items had been removed from the homestead.

However, Mr. Winters promised to look into the matter again.

Muscovites Trek To Country During Summer

By EDDY GILMORE.

MOSCOW — (AP). — Moving to a summer place in the country appeals to a great many Muscovites and this is the time of the year for the exodus.

The word for summer house is dacha. Caravans of trucks piled high with house furnishings move out of the city to the summer places. The demand is so great at the height of the move you have to order a truck in advance.

There are dozens of electric railways that branch out from the city for 40 or 50 miles in every direction. Wage earners commute between their jobs and the country.

Gardening is a popular summer activity—and those without a country plot cultivate patches of land around the city's outskirts.

It has been a cold, wet spring one of the latest in a long time. But warm, sunny weather came suddenly and there was a mad rush to buy seeds and garden tools.

Soccer Popular

Sports fans have a busy time in the summer. Football (soccer) attracts thousands of Muscovites. About 80,000 fans crowd into Dynamo Stadium on a Sunday.

With the Russians participating in the Olympic Games, it is almost certain the Soviet Union will put in a bid as host city at a future date. Everyone expects the Russians will announce plans soon for a new big stadium with surrounding grounds to take care of Olympic attendance.

Horse racing draws many Muscovites who want to place a bet. In the fall and winter this is confined to trotting races, but in the summer the crowds at Moscow Citadel (Hippodrome). get a chance to watch the gallopers.

There are always the beautiful "white nights" of the Russian summer, whether in the city or at a summer house Newspapers can be read out in the open until 10 p.m. The sky from 11 p.m. to 3 a.m. is blue-white, the kind of color used in the paintings of Marfield Parrish.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

The attendance at the men's doubles tournament last evening was not as large as was expected and just what the reason no one seemed to know. However, those that did compete had a good evening. They played three 8-end games with the following results: R. Dyer and C. Mowry, first; A. Aitkenhead and A. Jackson, second; R. Downey and C. McIntyre, third; G. Spence and W. Young, fourth; R. Gamble and D. Pruner, fifth.

Tonight, weather permitting, we have the family hour tournament at 7:30 o'clock.

We have a correction to make regarding that tournament held at Campbellford on Wednesday afternoon and evening: George Coleman's rink came in for high two wins, and Wm. Jeffries' rink won the prize for high single game.

Market Slump Resumes After Flurry

By BILL DANIELS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Prices wavered up and down on stock markets this week and ended yesterday almost where they began. New York was a trifle higher while Canadian markets were a bit lower.

The week's trading showed that last week's upsurge, the market's best weekly advance in three months, was only temporary. Indications were that the current trading slump which began in mid-February would continue for a while yet at least.

Cautiousness and selectiveness —common in recent dealings — was still the practice.

Trading was slightly more active this week than last, but it was generally in line with the slow pace of the previous 15 weeks. Investors were again reluctant to get into the market, and when they did they focussed their attention mostly on leading or carrier stocks which have been reliable over the years.

On Monday, Canadian markets were closed in recognition of the King's birthday. In New York prices dropped substantially, but with an absence of volume that caused traders to look on the fall with little or no concern. They were borne out on Tuesday when stocks rallied and built up sternth as trading rolled along. By the close, prices were well ahead, with railroads in the forefront.

Selling Spree

Tuesday's trading on Canadian markets was a different story. Investors marked their return from a three-day holiday with a selling spree, and prices fell over a broad front. Towards the close they found enough support to level off.

Canadian markets bounced back the next day and New York continued climbing. New York prices ended with gains ranging up to $1 and oil issues joined the rails in leading the move. The Canadian advance was a little shakier—but by the session's end there were a few increases of more than $2.

On Thursday, New York prices forged ahead for the third straight day. Trading there was at its most active pace in two weeks. On Canadian exchanges, however, Wednesday's upswing slowed to a halt. Prices closed mixed with changes mostly small.

Drift Lower

New York ran into selling resistance yesterday. Prices settled uneasily into lower levels amid quiet trading. Losses were small and a few vain tries to get ahead gave the market an irregular tinge. Canadian markets opened firm, became mixed at noon and then drifted lower in the afternoon. Trading showed little enthusiasm.

From Friday to Friday the Toronto Stock Exchange indices showed industrials down .74 at 327.42, golds down 1.00 at 75.72, base metals down 2.65 at 174.92, and Western Oils down 1.99 at 104.01.

In the Montreal averages, papers were off 24.83 at 808.12, industrials down 1.8 at 221.2; banks up 0.68 at 29.84, utilities off 0.2 at 85, combined off 1.3 at 175.8, and golds up 0.02 at 60.55.

In New York the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 40 cents at $92.80.

Union, Paper Agree

TORONTO, June 9—(CP)—The Toronto Newspaper Guild and the Daily Racing Form have reached agreement on a new one-year contract, the Guild announced Friday. The contract provides an average wage increase of $3 a week plus cost-of-living bonus of three per cent for every five-point increase in the cost-of-living index. The increases are retroactive to Dec. 1, 1950, and the bonus now is $3.20 a week, Guild officials said.

For Parents Only

After School . . . What Job?

By NANCY CLEAVER

Teen age boys and girls must plan early for summer employment. They know that the competition is keen for vacation jobs and that the "last minute" searcher may easily get left behind! Adolescents are eager to earn as much as they can. Parents realize the character values of working. They should also encourage their children, if possible to seek experience in the kind of work they want to do when their schooling is completed.

The vocational guidance departments in many schools are helping scholars find their niche in life. Every public library has reference books on Vocations. Such books as Young Canada Goes to Work by J. H. Stewart, Careers for Women by Millar, Beyond High School by Bennet and Hand are useful stores of information. Principals and teachers in collegiates, librarians, teen-town counsellors, and other friends of youth are willing to take time to discuss possible jobs with boys and girls.

In some centres there is an unofficial placement bureau sponsored by the collegiate staff and the Home and School Club. Cooperative citizens give willingly of their time for interviews by job-seeking teen agers. Ths helps boys and girls to think realistically before graduation about the labor market in their own home town and about their own qualifications. So does the vocational aptitude tests used by many large firms. The "help wanted" columns in the daily newspaper are a guide to the kind of jobs which are vacant.

Parents should be enthusiastic about such schemes. Unfortunately, mothers and fathers are often too eager to influence a son's or daughter's choice of a particular vocation. They have put so much loving care in the raising of a child, they have invested so much in clothes, food, shelter and education, they feel their advice should not only be listened to with respect, but should be followed. Often the parent's favorite type of work is one they themselves would like to have followed.

A girl has a chance to visit an aunt who holds an important position on a hospital staff. During her stay the girl not only sees over the institution, but has the opportunity to quietly observe the nurses at work. A boy has an idea that he would like to farm. In the summer vacation, although he could live at home and make more money from a job in his own town, his parents encourage him to seek employment on a farm through the government placement plan. Thus he gains practical experience in farm work.

When there is an adolescent boy or girl in the family, if at all possible, the summer vacation should be not only a holiday period from school work, but a time when in a new environment a boy or girl gets first-hand knowledge of a possible vocation. Being away from home, earning money and making one's own way are all steps to emotional and economic maturity.

Holiday employment may play a vital part in forming the right answer to the important question: "After school—what job?"

Blond Mrs. Archie Mayo of Hollywood has her stolen jewels safely stashed away and Montreal detectives are hoping there won't be any more visitors who leave $100,000 worth of diamonds and platinum lying around hotel lobbies.

When the movie producer's attractive wife left for New York recently it meant that the police could write closed to one of the most mysterious jewel theft cases in present-day memory.

A few days ago, the green leather case of gems Mrs. Mayo lost in a hotel lounge, were recovered in a bus terminal located after a mysterious "foreign woman" was found to have the locker ticket buried in a chocolate box.

This woman discovered by detectives through a strange phone tip, has booked passage for Europe since the relieved Mrs. Mayo was too happy to get her jewels back to press charges.

WA Groups Hold Joint Meeting

HAVELOCK, June 9 (ENS)—"Let your light so shine," was the theme of the worship period of the joint monthly meeting of the two groups of the Women's Association at Havelock United Church.

Mrs. W. Forsyth, who was in charge, read the scripture lesson and offered the prayer. Mrs. H. Thompson gave a short message on the theme which was based on the story of the ten virgins. She stressed the awful finality of that closed door which shut forever from the Kingdom the five foolish virgins. The trimmed and burning lamps Mrs. Thompson termed a symbol of preparedness in these uneasy days when we are constantly alerted by press and radio to be protected against a frightening future. In these days of widening opportunity it is necessary to keep our lamps of prayer, faith and love brightly burning.

In closing Mrs. Thompson gave a quotation made by the moderator of the United Church of Canada on the 25th anniversary of the church: "Will some future historian be able to write, 'In the 20th century when the world was perilously near falling to pieces, the Christians held it together and the United Church of Canada had a part in this great achievement'?"

The president, Mrs. N. Blakely, presided for the business session, when it was decided to hold a strawberry supper on the church lawn on June 19, from 4 to 8 p.m. with the following committee in charge of the arrangements: Mesdames N. Blakely H. Agnew, W. Forsyth, C. Anderson.

Mrs. H. Haacke, treasurer for the last group, turned in the sum of $27.75, while Mrs. A. Anderson gave $8 for the west group.

Mrs. E. Fennell reported that four calls had been made by the visiting committee during the month.

Mrs. E. W. Seeney and Mrs. M. Morrow were appointed a committee to purchase print and trimming for aprons and were voted $10 for this purchase. A meeting will be held in the basement in the near future to cut out the aprons.

Mrs. H. Pollock gave a reading and Miss Lorraine Thompson sang a solo with Mrs. F. R. Vanderburgh as accompanist.

Refreshments were served.

Undercurrents Battle Chaplains In 3 Services

OTTAWA, June 9 — (CP) — Canada's chaplains have had to fight "surreptitious under-currents" to implant a basic faith in Christian democracy in the country's servicemen, the Rev. E. G. B. Foote, Chaplain of the Fleet, said Friday.

The chief Protestant chaplain in the Royal Canadian Navy was speaking to commissioners at the 77th general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

He did not elaborate in his address on the under-current working against the church but later said he was referring to false philosophies present both inside and outside the services.

He told the church commissioners, however, that no Communists would be found among those who took part in the chaplains' program of study groups and lecture courses.

Great Ignorance

Chaplains face an appalling ignorance among service men of the basic philosophy for which Canada stands, Mr. Foote said. Chaplains were amazed at the inability of many men to give reasons for their service and what faith they had.

Study groups, organized by the chaplains, were designed to implant a proper attitude of life into servicemen.

He told the assembly the importance of the chaplains' spiritual mission now has been fully recognized.

Last night, Dr. W. A. Cameron, of Toronto, secretary of the Board of Missions, told the assembly the church should be stirred to higher and better qualities by the need of the times.

At yesterday's sessions, the assembly increased to $750 the annual pension payable to retired ministers. The previous maximum was $700.

C. M. Pitts, of Ottawa, chairman of the pension board, said the objective is to raise the maximum pension payable to $1,000.

Approved also was an increase of $25 annually to the widows of ministers who made full contributions to the pension scheme. The new maximum now is $375.

Steelworkers Accept Contract, End Strike

FERGUS, June 9 — (CP). — A contract settlement between Beatty Brothers Ltd. and the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) was reached Friday. It will end the weeklong shutdown of the company's plant here.

A meeting of 90 per cent of the plant's employees approved terms of settlement, and it appeared certain that work will be resumed Monday.

Work was halted last Monday when the company suspended some 600 workers who left their jobs to attend a union contract meeting. The company claimed it was a walk-out, while the union charged the company with a lock-out.

The contract, which has not yet been signed, provides a 12-cent hourly increase for day workers making $1.15 or less and a 15-cent increase for those making $1.16 or more. An extra 8 cents an hour will be paid piece-workers and a minimum of $1.10 an hour is guaranteed for new workers after five months' employment.

Fewer Homes Started

OTTAWA, June 9 — (CP) — Fewer homes were started or finished this year during March than last year but there were more during the first quarter of the year than the corresponding period of 1950. The Bureau of Statistics reported Friday the number of new dwellings completed in March totalled 5,539, compared with 6,578 in March, 1950. The decreases were confined to Ontario and British Columbia. The total for the first quarter of this year rose to 19,521 from 17,873 in the similar period of 1950.

All Pupils At Collegiate, St. Peter's Write Exams

When students at PCVS and St. Peter's High school write their final June examinations next week, it will be the first time for both schools that the whole student bodies have been writing at the same time.

Department of Education regulations this year require students from Grade 9 to Grade 12 to attend school at least until June 8. Therefore both high schools were forced to change examination times for these students from previous years.

The result is that these students will be writing at the same time as the fifth form students who have the departmental examinations. Never before has either school scheduled the lower and middle school students to write with the upper school students.

Start Monday

On Monday the lower and middle school students will begin writing, followed by the fifth form students on Tuesday.

Both schools will be working under crowded conditions. At PCVS on Monday the Grade 9 students will not begin writing until 10:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. because there is not enough classroom space. There are only 26 rooms for 37 classes to write in.

This year the upper school students will be writing in the school's gymnasium. C. S. Browne, principal, said that department regulations will require the tables placed five feet apart and a teacher supervisor for every 25 students. At times there may be three teachers supervising.

Arranged Times

At least 20 students at PCVS will be writing some Grade 12 and some Grade 13 subjects. But Mr. Browne has synchronized the Grade 12 timetable with the departmental timetable so that these students will not write three papers on the same day.

During this week PCVS has not compelled the Grade 13 students to attend classes. Mr. Browne said that the teachers were in the classrooms to give instruction during the regular periods for those students who wished help.

The remainder of the school was not affected by arrangement. In fact, said Mr. Browne, the attendance has been high, only the average four per cent absent.

For the students from Grade 9-13 students will have to wait until about July 10 although the final day for the decision of promotions by the teachers is June 27. Grade 23 students will have to wait until about August 10-15 before the departmental results are announced.

Civil Servants Request Bonus

OTAWA, June 9 — (CP) — Canada's 125,000 federal civil servants have asked the government for a cost-of-living bonus on the basis of $1.25 a month for every one-point climb in the cost-of-living index.

F. W. Whitehouse, president of the Civil eSrvice Federation of Canada, made public a letter to Prime Minister St. Laurent Friday.

Federal employees were granted a general wage increase last December, but since then, said Mr. Whitehouse, the index has climbed 10.9 points.

"There is no apparent indication that it will level off or recede appreciably in the foreseeable future. With the stated intention of organized labor to seek further general wage adjustments and other economic factors now known, a continuation of the increase trend is indicated."

Good While It Lasted But Moonshine Costly

SYDNEY, N.S., June 9 (CP)— The high cost of living, as it must to all men, came to Walter Penny, 37. The result was mass production of moonshine.

Penny, from East Bay, was fined $500 and jailed for three months Thursday. Mounties said they found him in possession of a still capable of producing 25 gallons of spirits an hour.

When the Mounties approached a farm house near the still they heard the bellow of a fog horn, a lookout's warning signal, they told Magistrate Vern Reid.

They found a 20-gallon boiler over a modern gas burner that could be heard for almost a quarter of a mile. The product was being poured into 90-gallon barrels. Also seized were 360 gallons of mash.

Heavy traffic had aroused police curiosity.

Kellar Family Holds Reunion

HAVELOCK, June 9 (ENS)— The descendants of the late Christopher Kellar and Elizabeth Hubble, pioneer residents of Healy Falls, gathered there on Wednesday for the annual family reunion. The reunion takes the form of a decoration and clean-up day at the Kellar cemetery situated near what is now known as the Ayrhart estate.

In this beautiful spot on a hillside overlooking Healy Falls at the dam, the descendants of this family have been buried on land, deeded especially for that purpose "for all time". In the early days when the Indians occupied this country it is believed that they used this section as a portage place.

Following the reunion which is held about June 1 each year the care of the cemetery from then on is given over to a caretaker.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Burgess, Mrs. Richard Cole and daughter Mary, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Abernethy, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Abernethy, Mrs. Nellie Miller, Mrs. C. Palliser of Campbellford; Mr. Gilbert Steenburgh of Marmora; Mr. and Mrs. Norris Loucks of Hoard's Station; Mr. and Mrs. Stanford Kellar, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kellar of Healy Falls; Miss Grace Kellar of Seymou township; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Whitney of Cordova Mines; Mr and Mrs. Bert Symes and children of Stanwood; Mrs. Hugh Kellar and daughter-in-law of Madoc; Mrs. Harry Tinney and Mrs. William Youmans of Havelock.

"Uncle Tom" On Broadway In New Ballet

By CHARLES HONCE

NEW YORK—(AP)—One June 5 a century ago, there appeared in the "National Era," an anti-slavery weekly of Washington, the first chapter of a story destined to sell more copies than any other American work.

It was "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The author was Harriet Beecher Stowe, who wrote the instalments on her kitchen table at night after she had put her five children to bed and finished her housework.

She was writing in Brunswick, Maine, where her husband was a professor at Bowdoin College, and she shed just as many tears in penning the tale as thousands of readers later shed over the adventures of Uncle Tom, Eliza, Topsy, Little Eva and Simon Legree.

The book, when it appeared almost a year later, was a world success of astounding proportions. A conservative estimate is that it has sold more than 6,500,000 copies.

To top it all Uncle Tom is on Broadway tonight—but in a form never envisaged by the author. A satirical ballet in the great Rogers and Hammerstein success "The King and I" goes through the Uncle Tom routine from Eliza and the bloodhounds to Little Eva's ascent to heaven, in a Siamese version called "The Mall House of Uncle Thomas."

Buried In Ontario

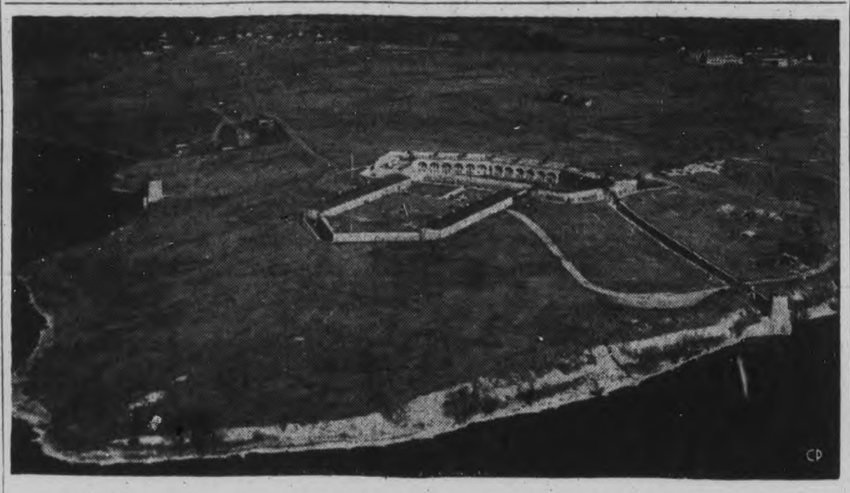
The original of "Uncle Tom" was Josiah Henson, a Negro slave who escaped to Canada and lived for many years at house in Dresden. He operated the British American Institute, Canada's first technical training school, and was widely known as the Rev. Josiah Henson.

He died 68 years ago at the age of 94. His home in Ontario has been restored virtually intact as a tourist attraction and pastorical site. The house itself likely was built soon after Henson, who got to Canada via the "underground" slave railway, established his institute in 1842.

Mrs. Stowe was well equipped for writing her great work. She had absorbed religious and anti-slavery doctrine from her family and her teachers in childhood. Therefore, when a sister-in-law wrote her from Boston in 1805 on the suffering of escaped slaves she touched off a spark with: "Now, Hattie, if I could use a pen as you can, I would write something that would make the whole nation feel what an accursed thing slavery is!"

The book came out March 20, and finally into the million.

1852, in two volumes bound in black cloth and illustrated with woodcuts. The price was $1.50 for the two. The sale was sensational. The totals went to 300,000 the first year, then to 500,000



Larger Sales

The sale abroad was larger even than in the United States. Illustrated editions were many. The great English artist Cruickshank drew 27 pictures for a London edition. Then there were Uncle Tom songs, a comic opera, card games, puzzles and finally a comic strip.

Millions read the book but far more millions saw the stage shows. Uncle Tom was the star attraction in many American cities. Six London theatres were presenting his story simultaneously in December 1852. Eventually the US versions became overlaid with hokum and degenerated into "Tom Shows" on the "10, 20, and 30 cent" circuits featuring the bloodhounds and other melodramatic incidents. Later the movies took over.

FORT HENRY—Reminder of the War of 1812 is Fort Henry, built overlooking the harbor at Kingston, Ont. The original fort, built in 1812, was demolished in 1832 and the present building was constructed between 1832 and 1838. Reconditioned and named a national historical site in 1938, it was used during Second World War to house prisoners-of-war. It opened for the 1951 tourist season this week in colorful ceremony with its guides dressed in the uniforms of the troops of 1812.

HEROIC 8-YEAR-OLD GIRL SAVES BOY PLAYMATE FROM DROWNING

Dolly Mason, of Barrie, Ont., shows coolness, courage and perseverance in rescuing 7-year-old lad

1. The three children — Dolly, her young brother and, 7-year-old Jimmy Tustin were having a wonderful time playing Cowboys and Indians. The spot was ideal . . . a culvert over a spring-swollen creek about a mile south of Barrie. But the brisk March weather proved treacherous and before he realized the danger Jimmy Tustin had slipped down an icy 20-foot bank and disappeared in 7 feet of frigid dark water.

2. The floundering boy had gone under several times before Dolly swung into action. Scrambling down the bank with her sleigh, she crept as close to Jimmy as she could — and then threw the sleigh to him, keeping a firm grasp on the rope herself. With a strength amazing in one so young she half-pulled, half-carried the boy inch by inch up the steep, icy bank until she had him safely at the top.

3. Jimmy was blue with cold and semi-conscious as Dolly dragged him the long quarter mile to his home. "We owe his life to Dolly", his mother said when the boy recovered about three hours later. To this gallant 8-year-old Canadian girl we are proud to pay tribute through the presentation of The Dow Award. Her action is in keeping with the finest qualities of good citizenship.

The boy, and a friend, Peter Newmaster, 9, were pushing their bicycles up the hill on the east side of the highway. They were in single file.

A northbound car passed another on the hill, and swerved back to the east side to avoid a southbound auto, hitting the two boys.

The Sanderson boy was knocked about 70 feet by the impact. The Newmaster boy was thrown into the ditch and suffered only a bruised arm.

An unidentified witness said the driver, a woman, stopped the car some distance further north, got out, examined the front of the car and drove on.

Sounds Alarm

Miss Esther Deyell, Water St., drove up just after the accident. She went to the nearby home of Charles Touchburn, who telephoned the Sanderson family and Dr. Raymore Scott of Peterborough.

Police set up a roadblock between Peterborough and Lindsay after they were told by a witness that the car had been driven that way. About 9 p.m. Saturday, Miss Long was arrested in Lindsay, her former home, by OPP Corporal Joseph Hanson, assisted by Cnstable Russell Pollard.

When Miss Long, a short, dark-haired woman, appeared in court today, she appearde white and shaken. She did not speak during the brief proceedings of the remand and arrangements for bail. She is represented by I. E. Weldon of Lindsay.

No Promise Of Better Mail Service

Rinfret Pledges To Do Best But Not Optimistic

OTTAWA, June 11. (CP) — Postmaster General Rinfret said today the Post Office will do its best to provide as efficient a service as conditions will permit.

But, he told the Commons, he could offer "no rosy promise" of an immediate improvement in service. He spoke while the Commons studied a bill making various changes in the Post Office Act.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, called for reconsideration of recent changes under which mail deliveries were reduced to one from two, mainly in residential areas.

Mr. Rinfret said the reduction in delivery was made to economize in money and manpower. As a result of the change an economy of about 1,000 persons had been made.

It had to be admitted that the service under the new system was not as good as when there were two deliveries a day.

Complaints about the change mainly came from commercial and industrial concerns in residential areas. The complaints were investigated, and, where possible, corrected immediately.

Try To Meet Complaints

Mr. Drew said he understood there are still a good number of objections to the new delivery system. Some objections related to the fact that postmen were carrying loads that were never contemplated when postal deliveries were inaugurated.

The Opposition Leader said he would be the first to object to any step that would effect economy in keeping with efficiency. But efficiency should not be jeopardized with any attempt at false economy.

Postal service was part of the social and economic structure of the country. It was essential that the service not be jeopardized or that the morale of postal employees be impaired by regulations which made the workers feel their services were not being recognized.

Mr. Rinfret said the change in deliveries did not lengthen the walks of postal carriers, but it increased the load. Steps were taken to have part of the load delivered to relay boxes.

Bobcaygeon Blaze Believed Started When Lamp Upset

BOBCAYGEON, June 11. (Staff)—A Verulam township mother and her five-year-old son were burned to death, and another young son is reported near death in Lindsay hospital, after fire late Sunday night destroyed their Verulam township home. The dead woman is Mrs. Margaret Kuzmin, 46, who died vainly trying to rescue her younger son Allen, hiding from the flames in a bedroom clothes closet. The brick farmhome is two miles west of Bobcaygeon.

Mrs. Kuzmin managed to grab her other son, Eugene, age 9, and throw him from a second storey window onto a mattress below. The lad was rushed to Lindsay hospital but hospital officials said at noon today his condition is "critical—not expected to live."

The body of the mother was found at 8:30 a.m. today in the smoking ruins of her home by her husband Eugene Kuzmin, K. A. Nisbett, and Coroner Dr. W. D. Thomas.

At noon the body of Allen had still not been recovered.

Lamp Knocked Over

The double fatality occurred shortly before midnight when J. H. Allen, 76, father of Mrs. Kuzmin and owner of the 100-acre farm property, is believed to have knocked over an oil lamp in the pantry downstairs.

At first he tried to put out the blade by himself by beating the flames with a broom, but they were almost immediately beyond his control and climbed up the wall to the upstairs bedroom where the two boys slept.

Mr. Allen shouted to his daughter "fire" and was able to rouse her. She rushed into the boys' bedroom but in the dark and smoke she was at first unable to find them. Searching further, she located the eldest boy in the clothes closet, and dropped him to safety. She perished looking

Allied Troops Drive 3 Miles Through Red Line

TOKYO, June 12 (Tuesday) — (AP)—Allied troops and tanks knocked out the props of the Communist "iron triangle" Monday and pushed almost three miles deeper into North Korea toward new Communist defence lines.

A pooled field dispatch said Eighth Army infantrymen advanced up to 4,500 yards (about two miles) Monday, then were stopped cold by a regiment of 1,500 Chinese troops and artillery fire.

The action took place on a road leading north to Kumsong, new Chinese assembly area, 12 miles northeast of captured Kumhwa.

Front-line officers believed they had bumped into the new main Communist defence lines south of Kumsong.

Transfer Base

Intelligence sources said the Chinese apparently had transferred their central base of operations from the Chorwon-Kumhwa-Pyonggang triangle to Kumsong, which is 28 miles north of the 38th parallel.

Two allied frontal attacks were hurled back by the regiment of Chinese Reds. A third frontal assault was called off because of darkness.

Allied tanks rumbled into Chorwon and Kumhwa almost immedaitely at mid-day Monday.

Thick carpets of mines slowed the lumbering tanks.

But Red rearguards, armed only with rifles and machine guns, faded quickly before the blasting fire of American tanks.

Infantrymen moved in, taking over the anchors of the Reds' vaunted assembly area 20 miles north of the 38th parallel.

Lt.-Gen. James A. Van Fleet, UN ground commander, announced "final seizure" of the area on Sunday evening and the climax of a bitter eight-day battle. But the two towns were not actually occupied until about mid-day Monday.

Iran Prepares To Begin New Oil Talks

TEHRAN, Iran, June 11 (AP)—New Iranian-British talks were scheduled today on Iran's nationalization of her billion-dollar oil industry. Whether the discussions were further moves in a government waiting game or a decisive step toward the actual takeover was not known.

With British negotiators due here today to start discussions, a 12-man Iranian government group was to meet in Abadan, site of the world's largest refinery, to discuss the takeover with local officials of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

The oil company's resident British manager in Abadan, A. E. C. Drake, said he would give Iran's delegation housing and office space. But should the Iranians demand the keys to the company's offices and its refinery, a serious crisis might result.

Iranian officials here said refinery workers had declared if the refinery's British managers proved stubborn, the employees would take matters into their own hands

Events of the last week have indicated that the government is marking time with gestures of taking over while awaiting arrival of the four company directors coming here to negotiate.

(Two of the directors, deputy chairman B. R. Jackson and E. H. Elkington, left London Sunday night and were due in Tehran today. The other two, Sir Thomas Gardiner, who represents the British government on the board, and N. A. Glass, were scheduled to leave London today.)

2 Gallons Of Water Fall On Princess

DATCHET, Buckingham, England, June 11—(AP)—Princess Margaret, sparkling in a pink summer dress and a white straw hat, never did finish signing her portrait Sunday.

Some 5,000 spectators watched as she started to sign the painting at a ceremony opening a playing field. A canvas covering overhead protected her from the elements.

Suddenly, the Princess looked startled. Then she burst out laughing and the consternation dissolved.

The canvas covering had split and spilled a couple of gallons of water on the painting and on her, pink summer dress and all.

King Leopold Ready To Abdicate July 16

BRUSSELS, June 11 (AP)—King Leopold III notified the Belgian government today he wants to abdicate July 16.

He fixed the date in a letter to Prime Minister Joseph Pholien, who released the news today. The prime minister told a press conference the coronation of Prince Baudouin, the King's eldest son and now king in all but name, would be held the following day, July 17.

Baudouin then will become Belgium's fifth king, Baudoin I.

The abdication was originally set for early fall with Baudouin's 21st birthday. He took the regent's oath before parliament last August.

New Increases Not Enough

OTTAWA, June 11 (CP)—The Canadian Pacific Railway today told the Board of Transport Commissioners that freight rate increases now sought by the rail ways will not meet its revenue "deficiency" over a full year.

CPR, "yardstick" line in rate-making, was opening the case for the railways in an application for a new rate increase of 15 per cent.

The proposed increase is in addition to a five-per-cent increase asked by the railways last winter and on which the board is still reserving judgment. The two boosts would yield the carriers an estimated $87,000,000 a year.

Morrison Evades Questions On Two Missing Diplomats

LONDON, June 11. (AP) — Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison sidestepped questions in the House of Commons today on the political views of Britain's pair of vanished diplomats. A query whether there was widespread sexual perversion in the Foreign Office entered the discussion when a member asked Morrison to investigate such charges.

Facing a barrage of critical queries, Morrison parried a demand whether Donald MacLean, 38, and Guy Burgess, 40, had any connection with the Soviet Union or whether Burgess had Communist associations.

The two men have been missing on the continent of Europe more than two weeks. MacLean has been head of the foreign office's American department, and Burgess has been an executive officer in Britain's Washington embassy. Both possessed confidential information on British-American relations. Agents are scouring Europe for a trace of them.

Famine Threat Averted–Nehru

NEW DEHLI, India, June 11 —(AP)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru said today that India has averted its threat of faminen, thanks to hard work at home and help from abroad.

"I cannot guarantee there will be no suffering, no undernourishment and no starvation deaths," Nehru told his first press conference in three months, "but we will prevent real famine in this country."

Nehru emphasized that India is counting heavily on the expected 2,000,000 tons of grain to be sent as a loan from the United States.

(The grain loan bill passed the house of representatives in final form June 6 and is awaiting final senate action.)

"There is considerable improvement in our food situation," he said, "though it continues to be difficult and will continue to be so."

The prime minister said he was hopeful India could continue to import up to 600,000 tons of food a month. He said that is the maximum Indian ports are equipped to handle.

Avoid Impulsive Action Or Face War—St. Laurent

EVANSTON, Ill., June 11 (CP) —Prime Minister St. Laurent of Canada said today the free nations must not yield to "a natural inclination to use our growing strength to hit back at the very source of the trouble" in the Korean war.

Statesmanship did not consist in yielding to impulses, however righteous, without reckoning the consequences.

"To hit back now at the source of the trouble is to start a world war."

The free nations should maintain a fundamental unity of purpose to prevent either of two catastrophes: world domination by Communist imperialism, or a world war.

St. Laurent talked about the methods, difficulties and advantages of a partnership of free nations to uphold freedom in a prepared commencement address at Northwestern University.

He said there is an uneasy balance at present between Communist imperialism and the free nations. It cannot be maintained indefinitely.

Must Keep Balance

"But for the time being, I believe the first task of statesmanship is to maintain that balance, though it should be our supreme aim to ensure the ultimate peaceful triumph of freedom in the world."

"I say this is a hard program. It is the most forbidding prospect which has faced any generation since our European ancestors first settled in the new world. One reason it is hard is that we cannot expect, and dare not even hope for quick results."

There was no short way to make freedom secure.

"It may well be that the greatest of all dangers we face—greater even than the danger from Russia or from China—is the danger of listening to those who think they have a quick and easy solution to this terribly difficult problem.

"There is a great temptation to say: Communist imperialism is an an evil thing bent on extinguishing freedom in the world. Let us extinguish it first. Let us get it over with.

"That temptation will grow greater as the military strength of the free world increases."

But to hit now at the source of trouble would start a world war, one of the two catastrophes to be prevented.

Tip On Killer Just Dead End

TORONTO, June 11—(CP)—A tip from a Hamilton resident that a blond car-washer answered the description of Toronto's hatchet-killer turned out to be just another dead end.

Police said today the man, known only as "Frank," was located in suburban West Toronto, but was not held. He failed to fit the description of the man who murdered Mrs. Edwin Derkison last Wednesday in her hardware store.

The slain woman's husband, meanwhile, is under 24-hour guard by a police constable who takes all telephone calls in the shop.

Police said a series of mysterious calls was received at the store, but they stopped Saturday night.

"We don't know whether they came from a crank, but we certainly would have liked to trace them," 'an officer said.

Village Evacuated As Ship Takes Fire

CAIRN RYAN, Wigtownshire, Scotland, June 11—(Reuters)—This village was evacuated for an hour today when an ammunitin ship carrying 4,000 tons of high explosive caught fire.

The ship was pulled to the middle of the loch while seamen damped down the fire in one of the holds.

Cairn Ryan, used as a secret port during the World War, has been used extensively by ships dumping ammunition at sea.

VERULAM TOWNSHIP FARMHOUSE FIRE, two miles west of Bobcaygeon, claimed two lives on Sunday at midnight, Mrs. Margaret Kuzmin and her son Allan, 5. Paper Wonders If King Should Retire

By PAUL UNDERWOOD.

LONDON, June 11 (AP). — London's mass-circulation Sunday Pictorial speculated Sunday that the King may retire from the throne because of his health.

The 55-year-old monarch has been confined to Buckingham Palace for the last two weeks as a result of a small catarrhal inflammation—a slight form of pneumonia, medical experts explained. In addition, he has been suffering since 1948 from an ailment which blocks circulation of the blood. In his case it affects the right leg.

Several newspapers have commented recently about the King's physical condition and appearance urging that he be given a chance for rest and quiet. But the Pictorial article is the first to suggest that the King might give up his strenuous job.

Will He Resign,

And even the Pictorial does not mention the word abdication. It says:

"The King's health is now prompting the question—will he retire into private life and pass the reins of sovereignty to his daughter, Princess Elizabeth?"

The King's advisers already have suggested the Princess and her husband, Prince Philip, take over more of her father's official duties so that he might have a better chance of getting the rest he needs.

The Pictorial, in closing, says that almost all Britons apparently feel about their King:

"It would be a saddening thing to see a much-loved King step down from his throne. But it would be callous, indeed, to demand he should sacrifice himself on the altar of duty. For we all know that this man has not spared himself—and would not—in the service of his people.

"... But the answer to this question lies with His Majesty alone. And no matter what it may be, he must know that he has always the esteem and affection of his peoples; that he has made the monarchy an even more enduring institution than it was when he came to it."

Poultry Disease Costs Gov't $40,000

TORONTO, June 11. (CP) — The Federal Government's program to stamp out Newcastle disease in poultry has cost more than $40,000 in compensation during the week ending June 2 to Ontario poultrymen whose birds were ordered destroyed.

Dr. T. Childs, veterinary director general, said a new outbreak of the disease in this province had been traced to an infected hatchery and confined to Western Ontario. Altogether, $23,952 in compensation was paid for 52,924 birds and 29,280 eggs destroyed in April.

Newcastle disease is a combined respiratory and nervous ailment common to young chickens. Officials said they believe it has been arrested but not wiped out.

Rain Fouled Up Weather Forecast

TORONTO, June 11 (CP) — A temperamental rain storm that blew into Southern Ontario early Sunday almost 24 hours late fouled up the weather forecast issued here Friday.

But the weatherman was unperturbed today. It was the same storm, he said—just the wrong time.

The storm that brought the rain that didn't come Friday night, he explained, was moving across Indiana at a rate of 25 miles an hour when the first prediction was made.

It slowed up, however, and didn't patter down on Toronto until Saturday evening. It was even later getting to the Peterborough area. But it got there, the weatherman pointed out.

Now, it's "dying a slow death" in the Trenton area.

Believe Mother Abducted Child

MONTREAL, June 11 (CP) — Apparently a pawn in an international family quarrel, four-year-old Jean Brousseau still was missing today. But his mother's lawyer said he will try to induce her to give him up to his foster mother, Mrs. Oscar Coutlee.

The child disappeared from Mrs. Coutlee's home at nearby Terrebonne, Que., last Friday. Mrs. Coutlee and his mother, Mrs. Rose Brousseau of Paris, France, were in Ottawa testifying before the Senate divorce committee in Mrs. Brousseau's divorce action against her husband, Serge.

Mrs. Brousseau's lawyer, J. E. Phaneuf, said his client told him and Mrs. Coutlee when they returned from Ottawa Friday night that she was going back to her son, that Mrs. Coutlee wouldn't see him again.

Her statement touched of a search by Terrebonne police who turned the case over sometime later to Provincial Police. Then the boy's father, Serge Brousseau, former editor of a French-language magazine, came here from his home in Coaticook, Que., near Sherbrooke, to take out a warrant against his wife and "persons unknown" for kidnapping.

Police worked on the possibility the boy was taken to New York and that Mrs. Brousseau planned to take him to her home in France. They asked French police to help them.

Mrs. Coutlee, who had charge of the boy since he was 10 days old, said her brother has asked that action on the kidnapping warrant be suspended for a while. She said Mr. Phaneuf promised her Jean would be back with her within 24 hours.

for five-year-old Allen.

Eugene, Jr., was taken to Lindsay hospital by Dr. B. E. Kelly, Bobcaygeon.

Couldn't Help

Hundreds of farmers and villagers crowded to the scene of the disastrous blaze, but they were unable to be of any assistance. A nearby well supplied some of the water for fighting the fire but it was insufficient.

Mr. Allen was burnt about the hands when he tried to break through the flames to go to the assistance of his daughter. He is now receiving medical attention for both burns and shock.

Mr. Kuzmin, a carpenter's assistant, works in Bobcaygeon.

The large brick farmhouse, located two miles north of the village, was owned by Mr. Allen, who lived there with his daughter and two grandsons.

Answered Alarm

Bobcaygeon's volunteer fire brigade under Chief Roy Kennedy responded to the alarm but were unable to make a rescue. Along with police they returned early today to begin the grim task of probing in the smouldering ruins for the two bodies.

New Increases

They have been applied for to meet the costs of a wage increase and a shortened work week resulting from last summer's general strike of railway employees.

Still Short

Outlining the case for the railways, John L' O'Brien of Montreal, counsel for the Railway Association of Canada and the CPR, told the board the proposed increases would fall short by between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 of meeting the company's annual requirements on the basis of current estimates.

With present expenses in effect for a full year, he said, the company would have a "deficiency" for a year of $40,732,000 if existing freight rates were to be continued. This figure was calculated on a formula for the CPR's financial requirements laid down by the board.

A straight 14-per-cent rate increase on the top of the proposed five-per-cent would yield about $38,600,000 of the deficiency.

hills opening the way to sprawling Pyonggang valley for American tanks. The flat valley lands, controlling the central Korean road network, are perfect tank territory.

Abandon Equipment

Reds pulled back toward Pyonggang, apex of the triangle, 28 miles north of the parallel. They abandoned huge stacks of equipment they could not pull out.

Red resistance weakened along the front except at one place—east of the Hwachon reservoir.

They sacrificed approximately 40,000 troops in the last 10 days. Van Fleet said, trying to keep the allies away from the triangle. The valley was fountainhead of two Communist spring offensives.

US Defence Secretary George Marshall said the Chinese "have got themselves into a difficult situation." Any peace moves, he said, would have to come from the Reds.

"But they have the problem of face," he explained, "the importance of which is hard for us to understand."

Marshall said he couldn't "conceive of the Korean war going on for years," nor could he see a quick end to it.

The secretary's comments were made as he ended a 3½-day visit to Tokyo and the Korean front.

As Chinese pulled out of the triangle, 72 F-84 Thunderjets plastered the Sonchon supply area to the north in one of their heaviest raids of the war.

Pilots reported they flattened 400 buildings and wrecked other military targets with jellied gasoline, bombs, rockets and machine gun fire.

Morrison Evades

"I have no evidence that these men took documents with them," Morrison told the Commons.

The question of documents has been a source of anxiety because of the speculation that one or both of the men may have gone to an Iron Curtain country.

At St. Malo

Morrison conceded that at least three days elapsed before the disappearance of the two caused alarm. He said the last place they were known to have reached was St. Malo, France, May 26, the day after they slipped out of England. He added that the fact they had left the country was not definitely established until May 29.

The hunt for the men was concentrated in France and Italy. French police said, however, they soon would abandon the search because their efforts had turned up no clues.

In Athens, Greek security police put on the alert all airfields and ports of entry to be on the lookout for the two, following unofficial reports the missing diplomats were in the Mediterranean area.

CGE Vote Vindicates IUE Say Officials

The decision of the Ontario Labor Relations Board to have a vote among the more than 3,500 CGE production workers is a "complete vindication" of the IUE-CIO, union officials said today.

"Despite continued opposition by the UE, and charges that the IUE application was frivolous and fraudulent, the decision proves that our application met all the requirements of the OLRB." That was part of a statement issued today by Joe Wirtz, IUE international representative, and Joe McKenzie, CCL representative.

Mr. McKenzie predicted that CGE workers will choose a union "affiliated with the recognized labor movements of Canada and the United States."

The UE, present bargaining agent, has wired the OLRB asking for a speedy vote.

Both sides are now gearing up for an all-out campaign, and each side is predicting victory in the balloting.

Fire Destroys Apsley Home, Four Escape

APSLEY, June 11 (ENS)—Fire of unknown origin destroyed the frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Reynolds at Lasswade, 10 miles east of Apsley today. Mrs. Reynolds who was working in the garden went into the house where her three small children were.

The odor of smoke was strong and on investigation she found fire between the ceiling and roof. She courageously climbed onto the roof but was unable to get water onto it.

Her cries for help were not heard for some time and when assistance arrived the home was so far gone that some men made Mrs. Reynolds leave the roof, fearing it would fall in with her.

They carried no insurance on the building. Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds and their three children are living in Mr. Ambrose Dingman's house for the time.

Mr. Reynolds was away at work at the time of the fire.

Thieves Steal Museum Relic

GREENWICH, England, June 11—(AP)—Daring thieves today stole a diamond encrusted headdress—a priceless relic given 150 years ago to Lord Nelson by a sultan of Turkey — from the ground floor of Britain's National Maritime Museum in this London suburb.

The thieves slipped through guards but set off a burglar alarm which aroused Scotland Yard's dispatching room at 1:57 a.m. Radio prowl cars, sent at once to the museum, could find no trace of the intruders.

The headdress is called a "chelengk"—Turkish for "plume" or "triumph.' It was given Nelson to commemorate his smashing victory over Napoleon's fleet in Aboukir Bay, near Alexandria, Egypt, in 1798—a battle described as one of the most complete naval victories in history.

This relic of Britain's naval hero has a central diamond, surmounted by 16 petals of diamonds forming a rose. Below is a lovers' knot in diamonds, and above the rose, 13 plumes of diamonds. Most of the stones are small. Police estimated if the chelengk were broken up, the diamonds would bring $2,000.

Trading Irregular On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, June 11 —(CP)— Trading was irregular and quiet as the session progressed on the stock market today. Price changes were small and the market showed little inclination to go either up or down.

Steels, utilities, agricultures, liquors and manufacturing companies showed a majority of gains. Retail stores, textiles and foods weakened and the rest of the industrial board was mixed. Price changes were mostly fractional.

Base metals opened mixed and then slipped. Pacing the group downward were Silver Miller, Golden Manitou, International Nickel, Labrador, Normetal, East Sullivan and Falconbridge. Consolidated Smelters and Steep Rock bucked the trend for moderate advances.

Western oils became mixed after weakening in early dealings.

Golds were at a standstill. Senior producers were mixed in a fractional price path while secondary golds showed almost no notable change.

Massey Describes Function Of Commission

MONTREAL, June 11 (CP)—A nation should be something more than an economic and political structure, Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, chairman of the Massey Commission on Arts, Letters and Science, said today.

Mr. Massey, chancellor of the University of Toronto and former Canadian High Commissioner in London, told the Canadian Club that this was a fundamental assumption justifying the commission's inquiry.

The commission travelled 10,000 miles across Canada, heard 1,200 witnesses and read some 460 briefs. Its report was tabled in parliament June 1.

"The great majority of persons making submissions were not professionally concerned with the arts or literature or science," Mr. Massey said. "They were ordinary citizens interested in these things because they attached importance to them....

"Any account of our efforts, therefore, is not the report of an academic project but...a human-interest story....

"It at once became clear to us that we were exploring the very foundations of Canadian life.... on these foundations alone, Canadian unity must rest."

He told of hearing a group interested in painting which held its exhibitions in the basement of a fire-hall and of amateur players who rehearsed in a garage.

"You would have been struck as we were by the enthusiasm and the energy with which the arts are cherished...throughout the country."

Mr. Massey said the commission was impressed by the prevailing "Canadian" note it found across the country. There was a positive "Canadianism....I can best describe....as growing desire for self-reliance."

Canadians need "the will to quicken our cultural and intellectual life" and money to produce a reasonable balance between the material accomplishments and "the more enduring part of our civilization."

The financial support recommended for the CBC, the universities and a national system of scholarships would require substantial sums, Mr. Massey said, but there would be, each year, less than the cost of five heavy bombers.

FIRE SUNDAY NIGHT destroyed log-barking machinery at the plant of the Gair Company of Canada in Campbellford. Above, firemen fight the blaze which did as yet unestimated damage to the plant. When the fire was almost controlled, Campbellford's pumper failed and the corrugated-steel building was destroyed. One fireman was slightly injured by a falling piece of roofing.

Innes Guilty Assaulting Police Officer

COBOURG, June 11—(ENS)—Bruce Innes of Indian River, former of Peterborough, charged with beating up Constable Leonard Switzer, Hastings, on June 2, pleaded guilty in police court here Saturday and was remanded in custody pending contact with his employer in order to ascertain if sufficient funds can be obtained to pay the $75 fine and costs which the magistrate said he intended to impose.

Constable Switzer testified that he was called to a store in Hastings where he found the accused leaning over the counter and was told by the clerk that he was meddling with the merchandise. He placed him under arrest and took him out of the store. On the way to the lock-up the prisoner kicked the constable in the face with a heavy steel shod boot, causing a cut which required five stitches to close. Innes was also charged with theft of merchandise under the value of $25 from the store, to which he pleaded guilty.

TORONTO, — (CP) — In the little red rural shoolhouse and the big modern city schoolrooms the youngsters have been working all year for this.

It's a competition for murals, paintings and handicrafts for which the Canadian National Exhibition here will award cash prizes. The results of the youngsters' work were seen at a press pre-view here.

The exhibition will have murals from Brandon, Man., showing development of the oil industry; from a Toronto public school picturing the construction of the new subway, and many others from all parts of the country.

One mural by a collegiate student in Winnipeg gives a historical survey from the dinosaurs the present. There are shipping scenes in great lakes ports and a host of others. Among craft work exhibited there is a set of marionettes from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Prizes include $100 each for the best murals from a high school and public school.

Fire Checked, Pumper Fails; Flames Burn Pulpwood Shed

CAMPBELLFORD, June 11 (ENS)—A fire that may cause a temporary shutdown of the Gair Company of Canada Pulp Mill in Campbellford, on Sunday destroyed a building housing machinery used in barking and peeling pulp logs.

A 75-hp. motor, a peeling machine, and various other equipment was destroyed shortly after 7 p.m. when fire, believed caused by defective wiring, sent dense clouds of smoke billowing over the town during a downpour of rain.

Firemen had two lines of hose on the building within a few minutes after the alarm sounded, and had the blaze almost under control when the pumper suddenly refused to function properly.

After a delay of about 15 minutes, during which the fire gained headway, fanned by the wind, the men succeeded in coaxing the pumper to work and the fire was once again brought under control.

Murray Locke, son of Reeve Ralph J. Locke, a fireman with the local brigade, was injured. He was struck on the back by a large piece of corrugated steel roofing, which tumbled about 20 feet from the roof while firemen were manning a hose near a doorway.

Locke saw the steel pieces buckling on the roof and had warned other firemen out of the way, when one piece seemed to float out into space and clipped the unlucky lad on the back.

Many may recall the fire at the mill in the year 1932, which burned for two days, April 23-24, and necessitated pumpers being brought in from Lindsay and Peterborough. Almost 9,000 cords of pulpwood burned at that time.

Prizes, Awards Presented Lakefield School Closing

LAKEFIELD, June 11 (ENS)—Closing ceremonies at Lakefield Preparatory School were held Saturday afternoon on the school lawn. C. L. Burton, O. B. E. D.C.S., of Toronto, presented the academic awards and Mrs. Burton the sports prizes. The Governor-General's medal for outstanding scholarship was won by H. Grant and Hugh McCulloch received the Old Boys' watch as head boy.

It was an ideal June afternoon as the headmaster, G. Winder Smith, addressed the mixed gathering of students, parents and friends.

Mr. Smith's message to the graduating class was a reminder that their education at the Grove was designed to develop their individual abilities. It ended with the prayer that the graduates of Lakefield Preparatory School would not be guilty of the fault, too common in present-day life even among educated people, that of lazy thinking.

W. M. Pearce, chairman of the board of directors, told of what the board is doing to meet the growing demands of the school. He said the Ladies' Auxiliary reminds the board that there are many things a school needs, and it is up to the directors to secure them.

Tea was served on the lawn after the presentation of the awards as follows:

Seaway Probabilities

Four things can happen to the proposal to develop the St. Lawrence Seaway. (1) The United States and Canada can build it jointly, as provided by the 1941 Agreement between the two countries—a treaty which the U.S. Congress has never ratified. (2) The United States can share in the cost of development as a seaway, but not of the hydro potential. (3) Canada can build it alone. (4) The project can be shelved for another ten or forty years. The purpose of the visit of the U.S. Congressional Committee was—from a Canadian point of view—to let these members of the House of Representatives Public Works Committee see for themselves what is afoot, to stimulate their interest and, it is hoped, to secure Congress' favour towards it.

* * *

Congress has stalled on the issue since before the Great War, when the Canadian Government decided in 1912 to build the new Welland Canal, completed 1932. In 1932 a treaty was signed for joint development; this failed of Congressional ratification in 1934. Renewed interest and other studies led to the signing in March, 1941 of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Basin Agreement. Since that time various attempts have been made in the United States to secure Congressional approval of the Agreement. The visit of the committee members this week is another attempt to win approval, and the matter comes to vote again in the U.S. shortly. That it will pass is by no means certain.

* * *

The Chairman of the American committee has said that probably a majority of the committee will favour the navigational aspect of the scheme, but not the hydro development. Canada wants both done together, and this seems a sensible plan since, of recent years, the hydro development has become more essential than the seaway deepening for ships. From the temper of Mr. Pearson's, Mr. Frost's and Mr. Saunders' recent remarks, it seems that Canada will not accept a partial development.

* * *

Premier Frost told a Sault Ste. Marie audience on Tuesday that although a partnership arrangement is desirable, Canada can and will build the Seaway alone if Congressional approval is not forthcoming. We are not sure how Mr. Frost has the capacity to speak for Canada, since it is a Federal and international matter, but his words at least ensure Ontario's full support, and, it may be, with Ottawa approval, that the Ontario Government and its Hydro, with allies of several interested American states, will undertake themselves some of the work.

* * *

Canada can, if need be, stand on its own feet in this development. The entire Canal system from Quebec to the head of Lake Superior, let us remind ourselves, has been financed hitherto by Canada and is completely under the control of Canada. (Additional locks have been constructed by the United States at Sault Ste. Marie.) Canada is not a poor country. Even back in the years between 1913 and 1934 it found $132,000,000 to finance the new Welland Canal. The present proposed development is expected to cost $860,000,000. This expenditure is to provide for the Hydro developments and the construction of a 27-foot navigation route throughout the entire Great Lakes-St. Lawrence system, requiring the completion of forty miles of canals with seven locks and eight movable bridges, and channel dredging in various sections. The estimated cost, $860,000,000, is a lot of money, but Canada can find it, if need be. Since 1904 the system has been free of toll charges to the ships of all countries. If Canada has to embark on what may amount to a billion dollar development, herself, there is good reason to impose toll charges on the ships of other nations, including those of American registry. Thus indirectly the U.S. would have to foot some of the bills.

The Prophets And Dean Acheson

Washington commentators seem to be fairly united in agreeing that it is a case of "when" rather than "whether" in discussing the resignation of United States Secretary of State Dean Acheson. During the past ten days, they have drawn attention to the well known fact that a large section of the Democratic—the Administrative—Party itself wants Mr. Acheson dismissed, and they have concluded that this sentiment, coupled with the effect of the determined Republican campaign against the State Department, will result in the dismissal of Mr. Acheson.

These predictions of dismissal—and they were forthright—have been somewhat blunted by President Truman's statement at a press conference on Thursday last, in which he gave warm approval of Mr. Acheson's conduct in the Great Debate and added that he did not intend to let Mr. Acheson leave the Cabinet. He further said that the Secretary of State had been telling truths that needed to be told and seldom were nowadays, particularly by the Opposition.

This response from Mr. Truman would seem to confound the political prophets, and another recent development certainly does not help their case. We refer to Mr. Acheson's behaviour, and treatment, during the latter days of the enquiry into the Far Eastern policy of the United States. There had been loud Republican talk of the grilling that awaited him, and there was general anticipation that he was headed for his final appearance. Yet with two minor exceptions, he was questioned with full courtesy and respect, although gravely and intently. And for his part, Mr. Acheson refrained from using his skill in debate to emphasize points by flattening an opponent; he contented himself with precise and comprehensive answers. He may have come to realize that a victory in sharp debate may become a political liability.

The prophets may be right. Mr. Acheson may bow out at the first opportunity to do so with honour and with little or no loss of prestige—a course several have suggested will be followed. Judging from the news of the week, however, he appears to have an equally good chance of remaining in his post. It might be noted, incidentally, that despite political and public opinion, Mr. Truman's loyalty to his associates appears far better bestowed in this instance than in some others.

A Great Man Of Music

The late Dr. Serge Koussevitzky was something more than a great musician; he was a great man whose field of action was music. In countless ways he showed a noble spirit—in his treatment of his orchestra and all musicians, in his tireless encouragement of contemporary composers, in his desire to make great music known to as many people as possible, in his refusal to submit to political bullying, and in the dignity and austerity of his personal life. The art of the great conductor dies with him, but the Berkshire Festival and all that springs from it will be slow to die. Koussevitzky's influence will live there, and in the great number of young musicians whom he inspired and helped, and to whom he imparted great professional ideals and great ideals which bore only indirectly upon music.

For twenty-five years Koussevitzky was conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra; he raised it from the status of a dull provincial orchestra to that of one of the four great orchestras of the world.

The Berkshire Festival, under his guidance, became a centre of music refreshment and adventure known all over the world. Among visitors to that Festival admiration of Koussevitzky reached the magnitude of a cult, but it may be said that he deserved the almost mystical regard in which he was held. Great men are very rare, and it is well that we should recognize them while they are still with us.

Free Enterprise And Wren From The Bench

Judges presiding at the Courts of General Sessions are expected to instruct the Grand Juries on their duties. Judge McGibbon of Lindsay does that, and more. Not for him a mere recital of the jurors' duties to inspect the building, assure themselves that habeas corpus is being practised, and such details. His Honour, taking the place of Judge Smoke during the latter's indisposition, on Wednesday at Peterborough County Courthouse, addressed the jurors expansively about the state of Canada, the Festival of Britain, Sir Christopher Wren and other topics related in the learned mind to the General Sessions of Peterborough.

He pondered gloomily on the future of the world if countries like Canada drift—as he sees Canada drifting—into a socialized state. He contrasted feelingly his youth when Free Enterprise was the order of the day, the present "state paternalism" and old age pensions of forty dollars a month. But his musings had some cheerful turns. He made favourable references to the Festival of Britain, praised Sir Christopher Wren for his design of St. Paul's Cathedral, and noted the rapid growth of Canada, in which Peterborough itself was taking part.

The larger view, the liberal survey, the cosmic analysis: ah! may our Bench ever be adorned by men who, charged with instructing a Grand Jury, pour from their accumulated stores of wisdom, experience and travel, ripe and weighty matters to illuminate the paths which jurors must take towards justice.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The import of sulphur and brimstone into Canada is coming under Government control. Isn't life hell enough already?

Musical Notes

by
PETER PIPER

COMING after my appraisal of the music of Schoenberg I read an article by the musical critic of the Toronto "Telegram" in which he makes a number of questionable statements about "modern" music which may appeal to the dowagers of the residential areas of that city but do not bear closer examination. Taking as his text a remark of Dr. Ernest Bullock, president of the Royal College of Organists, which serves to show how out of touch church organists as a whole are with the most vital developments in music in recent years, Edward Wodson says: "Most 'modern' music deliberately emphasizes ugly dissonance. It is gleefully braggart in this; delighting in sensational and unexpected twists of rhythm and tonal distortion that are usually followed by platitudes, flat as a punctured balloon".

✧ ✧ ✧

IN the first place "modern" is a vague term, meaning "of the present day". It does not refer to any particular school or style. The symphonies of Sibelius or the decorously Anglican anthems of Dr. Bullock and his colleagues are just as modern in point of time as some of the weirder productions of Schoenberg, Webern and the like. It is confusing the issue to attach the label "modern" or "'contemporary" to a particular type of music that one likes or dislikes.

✧ ✧ ✧

ASSUMING in this case, however, that "modern" is synonymous with "atonal", "pantonal", or what you will, we come to this charge of deliberately emphasizing ugly dissonance. Notice that there is an implication that all dissonance is not necessarily ugly. In the textbooks the following intervals are considered dissonant: the major and minor second, the major and minor seventh, all augmented or diminished intervals, and under certain circumstances the perfect fourth. These intervals are all found in Palestrina, Bach, Byrd, Britten and Bartok. In the earlier composers they are sometimes of a fleeting nature, due to passing notes, but they are also frequently emphasized strongly when produced by other means such as suspensions. Music containing nothing but concords is very rare, for the very good reason that there is no element of conflict, no "bite" to it. Small doses of it give a feeling of repose and balance, but long stretches are unsufferably boring, like a novel in which all the characters are invariably saintly. The idea of discord followed by resolution is fundamental to the "dramatic" nature of music from Dunstable to the present day. Ideas of what constitutes discord change. In the early days of polphony thirds and sixths were considered discords, and well into the middle of the eighteenth century composers were using the "tierce de Picardie" because the minor common chord was not concordant enough as a final chord. On the other hand Purcell used consecutive sevenths before the textbooks put a stop to the practice—for a time.

✧ ✧ ✧

"HIS fervid, almost incredible, inventive powers, are accompanied by so much confusion in the arrangement of his ideas, that his early works alone interest me; the later ones are to me a bewildering chaos, an obscure straining after novelty, lit up it is true by divine flashes of genius, which only serve to show how great he might be if he would but curb his riotous imagination". These words were not written by Mr. Wodson upon some "modern" composer, they were written by Weber about Beethoven. Nowadays we can smile at them with our superior knowledge of Beethoven's greatness fortified by myriads of books, essays and articles on the greatness of Beethoven. But Weber was no fool, musically speaking: he lived too near to Beethoven to appreciate him in his true perspective. The visitor to Rome may be disappointed with a close-up view of St. Peter's; the mighty dome is hidden from view by the facade. Let him view it from afar off and he will see the enormous building crouching head and shoulders above the other buildings of the City, like a lioness amongst kittens. Thus it is when contemplating a massive figure such as Beethoven.

✧ ✧ ✧

WE have the same difficulty today when assessing the value of present-day composers. The real antithesis is not essentially between classical and modern, whatever these terms can be made to mean, but between genius and mediocrity. When critics evaluate the achievements of past epochs most of the work has already been done for them by previous audiences and critics, who have "weeded out" the mediocrities. Sometimes a real genius may have been weeded out too, in order to be discovered out of due season, but by and large the judgement of past ages stands. There are revaluations, but the big names remain much the same. Today we have a number of "starters", to use the language of the turf. The process of sifting and elimination takes place continually, but it is too soon to say who will stay the course. Some of today's big names may drop out, just as they have done in the past. Who, today, knows much of Hasse, Bononcini or Piccini? Yet in their day they were considered by many to be superior to Handel and Gluck. Perhaps they may be in certain limited aspects; but life is short, and I have not time or opportunity to verify such speculations: I am perforce content to take for granted the verdict of time, the great tester of reputation. Doubtless there is plenty of chaff amongst the moderns, but there is also a small proportion that is likely to survive the changes of fashion. I would not be so bold as to condemn wholesale recent developments in musical technique and style, even when in certain instances I am out of sympathy with them. In the past fifty years we have seen Debussy's intrepid innovations being put to use as the small-talk of the meanest hack Hollywood composer on background music, like Samson being made to work for the Philistines.

✧ ✧ ✧

LEOPOLD Stokowski, born and educated in London, was the organist of a West End church for five years before going to America. Last month he repaired a singular omission in his brilliant career; he made his debut as an orchestral conductor in his native city.

✧ ✧ ✧

EVIDENTLY the silly season is with us once more. A Mr. J. D. Strickland was taken to hospital recently; he had collapsed after playing the piano for 194 hours, in an endeavour to beat the record of 200 hours set by a German, Heinz Arntz, of Dusseldorf. We have no information on the state of the piano; it must have taken a terrific beating! This particular exhibition of futility did not take place in the States—it happened in Lancashire, England.

HARDLY A RIPPLE

Country Clerics

(CALGARY HERALD)

I SHOULDN'T much like to be a country cleric. In novels of Nineteenth Century English life the cleric had a pretty good time, drinking his bottle of port after dinner, riding to hounds if he felt like it, and living in a comfortable, spacious parsonage. But times have changed.

The small town or village in Alberta is likely to frown on port drinking parsons and the populace is sure to get pretty heated about a minister who goes gadding about the country filled with blood lust. And parsonages or manses or whatever we may wish to call the places that house country ministers are usually mortgaged, in need of paint and unbelievably cold in winter.

However, I suppose a minister can put up with a cold house providing his parishioners or members of the congregation—the appellation depends on the denomination — have warm hearts. But warm hearts are what the average country resident does not have so far as the minister is concerned. He is appraised with detachment, analyzed in a manner that is almost clinical and the findings are spread far and wide.

I do not think we can call Alberta a pious province—to judge from our scanty historical records it never was—and parsons have always been objects of suspicion until they proved themselves innocent of any ulterior designs on the populace.

It is rather unfortunate that most people feel they are doing the minister a great kindness when they condescend to attend church. In Victorian novels it was another story. The parson was held in awe and if not respected, at least tolerated by the lower orders who flocked to church on Sunday whether they wanted to go or not. But in Aberta we consider the minister to be no better than ourseves so how can we stand in awe of him? A university education means nothing to a farmer unless he likes the man who possesses it. We may feel rather uncomfortable in the presence of the parson — a situation that makes us rather annoyed at our weakness and is not exactly an inducement to respect—but we resent having to show deference unless we are perfectly sure a man is worthy of it. And in a country so wild and woolly as ours, actions mean a great deal more than university degrees.

Naturally the parson does not feel we are doing him a favour in attending church—indeed, he is rather inclined to think the benefits are all on our side. So there arises a certain lack of understanding between parson and public.

Country folk are terribly fickle. They get tired of their cars, their houses and each other. They get tired of schoolteachers after a year or two—a new teacher is always a paragon for the first six months and happy parents are heard to say that at last their children are learning something. But this blissful states does not last long. The minister is in much the same position. His first sermon will be lavishly praised although nine out of ten members of the congregation have been thinking about income tax, setting hens, a new refrigerator or the rear axle on the car all the time the sermon was being preached. There will be earnest discussions among the ladies concerning the minister's appearance with the conclusion that while not exactly handsome, he has a kind sort of face.

A year or two later his sermons will be considered silly and his appearance nothing short of ugly, not to mention the sloppy manner in which he chooses to dress.

So he is moved on and a strange minister arrives who has a sweet wife, preaches first-rate sermons—of about 10 minutes duration—and thinks baseball playing on Sunday is perfectly all right providing the players attend church first.

There are many petty transgressions of which the minister can be guilty. He must not drink—at least, not in public—he should not smoke too much because it sets a bad example for the youngsters, he should give to charity yet never permit himself to run into debt. He must entertain, see that his wife is neatly and dowdily dressed — no make-up, please—and take a very cautious attitude towards dancing, unmarried mothers, local gossip and trouble at the school.

It is a simple matter for the minister to acquire a reputation as a busy-body even though his attention may be very well meant. We just don't seem to think of the parson as an advisor these days. We like him to marry us, baptize our children, and bury our relatives and friends. We like to attend church occasionally because it is good for business, or is a way of displaying our attractive family to advantage or because we have always gone to church once in a while and can't seem to get out of the habit. It is quite all right for the minister to stand in the pulpit and preach to us; but the preaching must go no further or we are likely to consider ourselves deeply affronted.

In the language of the country, the minister "has a hard row to hoe".

National Flag

(London Free Press)

A good many Canadians will agree with the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Canada, now meeting in Quebec, that this country should have a national flag, but will also approve of the defeat of the proposal that such an emblem be completely distinct from any other. This would mean that the Union Jack would have no place on the Canadian banner.

Australia and New Zealand have flags which preserve the British tradition and connection. South Africa has developed a virtually indecipherable conglomeration of symbols. We want a flag which is beautiful and distinctive in itself, which symbolizes Canada, and yet reminds us of our past.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them. (Gen. 1: 26, 27.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Blessed are the undefiled in the way, who walk in the law of the Lord.... Blessed art thou, O Lord: teach me thy statutes.... Open thou mine eyes and I may behold wondrous things out of thy law. (Ps. 119: 1, 12, 18.)

✧ ✧ ✧

The Lord is the portion of mine inheritance and of my cup: thou maintainest my lot. The lines are fallen unto me in pleasant places; yea, I have a goodly heritage. (Ps. 16: 5, 6.)

✧ ✧ ✧

A New Freedom

(CHATHAM NEWS)

A gentleman we know set out to teach his small daughter something about the stars. He pointed out this one and that one, and then tried to show her where the Big Dipper was.

She had trouble in seeing it—and presently the gentleman discovered to his amusement that the youngster never in her life had seen a dipper and did not know even what one was.

To a member of the older generation, this looks like a very odd lack of knowledge. The old familiar dipper that always hung in the kitchen where you could dip it in the water bucket for a drink, or in the stove's hot water reservoir for dish water was as familiar a part of household equipment as the living room lamp or the bedroom washstand.

A child of our generation could as easily have been ignorant of the appearance of a knife and fork as of a dipper.

But things are different now, and the gentleman who made this little discovery felt that the change was somehow symbolic. In the old days the citizen got his water supply by the simple process of digging a well—or possibly, going to the town pump—hauling up a bucket and putting it on the kitchen table. A well, a bucket, a piece of rope, and a dipper—that was all there was to it.

Nowadays the process is both simpler in that all he does is to turn on a faucet and let the water run out of its own accord. It is more complex in that the faucet won't work unless behind it there is an intricate framework of reservoirs, pumping stations, aqueducts, filtering plants, bond issues, tax bills and the like.

The citizen, in other words, has gained simplicity at the cost of great complexity. He needs to expend only an infinitesimal amount of energy to get what he needs, but he needs at the same time, to be a member of a society, which is very closely integrated, a society disciplined and cohesive, in which co-operative effort for the common good is a necessity which never is forgotten.

By becoming a member of such society he forfeits a measure of his individual freedom. Yet it is futile for him to want to go back. The dipper-and-cistern days are as irretrievable as the stage coach era.

And even if the citizen could exchange what he now has for those old days of "freedom" it would be a bad bargain.

We have to find our freedom today through co-operation and not through individual achievement. It is there, all right, if we go after it right; and it even actually will prove more solid and lasting than the freedom of the old era of simplicity.

Canadian General Electric Employees In Peterborough Have Won

THE RIGHT TO VOTE

The Ontario Labour Relations Board has issued an order directing that a union representation vote beheld in the Peterborough Works of the Canadian General Electric Co.

THIS ORDER REPRESENTS A VICTORY FOR IUE-CIO

For several months IUE-CIO has been conducting a campaign in order to win for CGE employees in Peterborough the right to express their choice as to union representation through a secret ballot conducted by government officials of the Ontario Labour Relations Board.

Throughout this campaign the old independent union in the plant, UE, has fought every IUE-CIO effort for such a vote. This independent organization has consistently attacked IUE-CIO and has termed its application to the Board "fraudulent", "frivolous" and phoney".

IUE-CIO has consistently stated its confidence that a vote would be obtained. In a leaflet handed to CGE employees June 4th the independent union said: "In our opinion the (Board) Examiner's report contained all that was required to dismiss this second application."

THE DECISION NOW GIVEN BY THE LABOUR BOARD SUBSTANTIATES THE POSITION TAKEN BY IUE-CIO AND REPUDIATES THE CLAIMS OF THE INDEPENDENT UNION.

IUE-CIO has now won for CGE employees the right to say in a Democratic election which union they want.

Athletics Trounce Petes In Senior Lacrosse Fray

St. Catharines Athletics swung into a first-place tie with Peterborough in the hot senior lacrosse race Saturday night when they handed Petes a 19-11 setback before a good-sized crowd.

Early penalties to Wipper and Fitzgerald enabled Athletics to get away to a flying start in the first uarter as McMahon, Doug Smith, Moore, D'Amico and Melville fired tallies before the Whip returned after serving five minutes. Ike Hildebrand snared Petes' lone tally on a neat effort late in the frame, working from the corner to give his team a start.

Earned the Win

Athletics fearly earned their triumph on the play throughout with a slightly revamped lineup and the addition of Max Woolley, junior star, who co-starred with McMahon, D'Amico and the youngsters, Doug Smith, Howe, Melville, Urhynuk and goalie Bud Smith. The homesters were running, passing and picking up loose balls all night.

Don Crowe's men fought hard in the second with Arn Dugan and Dootch Vitarelli finding the range early to cut St. Kitts' margin, but Joe Cheever's crew made a nice recovery and edged Petes 5-3 on the period with McMahon, Nelson, Doug Smith, D'Amico and Frick the marksmen and Nit O'Hearn potting for Petes, midway in the session.

Rain in St. Kitts

The final half saw plenty of action, despite increased rain, as the Timbermen gave their best to overcome Athletics' early margin, but the latter proved equal to the challenge as they hemmed the visitors in and outshot them by a fair margin to earn a 9-7 scoring advantage in the final 30 minutes of hair-raising play.

Johnny McMahon was leading scorer of both teams with four counters and two assists, followed by Doug Smith with three and two. D'Amico tallied four, with a pair each to Nelson, Frick and Woolley and singles to Moore and Melville; Howe and Bradshaw each registered two assists.

For Peterborough

Dugan, O'Hearn, Slater and Fitzgerald each scored a brace of markers with singles to Hildebrand, Vitarelli and Wipper. Double assists went to Ike and O'Hearn.

Cricketers Beaten By North Toronto

North Toronto took a 129-68 cricket decision over the local "B" team here Saturday. The visitors had players from the Eglington and West Toronto clubs, now defunct, and they looked impressive. After a poor start, they settled down to steady scoring.

For Peterborough, A. Hamilton starred in batting and Frank Dyer in bowling. Archie Hamilton made a welcome first appearance of the season to score 31 and he played fine cricket in his old-time style. He defended strongly and hit the loose balls hard. With H. Dibben (6) defending the other end, they put on 20 runs but the rest of the team did little.

Frank Dyer had a big day bowling, taking six wickets out of eight that fell to the bowlers for 44 runs, and two were run out. The other two wickets were taken by C. Harris, who also made a great catch. The fielding all around was good.

Port Hope Team Defeats Merchants

PORT HOPE, June 11 — Brilliant two-hit pitching by Harold Woods enabled Port Hope Ontarios to chalk up their second league win over Whitby Merchants Saturday afternoon. The game was the third between the teams, both of which are trying to keep out of the Lakeshore Baseball League cellar.

Woods had a no-hitter under way until the seventh inning when Len Stoz, Whitby third baseman, rapped out a double. A cheap single in the eighth by Keith MacDonald was the only other safety obtained by the Merchants. Woods struck out nine and walked three.

Len Ashby had a perfect day at bat for the Ontarios with three singles and a walk. Bill Douglas and Darce Campbell each collected two safeties for the winners.

Big 4 Officials Strengthen Raiding Rules

HAMILTON, June 11 (CP). — New moves designed to strengthen control by Big Four football teams over their players and avoid raiding were approved at Saturday's annual meeting of the Interprovincial Football Union.

The first change in rules provides that no player can move out of the Big Four without first being offered to other teams in the league.

The player will be put on the waiver list and other Big Four teams notified they can get him by paying the waiver price of $200. If two teams want him, the one with the lowest standing in the previous year gets him.

Player trades or deals between Big Four clubs may be made with the approval of the league provided the player involved has not played any part of the league game in the current season.

On Only One Team

A player may perform for only one senior team. He may drop to intermediate company with league permission, but he's permitted a shot at only one senior club.

The meeting, under president Charlie Lawson of Hamilton, emphasized that if any raiding by other clubs is proved, the full penalty of $1,000 laid down by the Canadian Rugby Union will be invoked.

Henceforth, all Big Four teams will share in proceeds from the eastern Canada and Grey Cup games. The Big Four team represented in the playoffs will get 55 per cent of the half-share of the gate after expenses and the league's share. The remaining 45 per cent is split among the other Big Four teams.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Got talking the other day to a chap we know here about vacations this summer. We call him Languid Larry, as he does not overexert himself. Clever enough, mind you, and a guy who is always fixing up new labor-saving devices; proving our point that, if necessity is the mother of invention, then surely laziness is the father. Anyway, he said he wanted no part of big cities for his holidays—much too much hustle and bustle. Larry craved the quiet relaxing life. "Ha, a cottage," we said; "do you like fishing?" He drawled: "Hate it. Takes me four-five months after Lent to get the taste of fish out of my mouth. So why catch 'em if you don't eat 'em?" Reasonable enough.

* * * * * *

However, Lang—to shorten it—said he'd be seeing fish on his holidays. Said all he wanted was to sit outdoors in a deck chair with an awning and take the odd suck on a straw from a tall, cold one. "Just sit there and look at things growing, with a little breeze rustling the leafian branches, bees buzzing around flowers, birds making music. Wear nothing but shorts and slippers all day. Drowse when you feel it, wake up and maybe read a bit, eat when you're darned good and ready, take the odd pull on the straw. Oh, yes, have a portable radio handy to get the news, the sports and some tinned music at times. That, friend, is the way to spend a pleasant vacation." Certainly sounded relaxing.

* * * * * *

The Life Of O'Reilly

"Well, you have to get a cottage first," we pointed out, "and pack off your requirements to it—and sort of keep it halfway clean during your stay in the quiet and peace of the countryside. Visitors, too, you know." He just grinned slowly and asked if we knew Joe down the street. Sure, Joe has a fine big place with a sweeping back lawn. Terraced, lots of trees, a pool, secluded. "He's off for Boston on vacation same time I'm on mine," Larry said; "wants me to keep an eye on the place and feed his goldfish and canary. So I just move in there and spend two enjoyable weeks out back of his place in shorts, with a portable, a book and some tall, chilled ones. No work, worry or expense. You can't beat it." Heck, we can't even come close.

* * * * * *

There was no ball game here Saturday night. Kingsways were 20 minutes late arriving, the crowd was small, it started to rain, and finally the lights failed in Riverside. So the jinxed-out game was called in the top of the second with nobody out and no score up till then. Joe Irvine had doubled to start the second frame when the arcs went partly out. After a 15-minute holdup, the umps called it off. Malloy in centre had pulled off a fine running catch in the first and it might have been an interesting scrap. Bunny Maeson was on the home mound and looked okay in his short slab sojourn. A tough and expensive break for the Petes this postponement.

* * * * * *

Took It On The Chops

Off for Hamilton tonight, the Petes' lacrossers are a chastened crew. They took a 19-11 licking in St. Kitts on Saturday, their second reverse of the young season, and the A's are again tied with 'em in top spot. As Don Crowe says, he has the players but they're not yet clicking together as a championship unit—though that should come in time, and the season has a long way to go. They should never lose to the Athletics, and it is unlikely that they will again. Incidentally, radio announcer Rex Stimers (when here last game) never tired of telling how cold it was in Peterborough and what a grand clime they have down in the Niagara peninsula, but it rained there Saturday throughout the game. And they do have snow occasionally through the winter. For some five months or so, too.

* * * * * *

Both our soccer squads in the Eastern Ontario League came through with wins Saturday. UEW took a neat 3-0 victory o'er Kingston United in the Limestone City to keep intact their winning streak. And O'Halloran's knocked off Belleville here 4-1 before a fairish crowd of fans. Harold Payne scored a pair, George Downer and Henry Foster getting the others, as the whole team clicked well. Two youngsters, Bob Delahaye and Norm Lane, are coming along okay. Game threatened to wind up in rather rough fashion. UEW meets Kingston United June 23 in the second round of Dominion Cup play. O'Halloran's are at Kingston on Saturday with Trenton tackling UEW here. An open meeting of the soccer commish is listed for 7.30 tonight in the "Y".

Draw Predicted In Test Match

NOTTINGHAM, England, June 11—(Reuters)—The first cricket test match between England and South Africa seemed destined today to end in a draw as English batsmen steadily whittled away at the South Africans' lead.

By the lunch interval of the fourth day's play, England had scored 344 for three wickets, adding 93 runs this morning without loss, in reply to South Africa's first innings total of 483 for nine declared. The match ends tomorrow.

Weekend rain and the sun on the pitch did not produce the results expected today. The occasional ball lifted awkwardly and the South Africans had eight men at times within 10 yards of the batsmen. But the overnight not out batsmen, Denis Compton and Willie Watson, played fairly comfortably waiting to clout the bad ball.

Compton, not out 93 at lunch, became the first player this season to score 1,000 runs when he reached 91. Watson, playing in his first test match, was not out 43.

Four Records Broken At Track Meet

ORILLIA, June 11 (CP)—Four records were broken Saturday as a 47-member Toronto secondary schools team amassed 61 points to win the Ontario interscholastic track and field championship.

The annual meet, held at the Ontario athletic training camp near here, brought together secondary school athletes from all districts of the province.

In second place was the Niagara District Association with 50 points, a team representng Toronto suburban schools was third with 26 points; Western Ontario was fourth with 20; northern Ontario fifth with 18; Hamilton sixth with 16; eastern Ontario seventh with 14, and central Ontario eighth with 11.

Johnny Moule, of Hamilton Westdale Collegiate, turned in the day's outstanding performance. He ran the half-mile senior event in one minute, 58.7 seconds, nearly two seconds faster than the meet record and equal to the dominion schoolboy mark.

Jim Galoska was the only member of either PCVS' or St. Peter's High track and field teams to place in the meet.

Places Third

Senior track star of the Peterborough and district meet and high individual scorer in the COSSA meet a week ago in Oshawa, Galoska placed third in the Ontario pole vault event. Bryan Gibbs, Ottawa Glebe Collegiate, soared 10 feet, 10 inches for the championship. Ken Panasiuk of Parkdale was second.

Bryan Young, PCVS, placed second in the second heat of the 100-yard event. Barry Rayner of Agincourt won the heat in 10.7 seconds and later placed second in the final, won by Dick Harding of Toronto Riverdale in 10.1 seconds to equal the Ontario interscholastic record.

A meet record in the senior 100-yard dash was tied by David Joyce, Moule's 18 - year - old schoolmate, who ran it in 10 seconds flat.

Pete Sutton of Oakville Trafalgar ran the senior 440 in 51 seconds, chopping four-tenths of a second from the meet record he set last year. He also won the 220 in 23.5.

East City Captures First PMBA Contest

The Peterborough Minor Baseball Association opened its season Saturday morning at Riverdside Park with northend bantams dropping an 18-4 decision to Welch's East City crew. Hillier relieved Board of the losing squad in the fourth frame. The score was not a good indication of play, but errors hurt the northerners cause.

McDougall was most effective for the victors as he threw four-hit ball as he whiffed 14 batters. Garvey led at bat with three singles in five tries, with Dorrington, Guerin and McDougall clouting two safeties each, Rogers getting a three-bagger. Brady, Cameron and McIlwain went good for the northenders, and each had a hit. The victors had 12 hits and three errors, while the losers got but four bingles and booted seven. Guerin caught McDougall, with Smith the receiver for the northend team.

C's Beat Norwood

NORWOOD, June 11 (ENS). — The Campbellford ball team defeated Norwood here on Friday night 11-2. Campbellford secured three runs in the first and fifth innings, two in the third and the seventh and one in the fourth inning.

Norwood counted one each in the third and fifth innings.

Campbellford — McFarlane ss, Root 3b, Simpson 2b, Bennett c, Baker lf, Jeff cf, Barnum rf, McCall 1b, McNaughton p.

Norwood—Moahan 1b, Fredericks p, Stackhouse 2b, E. Spencer ss, Aldred lf, B. Spencer 3b, Scott cf, LaBrash c, Horne rf.

GET IT THERE!—The surprising White Sox are wide awake, and Manager Paul Richards, shouting orders from the dugout and the third base coach's box, sees that they stay that way.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

Another heavy week of lawn bowling coming up; besides the regular schedule games we have:—Wednesday afternoon and evening, the ladies' open rink tournament for the J. J. Duffus Trophy. Friday night the ladies play the first round in the Tip Top Tailors competition; also on Friday night, the men's doubles tournament; on Saturday evening the Family Hour tournament. And that should just about take care of this week.

The Saturday night tournament was rained out.

Outside entries are now being received for some of the open tournaments. On Saturday, Secretary Fred Dearborn received two paid entries from the Agincourt club for the Ovaltine Trophy (mixed doubles) for Monday, July 2. And Wm. Jeffries, chairman of the Black Memorial mixed doubles tournament, has several entries from outside clubs. The same goes for the Lift Lock Gold Trophy — men's doubles. Chairman Robt. Gamble has already many entries. It would seem that the doubles is the popular tournament.

Playing at Carleton Place on Friday, Mrs. R. Dyers' rink won first honors. It was the first time any local rink had been down there and they received a grand welcome. They each received a refrigerator set. The rink was:

Mrs. J. Cullen
Mrs. H. Wilson
Mrs. J. Dawe
Mrs. R. Dyer (skip)

P.S.—This coming week-end—"Don't forget Dad."

UEW Gains Win By 3 to 0 From Kingston

Peterborough UEW defeated Kingston United 3-0 Saturday at Kingston in a league soccer match. They pressed from the start with A Smith almost scoring in the first few minutes. Mundy made a fine stop when Kingston retaliated, and Cotton put the ball right to the goal mouth, but it was cleared. Jones had to hop, too, in the net to keep his shutout. While UEW had most of the play, there was no score in the first half.

Strong scored a swell goal in the second off a pass from winger Halroyd. Cotton had to leave with a slight concussion after a pile-up A good move by A. Smith and Featherstone was stopped and cleared for a corner, but Featherstone got the ball again and passed over to strong, who put it into the net. A. Smith got the third one neatly after taking a pass from Halroyd. Teams:

UEW — Jones, Mundy, Allen, Smith, Craig, Cotton, Featherstone, A. Smith, Strong, McGann, Halroyd, Ward.

Kingston — LePage, Grundy, Coe, Poulton, Pyle, Pennychuck, Machi, H. Kerr, Gillespy, Gararo, Kett, Lockwood, T. Kerr, Dark.

Referee, M. Schouten.

Fulham Team Wins

VANCOUVER, June 11 (CP)—Putting on the pressure after a scoreless first half, Britain's touring Fulham soccer team defeated the British Columbia all-stars 2-0 Saturday before 8,000. The score, and the crowd, were the same as last Tuesday's game, when the First-Division English League side toyed with the all-stars.

Toronto Blanks Springfield In Doubleheader

By The Associated Press

Cliff Fannin, recently-released righthander from St. Louis Browns, is wasting little time winning his way back to the majors.

Sent down to Toronto of the International League, the 27-year-old pitcher missed by one hit of pitching a no-run, no-hit game in his first start for the Leafs.

A single by Charlie Teague to open the sixth inning was Springfield's only hit. Fannin faced the minimum of 21 batters in the seven-inning game and Toronto won 4-0. The Leafs also won the first game 12-0 to take undisputed possession of fifth place.

Teague did not tarry on the basepaths long as Carmen Mauro, the next batter, hit into a double play. Fanning fanned seven and walked none. Before he was sent down, Fannin had a 0-3 record with the Browns.

Grover Bowers spearheaded a 7-hit attack for the Leafs, rapping a home run, triple and single, Irv Medlinger pitched a six-hitter for the Leafs in the second game. Charley Grant drove in four runs with a double and homer.

In Second Place

Buffalo barged into second placed whipping the Ottawa Giants 7-3 and 2-1. The Bisons now have won six in a row. Rudy Minarcin yielded six hits for his fifth trumph as Outfielder Archie Wilson supported him with his 11th home run and a triple. Rookie Moe Savransky allowed only five hits in the nightcap. Wally Post homered with one on for both Buffalo runs in the afterpiece.

Montreal divided a doubleheader with Baltimore but still paced the loop by 6½ games. Veteran Karl Drews beat the Royals 7-5 in the first game. Chris Van Cuyk won the second for Montreal 3-2. Anse Moore was the big hitter for Baltimore in the first game. He collected three for three including a grand-slam homer.

George Byam's double drove in the winning run for Montreal in the fifth inning of the second game.

Syracuse and Rochester were rained out.

Chicago Wins 1, Loses 3 To Yankees Over Weekend

By JOE REICHLER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

The cooled-off Chicago White Sox are all set to sizzle again. Why not? Aren't they shoving off today on a two-week swing of the east—the land of free and plenty?

New York, Boston, Washington and Philadelphia have been paradise for the dazzling American League leaders.

No wonder the White Sox look forward to their next 14 games with relish. They open the tour Tuesday night against the Senators whom they've whipped five straight times and close June 24 in Boston against the Red Sox whom they've beaten six out of seven.

The White Sox threw a scare into hometown fans by losing three straight to the Yankees during the weekend.

A near-capacity Sunday crowd of 52,054 at Comiskey Park was resigned to a fourth straight loss when the Yankees zoomed into a 4-0 second game lead after winning a 2-1 opener. But the Sox came from behind twice to win the nightcap 11-7 and gain a split. Thus the Sox start east with a 2½ game lead over the stubborn Yankees.

In Third Spot.

The Red Sox took two games from Cleveland 9-6 and 8-2 to move into third place. They trail Chicago by 5½ games. Detroit downed the Athletics twice in Philadelphia 11-7 and 9-5 while Washington and St. Louis split. The Browns won the first, 10-9 and the Senators took the second 3-2.

Brooklyn retained its 5½ game advantage in the National, dividing a pair with Pittsburgh. The Dodgers eked out a 2-1 victory in the opener and Pirates took the 11-inning nightcap 5-4. Two streaks were snapped as Chicago held the New York Giants even in a twin bill. After the Giants won the first game 6-1 for their fifth in a row over Chicago, the Cubs came back to gain their first triumph over New York 7-3. They added insult to injury by smashing Sal Maglie's nine-game winning streak.

Nip Braves

St. Louis moved within a point of the second-place Cincinnati Reds, nipping the Braves in Boston 5-4. The Reds, scheduled to play two in Philadelphia, were rained out.

Handcuffed with seven hits by Eddie Lopat, in the opener, the White Sox hammered six Yankee pitchers for 14 hits in the nightcap.

Lopat won his own game, singling and eventually scoring on a fly by Gene Woodling in the eighth to snap a 1-1 tie. Saul Rogovin was the loser.

Two dozen hits plus four errors by Cleveland shortstop Ray Boone helped the Red Sox beat the Indians twice. Two miscues by Boone accounted for five unearned Bosox runs in the opener in which Dom DiMaggio clubbed five safeties for the winners. Ted Williams cracked a three-run homer, his 12th, in the nightcap.

Al Rosen, Cleveland third baseman, suffered a broken nose when a bad hop hit him in the sixth inning of the opener. It was the 11th time Rosen's nose has been broken.

Severe Punishment

Ned Garver absorbed his severest punishment of the year as Washington slugged him for 18 hits but he went the distance as St. Louis backed him to a 10-9 victory. An 11th-inning homer by Gil Coan won the second game for Washington.

The Tigers bombed seven Philadelphia flingers for 26 hits including two homers by Dick Kryhoski and one apiece by Vic Wertz and Pat Mullin.

Fred Hutchinson and Bob Cain were the victors.

Ralph Kiner blasted two homers to lead the Pirates to a split with Brooklyn. His second and 15th of the season, came in the 11th of the nightcap with Pete Reiser on base. The Dodgers broke a 1-1 tie on a single by Carl Furillo. Ralph Branca yielded six hits to best rookie Bob Friend for his fifth win against one loss.

Four Giant homers by Alvin Dark, Eddie Stanky, Wes Westrum and Don Mueller helped Larry Jansen coast to his sixth win as the righthander spaced six Chicago hits in the first game. Bob Rush stopped the Giants in the nightcap.

Stan Musial lashed a triple and two singles to lead the Cards to victory over the Braves.

PRESBYTERIAN MODERATOR—The Rev. Norman Kennedy, minister of the First Presbyterian Church, Regina, was elected moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada at the 77th general assembly in Ottawa. Holder of the Military Cross for gallantry in the First World War, Mr. Kennedy succeeds the Rev. Frank Scott MacKenzie, of the Presbyterian College of Montreal.

Golden Uses Stolen Bell

GOLDEN, BC — (CP) — New comers might not know it, but when the bell of St. Paul's Anglican Church rings for Sunday services, it is tolling the story of a stolen church—and for that matter, a stolen bell.

Old timers like to tell the 50-year-old story of "Whistling Rufe" Kimpton and his business partner, J. C. Pitts. It seems that when the Canadian Pacific Railway decided to move its divisional point from the town of Donald to Revelstoke, the synod of New Westminster decided to give St. Peter's Church at Donald to the Revelstoke parish.

But when the moving crew arrived at Donald, it found the church was gone. The story goes that "Whistling Rufe" and Mr. Pitts, who owned stores in Donald and Windermere decided to move from Donald to Windermere, and since they were attached to their parish church, they instigated a plot to move it by flat car and boat to their new home town.

As Thomas King, a Golden resident since 1899, recalls the circumstances with a smile, the church—and the bell—got as far as Golden when the secretary of the River Company decided that since the bell was stolen, there would be no harm in stealing it again.

So somehow it left the boat and took its place in the belfry of St. Paul's Anglican Church at Golden. And it has been calling the people to worship ever since.

Shorthorn Field Day Draws Big Crowd To Cadesky Farm

"Canada has the healthiest livestock in the world," said Dr. R. A. MacIntosh of the Ontario Veterinary College at the district Shorthorn breeders' field day Saturday at Louis Cadesky's Louada Manor Farms in Harvey Twp., Pigeon Lake. "Much of the wealth of this country is produced through our livestock trade and the largest percentage of it is from our cattle. By this time, every farmer knows you can't export if you haven't healthy stock. So, our job is to maintain the high health standard we have established.

"Years ago our veterinary authorities prevailed upon our Federal Government to impose inspection of animals imported into this country. By that means we prevented serious diseases occuring through importation. We have never had animal plagues in Canada such as we have heard about in some other countries, for instance, foot and mouth disease. That clean sheet means so much to us in the sale of our stock. It is something we take for granted, but it is of the highest importance."

Tested For TB

Dr. MacIntosh said that in the last year every beast in the country was tested for tuberculosis. "That means more to the country than we realize."

"It is hard to get an animal with T. B. today for the purpose of demonstration to our students at the Ontario Veterinary College. We arrived at that position because our people lent their efforts to eradicate this disease. And, it still remains for us to keep at it."

Dr. MacIntosh said Bangs disease could be eliminated in a few years by calfhood vaccination. We can clear it up completely if everybody gets behind the effort."

650 Families.

The attendance was estimated at 650 farmers and their families.

The proprietor of the Sandy Point estate on Pigeon Lake was host. He invited the Shorthorn breeders of Victoria and Peterborough counties to hold their joint field day there, supplied lunch to everybody through the agency of the W. M. S. of Lakehurst Presbyterian Church, with some of the prizes, and the result was a surprising success.

Visitors came from five or six counties, including Peterborough, Victoria, Durham, Ontario, York, Northumberland. The surprising feature was the large number of people who took the opportunity of seeing the Louada Manor Shorthorns and the commodious premises Mr. Cadesky has already provided for his staff and stock.

"This is really a great field day," said Harold White, secretary of the Canadian Shorthorn Breeders Association. "This is one of the largest field day crowds I have seen anywhere in Canada this year. As an agricultural event it will take a lot of beating."

Most of the visitors arrived in the morning and stayed until the close around five o'clock.

Dr. Worton?

Dr. Harold Worton was master of ceremonies, and kept the program going smoothly and brightly. He introduced Mr. Cadesky whose welcome as host was: "This is a real honor to have so many people visit us today. I am enjoying your visit as much as you are, and I hope you will come back often."

Others introduced were: John Bent of Omemee, chairman of the day, and president of the Victoria Shorthorn Breeders; Lou Shaw of Otonabee, Peterborough president Prof. R. G. Knox of OAC; Dr. MacIntosh; Dr. James Henderson, head of the animal clinic at Ontario Veterinary College; Russell Parker of Watford, president of the Ontario Shorthorn Club; Ab Stoltz, Aurora, fieldman for the Canadian Shorthorn Association; Edward Starr of the livestock branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture; David Gove of

Frederick Skitch Dies Two Weeks After His Wife

Two weeks after the death of his wife, Walter Frederick Skitch, retired manager of Canadian National Express Co. in Peterborough, died Sunday at Civic Hospital. He had been ill several months. He is believed to have been the first express company representative in Peterborough when he came here from St. Catharines nearly half a century ago.

Mr. Skitch was born in Lindsay 76 years ago, son of William Robert Skitch and his wife, Elizabeth Thurston. He began his career at the age of 17 with the Great Northwestern Telegraph Co. in St. Catharines. He came to Peterborough in 1902, and in 1904 was appointed manager of the Grand Trunk Express and Telegraph Co. From 1920 until his retirement in 1941, Mr. Skitch was Canadian National express agent, then completing 48 years in that service.

He was a member of Trinity United Church, and previously of Charlotte St. Methodist Church which he first attended when he came to Peterborough. After his retirement he was employed five years in the office of the De Laval Company.

A member of Trinity Church quarterly official board Mr. Skitch had been a choir member for half a century. Music occupied a high place in his interests. It was a gift which he generously expended. He was at one time president of the Peterborough Male Voice Choir.

He played bass viol in the old Conservatory orchestra, and had been active in other orchestras and also in vocal quartettes for many years. He also played in George St. Sunday School orchestra.

Mr. Skitch was a member of St. Andrew's bowling club, was a Past Grand Master of Otonabee Lodge No. 13, IOOF, of which he was a 25-year jewel member.

His wife, the former Effie Ethel Lee, died on May 30. Mr. Skitch leaves two sons, John and Vernon of Peterborough; three daughters Mrs. Albert Thompson (Margaret) Mrs. Ronald E. Seabrooke (Isobel), of Peterborough, and Mrs. D. H. Haverson (Lenora) of Stoney Creek; also three brothers, Herbert of Sutton, Ont.; A. E. Skitch of Vancouver and Percy H. Skitch of Lindsay; one sister, Mrs. Leta Hanley of Peterborough.

The body is resting at the Belleghem funeral home, 190 Hunter St., until noon on Wednesday when it will be removed to Trinity United Church for the service at 2:30 p.m. conducted by the Rev. Dr. Bruce Gordon. Burial will be at Little Lake cemetery.

City Placing Meters On Market

Final Market Day Last Saturday; Lift Concrete Walk

The job of converting the old market square into a metered parking lot was begun by employees of the board of works this morning.

Removal of the middle walk of concrete was completed before 10 o'clock, and the power picks were then started on reducing the width of the sidewalk on Water St. A bulldozer and the machines for breaking up the solid surfaces made quick work of the long familiar outlines of the market space.

This operation requires a correction of the news report that the final day of the market would be Saturday, June 16. That information was obtained from a member of the committee which decided on the work order, and was in reply to the question: "Is the 16th the last market day?"

The comment this morning was briefly, "The market has had it."

Permanent Top

With the lifting of the concrete walk, east and west across the middle line of the market, a bulldozer began levelling the entire square in preparation for the permanent top that is to be laid for the parking area. The east sidewalk was being narrowed for the reason that nearly half the width encroached on the vending square. The width had been doubled some years ago for the convenience of the public and to relieve crowding.

The official announcement of the committee decision published in the Examiner Saturday set the opening of the new location of the market for Saturday, June 16. This change applies only to the outdoor section. The market hall will continue to be used for the sale of butter, eggs, poultry "from baskets, as formerly."

French Communist Number Political Influence Weaker

By ALAN HARVEY

PARIS, June 11—(CP)—Tourists more interested in politics than in boulevards, bistros and boutiques often leave with a pained impression that France bristles with Communists and anti-American feeling. On the surface, they're right.

The Communist party polled 5,500,000 votes in the last election to become the largest single party in the National Assembly. Since then their nuisance value has been considerable. But their influence seems to be waning, despite their noisy propaganda in the current campaign for the June 17 elections.

One estimate is that their representation in the last House, totalling 181 including "progressives," may be cut to about 100. Party membership is believed to have dwindled from a peak of about 1,000,000 to 500,000. The formation of a break-away "Nationalist" Communist party, led by Darius le Corre, and a new electoral law which gangs up against extremists may be important factors.

Many Reasons

What accounts for the still relatively large number of Communists in France? The explanations range from the picturesquely anecdotal—one farmer said he thought the party's name implied an interest in the commune, or parish affairs—to the historically philosophical.

French intellectual Raymond Aron, Professor of Political Science and well-known journalist, said he considers one reason for Communist successes in France and Italy may be that they are the industrially backward countries of the west. Although France has sectors of industry which compare with those of North America, there are still many antiquated parts which tend to keep the average down.

Aron also advanced the theory that the Red ideology may serve as a kind of substitute religion for peoples schooled in the clerical tradition. Thus, Communism's iron discipline might be accepted more readily by those used to religious dogma.

Romantics

"In Canada you look at a political problem and try to solve it on its merits," Aron said in an interview. "In France politics tend to get all mixed up with religion and metaphysics. The French, in brief, are romantics in politics and sensible in their private lives."

Here are some other thoughts on French Communism, as gathered in interviews with representative Frenchmen and Canadian observers in Paris:

Communism may appear to some to be the only effective protest against a social system which may be hard on low-wage groups. A Canadian source, making this point, said while recent governments contained many groups sympathetic to reform, they were usually balked in their efforts.

Constant Red propaganda has finally stupified some people into believing black really is white. The Communists recently held 17 meetings in Paris in one night. An outstanding example of a paper adroitly plugging the party line is La Terre, which promises higher prices to the farmer and lower prices to the city man.

Resistance Record

The Communists exploited their post-resistance prestige to seize power in some places, killing liberal-minded rivals if necessary. They gained controlling posts in trade unions, where they seem to some workers to be the only ones really interested in their welfare

Many comrades cling to Communism long after disenchantment sets in, perhaps because the party "has something" on them.

As for anti-American feeling, most of it is generated by the Extreme Left. While there is little affinity between the Americans and the French in culture and tradition; while France may look upon aspirins and Coca Cola with a certain condescension; and while every new American air base causes independent-minded Frenchmen to wish they were not necessary, there are no real causes of friction that would not exist between two different peoples anywhere.

Cultural Achievement Graduation Theme

PORT HOPE, June 11 (CP) — History will judge Canadians on their cultural and citizenship achievements, and not on their wealth, retiring principal R. C. Wallace of Queen's University said Saturday at closing ceremonies at Trinity College School here.

"It is therefore," he said, "our duty to record in our writings, in our art, in our draftsmanship and our music the greatest things we have experienced in our time."

Headmaster P. A. Ketchum noted that during the last term the school had the first enrolment of a great-grandson of a former TCS student. "It makes us feel like a very old school in a very young country," he said.

Return To Work

FERGUS, June 11—(CP)—The 600 workers at Beatty Brothers washing machine plant will go back to their jobs today, it was announced Sunday. A compromise adjustment in the wage dispute was reached Friday. Workers who previously earned $1.15 an hour will receive $1.25. Those getting $1.16 will receive 15-cent boosts.

Ontario Decision Upsets Saskatchewan

REGINA, June 11—(CP)—Attorney-General J. W. Corman of Saskatchewan said Saturday the recent decision of an Ontario Supreme Court Judge on an appeal from the province's Labor Relations Board mounts a threat to the constitutional powers of the province.

He referred to Mr. Justice Gale who quashed the certification granted the Toronto Newspaper Guild, Local 87, by the Labor Relations Board in July, 1950 as bargaining agents for circulation employees of The Globe And Mail. The Judge indicated Board procedure in the case had been contrary to the "elements of justice."

Mr. Corman said in a statement he felt the decision should be appealed.

The real issue posed by the decision was whether the legislatures or the courts made the law.

Niagara Plans Atom Raid Drill

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP) — The United States' largest and most severely-realistic atom raid drill is scheduled for Friday in Niagara Falls, N.Y., the state civil defence commission announced Saturday night.

A theoretical A-bombing of power plants will send 9,000 civil defence volunteers into action.

All citizens will be expected to take cover when sirens sound the initial warning of a "Red alert"—but for purposes of the test it will be assumed that approximately 40,000 persons are killed or injured in the attack.

No assistance will be forthcoming from nearby Buffalo because that city theoretically will have been bombed also.

Neither will Niagara Falls, Ont., participate in the rescue work because immigration problems have not yet been ironed out.

No Reconciliation

PARIS, June 11 — (AP). — Film actress Rita Hayworth told her lawyer Sunday she does not want to meet Prince Aly Khan for a try at reconciliation. The Moslem prince, heir to one of the world's greatest fortunes, had suggested they get together at a Caribbean resort. Miss Hayworth now is in Nevada establishing residence for a divorce action.

Job Breakdown Program Eases Shortage Of Men

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

. . . If Canada's huge defence and development measures bring about a manpower shortage in the coming months, we may expect to hear much of such terms as "job simplification," "job breakdown," "up-grading" and "trainee" programs.

They are not new terms—they date back at least to the Second World War. But they do supply much of the answer, in emergencies, to getting skilled work done when there doesn't seem to be enough skilled men to go around.

"Job simplication" or "job breakdown" mean just what they say. Complex jobs, hitherto requiring highly - trained workers, are broken down into smaller parts, so that unskilled men or women may do them after short training. This, in turn, makes more skilled people available for the tasks for which they are absolutely needed.

Chance for Advancement

"Up-grading" also means what it says—fitting an employee for a job a bit beyond what he has been doing. And "trainee" programs, of course, are intended to bring in reinforcements at various levels.

During last week's annual meeting in Quebec of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, these and associated manpower problems received considerable discussion.

It was stated, for instance, that Canada has reserve man and woman power of some 700,000 persons, who are not now working, but who could be brought into the working force if an emergency demanded it.

These reservists consist largely of women, of older and younger men, and people who are physically handicapped. Such measures as "job simplication and breakdown" and "trainee" programs, would be vital parts of the process of bringing them into industry.

Lethbridge Plans Future Growth

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP)—One of the fastest-growing cities in Western Canada, Lethbridge has had an exhaustive report prepared on its past and present to help it cope with future growth.

Prepared by Gerald A. P. Carrothers of the University of Manitoba, the report comprises a 155-page booklet, 32 maps, and three groups of mounted photographs.

The report reveals that the population of Lethbridge has increased by 27 per cent in the last four years, compared with 21 per cent for Edmonton and 13 per cent for Calgary.

Mr. Carrothers predicted that by 1970, the minimum population of this southern prairie city would be 29,600, while the maximum to be expected would be 70,000 persons. Lethbridge's present population is about 20,000.

Nearly half of the city's homes, or 41 per cent, have been built in the last 10 years. Another 27 per cent of Lethbridge dwellings are more than 40 years old.

Prepared to aid the town planning commission, the report reviews location and direction of growth, parking problems, recreational areas, conditions of buildings and natural resources.

Jenny Lind's Great Granddaughter Following Singer's Footsteps

By SYDNEY MIRKIN

LONDON, June 11 —(AP)— Jenny Lind's great-granddaughter is following in the "Swedish Nightingale's" footsteps as a singer.

But unlike her famous ancestor, Barbara Lind did not begin her career until she had two grown sons.

Barbara Lind—her real name is Lady Barbara Welby—is a forty-ish blonde who smilingly declined to reveal her age. Her elder son, however, is 23.

Interviewed in her London apartment on her return from Sweden where she sang on the state radio, Miss Lind and her husband, Sir Oliver Welby, said many people there commented on her marked resemblance to Jenny Lind as shown in paintings and photographs.

The resemblance is more than just physical. Barbara Lind also is a soprano.

Miss Lind says "My great uncle who was Jenny Lind's son, said my voice tone was almost exactly like hers."

Not Trading

She quickly dispels any idea that she might be trading on her famous ancestor's reputation.

She does sing a repertoire of Jenny Lind songs, but only when she gives one of her infrequent lectures of her illustrious forebear.

Barbara Lind has inherited most of Jenny's music, including several Chopin mazurkas which the "Swedish Nightingale" made one of her specialties.

Generally, however, Barbara Lind's concerts are of contemporary music in English, French and Swedish.

Her childhood was filled with stories of Jenny Lind told by her grandmother and her great uncle. Her grandmother, who was a pianist, began Barbara's voice training. Her mother was also a professional singer for a time.

God The Only Cause Lesson Sermon Subject

"God the Only Cause and Creator" was the subject of the lesson sermon which was read in all Churches of Christ Scientist, throughout the world including First Church of Christ, Scientist, Peterborough on Sunday.

The Golden Text was "Great and marvellous are Thy works, Lord God Almighty; just and true are Thy ways, Thou King of Saints." (Revelation 15:3).

Selections from the Bible included the following from Isaiah 45: 11, 12: "Thus saith the Lord, the Holy One of Israel, and his Maker, Ask me of things to come concerning my sons, and concerning the work of my hands command ye me. I have made the earth, and created man upon it: I, even my hands, have stretched out the heavens, and all their host have I commanded."

Correlative citations from the Christian Science text include the following: "God is individual, incorporeal. He is divine Principle, Love, the universal cause, the only creator, and there is no other self-existence. He fills all space and it is impossible to conceive of such omnipresence and individuality except in infinite Spirit or Mind."

Five Union Officials Cleared Of Charge

DETROIT, June 11 (AP) — Five minor officials of Ford Local 600, United Auto Workers (CIO) Sunday were found guilty of Communist subservience by a local trial board, but they were cleared by the local's general council.

The trial committee, which had conducted hearings against the five in November, 1950, first reported its findings to the general council. A motion was made to reject the findings. It was approved, 94 to 21, and the charges were dropped.

Winnipeg Tests Fuels For Buses, Drops Gas

WINNIPEG (CP)—An experiment being carried out by the Winnipeg Electric Company may mark the end of gasoline-powered buses. Both types have shown more economy in operation than gasoline buses.

H. A. Couch, superintendent of equipment, said it was too early to come to any fixed conclusions and any changes would take considerable time.

He said, however, there was "absolutely no chance" these vehicles will displace the electric trolley bus in downtown areas.

Youth Group Refuses To Support Bevan

TORONTO, June 11—(CP)—Delegates at the Co-Operative Commonwealth Youth Movement Annual Provincial Convention Sunday reversed a recommendation of their resolutions committee and refused to endorse the left-wing group of the British Labor party, which under Aneurin Bevan split with the government.

Delegates argued that the cut in British social services which prompted Bevan's resignation from the Cabinet was justified by pressing defence needs.

Erle Neff of Hamilton was elected President of the Ontario C.C.Y.M. for the coming year.

Find Raising Of Pheasants No Remedy For Hay Fever

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bill Greenslades' house on Marine Drive is practically surrounded by a flock of big, beautiful birds that give him hay fever.

They also peck his bald head occasionally and they are highly critical of his taste in clothes.

This might discourage some mer from pheasant farming, but not Mr. Greenslades.

He sells most of his birds to the British Columbia Game Commission and those the commission don't buy go to people of discriminating taste who want breast of pheasant for dinner, instead of turkey or chicken.

Also he likes pheasants, despite the fact they haven't sense enough to come in out of the rain and are noted for neglecting their young.

In the acres of chicken-wire pens surrounding him were cock pheasants in their full spring plumage—ringnecks, mongolians, reeves, mutans, goldens and silvers—each with more color than a Hollywood necktie and more tastefully displayed.

This being springtime for the pheasants, all the cockbirds were excited and had to be isolated from each other.

Hen pheasants are laying busily and Mr. Greenslades and his wife are collecting the eggs and putting them in big electric brooders.

HISTORIC SWEET

Contemporary writings as early as 1685 mention the making of maple syrup or sugar by the Indians in Quebec.

Twenty years ago he started with three birds. Now he has several hundred; more each time a shell snaps in the brooder.

To the Shareholders of

NATIONAL BREWERIES LIMITED

During the past few weeks persistent rumors were circulated that National Breweries Limited had been approached by another brewing company regarding a possible amalgamation. These rumors were exaggerated to the point whereby the public were led to believe that the transaction had been completed and that it only remained for the shareholders to ratify such an arrangement.

Certain proposals have been presented to the Directors of National Breweries Limited. At a special meeting of the Board, held on June 5, 1951, the Directors, having studied the proposals, unanimously decided that they could not recommend the acceptance of these proposals as being in the best interests of the shareholders and employees.

Linen Straw Used For Hats

LONDON (CP)—Pancake and coolie hats, berets and sailors, bonnets and boaters are among the new models shown by the millinery information centre here. Most of the prices are moderate, within range of the working girl's purse.

This effort to manufacture hats in a price-range which does not take up a girl's entire weekly salary has been going on for some time and its success has been proved by the charming hats now on sale.

Linen straw is widely used and a sectioned beret of this material, made for summer, has a decorative navy and gilt hatpin.

Among the sailor hats was one in navy fur felt, the upper brim in white pedal straw, while the crown was banded with handwoven straw lace.

Small postillion hats were very popular, especially when worn with suits. One in grey fur felt had a mimosa yellow grosgrain hatband and bow. Another in grey felt had a double-roll brim with a shallow crown.

Many of these models are worn straight on the head, with interest centred on the front by a mass of white flowers.

Polio Nurse Aids 700 In Eight Years

SASKATOON (CP) — This city's loss of Mrs. George Cowell will be Calgary's gain.

Mrs. Cowell has devoted the last eight years to assisting paralyzed sufferers from poliomyelitis in regaining the use of their limbs.

When her husband joined the army in 1939, Mrs. Cowell, a graduate nurse, joined the staff of St. Paul's hospital as clinical technician and instructor. A polio clinic was established in 1943 and she was appointed physio-therapist after taking a course in the Kenny method of treating polio patients.

Since that time, she has helped about 700 polio victims regain normal activity.

Although she now has to leave Saskatoon for Calgary, where her husband has been transferred, she is not leaving her work, but has accepted a similar position in a Calgary hospital.

Mother of two daughters, a trainer of race horses and field dogs, and a lover of shooting, Mrs. Cowell has always given her patients all possible time, even taking them car riding, to movies, and often home with her.

That's why at Christmas time, hundreds of cards and letters pile up at the Cowell home from grateful ex-patients who want to thank her again and tell her how well they're coming along.

Missed Formal Schooling But That Can Be Made Up

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I lost my parents when I was young and was brought up by a succession of aunts, uncles, and my grandmother. Most of the time I had very little opportunity to go to school. In fact, I never went further than the sixth grade. When I was 16 I married into a family of well-educated people. My mother - in - law was a high - school teacher and I could have learned a lot from her, but I was too proud to let her know how ignorant I was.

Dorothy Dix

The marriage lasted ten years, but my lack of education had nothings to do with the divorce. My husband had always been spoiled and he simply wouln't go out to work. Now I am 28, working in the city and have a very good job, but my inadequate schooling keeps me from going any higher. I feel so helpless around people who know so much more than I, and I have no self-confidence at all. I don't like to admit that I would have to go all the way back to seventh grade work to catch up, but that's what I really feel I should do. Can you offer any suggestions for me?

VIOLA.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It's too bad you din't take advantage of your mother-in-law's experience and have her help you. One of the biggest mistakes you can make in life is to be too proud to admit ignorance. You never really fool anyone; your mother - in-law certainly must have known how little schooling you had, but naturally unless you asked for assistance she couldn't force it on you.

Act Now

Now that you're out in the business world, don't continue the same error. You should definitely continue, or resume, your education, and your most evident lack is English. Being in the city, you have access to several colleges, most of which have evening classes open to all, regardless of previous education. I see no reason why you should go all the way back to seventh grade work. You have been interested in learning since you left school, and surely have acquired considerable general knowledge. Go to a college near you, or even a high school that might have evening classes, consult one of the teachers, lay your problem before him and follow the advice that will cheerfully be given you.

However, any formal schooling you undertake should be supplemented by the knowledge you can pick up day by day from your business and social associates. Don't be ashamed to let them know you are going to school; they will think more of you for your ambition. Ask for suggestions on books, magazine articles, and the like. People love to give advice and you'll find many a helping hand on your road to knowledge.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: What do you think of the husband in this case? A husband and wife, and two other men, are driving on a highway, when along comes a carload of girls. The husband's face lights up with a smile and he turns around to look at the girls as they pass our car. There has been much discussion on the mattter, with the three men thinking it was perfectly all right for my husband to act as he did. I'd like your viewpoint.

AUDREY

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: With the world in the state it's in, it seems to me you could find something a little more important to discuss than this silly matter. The only thing proved by the incident is the fact that your husband has blood in his veins and not ice-water. Anyone who couldn't respond to the sight of a carload of gay lassies by smiling at them would be a sourpuss indeed. Smile at such incidents yourself, instead of turning them into an occasion for a nagging session, or your husband may begin to do more than smile at cheerful girls.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: About a month ago my boy friend and I had an argument which resulted in our breaking up. I have been going with several boys since, and he has been going with a girl friend of mine. I saw him last night and now I am sorry I broke off with him. Do you think I should tell him how I feel, or forget him?

G. L. K.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If he is sorry too, a small overture on your part will be all that's necessary to mend things. Why not have a gathering of the gang at your house some evening, and send him a friendly note of invitation? If he wants to make up, he'll accept, and the rest is up to him. If he refuses, at least you know definitely how matters stand, and there's nothing left but to forget the whole thing.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Drop Cookies Easiest Way Of Filling The Cookie Jar

For the mother whose object is to fill that cookie jar for the use and happiness of her nearest and dearest, drop cookies are the thing. When the church ladies or bridge club are meeting at your house you might go further and make cut-out and rolled and bar cookies, but today's are for your own hungry brood.

All the flavor you want can be packed into drop cookies, and, while they are better when chilled, chilling is not essential. You can turn the oven on before you start mixing the dough and by the time they are mixed and on the cookie sheets, the oven temperature is just right. In 40 minutes after you start or have the cookie idea, somebody can be munching on cookies. Of course I know who that would be in our house.

I hope our readers will clip this cookie column for from the basic part of the first recipe many variations are given—but you may add your own variations. The basic dough is quite foolproof as long as you do not add nuts or fruits that are too moist.

Prize Drop Cookies

One cup soft shortening (vegetable shortening is best—this includes margarine of course), 2 cups soft brown sugar well packed, 2 eggs, ½ cup less 1 tablespoon sour milk or butter-milk, 3½ cups sifted cake flour, 1 teaspoon each soda and salt. Beat shortening then beat in the sugar, then the eggs. The more each of these is creamed the better the finished cookie. Stir in sour milk. Sift together flour, soda and salt and stir in well. Bake on greased sheet, dropped from teaspoon, at 400 deg. Fahr. for 8 or 10 minutes.

Variations Of Drop Cookies

(1) For very swish cookies add 1½ cups broken nuts, 2 cups candied cherries—green and red mixed, and 2 cups chopped dates. A halved cherry or nut on top gives an attractive finishing touch, but cookies should be small. (2) Add 1 cup puffed rice or wheat and 1 cup chopped salted peanuts. (3) Add 1 cup cocoanut.

Quick Confection

In a bowl put 1½ cups each fine cocoanut (not fresh cocoanut) and coarsely chopped nuts. Over them by spoonfuls put 2-3 cup canned sweetened condensed milk. New York Author Says Five Rules Make Life Happy

By ADELAIDE KERR

NEW YORK (AP)—A lot of people aren't getting what they want out of life, and a large part of the reason is that they keep tripping themselves up.

This is what Alexander Swan says. For 16 years his patients included top-flight business men, professional persons and movie stars with four - figure weekly salaries but no happy private life. He is the author of "God on Main Street," presenting a creed for a balanced, successful and happy life.

"Most of them felt they were not getting what they wanted out of life," said Swan on a New York visit. "And much of the trouble was due to the fact they did not know exactly what they wanted, had never tried seriously to find out and rebelled constantly against what they had. So, both by action and inaction, they kept tripping themselves up.

"What people want out of life differs, of course. But after years of observation I have come to the conclusion that, for most people, a balanced life must contain these five things: work they like, economic stability, love, health and play."

Swan says these five can be attained fastest and easiest by doing these things:

"Don't resist anything—including what is in your life right now," he says. "This may sound like a spineless attitude. But it's far from it. It requires you to stop thinking of yourself as the most important thing on earth and recognize the fact that others are just as important.

"Think of Others"

"Let's say it's raining. You don't like it. But several thousand farmers do. Or let's say the boss orders a piece of work done in a certain way. You think you know a better way. But it's just possible the boss might be right. Or perhaps one of your friends told you you talk too much and you have been angry at him ever since. But maybe your friend was right.

"In all these cases, wouldn't it be smarter not to fight what's happening, but to go along with the stream? In some cases you would learn something that you needed to know. And in all cases you would be spared a fight and the situation would gradually adjust itself in a way that is satisfactory to you.

"But there is something more. If you go along with the stream, you won't be whipping yourself up to the anger and tension and resentment that generally go with opposition These emotions beat up a human body. That kind of continued battering can result in ill health, if you keep it up. Refrain from it, and you will be more relaxed, more at peace with the world. Relaxation and peace of mind are two strong cornerstones to health."

Swan considers the 'resist not' attitude absolutely essential to a balanced life.

"The next thing," he says, "is to look to God for everything. There is absolutely no exception to this—no matter what the need is. All we have to do is ask, trust God implicitly, let Him open the right channel, and follow our guidance."

Former Actress Quits Haunted Castle

HALTWHISTLE, Northumberland, England (CP)—Former musical - comedy star Violet Loraine, known during the First World War era as "the only girl in the world," is forsaking the ghost-haunted castle she took over as a bride in 1921.

The 600-year-old Blenkinsopp castle and its forested acres will be auctioned shortly to meet mounting upkeep and heavy taxation.

Thirty years ago actress Loraine was carried across the castle's threshold by a dashing young bridegroom, Captain the Hon. Edward Joicey. They moved recently to a smaller residence on the estate.

"Vi" Loraine, now 65, gained fame in a starring role with Britain's celebrated comedian, George Robey, in "The Bing Boys" and other revues. She won her title by popularizing the song hit "If You Were the Only Girl in the World."

THE FASTEST WAY OF BOILING WATER IN THE HOME

GENERAL ELECTRIC KETTLE

For hot water in a hurry—your G-E Kettle will prove its worth many times every day. Just fill it, plug it in, and the Hi-Speed Calrod element—immersed right in the water—brings the water to a boil faster than you would think possible. Enough boiling water for four cups of tea in just 2½ minutes! It's so fast because the water gets all the heat—no electricity is wasted.

Yet speed is only part of the story—with a G-E Kettle in your home, the surface elements on your range are left free for cooking.

It's a must for the summer cottage—and for the office, too. Holds four pints. Available wherever electrical appliances are sold. $16.50

Price subject to change without notice.

HERE'S WHY THE G-E KETTLE IS SO FAST

The Hi-speed Calrod element is right in the water. No current is wasted because all the heat goes into the water. It saves you money—and gives you boiling water really fast.

Shorthorn Field

Guelph, secretary of the Ontario Shorthorn Breeders; Harold White, John Baker of Hampton and of the Durham Shorthorn Breeders; Ken Hunt, manager of Louada Manor Farms; Ted Parker, herdsman; and Mrs. W. J. Gartley of Bare Lodge Farms, Brampton.

Herd of 100.

Mr. Cadesky has 100 head of Shorthorns, many with calf, and 20 imported. The herd sire is Cruggleston Affleck, sired by A. J. Marshall of Scotland. Next to him is Louada Marshall, sired by Cruggleston Braemar at the Marshall farm, and imported in dam.

"Affleck" was the object of a weight-guessing contest. Hundreds of tickets were turned in. Winner was Mrs. Willie Pearson of R. R. 1, Lakefield, whose card showed 1927 pounds, only three short of the correct weight of 1930 pounds. Mr. Cadesky's gift to her was a camera with flash bulbs. Tied for second were: Lloyd Wismer of Keene, Roy Whittington of South Monaghan, and John Baker of Brampton, president of the Durham Shorthorn Club.

Prof. Knox took charge of the judging competitions. Classes were: junior heifers, junior bulls and cows. In a preface to his discussion of the ideal Shorthorn type he expressed his appreciation of the "wonderful herd we see here today. It represents the investment and interest and planning that have resulted in putting this herd together."

Improve Stock.

The ultimate end of the breeding of cattle was the improvement of the commercial stock of this country, Prof. Knox said.

"The pure breds you see here today are to be seed spots for the distribution in Canada, and also in the United States, of a class of animals that will sire steers that will make money for the farmers who feed them. The role of the breed of cattle you are looking at is to convert hay and grain into meat. That is their job."

Winners of the men's section of the judging competition were: 1, Joe Easton of Unionville, 146 points out of 150 possible; 2, John Howden of Columbus; 3, Russ Richardson of Ashburn; 4, Pat Daunt; 5, John R. Walsh, Otonabee.

Mrs. Joyce Miller of Otonabee won the silk hose for top score in the women's group; and Miss Gaye Hancock of the Peterborough calf club was first in the junior group, boys and girls, with a score of 142 points.

W. L. McNeil Heads Teachers

W. L. McNeil, vice principal of Queen Mary School, was elected president of the public school Men Teachers' Federation of the counties of Haliburton, Victoria, and Peterborough at the federation meeting in Minden Friday evening.

Salary schedules were the main item of discussion on the agenda. Haliburton teachers reported improvements in their salary schedules. Other areas reported that requests had not been met and negotiations were still being carried on. District representative, R. K. McKee, Peterborough, reported that a change in the form of the teacher contract was being studied. A move was also underway to increase the amount of federation term insurance available to the men.

New Committee

Provincial chairman of the policy committee, J. G. Nichols, explained the new arrangement being made in counselling and relations. From now on this is to be a part of the work of the special provincial committee.

Other officers elected to the committee were: past president, R. Neville, Lindsay; 1st vice-president, Blair Hanthorn, Haliburton; 2nd vice-president, R. K. McKee, Peterborough; secretary treasurer, Ivan Brown, Lindsay, district representative to provincial level, R. K. McKee; district delegates to provincial assembly, R. Nelville, Lindsay; D. Lawless, Peterborough; committee chairmen, C. D. Munro, insurance; J. M. Burns, policy; J. E. R. Munro, educational research; L. Corbett, superannuation; J. Barnard, courier; Bruce Patterson, educational finance; N. Gainer, legislation; W. L. McNeil, honorary membership.

Drunk Driver Jailed 7 Days

Albert Reid, 39, 477 Rubidge St. was today sentenced to seven days in jail when he was convicted by Magistrate W. R. Philp on a charge of drunk driving. Reid pleaded not guilty.

Reid was charged following an accident the night of June 3, when a car he admitted driving crashed into a "no parking" sign on the east side of Burnham St., then swerved across the road and struck a parked car.

Reid testified he has been under treatment for some time to "rid himself of the (alcohol) habit." He said he has been taking antabuse. He explained that the mixture of antabuse and alcohol made him lose his memory the day of the accident.

Several witnesses, including Gerald McGrath, James St., whose father owns the damaged parked car, testified that Reid appeared drunk. Constable Sherman Keliele said Reid couldn't stand steadily on his feet, and staggered when he walked.

Reid said he had had two drinks the day of the accident. One was "two fingers of whiskey" and the other was somewhat less. He said he didn't remember anything after starting the second drink.

Constable Arthur Beardmore said Reid offered him $20 to "forget the whole thing. He said: 'Will $20 fix this up?'"

The front of Reid's car was heavily damaged, and the McGrath car was damaged to the extent of $250.

One witness testified that after Reid left a Robinson St. home, he was sitting on the right side of the car's front seat. A Bowmanville man, identified as Reid's brother-in-law, Phillip Forgette, of Bowmanville, was in the driver's seat at the time.

Historic Bibles

GUELPH — (CP)—Two Bibles published almost 400 years apart were among a display brought here by the Upper Canada Bible Society. A Matthew's Bible printed in 1549 is the oldest one shown by the society, while one published in 1941 was written in basic English by Oxford scholars employing a vocabulary of only 1,000 words.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

The resignation of baseball commissioner (A. B. (Happy) Chandler "within the next few days" was predicted Sunday night by president Lou Perini of Boston Braves.

Perini is a member of the four-man committee delegated to list possible successors for Chandler.

"Have you a candidate in mind?" Perini was asked.

"Yes" he replied.

"Is it Gen. Douglas MacArthur?"

"I can't answer that now," Perini said.

It is no secret, however, that Perini regards MacArthur as the most logical replacement for Chandler's $65,000 a year baseball berth.

At Antwerp, Belgium, middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson scored a technical knockout over Jan Bruin Sunday when the Netherlander decided he'd had enough. He strolled out of the ring in the middle of the eighth round.

A crowd of 8,000 in the Sports Palace gasped when de Bruin decided to take a walk in the scheduled 10-round bout. He apparently did not like Robinson's easy treatment in the sixth round. Robinson had de Bruin in a corner twice and when ce could have finished the fight he stepped back and let de Bruin out.

Two holes in one, one of them a freak, occurred at St. George's Golf and Country Club, Toronto, during the weekend.

Jack Ryder got a weird one when his tee shot on the 13th hole, 200 yards, stopped inches from the cup. His partner, J. H. Moke, whacked an almost identical drive, his ball striking Ryder's and knocking it into the cup.

The other, of the more legitimate variety, was made by Dave Wilson on the 145-yard sixth. He holed out with a six-iron.

A disaster fund is being organized among Canadian horsemen to help owners who suffered losses in last Saturday's $250,000 fire at Buffalo Raceway in Hamburg, N. Y. The blaze destroyed 33 horses and five barns.

W. A. Lawrason, secretary of the Canadian Trotting Association is acting as treasurer of the fund, which is also being backed by the Canadian Trotter and Pacer Magazine.

General manager Frank Selke of Montreal Canadiens said Saturday he has offered a deal with Detroit Red Wings for Gerry Couture, rightwinger.

Selke telegraphed general manager Jack Adams the offer so as "to bring up the quota of French-Canadian talent."

"I have no idea who Adams would want in exchange," said Selke. "But if he is in a negotiation mood I'm willing to sit down and talk things over."

Counterpoint, a speedy son of Count Fleet, shattered the Belmont Park track record Saturday at New York in easily winning the Peter Pan Handicap, and jumped into contention for the $100,000 Belmont Stakes.

Overlooked by many of the crowd of 33,583, the chestnut three-year-old took command of the 1⅛-mile event shortly after the straightening into the home highway. The time of 1:47 4-5 broke the old standard of 1:48 1-5 set in 1942 by Marriage.

Battlefield, ridden by Eddie Arcaro, was another 2¼ lengths before the early pace-setter, Greentree Stable's Hall of Fame.

At Quebec, defending champian Frank Kovacs of Oakland, Calif., Sunday moved into the singles final of the Canadian Professional Tennis championships, with 10-8, 7-5, 6-2, victory over Frank Parker of Milwaukee, Wis.

Kovacs now will meet top-seeded Pancho Segura of Ecuador who eliminated Bobby Riggs of New York, 6-2, 6-2, 6-3.

Eleven professionals, all non-Canadians, entered the tournament which concludes with tonight's finals.

Royal Ascot Meeting Opens Thursday

By MICHAEL O'MARA

ASCOT, England, June 11.—(Reuters)—The four-day 'Royal Ascot meeting—classiest event on Britain's turf calendar—opens Tuesday.

The best bloodstock in Europe is represented on the card. But fast horses take second place to fashionable women and royal pageantry.

The royal family move to nearby Windsor Castle during Ascot week each year and daily drives in semi-state to the course.

This year illness will prevent the King fromtaking part but the Queen, Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret will be greeted by cheering thousands who line the rails and jam the stands as they arrive each day.

Only those socially acceptable to the King are granted tickets to the royal enclosure—which means, among other things, that divorced persons are barred.

Biggest race to be contested over Ascot's Royal Heath is the 2½-mile gold cup, winner of which is recognized as the top stayer in Europe.

Probables

There are four French-trained probables in the field of 11 and most of the English color-bearers are French-bred. Only prominent English-bred is the King's filly Above Board, winner of last season's Cesarewich Handicap at Newmarket.

Another popular English entrant is Winston Churchill's high-class handicapper Colonist II, a French-bred grey. Present favorite is Scratch II, Marcel Boussac's 1950 St. Leger winner.

The Gold Cup headlines the Thursday program. Feature on opening day is the Ascot Stakes while Wednesday's card is topped by the Royal Hunt Cup, a seven-furlong, 155-yard handicap over Ascot's straight course.

Temple Offerings To Be Used For Hospitals

By P. C. GILLIAM

MADRAS, India, June 9 (AP) —The government of this important South Indian state plans to tap the wealth of its 50,000 temples to meet a continuing economic crisis.

Under a law awaiting approval by Indian President Rajendra Prasad, wealth lying dormant at the feet of Indian temple gods or held in trust by temple priests will be put to work for the common good.

The law gives the government of Madras state authority to seize and control all funds donated to temples throughout the state.

Its purpose is to plow the bulk of temple donations into government bonds and securities and into building hospitals, medical research foundations, schools and modern housing developments.

Protests

Meanwhile, two enraged wails are heard.

The first comes from temple priests who for 20 years have been agitating against the government stepping in where they feel only they as ministers of the gods should tread.

Their agitation has taken the form of organized committees, unorganized mutterings and protests, of fasts and death fasts—all to no avail.

The second cry comes from the faithful who say their offerings should go to the gods, the temples and to no other cause.

"When they see new hospitals, schools, housing developments and research foundations being built, they will believe and come to know this broader aspect of their gods' work," says a government spokesman.

Aerial Census Taken On Ducks, Geese

VANCOUVER — (CP)— Two wildlife experts have finished an aerial nose-count of the ducks and geese population in British Columbia.

And the final tabulation is expected to show a decrease in BC.

The count was made by Bob Smith, Pacific Flyway biologist for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and Dave Munro, Vancouver game expert with the Canadian Wildlife Service.

Mr. Smith, a Flyway counter since 1942, who comes from Klamath Falls, Ore., explained that counts do not take in all water fowl. Sample surveys only are taken and over-all population computed from that.

"We flew straightline courses across major nesting areas in B.C.," he said.

'Nesting ground concentrations aren't high. Fifty birds to the square mile is the most we've ever encountered and in this B.C. survey the highest concentration was about 25 per square mile in the Cariboo."

In a two-week survey the experts counted 4000 birds, flying from Cranbrook to Prince George, northwest of Prince George, the Cariboo and the Chilcotin.

"We fly at 100 feet and at slow speed," said Smith. "It's a simple matter to spot the birds, identify them, and mark a tick in the right column of our clipboard."

Yachtmen's Alibi

AUCKLAND, NZ. — (CP). — Members of the Devonport Yacht Club here have a brand new alibi which has won grudging admiration from male sex. Tallow for greasing hauling-out skids is scorce so they bought a quantity of condemned lipstick. The lipstick is fine for the skids and a perfect answer for embarrassing questions.

Canada's Jets Steal Show At Rockcliffe

OTTAWA, June 11 (CP)—Canada's flashing F86 Sabre jets stole the show Saturday at the fifth annual air force day celebration at the RCAF's Rockcliffe station here.

For most of the throng of 50,000, who attended the Rockcliffe "open house," it was the first look at the sleek jet-propelled fighter craft that are playing so large a part in United Nations air supremacy over Korea.

The Rockcliffe show had counterparts in 14 RCAF stations across Canada. The celebration was inaugurated by the RCAF after the war to keep the public up-to-date on its air arm.

JOHANNESBURG — (CP). — The shortage of exercise books is becoming so great that in some schools on the Rand slates are making a comeback. With the present paper shortage, stores are unable to meet the demand.

Don Glasses, New Colors For Men

LONDON (CP)—Crystal green, rhumba red, cerulean blue and a "moonbeam" mixture of yellow and beige are some of the latest color-fashions in male attire now on view in London.

"We're trying to cheer things up a bit," said Robert Wilson, art director of Britain's color council.

Wilson admits, however, that men's fashions are created mostly for overseas trade. "Who in Britain these days can afford to set a new fashion," he asked.

Shoes displayed cost up to 15 guineas ($47.25) and sports jackets up to 35 pounds.

The council's exhibits are shown only after careful research into dyes and materials and the effect produced by different lighting.

"A suit that looks good in the bright sunlight of Los Angeles may look awful if worn in Leeds," said Wilson.

Buyers can be sure this season of finding shirts, ties, socks and handkerchiefs to match the latest colors.

Nationalist Reds Hard At Work

By JOHN MYERS

ROME, June 10—(Reuters)—Italy's "deviationist" deputies former Communists Aldo Cucchi and Valdo Magnani, are gnawing at the foundations of the biggest Communist machine in western Europe.

Success, if it is possible against the 2,600,000-strong Italian Communist party, can only come through patient chipping and boring.

Four months after their break with Moscow-dominated Communism, Cucchi and Magnani are planning a national congress of their Marxist movement "for the unity and independence of Italian workers."

The sudden glare of world publicity which was turned upon them has faded. They have settled down to the unspectacular work of shaping a new movement.

Regional offices of the Italian Workers' Movement have been opened in 12 cities and towns.

Seek Members

Application forms for membership will soon be distributed.

Cucchi is busy organizing, chiefly in the Emilia region of Italy's "red belt," where 10 North-Central provinces formed an almost-solid Communist block until anti-Communist parties made considerable election gains.

Magnani is usually on the move, probing and co-ordinating from the Alps to the Straits of Messina.

The movement's "third man," Riccardo Cocconi, once a big name in the Emilia Communist Co-operative Organizations, is in charge of the Rome Headquarters office.

Cucchi, a burly, 39-year-old surgeon, is the party's strong man.

Magnani, 38-year-old Professor of Philosophy, fought as a partisan in Yugoslavia under Marshall Tito. He is the movement's roving prophet.

Cocconi, 40, a farmer Partisan leader, is the meticulous Chief of Staff, quietly turning theories into facts and figures.

The Italian Workers' Movement is not a political party. It stands for a Marxist Italy independent of the Russian and American power blocks, in solidarity with "all countries ready to defend themselves against any aggressor."

Warn Papers Protect Freedom

LONDON, June 11 (Reuters) — Vigilance of Commonwealth newspapers in protecting their freedoms is highlighted in the annual report of the Commonwealth Press Union published here.

It will be presented June 19 to the 41st annual general meeting of the organization.

The report stresses the union's opposition to drafts prepared by the United Nations for international conventions dealing with the gathering and transmission of news, the right of governments to call for official correction of false information likely to affect international relations, and the need of freedom of information.

In the union's opinion the avowed intentions of these conventions are good but their wording makes them a potential danger to press freedom.

The council of the union has asked the British Foreign Office not to agree to any such document at the next United Nations Assembly, the report discloses.

Radar Used To Spot Approaching Weather

MONTREAL (CP) — Radar, which has a defence job spotting approaching enemy planes, has taken on another one—helping the weatherman.

The way it is done was told at the recent annual meeting of the Royal Society of Canada by three McGill University men, Drs. J. S. Marshall, K. L. S. Gunn and A. Norman Shaw and a defence research board expert, Dr. R. C. Langille.

Electric waves bounce off snow or rain just the way they do off an airplane. The weatherman, sitting in his laboratory as far as 50 miles away, spots it on the radar screen.

There is one hitch though. Snow has a bad habit of drifting long distances in the air. For instance, snow spotted by radar falling over Ottawa may drift to Montreal before it hits the grounds.

However, the group of research men, backed by the defence research board and the United States Air Force, have pushed their work to the point where they can measure the rate of snowfall with radar.

Low Necklines In Television

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 11 (AP) —Television had better control its low necklines or it will face the danger of censorship, says Faye Emerson.

"Some of the girls on television think all they have to do to get ahead is lower their necklines," she added. "That's not true. Success in TV depends on a lot more than merely displaying a good figure."

"These girls are getting away with murder, they seem to be trying to see how low they can plunge their necklines and get away with it. It's this sort of thing that is going to bring censorship.

"Right now we have no censorship. I think it's better that way. But if the offenders of good taste continue, the blue-noses will step in and impose censorship. I think censorship—or any rule by a minority—is undemocratic. It is also stifling for the medium. I think censorship is the reason Hollywood makes so few adult pictures."

Fay Over-rated?

Miss Emerson, who was here on a whirlwind visit before starting a new TV series, admitted that she was pretty well identified with the plunging neckline. But that was highly over-rated, she declared.

"Naturally, the plunging neckline was a highly popular subject —always has been," she admitted. "Since it was a widely-discussed topic in the new industry and since I was one of the first six years ago, when she was a Warner Brothers actress. She said the visit was strictly social and she has no movie plans.

Convict Man Of Abducting Kingston Boy

Jury Gives Verdict After 1½ Hours, Trial Lasts 5 Days

KINGSTON, June 12. (CP) —Owen C. Dulmage today was convicted of abducting 13-year-old Teddy Wainwright last Easter weekend. He will be sentenced later today.

The Ottawa boys worker and civil servant was convicted of abduction and of assault occasioning bodily harm following a five-day trial.

Dulmage showed no emotion at the jury's verdict, returned after 1½ hours' deliberation.

The jury retired to consider their verdict after a 45-minute charge by Judge W. S. Lane of Picton on the points of law involved in the case.

The trial, which started last Wednesday, entered its closing stages late Monday with completion of addresses to the jury by Crown and defence counsel.

Describes Trailing Boy

Inspector Andrew Ready of the Kingston police testified Monday that Dulmage, 29-year-old Ottawa boys' worker and civil servant, gave a statement March 25 after police told him he was being charged with abducting the schoolboy Good Friday evening.

He said Dulmage told of trailing and slugging the boy, gagging and blindfolding him in a construction shack and driving him to Ottawa where he held him captive in the basement of his home. He said he was driving the boy back to Kingston when his automobile hit a culvert 20 miles east of Kingston. He was arrested after he and the boy were taken to hospital.

Detective Glen Brennan, Kingston police photographer, said nine pictures on a film found in a camera in Dulmage's Ottawa home showed a boy strung up in various positions with a rope.

Mrs. T. Dulmage, the accused man's mother and the only defence witness called, gave character evidence. She said Dulmage had always been a dutiful son and she had never known him to be in trouble before.

TORONTO, June 12. (CP) — The weather man went out on a five-day limb today in an effort to guide Southern Ontario farmers in their spring haying operations. In his forecast, the weather man said the weather outlook for Southern Ontario for the next five days was good. Temperatures will remain near normal, in the high 70's in the afternoons and dropping to the 50's in the mornings. Rain will vary from little to none east of Toronto, to ½ inch or more in the extreme southwestern sections. Isolated showers are predicted tonight and Wednesday night and again during the weekend.

Anti-Reds Win Control Of Florence

ROME, June 12—(AP)—Anti-Communists today won control of historic Florence but the Reds held stubbornly to their last great Italian port stronghold, Taranto.

These were the latest significant results as returns mounted from the third round of Italian local elections.

Premier Alcide de Gasperi's anti-Communist forces polled 113,181 votes in Florence to 107,398 for the Communists, who since the end of the war had administered the city.

Incomplete returns showed anti-Communists also leading in Northern Turin, Italy's automobile centre. There the Communists have won nearly two to one over the Christian Democrats in the 1946 municipal elections.

The vote stood today at 178,596 for the anti-Reds and 131,097 for the Communist bloc, in 620 of the city's 814 sections.

Almost complete returns showed the Communists still gripping the southern port city of Taranto —the last major Italian port still in Red hands politically. Christian Democrat forces stripped Communists of control in Genoa, Venice and Ancona in the May 27 elections.

Election returns issued by the Interior Ministry also gave de Gasperi's forces an eight-to-six advantage in the vote for provincial councils.

The bitterly-fought campaign, in which de Gasperi and Italian Communist leader Palmiro Togliatti led opposing forces, was reflected in the total vote.

The Interior Ministry reported 7,122,013 of 8,018,901 eligible voters—or 88.8 per cent—cast ballots.

In the contest for provincial councils—now being revived for the first time since the Fascists abolished them—the Interior Ministry gave these figures:

In 30 provinces, 145 out of 566 seats—Christian Democrats, 78; Communists, 47; pro-Communist Socialists, 12; Independent Leftists, 4; Liberals, 2; Centre Independents, 2.

Goods Worth $30,000 In Baggage

Find Watches Hidden In Radio Tubes, No Arrests Made

MONTREAL, June 12. (CP) —Customs and RCMP officials today seized 300 Swiss watches valued at $30,000 from the baggage of a Hungarian ex-consular official.

No arrests have been made. The former consul official was not named.

Authoritative sources said the baggage was sent to Montreal from Quebec, following the arrival of the liner Scythia, when customs men there became suspicious.

Search through a trunk, containing feathers, cotton and an old radio, turned up the watches. Some were inside tubes of the radio.

The seizure was made in Central Station in mid-town Montreal.

Not Detained

Customs officials called the RCMP who questioned the man but did not detain him. They took several watches to check their retail value.

The trunk arrived in Quebec last weekend aboard the liner Scythia. It was placed aboard at Le Havre, France.

The trunk was to have been cleared at the customs office in Quebec. Four pieces of baggage were released but when customs men became suspicious of the trunk they sent it on to Montreal in bond for investigation.

Armored Cars Guard Rangoon

RANGOON, Burma, June 12—(AP)—Burmese voted today with armored cars roaming the city and police carrying tear gas bombs and Sten guns. It was the country's first general election and will decide 250 seats for the new chamber of deputies.

The voting—run in serial form by districts—will last until the end of the year and the final results will not be known for months after that.

Precautions were taken, not only against possible Communist agitators, but also against the Buddist priesthood which has suddenly become embittered with the Anti-Fascist Peoples Freedom League of Premier Thakin Nu. This socialist-controlled group is the most powerful in Burma.

The AFPFL expects to ride to victory on the votes of government employers and hundreds of other grateful wage earners dependant on the orginazttion.

The day's biggest upset was the theft of electoral rolls with nearly 10,000 names.

Build 5,000 Houses For Renting Frost Announces

LONDON, Ont., June 12. (CP)—Upwards of 5,000 houses for renting are to be built in Ontario with the Federal, Ontario and municipal Governments sharing in the construction costs. They will cost about $9,000 each and will have two or three bedrooms. Families with children will get preference as tenants, and most of those selected will have a weekly income of between $45 and $65. The plan for a direct attack on the Province's housing shortage was announced Monday night by Premier Frost in an address at the annual convention of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities. He said it will start at once and priorities for materials are being arranged.

If successful, the scheme will likely be extended, perhaps to total 25,000 houses.

Sharing of Costs

Sharing of building costs will be: federal, 75 per cent, provincial, 17½ per cent; municipal, 7½ per cent. The municipal contribution will approximate the cost of supplying such services as roads, sewers and water.

The houses will be built in areas where housing is needed most, and on the basis of about one to each 500 persons in a city's population. That will mean about 2,000 for the Toronto area, 500 for Hamilton and Ottawa, 250 for London. Municipalities must apply for them before the projects can be assigned.

The mayors of Windsor and London immediately expressed approval of the plan. But members of Toronto's Board of Control Monday night doubted that sufficient land for the houses could be found in their city. They mentioned the possibility of arranging to have them built in the less-crowded suburbs.

Fair System

Plans call for choosing the tenants from those with incomes of not less than four times and not more than six times the monthly rent.

Yet families who can afford to pay the rents asked on the open market will be barred from taking advantage of what they would consider "bargain" rentals fixed under the scheme.

Housing authorities will be set up in each community which gets a project. They will have the responsibility for choosing tenants, setting and collecting rents and

Asked 7 Divisions For Manchuria But Refused

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP) —Lt.-Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer testified today that he asked for seven American divisions to safeguard Manchuria from Russian penetration after Japan's defeat but was turned down by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Wedmeyer at that time was United States commander in China.

Testifying at the senate inquiry into MacArthur's dismissal, Wedemeyer said he wanted ot employ the American troops in Manchuria "to preclude unilateral action on the part of the Soviet in that area until the situation stabilized."

He said another purpose he had in mind was to obtain the arms of the Japanese troops in Manchuria for the Chinese Nationalist forces and so keep them out of the hands of the Communists.

Wedemeyer said MacArthur was uncertain about how the Japanese would react to the occupation of their homeland and declined to make the troops available.

Applies For Retirement

Now commander of the US Sixth Army, with headquarters at San Francisco, Wedemeyer, 55, has applied for retirement.

He sharply criticized the Truman administration's Korean war policies Monday and said he would favor withdrawing US troops from Korea and breaking off diplomatic relations with Russia and her satellites.

Wedemeyer's first day of testimony Monday brought some dispute among the senators as to whether the general was consistent.

McMahon told reporters he thought there was a "major inconsistency" but Senator Harry Cain (Rep. Wash.) said he saw "no conflict at all."

Helicopter Missing

EDMONTON, June 12. — (CP) — An RCAF helicopter with three men aboard on a two-hour flight in the North West Territories is overdue, Northwest Air Command said late Monday night. The three men were not identified. They were on an Army survey job. An Air Force spokesman said the craft was on its way from Wrigley, some 280 miles northwest of Yellowknife, to Camsell Bend, 70 miles further south.

Chinese Retreat In East Korea To Avoid Trap

TOKYO, June 12 (AP).—Three long columns of Communists fled through East Korea's mountains today to escape being trapped by Allied tanks rumbling through their fallen "iron triangle." Stout new defence lines protected the Reds' retreat from the east-central front. United Nations troops mopped up Reds in hills around captured Chorwon and Kumhwa. The towns formed the southern anchors of the Pyonggang valley iron triangle build-up area. Chinese headed for the hills on each side of the valley.

American tanks striking up roads from the triangle to the east coast would cut squarely across the Red escape route from the eastern front.

While Reds were pulling back from the fighting fronts, unverified reports cropped up that they were building up new forces only 30 miles northwest of Seoul. The build-up was reported in the Kaesong-Korangpo area.

This is near the foot of the Allied western flank. This flank drags southwest of the main front. It reaches from Chorwon to a point 35 miles to the southwest, running roughly along the banks of the Imjin River.

While the UN counter-attack has pushed northward along a narrowing front, patrols have probed this long flank daily for signs of Red strength.

The jagged northern front has been cut to about 75 miles. At

Hunt Diplomats In Spanish Area

LONDON, June 12 — (AP). — The biggest international manhunt since the collaring of Nazi war criminals at the end of the Second World War kept baffled British officials busy today chasing possible clues to the whereabouts of two Foreign Office employees who vanished May 25.

The quest extended into the rugged crags of the Pyrenees Mountains between France and Spain and to ships at sea in the Mediterranean.

A hotel employee in Foix, in Southern France, reported Monday night that photographs of the diplomats resembled two men who inquired of him last Thursday if roads leading to Andorra were open. Andorra is a tiny mountain republic between Spain and France.

The trail to Andorra turned out, however, to be a wild goose chase.

Failed To Post $5,000 Suspend Ike Williams

WASHINGTON, June 12—(AP) —Ike Williams, former lightweight champion, and Manager Frank Palermo have been suspended indefinitely by the National Boxing Association.

The NBA said today it was taking the action as the request of the California State Athletic Commission, which had held that they failed to post weight appearance and forfeit money in time.

The California NBA suspended Williams May 23 for failure to post the necesary $5,000 to guarantee his contract for a title bout with Art Aragon of Los Angeles.

Won't Endanger Oil Supply Iran Promises Truman

TEHRAN, Iran, June 12. (AP) — Premier Mohammed Mossadegh has assured President Truman Iran's plans to nationalize her oil industry will not jeopardize the world's oil supply, nor imperil international harmony. The wrinkled little statesman who has been secluded in two rooms of his country's parliament buildings sent these assurances in a lengthy letter transmitted to Washington Monday through the United States embassy.

The contents of Mossadegh's letter were disclosed as top officials of Britain's Anglo-Iranian Oil Company planned courtesy calls on government heads here prior to the opening of talks on the nationalization of Iran's oil industry operated by the company.

Mosadegh's letter was in reply to President Truman's recent appeal to Iran and Britain for moderation and reasonable negotiations on the explosive oil issue.

With the rest of the oil company's delegation—including two other directors—due today, negotiations on the takeover may start Wednesday.

Iran's flag floated symbolically over the company's giant refinery near Abadan — the world's largest — after a peaceful ceremony Monday at which Iranian directors named to operate the nationalized company were installed in a refinery office allotted them by the British management.

The Premier told Truman "there will be no trespass against international law in the taking over from the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company." He said Iran would take the utmost care to continue and to increase the present level of oil production.

"The Parliament of Iran, like yourself, desire that the interests of the countries which hitherto have used Iranian oil should not suffer in the slightest degree," the Premier wrote.

At the same time the Premier bitterly blamed the Anglo-Iranian Company for many of Iran's post-war ills.

Will Not Interfere

OTTAWA, June 12. (CP)—Informed quarters said today the government has decided not to interfere with scheduled price increases in newsprint despite increased pressure by the United States that the increases be suspended. Informants were commenting on a Washington dispatch in which US price director Michael V. DiSalle said the US may decide to place a ceiling on the amount newspaper publishers can pay for newsprint.

Buy Rifle Range For New Houses

OTTAWA, June 12 (CP).—The Long Branch rifle range, on the outskirts of Toronto, has been acquired by the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation and the Province of Ontario, and will be used for construction of some 2,000 homes, it was announced today.

The announcement, made jointly by the Resources and Defence Departments, said that with development of the area surrounding the range, the property no longer is entirely suitable for use as a rifle range and is too small for a training area.

To provide for a rifle range in exchange for Long Branch, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, acting for the Defence Department, will acquire some 1,800 acres of land northeast of Woodbridge, some 20 miles from Toronto.

In Toronto Reeve Sidney Smith of Toronto township said today that the building of a low-cost housing development on Long Branch rifle range is forbidden under a township zoning by-law.

S. Africa Wins Cricket Match

NOTTINGHAM, England, June 12—(Reuters)—South Africa today broke a 16-year spell of losing cricket test matches in defeating England by 61 runs on a rain-damaged pitch.

The victors had not won a test since 1935 when they beat England at Lord's in London.

South Africa today was all out in the second innings for 121 but came right back to dismiss England for 114. First innings scores were South Africa 483 for nine declared and England 419 for nine declared.

The first 3½ days of the match were dominated by batsmen with Captain Dudley Nourse of South Africa making a double century and Denis Compton and Reg Simpson of England scoring centuries.

No Sign USSR Intends Peace Overtures

MOSCOW, June 12 (AP) — There is no outward indication in Moscow today that the Soviet Union has approached the United States with suggestions for ending the Korean war, and this does not appear to observers here to be the time for an east-to-west appeal concerning Korea.

As far as can be judged from observation in this Soviet capital, the Russians regard the fighting in Korea as going satisfactorily—viewed from a long-range standpoint.

The Russians appear to be confident that the North Koreans and Chinese can prevent any western victory. So long as they do this, the Russians feel, they are winning in the long run.

Eastern diplomats here express doubt that the Soviet Union at the present time intends any overtures to the West on the Korean question.

They note that the Soviets seem convinced the west cannot win in Korea and that the Americans and other western troops either will make a costly blunder or will pull out of Korea for some other reason.

House Session Lasts 24 Hours

LONDON, June 12 — (AP). — Hoarse, red-eyed, stubble-faced, but still reasonably good-humored, members of the House of Commons today talked their marathon finance session past the 24-hour mark.

The oratorical orgy surpassed the post-war mark of 22 hours, three minutes they set last Thursday and Friday when the same bill was under discussion. But it fell far short of the record sitting of 4 ½ hours in 1881.

The debate on the key measure giving effect to the government's defence budget had Labor members sticking close to their seats. Because of its slim majority, the government cannot afford a defeat even in the committee stage of a finance bill. An adverse vote might force the government to resign.

Conservative Leader Winston Churchill tried to end the session, but was voted down 287 to 272. He charged that government Leader Chuter Ede was "paying of a grudge" in keeping the session grinding on.

Between March 2 and March 20 this year the House was forced to sit past midnight at every session when the Conservatives used delaying tactics in an effort to wear the government down or catch Labor with their minority showing in a snap vote.

Ask Municipalities List Defence Needs Immediately

LONDON, Ont., June 12. (CP) —Canada's civil defence co-ordinator wants Canadian municipalities to let the Federal Government know right away what they need in the way of civil defence equipment.

Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington, replying to charges that the Federal Government was slow in giving leadership to civil defence preparations, Monday, told the 14th annual convention of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities:

"If you let us know how much money you need, what your equipment requirements are and all your difficulties, it will let us plan our strategy better."

Gen. Worthington said he was alarmed by the lack of adequate civil defence preparations when an emergency might be only months away. It was possible that Russia would bomb North American cities to break morale, perhaps attacking centres with no direct military importance.

Five civil defence medical stockpiles have already been set up in various parts of Canada, he said. The Federal Government had repurchased 2,000 stirrup pumps and 500 stretchers from War Assets stores.

He criticized the policy of some municipalities in building hospitals in places where they were likely to be bombed out of existence in event of attack.

John Fisher saw a reformed Senate as an ideal advisory body in science, literature, architecture, teaching and all the other aspects of modern social life.

"Here is a great chance following the Massey Commission on culture to establish in Canada something akin to the famous French Academy or the British Royal Society," he said.

Actress Weds 4th Time

WEST LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 12 — (AP). — Hedy Lamarr and Ernest (Ted) Stauffer, a night-club operator, were married late Monday night at the home of Judge Stanley Mosk, who performed the ceremony.

It was the fourth marriage for the Austrian-born actress and the second for Stauffer, one-time bandleader. Both were divorced 1947, she from actor John Loder and he from actress Faith Domergue.

Stauffer, a Swiss who now operates the La Perla Club in Acapulco, Mexico, gave his age as 42. Miss Lamarr gave her age as 35.

Miss Lamarr's first two husbands were Austrian munitions maker Fritz Mandl and Hollywood film producer Gene Markey. She has three children, two by Loder and one by Markey.

In Store For Australians

CANBERRA, June 12 (CP). — Australia celebrated today the 50th anniversary of her federal Government—and heard intimations that peacetime rationing may be in store for her.

The warning came in the speech from the throne, read by Governor-General William McKell. It opened the jubilee 20th Commonwealth Parliament amid the greatest display of pageantry in the federal capital's history.

Arriving with an armored car escort, McKell inspected nearly 4,000 members of the Australian Army, Navy and Air Force. On hand also were more than 1,000 officials and guests, including representatives of the United Kingdom, other British dominions, American congressmen and world press leaders.

The speech, written by Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies' coalition Liberal-Country party Government, warned that shortages of manpower and materials may arise due to defence preparations. If necessary, it said, the government would ask constitutional amendments to insure adequate defence preparations and economic stability.

The speech said the government also would seek wider constitutional powers if necessary to combat Australia's Communtst party. Previous legislation outlawing the party was ruled out by the courts.

"My government believes," the speech declared, "it has an express mandate to conduct a relentless campaign against the menace of Communism in Australia and will seek to carry out that mandate by all means which may become available."

The speech also included references to Australia's wish to continue negotiations actively for a Pacific Pact, and to the Commonwealth's desire for an early conclusion of a Japanese peace treaty.

The government intends to increase the size of the armed forces by voluntary enlistment in permanent and citizen forces and by national training, the speech said.

It said only by immigraton could Australia get extra workers needed for its defence and development. British migration will be emphasized in the country's immigraton policy as in the past.

Icing Causes 8-Jet Crash

WASHINGTON, June 12—(AP) —The US air force today ruled out sabotage and said icing of engine inlet screens caused the crash of eight jet fighters over Indiana last Friday.

The investigation conducted by the air force, Federal Bureau of Investigation and plane manufacturers has revealed "no indication of sabotage," the air force said.

The eight planes were among 34 F84 Thunderjets flying south from Austin, Tex., to Selfridge Field, Mich. The eight crashed a few minutes after taking off after a refueling stop at Wright-Patterson Field, Dayton, O.

Three pilots were killed.

Russia Introduces NewBlockadeWeapon

BERLIN, June 12 — (CP). — Western Allied officials said today a new Russian regulation on trade shipments from West Berlin, through Soviet-occupied territory amounts to a blockade weapon.

British, French and United States occupation authorities protested sharply last night to the Russian Control Commission over the new regulation, demanding it be cancelled.

The action is an outgrowth of a recent East German order requiring West Berlin officials exporting manufactured goods into or through the Soviet zone to fill in consignment papers listing the origin of all raw materials used in making the articles.

Its first effect was to cut West Berlin exports down to 30 per cent. Some large firms have 5,000 of the new certificates on their desks, waiting to be filled out.

House Refuses To Reconsider Postal Rates

OTTAWA, June 12 — (CP).—The Commons voted 136 to 30 today against a Progressive Conservative motion calling for reconsideration of proposed increases in postal rates on newspapers.

The motion was sponsored by George Drew, Progressive Conservative Leader, when the government called for third and final reading of a Bill authorizing the increased rates and a series of other changes in the Canada Post Office Act

Mr. Drew asked that the legislation be referred back to committee for reconsideration of the newspaper rates. He said the newspapers should be given an opportunity to present their case. There was no reply from government benches.

No Useful Purpose

M. J. Coldwell, CCF Leader, said he did not think any useful purpose could be served by delaying passage of the legislation. His Party sympathized with the position of small and rural newspapers, but it had to be remembered that newspapers now are being "subsidized" to the extent of $10,000,000 a year through low postal rates.

In the division, the Progressives Conservatives were supported only by P. E. Gagnon (Ind-Chicoutimi) and Dr. Raoul Poulin (Ind.-Beauce). The Liberal, CCF and Social Credit members voted against the motion.

The Bill was then given third reading. It now goes to the Senate for three readings and Royal Assent.

The increased postal rates, which will affect not only daily newspapers but also weekies, periodicals and magazines, will go into effect shortly. This will boost the postal rates on copies going to rural readers.

Cuts Increase

The new rates will take effect after Royal assent is given, within the next few weeks, to a government bill revising the Post Office Act and increasing charges the post office department makes for carrying publications.

The pertinent clauses were approved by the Commons Monday night after vigorous Progressive Conservative opposition.

Before adoption, Postmaster-General Rinfret shaved the increase in the new rates proposed for daily newspapers and said the change will mean the daily rate will be increased by about $180,000 a year instead of a proposed $1,000,000 a year.

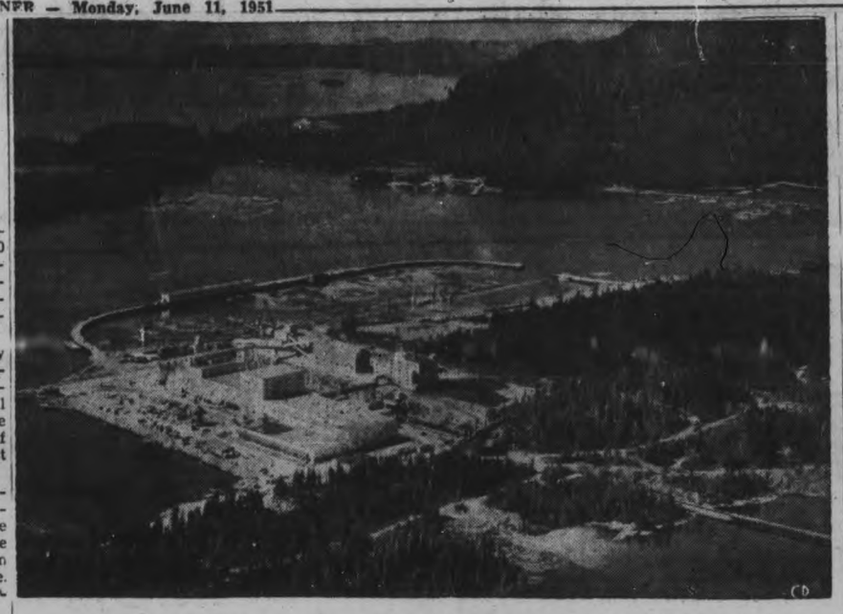
This now means that newspapers with a daily circulation of more than 10,000 will pay four cents a pound on the advertising portion of each copy mailed and 2½ cents a pound on the portion tion containing news.

Previous Rate

Previously, he had been proposing that newspapers of that size pay a straight four cent a pound rate, regardless of advertising content.

At present, such newspapers pay 1½ cents a pound. However, if their advertising content exceeds 50 per cent of space they pay four cents for the weight made up of advertisements.

For example, if a daily issue of a newspaper runs to 1,000 pounds and if 60 per cent of each copy is made up of ads, the publisher pays 1½ cents a pound for the first 400 pounds and four cents a pound for the remaining 600 pounds.



No change was made in the new rates for newspapers with a circulation of less than 10,000 daily. When the bill is passed they will pay 2½ cents a pound regardless of advertising content, compared with their current rate of 1½ cents a pound plus the additional charge if advertising exceeds 50 per cent.

Slight Reduction

Mr. Rinfret also made a slight reduction in the new rate proposed for newspapers delivered by mail carriers. The new rate will be one cent for the first two ounces, one cent for the next two ounces and one cent for each additional four ounces.

The current rate is one cent for each four ounces while the government's original intention had been to boost it to two cents for the first four ounces and one cent for each additional four ounces.

This change may help weeklies which weigh two ounces or less. However, in the main, postage rates for weeklies and periodicals remain unchanged from those originally proposed.

NEW INDUSTRY—Located near Prince Rupert, B.C., only 40 miles south of the Alaskan border, this $27,000,000 dissolving pulp plant was officially opened June 12. Owned by Columbia Cellulose Company, Ltd., the plant has an estimated output of 70,000 tons of pulp annually or sufficient raw material to produce 200,000,000 pounds of acetate yarn and staple fibre.

Chinese Raise Money For Arms

HONG KONG, June 12 (AP). —The Chinese Communist money raising campaign for planes, and tanks and heavy guns for their "volunteers" in Korea has moved into high gear.

The drive indicates that Communist China is a long way from counting herself out in Korea. Red leaders June 2 asked the people to "volunteer" funds for the country's rearmament campaign.

The English-language Hong Kong Standard reported Shanghai has been assessed a "contribution" quota of roughly $4,500,000. That is a staggering sum for the tax-ried, industrially stagnant city.

Labor Council Scores Press

The Peterborough and District Labor Council (CIO-CCL) Monday night passed two resolutions bearing on the daily press of Ontario.

One resolution passed unanimously, roundly condemned the decision of Mr. Justice Gale which decertified Local 87, Toronto Newspaper Guild (Globe and Mail circulation employees).

Included in the preamble is the statement that although the Labor Relations Act, 1950, says there shall be no appeal from the decisions of the Ontario Labor Relations Board, the Guild local was in fact decertified. It had previously been approved as the legal bargaining agent by the OLRB.

The Council also condemned The Canadian Press on the grounds it had "consistently refused to bargain in good faith with the American Newspaper Guild." The resolution describes The Canadian Press as "anti-labor," and claims it denies its employees the rights of collective bargaining.

The executive is also instructed to interview the publishers of the Examiner, a member of the co-operative newsgathering agency, to make known the views of the council.

7 Lindsay Men Injured By 44,000 Volts

LINDSAY, June 12.—Three men were hospitalized and four others hurt when a 44,000 volt flash of electricity jumped from a high-tension wire to a crane at the Canadian Arsenals Ltd. plant here Monday.

Admitted to Ross Memorial Hospital with first and third-degree burns were Clifford Robinson, 23, Fred Walker, 42, and Harry Handcock, 46, all of Lindsay. They were reported out of danger and resting comfortably Monday night.

Also hurt by the flash were John Ford, 20, Vern Hood, 27, Harvey Demore, 35, and Lorne Shier, 48. They were treated for shock and minor burns and sent home.

Employees of the gun and ammunition division of Canadian Arsenals, the men were working outside the plant along with crane-operator Alex Houghton. They had hooked the crane to a heavy press, and were about to raise it when the flash of electricity jumped from a high-tension wire leading into the plant, passing through the crane and into the ground.

One of the men was rolled over three times by the shock; another was unable to rise after being knocked down, and a third was hurled against a fence 30 feet away. Miraculously, Houghton was unhurt.

Foot Burns

Most of the burns received by Robertson, Walker and Handcock were about their feet. The other four were shaken up by the flash but not badly hurt.

Officials at Canadian Arsenals were still puzzled Monday night as to what had caused the accident. The most likely explanation they felt, was that the crane must have tipped the wire, causing a short.

The flash was felt in a Peterborough substation, 30 miles away and hydro connections between the two centres were disrupted. However, it caused no serious damage at the plant itself, where large amounts of explosives are kept for use in ammunition.

Robertson was most seriously hurt. In fact, Dr. L. V. Shier, who attended the injured men, said he was lucky to have escaped with his life.

Next weekend he is scheduled to leave for London and other European points.

At left is Maj. G. E. Hartel, American escort officer. The Mission, to assist Russians who wished to return home, ignored the deadline of midnight June 8 set by American officials who considered their business was ended. Later a convoy drove the Russians to the Enns River bridge at the American-Soviet border, 78 miles east of Salzburg, where they were handed over to Soviet officials.

England Needs 161 Runs To Win

NOTTINGHAM, England, June 12 —(Reuters)—The first cricket test between England and South Africa adjourned for lunch today with England needing 161 runs to win.

A brilliant performance by Alec Bedser, England's fast-medium bowler, cut short the South African stand this morning. Bedser took six wickets for 37 runs. Three wickets went down for only seven runs.

South Africa, without the service of skipper Dudley Nourse who is nursing a fractured thumb, lost their last four wickets for 26 runs in 40 minutes of the pitch and were all out for 121. They scored 483 for nine declared in the first innings.

With more than five hours left for play England—who made 419 for nine declared in the first innings—batted cautiously, scoring 25 for the loss of Len Hutton's wicket by lunch time.

Ottawa Government Too Strong While Opposition Too Weak

CAMPBELLFORD, June 12 (ENS).—More than three hundred persons packed the Warkworth town hall on Monday evening, to attend the annual meeting of the Northumberland Progressive Conservative Association.

Guest speaker was Donald M. Fleming, MP for Eglinton, Toronto. Mr. Fleming declared the story of what is going on at Ottawa is "not a happy tale. The situation today is filled with dangers for every freedom-loving citizen," he said, referring to what he termed a growing totalitarianism in government policy. "We are so disposed to take freedom for granted," he said, "that we do not stop to meditate on the things that form a sound foundation for our freedom." The present Government in Ottawa was too strong, Mr. Fleming said, and there was a growing need of "party discipline." Mr. Fleming said the function of the opposition in the Government is no less important than the Government itself. "We now have the most unhealthy situation in Canadian Government since Confederation. Party members are not making their voices heard in the House, and unless members are in accord with party policy, they are treated as outcasts. This is the inevitable effect of too much power, for too long a period," said the speaker.

The opposition has repeatedly tried to have a committee formed to investigate spending for national defence, but the Government will not listen to this, and will make no formal statement on where the money is being spent, the speaker declared.

Speaking of Mr. Abbott's budget, Mr. Fleming said the people have not yet felt the full impact of the budget with its increased taxes, because the new income tax rates do not go into effect until next month. He spoke of the Government's promises to cut the sales tax, and told of how it was increased instead by 25 per cent. This, he said, was a hidden tax, because the consumer does not realize he is paying it. The original 10 per cent. tax usually snowballs until the consumer is actually paying close to 18 per cent. This is caused by the wholesaler and retailer, and sometimes the jobber, marking their profit up on top of the tax which has already been computed. He told of the inability of the Government to regulate their spending.

Poor Budgeting

"Of all the ministers of finance in Canadian history, none have ever been so consistently wrong in their budgeting as Mr. Abbott, the present minister," he said. In 1947 the minister budgeted for a deficit of 260 million dollars and came out with a surplus of 374 million. He was out more than 600 million dollars in that one year.

The error in Government figuring, the speaker declared, has averaged 250 million dollars a year, which is more than the total budget for the province of Ontario alone.

Mr. Fleming paid tribute to Hon. W. A. Goodfellow for his efforts in getting the means test abolished, and old age pensions for everyone in Canada when they reach their 70th birthday.

Mr. Goodfellow, minister of welfare, in speaking said he would not say when the Provincial Government would call an election, for the Government was too busy looking after affairs of the province to worry about an election at the present time.

Rural Hydro

Speaking of the rural hydro developments during recent years, Mr. Goodfellow said rural hydro is now serving more than 196,000 homes, compared to 71,000 in 1944. Compared to a total horsepower output of two and a half million horsepower in 1944, hydro is now developing more than three and a half million horsepower, and by 1955 will be developing five million, three hundred thousand, which is more than double the 1944 output.

Speaking of Northumberland, the minister said there were 52 miles of rural hydro connected last year, which was an increase of 114 per cent since 1943. More will be connected during 1951.

Stronger Councils

Mr. Goodfellow called for a strengthening of municipal councils, saying that the people should take a more active interest in their own local government because they can control it more readily than they can control the provincial or federal bodies. He intimated he was working on help for the crippled and disabled persons between the ages of 21 and 70, "These are the most needy group in the province and there are about 28,000 of them at the present time. But we must bear in mind that we have to pay for all the benefits we receive, and that every dollar spent on service for the public, a dollar must be taken in in taxes."

The election of officers was in charge of Gordon K. Fraser, M.P. and resulted in a re-election of last years officers as follows :

Honorary presidents, Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Hon. Leslie Frost, and Major R. E. Drope; President, R. J. Locke, Campbellford; 1st Vice President Jack Erskine, Cobourg; 2nd Vice President, Mrs. Wm. Tatham, Campbellford; 3rd Vice President, Harry Orr, Frankford; 4th Vice President, Douglas Deviney, Vernonville 5th Vice President, Helen Davidson, Hamilton township. Secretary-Treasurer, Ruby Meggs, Gore's Landing.

Other speakers at the meeting were Major R. E. Drope and Mr. Fraser, president of East Centre District P. S. Association.

Cobourg Council To Abandon Police Court

COBOURG, June 12 — (ENS)—Long considered too small and badly in need of re-decoration, the police court room will be abandoned, for three months at any rate, at its present location on the ground floor and court is to be held in the town council chamber.

This was the decision arrived at on Monday evening at the town council when Councillor Alex McKinnon said that Magistrate R. B. Baxter had written him to point out how unsitable the present court room is.

Councillor McKinnon commented that other towns held court in their council chamber and he suggested that it be tried out here for three months.

A letter from the Parks Board asked council to name a successor to Dr. W. Wade who was not continuing on the board. Council laid the matter over pending drafting of the necessary by-law. Permission was granted to the Victoria Tennis Club to hold a street dance on the market square on July 27, to raise funds for the new tennis courts.

Residents on Stuart St. wrote council asking for a storm sewer to handle the excess water on that street. Town engineer Clare Saunders told the council that there were 2 catch-basins which if cleaned out, might serve the purpose. On motion it was left to the engineer to investigate and report back.

Plan Church.

The Fellowship Baptist Church asked permission for a church building on King Street east, before going ahead and buying the lot. Council decided to investigate if the residential restricted area by-law would bar location of a church there.

At the last council meeting, Harry Carter, operator of a county bus line asked permission to operate a bus line serving Cobourg, on a temporary basis pending passage of the necessary by-law. Last night James Miskelly, owner of a taxi firm, applied for permission to run a bus line. Council tabled the second appliaction along with the first one, as council had not had the opportunity to go into the proposal closely.

Council received and filed a letter from Hespeller town council asking for more equitable spread of county road costs as they were of little benefit to urban municipalities. The letter said that such roads funnelled trade to the city. Mayor Jack Burnet of Cobourg commented that county roads in the Cobourg area, funnelled business into Cobourg, not to the cities.

Asks "Slow" Signs.

A letter from Fred Trestrail, tourist cabins proprietor on William street, told council that motorists were allowed o drive fast on that street that it was hurting his business. The letter was referred to the police committe. Residents on Ontario Street asked for a sign on the north end to slow up speeders. Council decided to see about the signs and refer it to the police committee.

Councillor Rhena Stephens announced that she had written several other centres for information on a market by-law and with the exception of one, she received nothing which could help her. In fact, most of the municipalites had a by-law which was more obsolete than that of Cobourg and they wer anxious to learn the details of Cobour's market by-law when compiled.

Mayor Jack Burnet declared that mention was made at a private dinner meeting last week that the town was "too tight" to provide the necessary funds for the recreational director to continue his work. Reeve Roy Dodge, chairman of the finance committee, pointed out that there was $1,500 in the estimates this year, for that purpose, the same as before.

5 Cheques Bounced, Pleads Guilty To Fraud

COBOURG, June 12 (ENS)—Kenneth Brown of Toronto was remanded out of custody to appear when called upon, when he pleaded guilty to several false pretense charges. Brown, with no previous convictions, is said to have passed cheques on district storekeepers which were made out to "Cash" and signed by B. A. Donnelley.

Brown told the court that he didn't know the cheques were worthless, admitting that he should have realized there was something wrong when Donnelley didn't present them himself. The offenses were May 21, cheque for $10 cashed by J. E. McGuire of Camborne; May 27, cheque for $10 to Leo Blastorah, Harwood; May 23, cheque for $15 to Mrs. Leo Blastorah, Harwood; May 24, cheque for $15 to Donald Macklin of Cobourg and May 21 to 26, beating a hotel bill in Cobourg.

Unity To Preserve The Balance

Prime Minister St. Laurent summed up with lucid comprehension the task and chief aim of the West in his convocation address yesterday to Northwestern University, Illinois. While he made no statement of hew policy, he cut through the haze of propaganda, prejudice and imminence which invests affairs today, and in a statesmanlike calm, assessed the problems. He compared the conflict of ideas and policies between East and West with the conflict of attitudes in the United States which led to the Civil War. In the 1850's south of the border were two different conceptions of human society, one insisting on human equality and the other tolerating human slavery. This uneasy balance could not be maintained indefinitely.

"Unless a way of life based on either freedom or slavery was accepted as the rule throughout the whole nation, it was apparent the nation itself would not survive . . . It was the supreme aim of American statesmanship to find a peaceful solution to that problem of national survival. Unhappily a peaceful solution was not found."

* * *

Today the human race faces a situation somewhat similar to that which the United States faced a century ago, the Prime Minister said. "On the one side is Communist imperialism striving for the total enslavement of the whole world; on the other hand is a partnership of the free nations striving to maintain the freedom we believe to be the very essence of civilized life. At present there is an uneasy balance between the two. Of course, such a balance cannot be maintained indefinitely. Sooner or later, we must have a free world or what we will have is a world in chains. But, for the time being, I believe the first task of statesmanship is to maintain that balance, though it should be our surpreme aim to try by every honourable means, to ensure the ultimate peaceful triumph of freedom in the world."

* * *

Mr. St. Laurent's emphasis that the first task is to maintain the balance must have fallen on his American listeners' ears with salutary force. He told them that: "It may well be that the greatest of all dangers we face—greater even than the danger from Russia or from China—is the danger of listening to those who think they have a quick and easy solution to this terribly difficult problem."

"There is a great temptation to say: Communist Imperialism is an evil thing bent on extinguishing freedom in the world. Let us extinguish it first. Let us get it over with. That temptation will grow greater as the military strength of the free world increases.

"This danger is all the greater because acts of Communist aggression like that we are now opposing in Korea inevitably arouse strong feelings and a natural inclination to use our growing strength to hit back at the very source of the trouble.

"But statesmanship does not consist in yielding to impulses, however righteous, without reckoning the consequences. To hit back now at the source of the trouble is to start a world war. And that is what we are trying to prevent."

* * *

He believes, with many Americans and Canadians, that the West could win a world war if such a war started. But he is just as firmly convinced that the destruction of lives and institutions would set back human progress for generations, perhaps for centuries. The real aim must be to prevent the catastrophe of domination by Communist imperialism, and the catastrophe of war. To do this we must maintain military strength too substantial to be challenged, and to develop our free way of life and demonstrate its superiority. This requires unity among the western nations. No one country, not even the United States, can by itself provide for its security.

"Good-Bye, Dear Uncle Tom"

Generally avid of literary anniversaries, we completely missed the centenary of the appearance of the first installment of Uncle Tom's Cabin last week. Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe's remarkable novel first came out as a serial in The National Era, an anti-slavery magazine published in Washington. Mrs. Stowe came of that famous preaching and teaching family, the Beechers; when a schoolmistress in Cincinnati she had lived across the river from a slave-holding community, and interviewed many fugitive slaves. Her book was rooted in her passionate detestation of slavery, and it is simple truth to say that it did much to begin and give moral purpose to the American Civil War.

We must not suppose, however, that that war was fought over slavery; it was fought over the insistence of the South on its right to secede from the Union if it chose; it was also fought because Southern slave labour made Southern manufacturing a threat to the North. But the slavery cause gave the war a moral flavour, and there is nothing which peps up a war so much as the belief that it is being fought for a high moral purpose.

Have you read Uncle Tom's Cabin, or Life Among The Lowly? We doubt if many people read it nowadays. As a piece of writing it is a bad book. But it is written with fiery determination; the zeal of its author imparts itself to the most sluggish reader. And it may be said that the deep human misery and degredation which were brought about by slavery at its worst are not things of the past; they exist today, as readers of the newspapers know. Simon Legree was a beginner compared with some of the political torturers and slave-masters of our generation.

We read Uncle Tom early in life, and also experienced him in dramatic form. The Tom-show of our childhood was an astonishing spectacle, with its parade, its bloodhounds (usually, in strict fact, mastiffs), its choir of Negro singers, its tableau of Eliza escaping across the ice of the Ohio River with her infant son, and the final beating to death of the good slave, Uncle Tom.

Best of all scenes in the play, however, was the death of Little Eva St. Clair. This saintly child (usually played by a woman of mature years and well-developed charms) perishes from no known ailment—she may have expired from sheer, ingrowing goodness. We saw the play twice, and on both occasions Little Eva, at the moment of death, was drawn up into the flies of the stage on a wire, while a cunning dummy was slipped into her place in the bed. As she soared aloft, and our tears flowed freely, she cried: "I'm so happy: O do not weep for me: good-bye, dear Uncle Tom!" It was significant that this posthumous message was addressed to her favourite slave, and not to her parents, who were worldly people and deserved no better treatment.

A century since Uncle Tom burst upon the world! Few books were more popular in their day; few books exercised a wider influence.

A Uniform For The Civil Service?

A Mr. Horace Hambling, of the British civil service, has an idea which interests us greatly; he has submitted to the Civil Service Clerical Association a proposal that civil servants should have uniforms. He thinks that a plain uniform on the military style would be best, in navy blue, and with shoulder pips to denote rank. "We are just as much heroes as the armed forces," says he.

We do not expect that the civil service will adopt Mr. Hambling's plan, which has a strong smack of fascism about it. But we wish it could be done, just for a month or so, here in Canada. It would be instructive for us to see just how many people were on the public payroll, and to judge, from their shoulder pips, what grade of work they were doing. The dark blue uniforms would aptly symbolize the great sea of officialdom which threatens to engulf us.

Knight And His Medals

Sir Eugene Fiset, who died last Friday, was one of the courtly men of French descent and old Canadian family who are ornaments of our society. He had long been in the service of his country: as medical officer in the Boer War; as Deputy-Minister of Defence during the Great War (when he was knighted); as Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec throughout the last war. He occupied the gubernatorial mansion 'Bois de Coulonge' with distinction and dignity for almost eleven years, retiring because of ill health only last year. Surrounded by pomp, he was not a pompous man. When house guests would ask him what all the medals and campaign ribbons on his uniform represented, he invariably answered: "Damned if I know."

Many tributes have been paid Sir Eugene Fiset, the most remarkably detached being Premier Duplessis' statement that: "His death justifies the expression of sincere regrets."

NOTE AND COMMENT

In a lacrosse game at Windsor one player suffered a fractured skull. That was always the trouble with lacrosse—the game so quickly became a fight.

Chewing garlic is supposed to protect you against werewolves. Girls who chew it need not worry about any kind of wolves.

According to report in the Toronto morning paper, Dr. George C. Pidgeon, former moderator of the United Church of Canada urged his church "to take strong measures to combat 'widespread religious literacy.' He suggested that a program of eementary schoo religious instruction be drawn up by the interr-hurrh counci.", Hurrhumph; that needs further consideration.

The word "Dominion" in the title of the Elections Act is to be altered to "Canada," and the responsible official says that this is "part of the trend." What trend? And who started the trend? Canada is the only country called a Dominion in the world, so far as we know, and any trend which nibbles at that small distinction should be reversed at once. Nothing is easier than for a few cranks to wangle something of this sort and then call it a trend.

The Battle of Belief

by
NAOMI LEWIS

Mrs. Humphrey Ward, June 11, 1851-1920

HER name is current still, but the legend has drifted somewhat — being confused, even, with that of the authoress of East Lynne; her remarkable novels which stirred the critical admiration of such readers as Pater, Meredith, Huxley, Henry James, Kipling, the Webbs, and Mr. Gladstone (not all for the same reasons) and sold in hundreds of thousands, are now neither easily available, nor, in the general sense, known. And yet, even if she were not the author of one of the most extraordinary best-sellers to catch the public fancy, her record is formidable enough. Niece of Matthew Arnold, and of William Forster of the 1870 Education Bill, daughter of Thomas, the one Arnold convert to Newmanism, grand-daughter of the great Doctor, aunt of Thomas Huxley's descendants Aldous and Julian—she sums up, as much as any single figure of the Eminent Age, the romantic earnestness, the intellectual and philanthropic energy, the analytic approach to abstract problems.

❖ ❖ ❖

HER first published writing was accepted by Charlotte Yonge for a magazine; her last, commissioned by Theodore Roosevelt was a series of essays to convince America of the English effort in the 1914 war! Of her preference for action to meditation the Settlement that she founded—the Mary Ward—is today a living memorial.

❖ ❖ ❖

MARY Arnold was born (on June 11, 1851) in Tasmania where her father, the model for Philip in Clough's "Bothie," had gone on leaving Oxford. A failure, alas, as a pioneer, he accepted the job of organizing education in Van Diemen's Land, married the Huguenot-descended Julia Sorell, and then destroyed his prospects by entering the Catholic Church—the beginning of a pattern of surrender and withdrawal that was to last a lifetime. The post lost, they returned to England, in a sailing vessel of 400 tons, overrun by rats. Mary, the eldest child, was five. The Arnold home at Fox How with its strong personalities and its vigorous moral atmosphere, was to be a force and refuge in her life in the unsettled and rather unhappy years that followed. Later, when her father was working at the Oratory School in Birmingham she would see Newman walking about the streets and shrink from him "in a dumb, childish resentment as from someone whom I understood to be the author of our family misfortunes". But in 1855—the start of Thomas Arnold's longest period of reaction from the faith — prospects brightened. The family moved to Oxford.

❖ ❖ ❖

OXFORD in the '60s and '70s, still vibrating from the cross-impacts of Newmanism and Darwinism, a battle-ground for Liddon and Pusey, Jowett "the archheretic" and Pattison, the brilliant, sceptical Rector of Lincoln, was to young Mary Arnold a natural home. At the Pattisons' she met George Eliot, with "long pallid face, set in black lace", speaking rarely, and then like a paragraph out of one of her own books. She was introduced by Jowett ("a very clever girl", remarked the Master) to Taine; the French scholar approved of her appearance; complained to her that there was too much magenta in the dress of Englishwomen and too much pepper in their cuisine. She visited her neighbour Walter Pater at work on Studies in the Renaissance in his Morris-decorated house in Bradmore Road. She threw herself into research (as she was later to throw herself into philanthropic works) on early Spanish ecclesiastical history. Her marriage at twenty to Thomas Humphry Ward, Fellow of Brasenose, and the birth in the next few years of three children, put no stop to her critical and scholarly writings. Ten years later, when her husband was offered a post on "The Times", and they moved to London, the academic circle gave place to a social and political one, but the serious conversation continued. The fruit of all this was in Robert Elsmere.

❖ ❖ ❖

ROBERT Elsmere (1887), the tale of a doubting clergyman whose belief in ethics rather than in mystery destroys his marriage —a truly Arnold theme—is a very long book. No wonder, for it contains not only the arguments for every side (it was natural for the author to envisage people in a state of debate) but a view of the whole range of the author's experience—Oxford, Westmoreland, London; the slums, the salons, the great country houses. At the same time from a foundation of ideas she created a passion which had a curious appeal to non-academic readers. Nearly a million copies must have been sold altogether in this country. In America (unhappily some three years before International Copyright became law) about half a million were sold in the first year of its appearance, crowds milling to buy the cut-price pirated copies. A soap manufacturer went further and presented not only the book, but Mr. Gladstone's answering pamphlet (a reprint of his celebrated review in The Nineteenth Century) with each bar of soap. Henry James, to whom criticism, as he observed, first took the form of mentally rewriting any book that interested him, wrote that the book had inspired him "with a very great awe". Sermons were preached; settlements constructed on the Elsmere model.

❖ ❖ ❖

MRS. Ward's books are not museum pieces. In her succeeding novels, where problems of conscience in business, law and governments are investigated, action — in the form of rowdy election scenes, mining disasters, poaching affrays, trials and hangings—is not wanting. The settings are varied, often beautiful. Nevertheless, it is the ideas that give vigour to the story; without them the narrative flags. Perhaps it is this that has made them drop from circulation—a pity, for her books particularly the early ones, are worth discovering. If she did not see outside her time; if she did not consider the relation of the hovels and the great houses, both of which she describes with such intensity of detail, these are not novelists faults. If experience in her books took the place of imagination, her experience was wide, and covered some of the best things that the age had to offer. Of those she is almost the last and certainly the most faithful recorder.

THE FACE THAT LAUNCHED THIRTY-NINE SHIPS

Dr. Joad's Dreary Socialism

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

FEW men have upheld more warmly the contention that human society could be prefected by the application of science and Socialism than C. E. M. Joad, noted and popular British philosopher. The events of the past half-dozen years, however, have wrought a change in Dr. Joad's thinking, according to a possibly symbolic confession published a week or so ago in Britain. In it, Dr. Joad declared grimly that the expected triumphs of science seemed to him to be mainly horrors. Of Socialism, he said that instead of bringing the promised fuller life to all, it appears to be bringing everyone down to the same dead level of dreariness.

❖ ❖ ❖

We think Dr. Joad, for a man of his previous convictions, has fallen into an error usually avoided by philosophers and scientists as though it were the plague. He has allowed the effects of an experiment, upon himself alone, to sway his judgement of the experiment as a whole. We may be quite wrong in this; Dr. Joad may have been quietly conducting a national survey and may have reached his conclusion as a result of that survey. But unless we are furnished with evidence of this, we shall continue to believe that his opinions are based on personal feelings rather than on collected data.

❖ ❖ ❖

That is precisely the attitude with which we regarded Dr. Joad's earlier opinons about science and Socialism. There is, however, the vast difference that we firmly believe he was wrong in the first place, and that he is absolutely right in the second. Furthermore, we think it must be admitted that more evidence now exists on which to base an opinion, be it one way or the other, than exsted before the Socialist experiment in Great Britain. It does not necessarily follow that the second opinion is therefore the sounder, but that is not an unreasonable inference, especially when the opinion comes from a formerly strong advocate of the experiment who apparently has had no dispute or difficulty with those conducting it, other than those which may be the common lot in Socialist Britain.

❖ ❖ ❖

We doubt we could agree more heartily with anything than with Dr. Joad's intimation that Socialism brings everyone down to the same dead level of dreariness. We cannot see how Socialism could operate otherwise. The qualities of brillance and outstanding capability are doled out in a rather niggardly way among humans; the rewards for them are correspondingly high in a competitive economy. When a political theory attempts to slash these rewards in order to compensate the far less gifted, it discourages or perverts the exercise of brilliance and outstanding capability.

❖ ❖ ❖

If the matter is brought down to straight living conditions, the same thing applies. If people are permitted to live as well as they are able, as well as they can afford, according to their actual earning capacity or income, there will be various standards of living. There will be caviar and champagne in some houses, beer and bologna in others. There will be almost everything else in between. That may have its faults, but it is the system that bred the giants of a free world. And while it must be admitted that the more forthright form of Socialism known as Communism has produced its great, their talents and gifts must always be subservient to the state. Nothing may be served—neither the betterment of living conditions, the cause of mankind, nor medicine nor art nor science nor anything else—before the state. That is an essential condition of Socialism and Communism.

❖ ❖ ❖

However, despite Dr. Joad's admission, we should like to see Socialism carried on for a few more years in Great Britain. We think that the longer it lasts, the more thoroughly sick of it the British will become. We hasten to admit there are Socialistic principles which are admirable and in every way commendable, and which have been widely adopted; we do not think a good case can ever be made for discarding these. But any government committed to pure Socialism in running head-on toward a force against which no effective law has yet been placed on the statute books of human beings. That force is human nature.

"I should think she does," replied the other. "She came as a Hawaiian beauty, with grass skirt and all—and they awarded her first prize in the humorous section as 'The Old Thatched Cottage'."

Bible Message

As for God, his way is perfect: the word of the Lord is tried: he is a buckler to all those that trust in him. For who is God save the Lord? or who is a rock save our God?

It is God that girdeth me with strength, and maketh my way perfect. (Ps. 18: 30-32.)

❖ ❖ ❖

And after six days Jesus taketh with him Peter, and James, and John, and leadeth them up into an high mountain apart by themselves: and he was transfigured before them. And his raiment became shining, exceeding white as snow; so as no fuller on earth can white them. And there appeared unto them Elias with Moses: and they were talking with Jesus....

And there was a cloud that overshadowed them: and a voice came out of the cloud saying, This is my beloved Son: hear him. And suddenly, when they had looked round about, they saw no man any more, save Jesus only with themselves. And as they came down from the mountain, he charged them that they should tell no man what things they had seen, till the Son of man were risen from the dead....

And they asked him, saying, Why say the scribes that Elias must first come? And he answered and told them, Elias verily cometh first, and restoreth all things. (Mark 9: 2-4, 7-9, 11-12.)

Legendary Gentleman

(The Times, London)

An American left a legacy provided that he comes to live in England is reported to be hesitating on the grounds that he has no wish to be "an English gentleman and do nothing but sit around and have tea and crumpets." Given this original idea of what constitutes the essence, the inwardness, of English gentlemanliness, it is easy to understand his objection, for there is no doubt at all that tea and crumpets, while admirable in themselves and in small doses, form, as a staple diet, a soggy and melancholy prospect, hardly suited to the fiery spirit of the naughty aristocrat. Indeed, while the picture the legatee must have in mind succeeds in conveying the impression of laziness, of comfortable remoteness from the stresses and strains of everyday, plebeian life, of perpetual afternoon with the crumpet in the place of the lotus, its mild and milky tones are in startling contrast to the lurid colours other nations and other centuries have used in their portraits of the same phenomenon. The whole legend of perfidious Albion was built on the assumption that the English diplomat, and, therefore, the English gentleman, was never so devilishly and ingeniously busy as when he appeared exquisitely to be doing nothing, and what about that red-faced, fanatic devotion to sport in all its forms that is the accepted hall-mark of the creature the world over? The calendar positively bristles with dates when it becomes not only lawful but a duty to shoot, kill, and hunt various beasts and birds, and to sit around on August 12, or any other of the tremendous days having tea and crumpets would be the act of the blackest of legs, of treachery towards the rules of the English Gentlemen's Union as legend has drawn them up.

The horrible fate of eternally waiting for and consuming insipid food is one normally reserved for the permanent resident in the boarding-house or the private hotel. There life, at least as the more gloomy and introspective novelists have presented it, revolves round, and centres in, the four meals of the day. It is not gluttony which keeps the visitors, uneasy captives among the palms of the lounge, perpetually glancing at the clock, it is the fact that meals are landmarks, milestones which must be passed before the winning-post of bed-time is finally and thankfully reached. The English gentleman, if no longer fine and not particularly old, in his own house, if no more either literally or metaphorically a castle, does at least escape that doom—and so would the American if he should decide to take the plunge and the money. Many perils will doubtless await him, but slow suffocation of life and spirit by perpetual tea and crumpets will not be one.

Whip Up Film On MacArthur Phase Of War

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 12 (AP) —No time is being wasted in getting a film titled "Old Soldiers Never Die" into movie theatres

I learned this from Sam Fuller, probably the most cyclonic film maker in Hollywood. He is cutting through studio red tape to whip out a picture based on the Gen. Douglas MacArthur phrase.

"I am doing this picture completely backwards," he reported. "Usually you start with an original story, then you get a script and rewrite it several times, then you have meetings about costs, sets, etc. I am by-passing all of that.

"By the time I have the script written, the set will be all ready to work on. I have the model now, and I am writing the script to fit the set.

Mac Not In

"The story concerns a single action in the Korean War. MacArthur will not be in the picture. The title will be brought out by showing an old sergeant and comparing him with the kids of today's army.

"The action concerns a fight for a wintry mountain pass. I want to point out how each side uses its own wits in the attempt to take the pass."

The picure will be the swiftest, lease expensive film made by 20th Century-Fox in many years. The picture was made in 12 days —two days over schedule due to an appendectomy in the cast—at a cost of $104,000. It has already brought in $800,000 and the total take will probably reach $2,000,000.

PLANE LOCATED—Pilot George Denholme of Prince Albert, Sask., sits atop the Saskatchewan Government plane he piloted to a slithering stop in muskeg near Reindeer Lake, 250 miles northeast of Prince Albert. Denholme and Leon Spark, a carpenter, spent five nights and four days in the mosquito-ridden country before being spotted by an R.C.A.F. search plane. The pair were picked up by a para-rescue crew and hiked four miles to a rescue plane.

Heavy Artillery Barrage Puzzles Allies

EASTERN FRONT, Korea, June 12 (AP)—Allied troops are fighting through some of the heaviest Red artillery and mortar barrages since the days of the Pusan perimeter.

The intense Communist use of artillery, supposedly in short supply, has Allied officers guessing and infantrymen digging in as never before.

East of the Hwachon reservoir, the Communists have pounded the Allies daily with hundreds of rounds of 105-millimetre shells.

When the Allies began pushing back north after the Red May offensive, it became apparent the Communists were well supplied with explosives.

Much of the captured artillery and mortar ammunition was US made, abandoned on Korean battlefields. The rest was a conglomeration of Chinese, Russian, Japanese and Czechoslovakian equipment.

The amount seized by the Allies is secret—but an ordnance officer said "There has been one helluva lot of it. I haven't seen as much since the first time we retook Seoul."

Some was in large dumps, some in caves or foxholes. Some was even buried for possible later use by guerrillas.

One dump contained about 2,000 rounds of 105-mm shells.

It is possible the Reds are getting ready for another big offensive.

It is possible the Reds are getting ready for another big offensive.

Prisoners say the Chinese plan to attack June 25, the anniversary date of the Korean war.

It is also possible that the Allies have pushed too close to the main Red defence line.

The Reds have battled fiercely for every inch of ground the last week.

The Allies have encountered minefields in greater depth. Engineers Sunday had to clear a path for 400 yards through a solid mass of mines before Allied tanks could move up one road.

The mines are in such abundance that the Reds sometimes stack them four or five deep. This produces a blast powerful enough to stop the strongest tanks.

LOOK BEFORE YOU FIRE—With one GI acting as an observer, another fires a 75-mm. recoilless rifle against Red troops dug in on a Korean ridge. Allied units, advancing closer to the Communist "iron triangle," are meeting strong enemy artillery fire.

Knox Principal Resigns Because Of Ill Health

OTTAWA, June 12 (CP).—The 77th general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada Monday accepted with regret the resignation of the Rev. Dr. Walter W. Bryden, principal of Knox College in Toronto.

Dr. Bryden has been principal for the past six years and a member of the staff for 31 years. His resignation—due to ill health — will take effect Sept. 30, 1952. The assembly approved one year's leave of absence with pay.

The assembly referred back to members of the board of administration and the board of management of Knox College present at the assembly the college board's recommendations of salary increases for the principal and professors.

The recommendation called for an increase in the principal's salary and house allowance to $7,000 and an increase in the salaries and house allowances of the professors to $6,000.

James Dutton of Peterborough, chairman of the board of administration, said the matter warranted further consideration.

Out of Line

The Rev. Dr. J. B. Skeene of Vancouver, said the board of management of Knox College was competent to advise the assembly. The assembly should look to the board for advice. The board of administration was stepping a little out of its sphere.

Dr. Bryden said the recommendations should come from the two boards.

Presenting the report of the Senate of the college, Dr. Bryden said there had not been a spectacular enrollment at Knox College but there was a gradual, encouraging increase.

There was some difficulty in receiving students at the college who had not studied in the arts. There was a need for a sixth professor for a department of practical theology.. The principal hoped before long the college would receive further allocation to provide for such a chair.

The assembly was told that 164 ministers receive the annual minimum stipend of $2,000 and 129 ministers' children had up to now benefitted from the $1,000,000 pledged the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

The pledge was given the church a few months ago by an anonymous donor. It has been reported Senator Norman Paterson of Ottawa and Fort William, for many years a Presbyterian Church supporter, was the million-dollar giver.

Fine Example

The Rev. Norman Kennedy of Regina, the new moderator, said it was a magnificent example of Christian liberality.

A report presented to the assembly Monday by the Rev. Dr. A. I. Burnett, minister of St. Andrew's church where the assembly is being held, said the donor had pledged $100,000 yearly for 10 years, payments being made quarterly. Already $50,000 had been received.

The report said the donor wished only $50,000 to be paid out annually so that at the end of 10 years there would be a $500,000 fund. Up to now $25,000 had been invested.

Dr Burnett said he could not say what payments could be made to ministers receiving a little in excess of the minimum stipend, but there was hope some payment could be made for children.

He said it was possible the church might later decide to raise the minimum stipend, so there might well be a considerable increase in the number to share in the gift. Individual grants would have to be reduced.

Dr. Burnett emphasized the gift was not given to relieve congregations of their obligation to maintain the ministry of the church.

Uphold Board

The Assembly upheld actions of the General Missions Board in a matter concerning three church missionaries in British Guiana who resigned and returned to Canada in protest against a policy they did not approve.

The missionaries said the Missions Board had made a pronouncement in British Guiana that the purpose of missions schools was not to make Christians or to build up the church, but to educate.

They said they did not believe this policy was that of the Assembly and asked an investigation of Missions Board policies.

Rev. G. Deane Johnston of Brantford, chairman of the Missions Board, said the three missionaries—the Rev. T. R. Maxwell, the Rev. J. D. Firth, and the Rev. E. I. McPhee, all of Toronto —had been heard by the Board on their return to Canada early this year.

He said their resignations had been accepted because it was clear their presence in the colony had brought about a condition of tension and their continued residence there would not be in the best interest of the church.

He denied the Board had made a pronouncement that the purpose was solely to educate.

Gledhill Describes To Rotary Club Taking Over Of Madagascar

Fact and humor intermingled in a narrative given by Christopher Gledhill, guest speaker at the Rotary luncheon meeting Monday.

Entitling his address, Impressions of Madagascar, the speaker broadened his subject to include anecdotes of his experiences as commissioned officer in the British army aboard a ship bound for the island.

Mr. Gledhill came to Peterborough in 1948 from England. He was born in Kent county, England. A graduate of Oriel College, Oxford, with his Master of Arts and Music degree, he served from 1939 to 1945 in the British army. Before coming to Canada he was music instructor at the Royal Naval College, Dartmouth. At present he is organist and choirmaster at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church and organist of the Grove School, Lakefield.

Mr. Gledhill went to Madagascar as a member of a British military force ordered to take over the island from the Vichy government in 1942. As the speaker explained it, there was an idea that the Japanese might extend their offensive operations to the island and because the Vichy government was looked upon with suspicion, this force was told to "go there quickly and stop any nonsense."

The convoy of 50 ships that made the voyage included battleships, destroyers, cruisers and aircraft carriers.

The island itself, the speaker explained, is 980 miles long, has an area a little larger than the province of Manitoba and a population of approximately four million. A paradise for naturalists, the animal and plant life is somewhat different to that found in the nearby African continent. Graphite is the island's chief export. The natives stem largely from Asiatic stock

Mr. Gledhill was introduced by T. J. Carley, K.C., and thanked by E. A. Outram.

Rotarian Syd Black gave a report of the International Rotary convention held recently at Atlantic City, New Jersey

The following Rotarians and guests were introduced by Charles Allen: Harold Jobbitt, Bradford, Pennsylvania; Jasper Humphrey, Montreal; Sam Dupe, Leamington; D. Davidson, Peterborough and Bill Birney, Montreal.

Westclox Girls Victorious Over Woollens

With M. Hodson hurling three-hit ball, Westclox girl softballers pounded out a 15-3 league victory over Woollens at the Bowl last evening. The champs' experience was apparent and they showed up well behind some excellent twirling. M. Hodson was never in trouble, but for S. Harris' two-run homer in the sixth, as she struck out 10 and walked three. Her backing generally was good with J. McIntyre and M. Hawthorne best in the field. M. Hodson and J. McIntyre led their side at bat with four hits each in six tries.

Woollens kept improving but ran into fine flinging in this game. They will not be up to full strength for another week when exams are over. J. Walling and R. Naylor looked good defensively for them this time and S. Harris pitched some good innings. She fanned six. C. Ferguson got two of their three hits, S. Harris hitting a homer. Teams:

Westclox: M. Batley lf, J Snape 2b, J. McIntyre 1b, M Hawthorne ss, M. Owens 3b, A. Anderson cf, B. Rumble rf, G LeBarge c, M. Hodson p.

This will enable his committee to have the draw all complete and ready to play at 7:00 p.m. Monday. Your co-operation would be greatly appreciated.

The ladies are hoping for a good attendance at tomorrow's tournament.

"Weiser wise cracks"—Many a woman has paced the sidewalks in front of her apartment until three o'clock in the morning waiting for her daughter to come home and let her in.

Wins Singles Title

QUEBEC, June 12 (CP).—Pancho Segura of Ecuador Monday night won the Canadian professional singles tennis championship with a 6-3, 10-12, 6-3, 6-3 decision over defending champion Frank Kovacs of Oakland, Calif. Segura and Bobby Riggs of New York later won the doubles title, defeating Bob Stubbs of Miami, Fla., and Mitchell Goronto of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 6-4, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1.

Out At The Kawartha

The draw for the Riley cup has now been posted and those 39 couples that have signed up may now go ahead and get the schedule underway. A good deal of enthusiasm is expected in this competition. It is suspected that much of it started even before the golfing season, itself, commenced. Rumor has it that "mating" started early in this popular two-ball play. Fourteen couples are slated to play in the first round and 25 will tee off in the second.

The men's senior in which the McRae trophy is the goal, will be closed to entries after June 15th, this Friday. This is open to all of the boys over the half century mark, with no other limitations on age or condition. These are the chaps who prevail at the "ancient and noble", come what may.

The men's two-ball, playing for the Glover cup, closes to further entries after Wednesday, June 13th. An excellent entry list posted in the locker room exhibits some real canny pairing off and would indicate that some of the stiffest games in recent years will be played over the Kawartha course this summer.

No games were played in the president's or the Kawartha Cup competitions over the weekend. Unfavourable weather conditions, no doubt.

The tennis section has really sprung to life. With four courts going, a goodly turn-out was to be seen last Saturday. President John Fletcher is pleased to report that Bowmanville have come into the Kawartha Tennis League along with Cobourg, Quaker, Port Hope, Lindsay and our own Kawartha tennic club, making six clubs in all.

In connection with the tennis we are advised that junior members are invited to come out and if a sufficient number do so, instruction in the game will be given free.

The house committee consisting of chairman Sandy Sanderson, Joe Gatfield, Bob Pierson, Jack Raine, Harley Weir, will remind all members and their guests that the privileges of the clubhouse are theirs to enjoy. These include use of the lounge and watching the television. Also those Sunday dinners may be arranged for by simply calling the steward, Frank Hughes, preferably on Saturday.

Mt. Pleasant Wins

Mount Pleasant took a 6-3 fastball victory over Woollens here last evening, scoring three runs in the fourth inning and one each in the third, seventh and ninth chukkers. Woollens shoyed one across in the second and two in the eighth. Mitchell fanned six for the winners and Coughlin whiffed half a dozen on the other slab in a tidy tilt. Triples were clouted by J. Bryans and Anderson. Teams:

Mount Pleasant — Dracup 3b, Craig c, K. Bryan 1b, Mitchell p, J. Bryan ss, C. Bryan 2b, Fee rf, Fair cf, Loucks lf, Jamieson cf.

Woollens — Wiechorek 3b, E. Leonard 2b, Nokes c, G. Leonard 1b, Anderson ss, Manbeck cf, Borland rf, McMillan lf, Coughlin p, Doughty lf, Brooks.

Marines Take 13-9 Win From Ashby's

Marines broke fast from the wire to pile up an early lead and romp home on top of a 13-9 girls' softball victory over Ashby's at the Bowl last night. They scored seven runs in the first frame and five in the third, playing airtight defensive ball to hold off their rivals the rest of the route, A. Leal and B. McMahon shining afield, and H. White pitching steady ball. B. Behan led them at bat with a double and three singles in six times up.

E. Brown started on the Ashby's slab but gave way halfway through to J. Merrett, who pitched four-hit shutout ball the rest of the way. The losers had a patched-up lineup for this tussle and didn't play in top form, J. Merrett and D. Dickson going best defensively. S. Wakeford and J. Merrett led them at the plate with three safeties each in six trips. Teams:

Ashby's: D. Martin, ss; J. Reynolds, rf; L. Jordan, 3b; E. Brown, p, 1b; M. Freeman, 1b, cf; S. Wakeford; c; I. Downer, lf; A. Merrett, lf; D. Jackson, 2b; J. Merrett, cf, p.

The latter, getting but seven hits, scored five runs in the fourth and one each in the second, third and sixth. Norwood counted two each in the second and seventh and one apiece in the fourth and fifth. Teams:

Petes 'senior ball club plays the Merchants in Oshawa on the morrow, third meeting this season of these clubs in the Viaduct Loop, the Whitehill pack having taken 'em twice. Kingsways are here on Thursday to play that jinxed-out game of Saturday and chances are that Bunny Maeson will get the local mound assignment again. Staffords are the visitors Saturday night for a fairly busy week. Up to last night, the Petes led with six wins and a loss, Oshawa and Kingsway being next each with four and four, while Staffs have three and four and Crofton's two and four.

Those Thistles Of Fergus

Fergus Thistles make their initial appearance of the OLA senior "A" schedule here tomorrow (Wednesday) eve at 8.45 in Miller Bowl. Ralph Speck and Bill Killingbeck, recently of this borough, are among the Fergus players, and the team has been busy bolstering during the past week or so. Got off to a slow start, but the Thistles are rolling along right well lately. In fact, there appear to be no soft touches at present in this senior setup, and so-called upsets are getting rather common. Likely, another hefty lacrosse crowd will be on deck for this tussle.

Still sniping away at the Petes, Scribe Clayt Browne of St. Kitts wrote Saturday: "Last year and before, wiser boxla fans noted the extra-large pad Moon Wootton uses, yet we doubt if any enemy club took the trouble to question its legality. It goes right to his knees and is as wide as a door. Puck fans recall how goalie Art Childs of Hamilton worked a wire mesh in his glove and got away with it for years against rival units. Until the CAHA finally called the illegal turn. Strange to say, there isn't one line in either CLA or OLA official rules on that angle, yet it's possible for any slick operator to block his door, in violation." Aw, quit crying, Clayt. If there's no rule on it, how can it be a violation?

But Closer Than Somewhat

Petes are back swinging and singing by themselves on the canary's perch, after squeezing out a 10-9 OLA win o'er the scrappy Tigers in Hamilton last night. A swell one to win on foreign soil, eh? Long-gaited Harry Wipper was the payoff man for Don Crowe's crew, as he fired three late counters by Goalie Favell to clinch matters. Dootch Vitarelli also was good for a pair of markers, and this homebrew hustler is playing a consistently fine game so far this season. Jack Dorney was top man on the Tigers' totem pole with three goals in a good all-around effort. Once again, Goalie Lloyd (Moon) Wootton rose to heights to turn aside much hot rubber blazed his way by the clawing Bengals in their own jungle. All the Petes went okay in this encounter, and we're glad to see big Ross Powless back in action again.

Play is shaping up well in the Girls' Softball League at the Bowl d'Ashburnham these evenings. Marines jumped to an early lead last p.m. to yank out a 13-9 decision o'er Ashby's, and they needed their early bank balance and their errorless fielding to emerge in front. Westclox romped to a 15-3 victory against the young Woollens, with M. Hodson tossing a three-hitter. Both losing clubs last night were minus a few players who will be on deck for future frays, and some interesting duels are pending. Tomorrow in the gloaming, Ashby's clash with Woollens, while the Cobourg Pavs come here to play the Outboards. On Friday, Marines are off to Cobourg. Westclox won there recently 14-3.

HAMILTON, June 12—Hamilton fans got their first look at the 1951 addition of the Peterborough Timbermen here last night and went away satisfied that the visitors were every bit as good as their advance notices.

Althou they had to go all out to post a thrilling 10-9 victory over Hamilton Tigers, the Petes looked impressive as they took over undisputed possession of top spot in the senior OLA standing.

A three-goal outburst by the Tigers midway through the third frame gave them an 8-7 lead as the Petes started to slide. Then Wipper, who had been held in check all night, exploded for a pair of counters just 27 seconds apart, to put his club back in the game. That wasn't all, however, as Hamilton's Blain McDonald proceeded to knot the count early in the fourth frame only to see Wipper blaze his third straight goal past Doug Favell for what proved to be the winning tally. Both netminders, Lloyd Wootton and Favell, were brilliant throughout, making impossible saves time and again.

The clubs waged a see - saw battle all the way as the score was tied no less than seven times. The visitors led, 3-1, at the end of the initial quarter, were out in front 6-5 at the half-way mark, and were sitting on a 9-8 bulge going into the final stanza.

Dootch Vitarelli, wth a pair of goals, was the only Peterborough player, other than Wipper, to score more than one marker while Jack Dorney paced the losers with the hat trick.

A swelling stream of Canada's athletes is flowing to the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor—where they'll join star miler Don McEwen of Ottawa.

Johnny Moule of Hamilton Westdale Collegiate equalled the Canadian interscholastic half-mile record of 1:58.7, almost two seconds under the provincial mark at Orillia's Ontario schoolboy track and field championship on Saturday. He'll be at Michigan this fall, accompanied by schoolmate David Joyce, a bespectacled lad who covered 100 yards in 10 seconds flat to equal the Orillia meet record.

Two Hamilton Delta stars, Ross Coates and Bruce Smith, and a number of others also have decided to transfer their interests to Michigan to compete in the big ten conference of mid-West US universities.

Baseball commissioner A. B. Chandler met Monday with representatives of the major and minor leagues and the National Federation of State High Schools to discuss a new rule for signing high school players to pro baseball contracts.

Several months ago the major leagues voted to abolish the present rule, effective Dec. 31. It prohibits the signing of high school boys to professional contracts until after their graduation.

The Italian Tennis Federation Monday rejected a telephoned request from Poland to postpone Davis Cup matches between the two countries.

The matches in the quarter-final round of the European zone are scheduled to open in Venice Saturday.

Enrico Piccardo, Italian Federation secretary, said the Poles complained of difficulty in obtaining visas for their players.

Little Dynamite, Washington Negro fighter who was critically injured in a fight Thursday night, was reported slightly improved Monday.

Little Dynamite is now given a better than even chance to survive.

His skull was fractured when he hit the canvas in a knockout by Gene Smith, also of Washington. Both are featherweights.

At Ascot, England, the Ascot race course will try out a daily "treble" at the four-day Royal Ascot meeting opening today.

The treble works just like the familiar daily double, except that it combines three races instead of two.

Pari-mutuel tickets will sell for five shillings each. The track also will keep the daily double.

At Fall River, Mass., Jimmy Carter of New York, who recently won the lightweight championship from Ike Williams, signed Monday for a 10-round non-title bout with Chick Boucher of Newark, N. J., June 18.

A 17-year-old schoolboy shortstop, Ted Kazanski, signed a contract with the Philadelphia Phillies Monday for a reported bonus of more than $80,000.

Eddie Krajnik, midwest scout for the Phillies, said two years of observation had convinced him that "Kazanski is the finest baseball player signed out of Detroit in the last 10 years.

The six-foot, two-inch youngster was graduated only Sunday from St. Laidslaus Roman Catholic school. Thirteen major league clubs began making offers at midnight.

Syracuse May Join OHA Major Series

TORONTO, June 12 (CP). — Syracuse may enter a team in the Ontario Hockey Association's major series.

George Panter, OHA secretary, said Monday night in a telephone interview from Gravenhurst, that there is a "good possibility" of adding the New York State club to major loop next season.

He made the disclosure after it was reported a Syracuse application for an American Hockey League franchise had been turned down.

SPINNING HINTS

A good spinning man is a highly experienced fisherman, but don't let this discourage you because even the beginner will have a great deal of fun even from the first test of his new equipment.

This is probably the easiest of the three present forms of fresh water fishing because there is no backcast to entangle the line as does happen with fly-fishing and no back-lashes to contend with as does the novice bait caster.

The side cast you will find to be the easiest to learn but your accuracy will be greater when using the overhand cast.

Among the several important things to remember when making a cast, these three are of paramount importance: First, get a bend in your rod when making a cast. Without the bend, the rod will not do its proper work for you. Second, release the lure at the proper instant—a knack that easily can be acquired with little practice. Third, let the rod do the work. See how effortlessly you can cast merely by using the action of the wrist. Do not try for much distanre at first, but rather for perfection in timing and accuracy.

A word of caution should be directed to the beginners regarding size and weight of lures used, particularly until the fisherman has acquired the knowledge of the limitations of his tackle.

Although heavier lures can be thrown greater distances than lighter ones the lighter ones should be used first. Heavier lures are apt to put undue strain on the rod and line and it is therefore suggested to use a side cast with slow movement of the rod tip backwards aid acceledated only as the forward cast is made. This also holds true in using live or canned type bait so as not to snap the bait off the hook.

It was stated earlier in this series Clapper's have experimented and tested thoroughly the various spinning rods, reels, lines and lures which have been offered on the market during the last three years and offer you the results of their research with the assurance of fishing satisfaction for the purchaser of the following pieces of equipment:

In rods we recommend:

Glass—The American action rod, a beautiful lightweight rod which for the weight is better than steel.

Cane—The French Luxor or the English Hardy rods, high class rods for the men who prefer them.

In reels we recommend: These are reasonable and from reputable manufacturers: The French Luxor, the English Hardy reels, and [illegible] extremely light in weight.

2—Automatic pick-up.

3—Fast retrieve, ideal for stream fishing.

4—Automatic backstop, frees left hand to net fish.

5—Very fine adjustable friction break.

6—Built-in ratchet, indicating when fish takes out line.

7—Sealed against dirt and water.

8—Large line capacity.

9—Very smooth and silent running.

10—Any number of reserve spools can be obtained.

In lines we recommend—The French Luxor or the American Platile which are both monofilament lines of uniform weight.

Africa Leading In Test Match

NOTTINGHAM, England, June 12 — (Reuters). — South Africa, with five second-innings wickets down for 95 runs, led England by 159 Monday night in the first cricket test match of the season.

With one day of play left on a pitch which suddenly began to show the effects of week-end rain, there still appeared an outside chance that the match would have a definite result.

Captain Freddy Brown declared England's first innings closed with one wicket left when still 64 short of the South African first-innings total.

Feature of the English innings was a century by Denis Compton which brought his season's total beyond 1,000 runs.

Buffalo Chalks Up 7th Win Noses Out Ottawa 2-1

By The Associated Press

Buffalo Bisons, hottest thing in the International League, still found themselves 6½ games behind the leading Montreal Royals today although they have chalked up seven victories in a row.

Manager George Toporcer, with everything coming his way, sent the veteran Clem Hausmann to the mound for the Bisons Monday night against Ottawa Giants.

It was Hausmann's first start of the season, and he allowed only seven hits in winning a pitching duel from Ottawa's George Bamberger 2-1.

Buffalo won its last pennant in 1949, under the guidance of Paul Richards, now managing Chicago White Sox—currently leading the American League.

Perhaps this is infectious. Anyway, the scrapping Bisons took Ottawa in the last of the ninth when Arch Wilson singled with the bases full to break a 1-1 tie. It was Wilson's fourth hit of the game.

Subdue Toronto

Montreal, meanwhile, defeated Toronto 4-2 as Bob Alexander chalked up his seventh victory, while Russ Bauers was absorbing his seventh defeat.

The cellar-dwelling Springfield Cubs rose up and bumped the seventh-place Baltimore Orioles twice 5-2 in the opener and 6-3 in a 10-inning nightcap.

Baltimore was winning the second game in the top of the ninth, 3-2 when third baseman Russ Kerns made a two-base bad throw permitting the Cubs to tie the score. Springfield chased across three runs in the tenth on four hits.

Syracuse Chiefs broke a third-place tie with Rochester by defeating the Red Wings 6 to 4 in the first half of the ninth inning. Carden Gillenwater drove in the winning runs with a bases loaded single.

A record season crowd of 13,655 turned out at Rochester to see the Royals beat the parent St. Louis Cardinals in a preliminary exhibition game 6-5.

Baseball Kills Boy Player, 10

EMLENTON, Pa., June 12 (AP)—A baseball killed a 10-year-old boy Monday night.

Deputy Coroner Charles S. Bridenbaugh said Robert M. Klingler, 10, died of a skull fracture 30 minutes after he was hit. He gave this version:

"Robert was a member of a little league team which was holding a practice session. He was sitting on the bench. Two of the team members were playing catch. A ball was thrown and it was deflected by a catcher's mitt and hit Robert at the base of the skull."

Dr. Bridenbaugh said no inquest is planned, adding:

"This is an unfortunate tragedy—one that happens once in a million times."

Chicago Sox, Dodgers Hope Increase Lead

By JOHN CHANDLER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Chicago White Sox and Brooklyn Dodgers, leaders in their respective major league races, begin another swing through foreign territory tonight nursing various minor aches and pains. They hope no serious complications develop.

Manager Paul Richards parades his White Sox, their American league lead trimmed to 2½ games by New York Yankees, into Washington for a night game against the Senators.

Brooklyn, sporting a 5½ game edge, opens its second western tour against the Cardinals in St. Louis.

Catcher Gus Niarhos and outfielder Al Zarilla of the pennant-hungry White Sox are suffering from groin injuries, pitcher Howie Judson's shoulder is paining, and outfielder Ed Stewart has been running a fever. In addition, pitcher Harry Dorish has been called home to Swoyerville, Pa., because of the death of an infant daughter.

Hope To Collect

Nevertheless, Chicago hopes to fatten its win column at Washington. The Chisox have belted the Senators seven times this year losing only one game. Lou Kretlow, who stopped Washington with four hits last week, is Richards' pitching choice.

Manager Chuck Dressen of the Dodgers will shoot Preacher Roe and his 8-0 record against the Cards.

Big Don Newcombe has a sore shoulder and will miss one and maybe two pitching turns, upsetting Brooklyn's hurling rotation.

Brooklyn won six and lost three on its last western trip, and if anyone is going to stop the Dodger flag rush they had better start the stopping. During the home stand just ended, Dressen's club took the west seven to three. The Cardinals were dumped three straight at Ebbets Field.

Cincinnati Reds, who copped seven of nine games in the east moving into second place, entertain New York Giants.

In other National League games Chicago Cubs open at home against the champion Philadelphia Phillies and Boston's Braves move into Pittsburgh to oppose the cellar-dwelling Pirates.

Aging Boxers Promise Early Knockout

By JACK HAND.

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP).—"I'll knock out Lee Savold inside six rounds,"—Joe Louis.

"I'll knock out Joe Louis in five rounds,"—Lee Savold.

Who's right? Or did you say, who cares?

Concensus of the "deep thinkers" around matchmaker Al Weill's wigwam (once Jacobs' Beach) is that somebody had better knockout somebody—quick.

The possibility of 37-year-old Joe and 35-year-old Lee pawing through 15 rounds uncorks sad visions.

There has been little hullabaloo about this "battle of the aged" at the Polo Grounds Wednesday night. Ticket sale has been spotty for an outdoor extravaganza.

International Boxing Club officials will be happy to settle for a crowd of 15,000 and $100,000.

Although Louis has been able to knock down only one of five comeback opponents since he lost to Ezzard Charles, he is a strong 3 to 1 favorite. This fight is almost as much a mystery to boxing people as to the fans.

Time Will Tell

Nobody knows how Savold, once a bar keep but now a physical fitness "bug," will stand up. He hasn't fought in a year since he knocked out Bruce Woodcock to earn British recognition as world heavyweight champion. Before that his last outing was Dec. 6, 1948. The likeable blond from Minnesota, now a resident of Englewood, N. J., hit the comeback trail with a 54-second knockout over Gino Buonvino March 19, 1948. Before that he was not rated. He has made a half-dozen retirements and comebacks.

Louis felt so frisky when he finished up yesterday at Pompton Lakes, N. J., that he said he wished he was fighting Ezzard Charles for the title instead of Savold. The winner of this bout is due to fight Charles in September.

Average Frenchman Seems To Wash Hands of Election

By ALAN HARVEY

PARIS, June 12 (CP)—The average man's attitude on the eve of the French elections seems superficially at least to be expressed in the phrase "Je m'en fiche"—meaning he washes his hands of it.

Five years of cabinet crises and constant turmoil at the Palais-Bourbon have created a gap between the people and their leaders. The Frenchman is soured on politics, baffled by a complicated new electoral law and agonized by the knowledge that his own actions can't do much to change things.

This feeling of skepticism and disdain goes deeper than the mere matter of marking ballots. Other causes of current malaise include sky-high food prices in a country where food and wine mean almost everything, a sense that some classes of society are lining their pockets at the expense of others, and above all the brooding fear of war.

German occupation stained the French character. It set brother against brother, corrupted youthful morals and gnawed at the Frenchman's pride in his own nationality. He no longer is confident of his destiny and lacks the sense of solidarity that, say, a Canadian would feel.

Undermined Confidence

In post-war France, a series of scandals involving a faint aroma of corruption in high places has further undermined public confidence. The national mood is reflected in the slogan "Systems D," which derives from the verb se debrouiller and freely translated means the person using it will get by—by hook or by crook.

Average Frenchman

In a country of natural abundance—France grows more than 80 per cent of her food compared with roughly half that percentage in Britain—the artisan class often gets a raw deal. The patron, or boss, pays about one-fifth the wage offered by his Canadian counterpart and tends to be a good deal more scrupulous about class distinctions.

Cheap rents and a health service which refunds 80 per cent of the patient's fees do not entirely compensate for the phenomenal increase in the cost of living. Neither do the fairly generous baby bonuses.

Other Complaints

Employees such as lower-grade civil servants grouse that they pay income tax in direct deductions, while no such way has been found of soaking two big groups—the traditionally close - fisted peasant farmer and the business man who says he made no profits, even in a boom year.

Georges X, a mildly communistic young woodworker who lives with his wife and three children in two rooms in the Paris suburb of Asnieres, listed some food prices for me. He said his wife Gilberte now pays up to 800 francs for a kilo of butter compared with 30 to 40 francs before the war. The present price works out to about $1 Canadian for a pound of butter, but comparisons with prewar are difficult because the franc has been devalued several times since 1939.

Needs Another Job

Gilberte pays 700 francs for a chicken which cost 35 francs before the war. Georges and Gilberte can't afford to have dinner on the Champs Elysees, where it is hard to get a meal for less than the equivalent of $3. Georges is already looking for Sunday work to prepare for a fourth child, expected soon.

So the elector has other things to think about besides politics. In a pre-election tour of France, I found surprisingly little talk about the June 17 vote. But the professor of a small school for boys warned me that didn't necessarily mean there would be a high degree of abstention. He said the French have a certain reserve about making their opinions known in advance, but that they are too civilized to stay away from the polls, however apathetic they may feel.

Summer Theatre Third Season Begins June 25

Peterborough Summer Theatre opens its doors for the third season, two weeks from next Monday, Michael Sadlier, its director-producer, announced today.

The emphasis for the 1951 season at the Summer Theatre is on gaiety and laughter. The programme, covering a wide and varied selection of plays, opens on June 25th with "Charley's Aunt."

The following week the company moves from the Collegiate to the Queen Mary Auditorium for the next nine weeks of the season. The first play in the Q.M. Auditorium will be the very successful American comedy "The Vinegar Tree." The third week the Summer Theatre will change policy and present two one-act plays, Terence Rattigans' "The Browning Version", and Noel Coward's riotous musical "Red Peppers."

The remaining plays on the summer schedule are, "Hay Fever", "The Male Animal", "The Little Foxes", "The Man Who Came to Dinner", "Heaven Can Wait", "Separate Rooms", and "Claudia."

Curtain time this summer will be at eight-twenty, and the management request the co-operation of everyone in observing the parking regulations.

Familiar Company

Rehearsals are now well underway in Toronto for the opening play, "Charley's Aunt." Peter Mews is busily leaping in and out of his wig, skirt and bonnet, ably assisted by Bill Needles as Charley, and Frank Perry as Jack.

The rehearsal hall is a studio at Lorne Greene's radio academy, across the road from CBC in Toronto.

Bill Needles will be back for the entire summer season after an active winter on radio, and Frank Perry returns for his third year direct from his honeymoon. Kate Reid flew back to Toronto from New York for rehearsals, after spending the Spring there studying and appearing on the Don Ameche television show. Other familiar faces in this year's company are Peter Mews, Pat Atkinson, Cal Whitehead, Ron Bailey.

Greater Population

WELLINGTON, N. Z., June 12 (Reuters).—British chiefs of staff would like to see the United Kingdom, Canada and Australia with 20,000,000 population each and New Zealand with 10,000,000 Maj.-Gen. Sir Howard Kippenberger, president of the New Zealand Returned Services Association, said Monday. "Nothing would suit the British chiefs of staff better than if they could wave a wand and distribute the Commonwealth's popuplation," he added.

PROCEDURE REVERSED—Usually it is the Governor-General who awards the medals at Ottawa investitures. This time the procedure was reversed as Defence Minister Claxton, right, presented the Canadian Forces Decoration to Field Marshal Viscount Alexander, commander-in-chief of Canada's armed services. The award was made because of his association with Canadians under his command during the Second World War. Similar decorations were given him for presentation to members of the Royal Family. The medal is awarded for good conduct and long service to all those serving 12 years in Canada's reserve or active forces.

6,484 Cattle Sprayed In Douro For Flies

DOURO, June 12—Warble fly spraying is moving apace in Douro township. To date, 3313 cattle have received their first treatment, and 3171 more their second treatment.

Cost so far has been $2,377.70, and $903.70 has been taken in as revenue from cattle owners. A balance of $1474 remains to be paid by taxes.

Council passed a motion asking county council to issue debentures for the Lakefield District high school. School section 13 is the part of Douro in the high school district.

Thomson Promises Strong Opposition

TORONTO, June 12 — (CP) — Walter Thomson, Ontario Liberal Leader, said Monday night that if he is in the opposition in the next Ontario Legislature, he will see that it is a strong opposition.

Making his 90th public appearance since becoming Liberal leader last November, he addressed the West York Liberal Women's Association in suburban Mimico.

"If I happen to be in the opposition, it will be a strong opposition, I can tell you," he said. "But I assure you of my utmost confidence that Liberalism will sweep the next election."

More than 1,500 troops will take part in the landing and defence measures at Erieau, Ont. RCAF planes and paratroopers will join with navy attackers in the beach assault.

Six Fairmiles, each carrying 100 men, will hit the beach. The six anti-sub vessels represent navy establishments at Port Arthur, Toronto, Kingston, Hamilton, Windsor and London.

Blame Boss If Frustrated

TORONTO, June 12 (CP)—It's the fault of the boss if you feel frustrated. It's his fault if you keep making the same mistakes all the time.

If he fires you for making mistakes, it's his fault too.

W. F. McMullen of the personnel department of the Canadian General Electric Company today told delegates to the semi-annual meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers that many persons repeat their mistakes because no one takes time to correct them.

He said it is management's duty to help a man and discuss his work with him regularly. He said:

"There are cases where someone thinks they are going to have to discharge a man. Maybe he has been making the same mistake for years and yet no one took time to try to straighten him out. The final failure is ours, not his."

Mr. McMullen said discussing a man's work with him will do much to reduce anxiety and uncertainty, will show him where he needs to improve, will give him a chance to say what's on his mind and will get him to do a better job.

No Over-All Priorities System Likely

By FORBES RHUDE,
Canadian Press Business Editor.

Some particulars regarding priorities for strategic materials were disclosed in discussions at the recent annual meeting in Quebec of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

For one thing, no single over-all priorities system for materials plan is visualized, it was stated by H. J. Sissons, director, Priorities Division, Department of Defence Production.

In regard to steel, he said in part:

"A defence or defence-supporting contractor is not given an automatic or over-riding claim on steel which he may need. He must first use up what is normally available to him and then endeavor to obtain the rest from domestic or import sources. If he is unable to meet the needs of his contract on time, then every effort will be made to assist him.

"It is in the field of construction and development of strategic resources that the heaviest pressures are being felt. . . We must still urge to not to embark on any construction whatsoever if it can be avoided. . . The seriousness of this situation is not diminishing. In fact, the heaviest impact of the armed services construction needs is just beginning to be felt, and this at the very time we are entering a particularly critical period in respect to reinforcing steel."

Mr. Sissons said it is likely that manufacturers importing United States steel, copper or aluminum in mill forms or components manufactured therefrom, will soon be asked to submit information as to their production requirements by broad classes of end-use for the third and fourth quarters of this year.

"This information," he said, "will serve as the basis for such priority assistance on United States supply as we may be able to obtain in line with the development of the Controlled Materials Plan in the US. We are proceeding as rapidly as possible with establishment of regional offices at a number of key points to assist in this work.

"The cornerstone of our policy must of course be to assist in every way possible direct defence and defence-supporting programs, to expand resources and, above all, to maintain a strong and flexible economy with the maximum freedom from controls."

Science Progresses

For 50 years we have used little familiar pain-killer in a new form without the disadvantages of acidity, insolubility and bitter taste. It is called 'DISPRIN' and is sold at druggists everywhere.

'DISPRIN' is available in Bottles of 26 tablets or Handy Pocket Folders of 8.

"Headache?.. take a Disprin"

Why DISPRIN? Because DISPRIN is soluble and substantially neutral. When taken in water as recommended, it enters the stomach as a true solution and not as undissolved particles. It is therefore less liable to cause stomach discomfort.

DISPRIN is readily absorbed. Because it definitely dissolves (not merely disintegrates) DISPRIN permits speedy absorption and gives quicker relief.

DISPRIN is palatable. Even children will take it readily.

The Case of the Missing Diploma

AS THE BOSS TURNED AWAY, Joe Richard knew he had lost out. Only a moment ago he was sure he had made a good impression, sure he would get the promotion. Then came the question about a college education . . . and bitter disappointment. It wasn't Joe's fault he hadn't gone to university. At high school he had been a good student . . . in many ways brilliant. But during his last year there . . . after his father died . . . he knew there wasn't the money to continue beyond high school.

Now, making his way in his chosen career, Joe was denied a hoped-for promotion. Because of the missing diploma, advancement was going to another man. They were both well qualified, the boss had said. But the think. Could this happen to your boy? The importance education will be even greater in future.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE

Clarence King, no fixed address, was given two years suspended sentence today when he pleaded guilty to breaking and entering a George St. store and stealing $7. , Det.-Sgt. W. E. Clarke told court that entrance to the store had been gained by a coal chute. The money was taken from a till in the cellar.

Not Guilty

"That was a long plea," commented Magistrate W. R. Philp after hearing what amounted to "not guilty" from Ross McCarrell of Smith township. McCarrell had been charged with having no number plate on the front of his truck. Asked to plea, he said, "Well, the licence plate got lost and I told the provincial police about it and they told me to wait a few days before doing anything, and then I wound up with a new set of plates, the old plate and a summons." Crown counsel V. J. McElderry offered no evidence and the charge was dismissed.

Stagger System Used For Exams, PCVS Crowded

Quiet for nearly two hours Grade 9 and 10 students at PCVS today poured out of the classrooms after morning examination cackling like excited hens. This rapid chatter is all part of writing the final June examinations at both PCVS and St. Peter's High school.

In small groups at 10:30 the first Grade niners finished their exams and started to cross the school campus slowly. Each was still studying the question paper and comparing answers. The girls seemed more worried than the boys.

Expressions such as "in an awful dither" and "You know that one about . . . ." could be heard near every group either in the school or outside. With a worried look and in a surprised tone, one Grade niner said, "Gee, I didn't even see that one."

Another group of Grade nine students, who are writing their first final examinations in secondary school, were busy reading and re-answering general science questions in the hallway. In several minutes the three girls separated. As one girl walked away a voice was heard, "I'll bet she failed."

Suddenly a supervising teacher opened a classroom door and with a finger to her lips uttered a loud "Shhhh".

The stagger system was employed Monday, the first day of examinations, because the classroom space was inadequate. There were 36 classes to squeeze into only 27 rooms.

Telephone calls were received during the noon hour from parents worried about children who failed to show up for dinner.

Today the school was filled to capacity, although the Grade 12 students had the morning free and the commercial students the afternoon. This system will be continued daily, one grade or department not writing during a morning or afternoon period to allow more classroom space.

Crowded conditions sent the Grade 13 students into the gymnasium for the first time as they started writing the departmental examinations. They were placed at tables set five feet apart, according to departmental regulations.

CAR DAMAGED

Damage estimated at $25 was done Monday afternoon when a car driven by Audrey Fair, 640 Bethune St., backed into a car driven by Sidney Smith, 776 Duffus St., in front of the brewer's retail store on McDonnel St.

K of C Elects W. Cunningham

The Annual Communion Breakfast of the Knights of Columbus Council 798 was held Sunday. After attendance at St. Peter's Cathedral for mass and communion, breakfast was served in the council rooms.

His Excellency Bishop Gerald Berry addressed the gathering on the current popular misconceptions of the faith and practices of the church and the basic philosophies underlying these views. He was thanked by Dr. J. R. Epping. Senator J. J. Duffus briefly outlined the history and prospects of the council.

The following officers were elected for 1951-52: Grand Knight W. J. Cunningham; Deputy Grand Knight, Norman Crook; chancellor, Paul Carravaggie; recording secretary, Larry Lawless; advocate, Wm. Roche; warden, H. A. McIssac; financial, M. E. O'Brien; treasurer, J. A. Boland; Inside Guard, John Hajnik; Outside Guard, Fred Pepe; Trustees, J. M. Nolan, W. B. Kinlin, and M. J. Collins.

As special tribute of praise was given to the retiring Grand Knight E. T. O'Brien and to the chairman of Catholic Activity, Peter Moore.

Price Of Wool Drops 20 Percent

Domestic wool has dropped 20 per cent in price.

However, this price drop won't affect the retail market for approximately six months, said Gordon Monkman, general manager of G. Whitaker and Co. Ltd. Consumers will continue to pay the same price both for wool and wool products until present stocks run out.

Mr. Monkman explained this price decrease as the result of unsettled conditions—weakness of overseas and American markets and also credit restrictions and the price war waging in the United States.

"This drop was contrary to all expectations," the general manager stated. "However the price may jump up to former levels anytime — to-morrow or next week. No one can tell," he concluded.

Jury Unable To Decide If Man Guilty Of Theft

A jury Monday afternoon was unable to reach a verdict on whether or not Jack A. Cockerill, 26, Holloway Drive, was guilty of theft of bronze ingots from the DeLaval Co., last Dec. 31. It was the second and last of two criminal cases at the Peterborough court of general sessions, Judge J. A. McGibbon, Lindsay, presiding.

The jury deliberated an hour and 36 minutes before the foreman, Alex M. Pidgeon, Aylmer St., announced that they could not agree.

Judge McGibbon thanked the jury and remanded Cockerill to the court of next criminal jurisdiction. He will likely be re-tried in December.

Bail is $2,000.

Questioned

Cockerill was taken into custody in the early hours of December 31 after being three times questioned by provincial and city police. Each time he was either driving or parked in the vicinity of the DeLaval Co. Later a company inventory showed the loss of 3,000 pounds of metal ingots, valued at $900.

About 40 ingots, valued at $260, were found on the back of the three-ton truck Cockerill had rented from Clare Donnelly, Hertz Drivurself dealer. The accused was alone in the cab each time he was questioned, police said.

Hired For Job

In his defence Cockerill did not deny the ingots were stolen. But he said he was only the driver of the truck, and had been hired by two other unidentified men to deliver a load of furniture in Kingston.

When he saw what the other two men were loading, Cockerill said he suspected the metal was stolen from one of the nearby plants.

Afraid of Men

"Why didn't you tell the police?" asked Crown Attorney John Bradshaw, KC.

"I was scared, I didn't know what to do," said Cockerill. "I was scared of what those men would do if I told on them. . . . what they'd do to my family."

The Crown Attorney received this sceptically and pointed out that all the police are armed and Cockerill—if his story was true—had sufficient opportunity to drive away home unmolested.

OPP Constable Jack McKendry testified that he saw Cockerill sitting alone in his truck and parked outside the DeLaval fence on Lansdowne St. This was 12:30 a.m., Dec. 31.

The constable checked the load, found some 40 ingots in the back, and asked the accused for his bills of lading. Cockerill replied that he was working for Cope transport, his usual truck had broken down, and he had rented this one for a "rush shipment."

To save time, he said, all the bills of lading were sent on in the last truck. He claimed the ingots were from a company in Smiths Falls.

"The accused was very nervous" said Constable McKendry. "And though it was a cool night beads of perspiration stood out on his forehead."

The constable broke off the investigation to look after a hit-and-run accident on the highway.

Fred Burns, Maple St., (a dead-end street running north and south between Parnell and Romaine Sts. and north of DeLaval), saw two men pulling a load on a toboggan and piling it at the end of the street. He sent his son out to see what the load was and he brought in an ingot. The time was about 1:30 a.m.

A few minuets later two men came along in a truck and loaded the ingots and drove away. City police were summoned by Burns.

Cleared By Provincials

City Constable Eldon McDonald answering Burns' call, saw the truck on Brioux Ave. He questioned Cockerill who said the ingots were being taken from Smiths Falls to Toronto, and he added that he had been cleared by the provincial police. Constable McDonald noticed a toboggan on the back of the truck.

Later Constable McDonald stopped Cockerill again, told him his story was unsatisfactory and ordered him to the police station.

Cockerill said he had dumped part of his load of ingots on Maple St. because his truck had broken down.

This second time the constable found that the truck now had a tail gate on it, and the toboggan was missing.

14 Ingots Found

Constable McDonald walked down the CNR tracks by the DeLaval plant and saw 14 ingots lying around in the snow. Tracks led from the metal shed of the plant to the fence. There were other tracks on the outside of the fence and the imprint of a toboggan.

"You have no knowledge of this man taking these ingots from the plant or putting them there, have you?" said W. J. Arthur Fair, KC, counsel for Cockerill.

"No," said Constable McDonald.

Mr. Bradshaw said it was sufficient in a conviction for theft for a person to acquiesce in the theft. And he added that Cockerill's story of meeting two unidentified men on a corner to move furniture from some unknown place, was unbelievable.

Nor did the accused tell the police when he believed the metal was stolen.

"If he was an unwilling partner why didn't he ask for help?" Mr. Bradshaw asked the jury.

Judge McGibbon said the whole defence would stand or fall on Cockerill's explanation of how the metal came into his possession.

"Personally I don't believe it," said the judge.

The jury returned after about 45 minutes to ask instruction in a point of law. At 5:27 p.m. they finally return to announce deadlock. They stood 10 to 2 for a conviction—the two dissenters apparently holding out right from the beginning.

Police Officer Found Girl Steering Truck Unable To Reach Brakes, Driver Asleep

Charles McGreen of Belmont township today pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving and was fined $75 and $2.50 costs.

OPP Constable Donald Erskine testified he saw a five-ton gravel truck driving east on Highway 7 near Havelock. The truck was being driven in an erratic manner, he said.

The officer drove alongside, and sounded his siren and horn to wake up McGreen, who was asleep at the wheel. Constable Erskine said a girl was steering the truck, but couldn't reach the brakes.

For four miles, the OPP car drove alongside the truck, and finally McGreen woke up and applied the brakes. Accused admitted drinking four or five pints of beer and a shot of wine. Constable Erskine said he was not drunk.

A charge of careless driving was withdrawn.

Map Floor For City Hall Costs $3,425

Original Estimate Set At $1,425, Sent To Committee

Mentioned by Ald. Herb Young as the "only furnishing we've done" was the proposed mosaic map in the terrazza floor of the city hall, at the meeting of the finance committee, Monday night.

It was referred to a small committee to be appointed by Mayor Swanston, for further study and report.

"It is only a matter of $2,000 or thereabouts," Dr. Young said, "and that's a mightly small item in half a million dollar building. And if we cut it out now, I think we are doing the wrong thing."

Ald. T. D. Miller, chairman, read a letter from Marani and Morris, architects, quoting cost of the lobby floor at $3,425 as compared with an original estimate of $1,425.

Unique in Canada.

This novel type of flooring (no other in Canada like it) was described as a highly specialized type of work. When the plans were being discussed at the outset, this idea crept into the discussions, and became more or less accepted on several grounds, It was to be a map in colors of Peterborough county, but was expanded to encompass the larger trading area.

Behind the proposal was something of expression of the spirit and sense of neighborhood and relationship with the rest of Peterborough but also with the adjacent sections of other counties with whom this city is in frequent communication, business and otherwise. There was also the idea of emphasizing the features of this district, its lakes and rivers, and finally the cost, even at a guess, was not alarming.

First Opinion

So, in the beginning the disposition of the council of that year was to convert the terrazza floor of the lobby into a fairly large map of this district.

Emphasized last night was the fact that it is a specialist's job, and for that reason in reply to Ald. E. C. Braund, it was felt that caling tenders would disclose very little, if any, competition. Even the final planning had to be taken over by Mr. Marani himself, so it was said.

Few Changes

Some of the members of the committee expressed agreement with Ald. Young that the council had adhered to the original plans, had assumed no extras except a few changes which were not substantial, and which had developed chiefly in the progress of the work.

Mr. Hubert Eastwood, of Eastwood Construction Co., speaking by telephone, estimated that the common terrazza floor would cost about $800. Members increased that to the rounder amount of $1,000, leaving the extra cost of the proposed colored floor design at $2,000.

Not Expensive

Ald. Young expressed one opinion that excessive extras had been avoided, that the map in mosaic was not expensive, that it was a comparatively small item.

"I don't think anyone should quibble about $2,000, especially when the work will probably be there 200 years from now," Ald. A. B. Burrows remarked.

Ald. Harold Rehill said he would be satisfied with a plain floor, "although I am not against the district map being in the floor."

It was suggested that the special committee to be appointed by Mayor Swanston, to weigh the proposal further, should report early as the map floor would require eight to ten weeks to finish.

MISS AUDREY HUSTWITT

Audrey Hustwitt To Join Staff Of PCVS

Miss Audrey Hustwitt, swimming director at the YWCA for the past two years, has been employed by the board of education as full-time physical education teacher at PCVS for 1951-52.

Miss Hustwitt's resignation has been accepted by the YWCA board of directors and will go into effect June 30. This summer, Miss Hustwitt is planning to attend a teachers' course at Queen's University, Kingston.

Miss Leta Brownscombe, YWCA director, commenting on Miss Hustwitt's departure said: "We accepted her resignation with regret. Her work at the "Y" has been exceptionally good and I am sure that many people will be disappointed when they hear she will be leaving. However, we feel that the young woman we have obtained to take Miss Hustwitt's position will continue to carry on a high standard of work."

Miss Brownscombe was referring to Miss Phyllis Alexander of Stouffville and a graduate of the University of Western Ontario, London, who is coming to Peterborough the end of June as swimming director.

"Miss Alexander has had a great deal of experience in this type of work," Miss Brownscombe stated. "Not only has she qualified swimming attainments, but she has also had other experience which will be extremely helpful in this work."

The new swimming director has spent two summers with the department of parks and playgrounds, Toronto, as a senior supervisor and has had experience as a camp councillor and summer recreational director. She has also been highly recommended by the National Council of the YWCA.

Trailer Hits Pole

A trailer truck loaded with a diesel shovel went out of control at 7.30 a.m. today and crashed into a hydro pole on Monaghan Rd. just south of Wolfe St.

The driver, K. Ross McNaughton, RR 4, Peterborough, was uninjured. The right front of the truck was damaged. The hydro pole was broken.

FIVE-POUND PICKEREL

Miss Lois Fleetwood, 498 Sherbrooke St., reported that she caught a five pound pickerel that measured 24 inches in length Sunday. Miss Fleetwood was fishing in Pigeon Lake from Sid Mitchell's camp where she said she has been having good luck all spring.

Police Drag River, Seek C. Graham

Overturned Boat Found By Wife Near Wallace Pt.

Provincial Police early today began dragging the Otonabee river, between the Wallace Point bridge and the Bensfort bridge, for the body of 62-year-old Charles Graham, 439 Edison Ave.

The search is centering on the stretch of water between Seven Oaks and the Wallace Point bridge, 10 miles south of the city. At 1 a.m. today his overturned boat was found by his wife, daughter and son-in-law, floating near the west bank of the river.

Mr Graham is believed to have drowned late Monday afternoon while he was refueling his new outboard motor. Both of his legs were permanently injured and a swell, caused by a passing motor boat, may have thrown him off balance.

He was not a strong swimmer, though his brother Dick, Union St., says he could swim a short distance.

Favorite Sport

Mr. Graham, a Civic Hospital employee, started his holidays Monday. He told his wife and daughter that he wanted to indulge in his favorite hobby: fishing.

So 1:30 p.m. he started out in his boat, equipped with an outboard and auxiliary gasoline tank, to go to Bensfort bridge, a 14-mile trip by water from Park St. where his boat was moored.

He had recently purchased a new rod and reel and was looking forward to a happy holiday, camping by himself by the banks of the river at Bensfort. His daughter, Mrs. Thomas Bradley, O'Connell St., was to bring down his tent and groceries and other supplies late Monday afternoon, by car.

When he did not arrive as scheduled she became alarmed and began to look for him with the help of her husband and mother.

Searched In Dark

After dark the trio searched the shoreline and out into the water by flashlight, and at 1 a.m. the flashlight caught the gleaming metal of the outboard on the overturned punt. It was about five feet from the west bank, between Seven Oaks and Wallace Point bridge.

The last person to see Mr. Graham alive was the bridgekeeper at the Wallace Point bridge. He

College Man, Practical Farmer Hon. J. W. Jones Is Re-elected

By The Canadian Press

Admitting his own age—73—but declaring his government is still "youthful and vigorous," Premier J. Walter Jones faced his third test at the polls as Liberal leader in Prince Edward Island's general election on April 26. Premier Jones was swept back into power.

He was a cabinet member for only five months in 1943 when Thane A. Campbell resigned to become chief justice and Mr. Jones was catapulted into the premiership.

A day after the last session of the provincial legislature prorogued he announced a snap election—giving organizers of all parties only 26 days to get candidates in the field and present their platforms to the voters.

The colorful premier, combining politics and scientific farming, expounds a homespun, cracker-barrel philosophy and seems to take a delight in hiding his college background. He looks and acts the Will Rogers of the Island.

Practical Farmer

He went to the polls in 1947 after having concluded a $2,000,000 dominion-provincial financial agreement. He rules sternly on labor disputes but he still finds time to don overalls and be the practical farmer.

Born at Pownal, P.E.I., April 14, 1878, Walter Jones got his knowledge of farming at an early age.

While he attended school he helped his father work the family farm. In 1897 he decided on a formal education and first became a teacher. Then he gathered degrees from Acadia University at Wolfville, N.S., and Cornell, Chicago, Columbia and Clark Universities. He finished up at the Ontario Agricultural College as a scientific agriculturalist.

He became superintendent of the Arlington Experimental Farm in the United States, and while there wrote a series of letters to island newspapers urging the export of seed potatoes to provide a higher yield for U.S. growers.

Islanders Took Hint

Islanders took the hint, grew the seed potatoes and this is one of their economic mainstays today. He returned to Canada to evaluate the fur business for the Government and wrote a report that has become a text book for the industry.

He began fur farming himself and then branched out and became interested in pure-bred cattle, taking on the side his master of arts in economics at Acadia. He developed an internationally-famous herd and between 1927 and 1933 won probably more prizes and championships than any other Canadian. He was the first Canadian to receive the master breeder's shield of the Holstein-Friesian Association.

He tried politics nationally in 1921, but was defeated as a Farmers' Progressive candidate. He was successful when he first tried for a provincial house seat in 1935 and has been re-elected ever since. He married Katherine Bovyer in 1909 and has three daughters and a son.

"INDOMINTABLE AND HEROIC," said Lieut. General Van Fleet, U.S. 8th Army Commander, when he awarded the Presidential Unit Citation, America's highest army group honor, to the 1st Battalion of the British Gloucester Regiment. Against some 20,000 Chinese, without food or water for three days, the British boys held out and saved a section of the front in Korea. Pictured are some of the few who lived to fight again. Their colonel and their chaplain stayed behind with the wounded.

Fire In Office

GUELPH, June 12 (CP) — Walls and ceilings of the Imperial Optical Company in the Savage building were damaged extensively Monday when a fire swept through offices of the firm. Firemen saved valuable optical equipment used in the grinding of lenses. The fire is believed to have started when a bottle of chemical spilled and ignited.

ST. LOUIS, June 12 (AP)—Informed intelligence officials believe Russian leaders are convinced the United States can be hurt worse than Russia in the event of an atomic war, Millard Caldwell, the federal civil defence administrator, said Monday night. Report No Bodies Aboard Sunken Tug

BUFFALO, N.Y., June 12 (AP) —The owners of the tug Sachem, which lies in 90 feet of water in Lake Erie, said Monday there are no bodies aboard the vessel.

The Sachem sank Dec. 18. Twelve crew members were lost. Four bodies were recovered along the Lake Erie shore shortly after the sinking.

Counsel for the Dunbar & Sullivan Dredging Co. said divers have thoroughly explored the tug and have found no trace of any of the eight bodies still unaccounted for.

Truck Falls Off Cliff, Peterborough Gunner Hurt

By WILLIAM BOSS

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, June 12 (CP).—Canadian gunners "made a hit" right from the beginning in Korea.

The unit barely had time to dig in on the Korean front before it was firing "murder" targets—concentrations of all its guns on enemy positions.

During its first 24 hours on the front the unit shot off more than 1,300 shells.

Shortly after arrival, a Peterborough man, Gnr. Clarence McFarland was among a group injured when a truck fell 20 feet off a cliff.

Batteries in that first day supported a British patrol. They fired on Chinese ahead of mountain positions. And they helped an American unit clear out Chinese troops who had infiltrated behind two of its companies.

Lt.-Col. A. J. B. Bailey of Duncan, BC, and Kingston, said "we were told that the results were very good."

Throwback To Italy

The gunners had set something of a record by being there at all.

Only two days previously they were at the South Korean port at which they had landed. Spanning the distance in great strides, their convoys were at the front 48 hours later, guns were positioned on sites prepared by an advance party, and in no time flat were ready to take on targets.

It was a throwback to Italy to see the guns—this time their 25-pounders equipped with the latest model flash eliminators—lining the road leading to the defensive lane.

Again they seem to love sites at angles to, or overlooking the road and its passing traffic. There must be more than coincidence in the timing of fire orders. Startled jeep passengers still get lifted from their seats at the blasts. And the gunners will dispense the same horse laugh at the results.

Their light brown Canadian-style bell tents, only ones so far in the theatre, make the headquarters distinctive but the color is soon to disappear under a coating of camouflage paint. Even so, the shape is uncommon here.

First guns fired were in the battery commanded by Maj. Sam Pinkerton of Hamilton. Forward observation officer was Capt. H. H. Baker while the gun that inaugurated the Korean story was commanded by Sgt. Harold Brummitt of Shilo, Man., and Vancouver.

Brummitt's crew consists of Bdr. Leo Longpre, Ottawa; L.Bdr. Austin Vickery, Joggins, N. S.; Gnrs. Gerald Brewster, Canning, N. S.; Joseph Wells, Montreal and Allan McMahon of Porquis, Ont. The gun fitter is Cpl. John Fenton, RCEME, Montreal.

First Casualty

First equipment casualty at the front was a gun tractor driven by Gnr. Len Johann of Coaticook, Que. Johann was backing his tractor to service it after placing the gun when its right rear section went over a mine.

No one was hurt but two wheels of the eight-wheel rear-traction assembly were blown off, two more were bent, both rear transmission differentials were smashed and the body stove in.

Practical-minded Johann expanded the hole blasted by the explosion into a dugout, which he shared with Gnr. Ken. Campbell of Edmonton.

The same troop, however, suffered the only serious casualties on the way up from Pusan when a truck fell 20 feet down a slight cliff. It was loaded with ammunition and personal gear.

Peterborough Man Hurt

Fractured limbs were suffered by Bdrs. Patermarquis of New Glasgow, NS, and John Kelsey of Toronto, and Gnr. Clarence McFarland of Peterborough. Also hurt but still with the unit were Bdr. George Pilot of Toronto and Gnr. Chester Nalewajek, Montreal.

Indicative of the way the unit quickly struck the stride of the theatre was a gun position commanded by Lieut. Ted Pepler of Toronto. Aware that the Chinese were masters of night infiltration Pepler had so organized his men that besides manning guns, they would form a defensive perimeter around them.

Their normal rifle fire was thickened by three heavy machine guns he lifted from burned out US tanks his troops passed on the way north.

"They fire alright," he said of the quickly reconditioned weapons, "and we can put them to good use—if need be."

Weather Control Seen Possibility For Future

VICTORIA, B.C. — (CP) — The man who put rain-making on a scientific basis explained his work here recently to a conference of Canadian and United States government officials.

Tall, youthful-looking Dr. Vincent J. Schaefer of Schenectady, NY, addressed a joint meeting of the Columbia River Basin Forecast Committee and the Western Snow Conference. The meeting was attended by more than 100 officials from British Columbia and eight American states.

Employed by the General Electric Company for 29 years, Dr. Schaefer has been in the research department for 20 years.

During the Second World War he did research work on aircraft icing for the US government and discovered that icing occurred because of super-cooled clouds.

"It was while studying why clouds super-cooled that I discovered how to make rain," Dr. Schaefer said in an interview.

Can Halt Lightning

Not only did his studies show him how to make rain, he added, but how to prevent thunder, lightning and hail.

The 44-year-old researcher said his work now on producing certain types of weather, and preventing others, was being done for the United States Signal Corps and the Office of Naval Research.

General Electric, he said, was only interested in making rain from the scientific, and not commercial, viewpoint.

Dr. Schaefer himself, however, believes great benefits will someday be derived from control of the weather. He maintains that there should be government control of rainmaking and that there will be need of international agreements.

No Respecter of Boundaries

"Weather is no respecter of boundaries," he said, "so if we're going to do anything about it, there has got to be a plan on a large scale."

Dr. Schaefer feels, too, that as the art of rainmaking is developed, there will be need for licensing those engaged in the practice in order to protect the public from unscrupulous operators.

While he discovered the method of seeding clouds with dry ice and silver iodide, he actually has yet to make any rain himself.

"I work in the laboratory," he said. "Others do the seeding."

He said that close to 1,000, and possibly more, rainmaking tests have been made so far and that results have been very successful.

DROP ON THE "ROK"—He's carrying a white flag and wearing the uniform of a South Korean soldier, but Sgt. Lonnie Kiefer of Sparta, Ill., keeps his carbine poised as he questions the soldier before sending him to the rear. Allied troops follow a policy of "strictly no trust" of unidentified soldiers, because of the Reds' favorite infiltration trick of masquerading as friendly troops.

To Direct Conference

TORONTO, June 12 (CP)—Dr. C. Gaitskell, director of art for the Ontario Department of Education, has been elected to direct the first world conference on visual art education. Announcement of the election was made Monday by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. The conference will meet at Bristol, England, from July 7 to 27.

TTC Loses Money

TORONTO, June 12 (CP)—The Toronto Transportation Commission said Monday that it lost money last year on all three phases of its operation—its streetcar system, its ferries to Toronto island and its subsidiary, Gray Coach Bus Lines. In its annual statement the commission said the trams and ferry service had a combined deficit of $1,312,058, compared with a profit of $124,811 in 1949. The Gray Coach loss, first since the bus company was organized in 1927, was $109,851, as against a 1949 profit of $51,000.

Neighbours the world over with NICKEL

Television brings far-away events to your eyes. Most metal parts of the tubes of the television camera and the receiving set are nickel or nickel alloys.

The heart of long distance telephone service is the vacuum tube—its metal parts are nickel or nickel alloys. Nickel alloys increase the efficiency of transatlantic cables. Men and women the world over are neighbours—with the help of nickel.

Hundreds of everyday uses for Nickel have been developed by the Nickel industry through a planned program of research. Today a large share of Canada's Nickel production is being diverted from peacetime uses into channels for preparedness. So the Nickel mine facilities, greatly expanded over the past decade, are again being operated at peak capacity. There is actually more Nickel now being delivered by Canada to the free world than in any peacetime year.

"The Romance of Nickel" a 60-page book fully illustrated, will be sent free on request to anyone interested.

Smith School Holds Reunion

SELWYN, June 12 (ENS) — Miss Sheila Wilson, teacher of S.S. No. 9 Smith and her pupils entertained the parents and friends and former school teachers of No. 9 at a reunion and achievement night at the school Friday.

The past year's work was on display for all interested to see.

Trustee Clifford McIlmoyle was chairman for a short program as follows: Guitar and vocal solo by Marybeth Wilson; a letter read by Mary Ziroff from R. F. Downey of Peterborough, a former inspector, who was unable to be present.

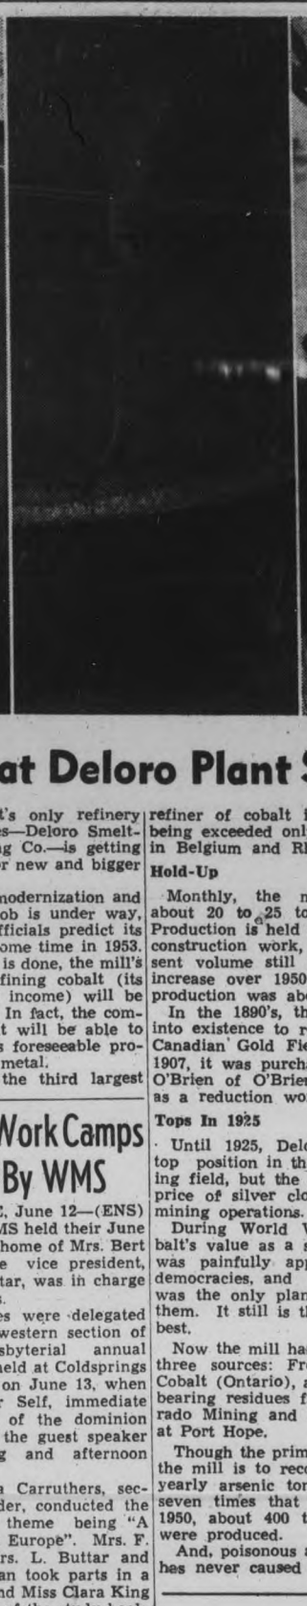
Guy Poole, manual training instructor, outlined the manual training and crafts taught at the school. Three former eachers, Miss Leitha Kidd, Miss Ora Dunford and Miss Betty Brown spoke briefly.

Pauline Fitzgerald played a piano solo; Joan Ziroff recited a poem, "The King's Breakfast." A short playlet was enacted by the children and Miss Sheila Wilson spoke a few words.

The history of the school, written by Miss Wilson, was read by Donald Lebeau.

The first school was a log building and was replaced by the present brick building in 1915 at a cost of $5,000. The trustees at that time were Sam McConkey, Herbert McConkey and Fred Branch.

The first teacher was Miss Ella Webster of Fenelon Falls at a salary of $600 a year. Coyle Brown was one of the first inspectors, then Mr. Brodderick, who was inspector when the present school was built He was succeeded by R. F. Downey in 1923, and the present inspector, E. C. Anderson, came in 1945.



The teachers who succeeded Miss Webster were: Miss Bertha Hatherley, Mr. K. S. Madill from 1920 to 1925; followed by Miss T. Cox and in 1927 by Miss Dorothy Sproule; Miss N. Davidson, 1928; James Burns, 1930; Miss Meta Thorne, 1931; Miss Margaret McNeill, 1934; Robert Spence, 1934; Miss Leatha Kidd, 1936; Miss Ora Dunford, 1937 Miss Jessie Graham, 1941; Miss Eva Hornsby, 1942; Miss Ethel McConkey, 1943; Miss Leatha Kidd back again in 1943; Miss Betty Brown, 1945; Miss Ruth Wilkinson, 1946 and Miss Sheila Wilson came in 1948.

Since Miss Wilson began teaching, she and the pupils have raised money and bought a radio, a piano, a studio couch, a hotplate and material to decorate the teacher's room. The girls made a quilt and tickets were sold on the quilt and a lamp.

Electricity has been put in the school and open book shelves installed.

The teacher and her pupils served refreshments. The school was decorated for the occasion with streamers and bouquets of spring flowers.

A REDUCTION PLANT FOR FORTY YEARS, Deloro Mining and Smelting Company, five miles north-east of Marmora, is the continent's only refinery of arsenical ores. Strategic cobalt is its chief source of income. Audrey Hagadorn, Upper Left photo, checks X-Ray plates of stellite castings for flaws before they go to the machine shop. Starts at Deloro Plant $2,000,000 Reconstruction

The continent's only refinery of arsenical ores—Deloro Smelting and Refining Co.—is getting its face lifted for new and bigger things.

A $2,000,000 modernization and reconstruction job is under way, and company officials predict its completion by some time in 1953.

When the job is done, the mill's capacity for refining cobalt (its chief source of income) will be nearly doubled. In fact, the company believes it will be able to handle Canada's foreseeable production of the metal.

The mill is the third largest refiner of cobalt in the world, being exceeded only by smelters in Belgium and Rhodesia.

Hold-Up

Monthly, the mill produces about 20 to 25 tons of cobalt. Production is held up by the reconstruction work, but the present volume still represents an increase over 1950, when total production was about 60 tons.

In the 1890's, the plant came into existence to refine gold for Canadian Gold Fields Ltd. In 1907, it was purchased by M. J. O'Brien of O'Brien Gold Mines as a reduction works.

Tops In 1925

Until 1925, Deloro held onto top position in the cobalt-refining field, but the decline in the price of silver closed off silver mining operations.

During World War Two, cobalt's value as a strategic metal was painfully apparent to the democracies, and Deloro's mill was the only plant available to them. It still is the biggest and best.

Now the mill handles ore from three sources: French Morocco, Cobalt (Ontario), and the cobalt-bearing residues from the Eldorado Mining and Refining plant at Port Hope.

Though the primary purpose of the mill is to recover cobalt, its yearly arsenic tonnage is about seven times that of cobalt. In 1950, about 400 tons of arsenic were produced.

And, poisonous as arsenic is, it has never caused any real sickness among the men who work with it. C R. Whittmore, chief metallurgist for the company, says that the workers observe simple precautions (such as washing carefully after work) and are not bothered.

Double Tonnage

Once the reconstruction job is done, the company expects their monthly output of cobalt will run to 60 tons. With minor additions afterward, a yearly output of roughly 1,000 tons would be possible.

As explained by Mr. Whittmore, the process of separating cobalt from the ores and concentrates is a complicated one.

First, the ores and concentrates are crushed and then go through half-a-dozen treatments on water tables, electric furnaces and acid baths. Finally, cobalt oxide emerges, and it is ready for the final treatment.

In furnaces which handle 2,000 pounds of the exide mixed with carbon, the mixture is heated. The oxygen in the oxide merges with the carbon to form carbon dioxide, and the cobalt comes out by itself.

Still molten, it is poured into a steel drum of water in a process known as "shotting." When it hits the water, the metal forms into small, rounded pieces.

Make Stellite

After this treatment, 65 per cent of the cobalt is used to produce stellite, an alloy used for high speed cutting tools and jet engine blades. The alloy cannot be drilled or machined with any great exactness, and so precision casting must be done to put threading on pieces that require it.

Although hardened high speed steels are harder than the tellite at temperature up to 1,100 degree fahrenheit, stellite is superior above this point.

Cast pieces of stellite are generally used as cast tool bits or tips brazed or welded to tough steel shanks.

Silver Made

One of the by-products of the smelting and refining job is silver, cast into ingots of 1,100 ounces each and treated with complete disregard by employees.

As silver is worth roughly 70 cents an ounce (not much in the precious metals game), the company has never had trouble with hi-jacking or thefts inside the plant. Mr. Whittmore said it wouldn't be worth anybody's while.

"They couldn't do anything with it, and they certainly couldn't sell it with the company's initials stamped right on it," he said with a smile

The ingots are about five inches square at the ends and roughly 14 inches long. They didn't look too heavy to carry.

MARMORA, June 12 (ENS)—The negotiating committee of Local 889, International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, met the management of Deloro Smelting and Refining Company at Deloro on Monday.

This meeting was with a view to re-negotiating a new contract, the previous contract having expired on May 10. The original request of the union for a 25-cent hourly increase was lowered to 15 cents. This the company assented to on the following basis: A 9-cent hourly increase retroactive to May 25 and a further six-cent hourly increase in six months.

With regard to the increased shift differential in which the union asked for five cents hourly on each shift in place of three cents, the company has also assented.

The company met the request for granting additional holidays by conceding one more day. The request the union for a 40-hour week instead of the 44-hour week was not met.

At the union meeting held in the town hall in the evening, these proposals were discussed. prior to the union meeting the company on the morrow when it was anticipated a settlement might be reached.

Red Cross Busy Working In Lethbridge

LETHBRIDGE —(CP)— Displaying the kind of organization and zeal that makes men blink with surprise, women here are going all out for the Red Cross.

More than 30 different groups have been enlisted by the Women's Work Committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. C. B. Macdonnel.

The groups include all varieties of religious, racial, vocational and social organizations. Even inmates of the provincial jail have been enlisted to help.

After the war, only one Red Cross group had continued to work for the society. But with the war abroad and major disasters such as the Winnipeg floods and the Rimouski, Que., fire occurring in Canada, the feeling developed that the humanitarian work of the Red Cross should not be allowed to lag, and the set-up was reorganized.

Sewing materials and wool are delivered to women who are unable to attend meetings.

Country Groups

Country groups can telephone collect to the Lethbridge headquarters and material is shipped out to them.

The Red Cross room has a pressing and packing department with two pressing tables donated to the society.

There's even a "disaster cupboard" now, filled with quilts, sheets, hot water bottles, bandages, mattresses and pillows.

"All this is for emergencies," Mrs. Macdonnel said. "The Red Cross is a sort of 'Johnny on the spot' and when disaster strikes we want to be right there to provide the immediate relief necessary."

The men help, too. Off-duty RCMP officers assist in tying up large cartons of articles.

C.A.C. Protests Daily Price-Changing

TORONTO, June 12 (CP). — The Ontario section of the Canadian Association of Consumers says housewives should protest against stores changing the mark-up price of foodstuffs "two or three times a day."

Mrs. Clifton Graban of Ottawa, elected president at yesterday's annual meeting, said that, in the opinion of the association, "the new vicious system of changing the price mark-up in food stores two or three times a day needs a strong lead from government to stop this practice and a strong individual protest from consumers, because it is causing great uncertainty in planned buying habits."

An association statement said: "The full benefit of the mark-down in price to the consumer lags far behind the mark-up that goes on daily. Tax benefits that are produced in government budgets seem to benefit every group but the one most concerned, the consumer."

Mrs. Graban said the Ontario section during the last year has put major emphasis on milk prices, rent control and membership.

Vice-presidents elected were: Mrs. E. G. Pleva, London; Mrs W. P. M. Kennedy, Toronto; Mrs. Eugene Montgomery, Toronto; and Mrs. A. E. Kennedy, Agincourt.

Cotton Leading Fabric In London Styles

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON, June 12 (CP)—Cotton—material that grandmother at the beginning of the century considered fit only for underwear—is this year's king of fabrics.

During London's fashion fortnight that ends Wednesday, British manufacturers showed overseas buyers cotton ensembles ranging from tub-frocks for household chores to sophisticated evening and cocktail dresses. There were smart tailored suits, chic wear for race meetings, gorgeous cotton bridal gowns and beach wear of all types.

A mermaid bridal gown, with tiers of tucked skirt falling to a fish-tail ankle-line with floating back panel, has squared cuffed neckline. A heavy white brocade bridal gown in cotton's sister fabric, rayon, might have stepped from an 18th-century painting. Its deep, fringed shawl collar and leg-of-mutton sleeves unzip to make a strapless evening gown, while the tight waist and semi-crinoline skirt gave a picturesque princess line.

As wool prices rise, designers turn to heavy cottons for early fall fashions. There are beautifully-tailored suits in cotton tweeds and corduroys. A light grey velvet suit, snuff brown velvet slacks and geranium velvet rainproof were all of cotton origin.

Rayons have also been glamorized, giving many beautiful brocades. A cormorant green brocade printed in violet gives a sophisticated cocktail gown with high slit neckline, leg-of-mutton sleeves and tight waistline. A bunchy-gathered panel on the left hip and a gathered hemline gives a harem effect.

MR. THOMAS DARCY RYAN and his bride were pictured at Nassau, Bahamas, on their wedding day, May 19th. Mr. Ryan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ryan, Brock St., Peterborough. Husband-Hunter Like Job Best For Meeting Men

DEAR MISS DIX: What advice do you give young women who are nearing 30 and are beginning to fear that they may never marry? Should they seek jobs in which they will meet men, and if so, what are these jobs? Is school teaching an old maid's job? What about stenography, nursing, restaurant work, welfare work? What kind of summer vacation should they take? Would you advise a young woman to go near the home of a lost boy friend in an effort to regain him and get him away from the girl he is going with?

TWENTY - NINE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It is hard to answer your questions definitely because marriage seems to be largely a matter of luck.

Where Men Are

Of course the girl who wants to marry should go where there are plenty of men. There is no profit in fishing in waters in which there are no fish, or in hunting where there is no game. Girls will frankly tell you that the reason they go to co-educational colleges is not to get an education but a husband, and the same reason impels wise virgins to seek jobs in offices even when they do not need the money they earn.

I cannot see that one job has more matrimonial possibilities than another if it brings a girl in contact with marrying men. Stenography is a good choice for the young woman whose object is matrimony, provided her boss is a bachelor or a widower. Nursing is almost a matrimonial cinch. Practically all single convalescents think they are in love with their nurses, so the trained nurse has no trouble in wangling a proposal out of the patient if she wants him. Failing this, there are the internes, and how easily they are captured you can gauge by the number of doctors who have married nurses.

In restaurant work a girl meets every known variety of man and has a chance to look 'em over and choose her bird. School teaching is far from being an old maid's job, it is first aid to matrimony, as is proved by the fact that it is hard for country districts to keep schoolma'ams. Some man is always marrying "teacher."

As for a summer vacation, almost any kind is good. Only don't go to those Adamless Edens of summer resorts where the only male bipeds are senile grandpas and adolescent boys. And don't go to expensive hotels, because the average young chap lacks the price and is conspicuous by his absence.

It doesn't seem sporting to try to take another girl's boy friend away from her, but sometimes it can be done.

But why are you so anxious to marry just to be a-marrying? Take it from me, marriage is no picnic and many a married woman would exchange her husbnd for your job.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am the mother of a five-year-old girl who is constantly being tormented by a group of neighborhood boys and girls her own age. I have tried to make her stand on her own with them, but after seeing one older boy hol dher arms while another punched her, I realized they were too much for her. I have not gone to these children's parents. Do you think I should?

DOROTHY H.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: While I don't think you'd get very far appealing to the mothers of these youngsters, it's worth a try. No parent with a sense of responsiblity could let her children act in such a cruel way. You might be able to get some help from the local school authorities, but I'm afraid the problem will only be solved by keeping your daughter constantly under your surveilance. Of course, the permanent solution would be to leave the neighboruhood and drastic though the measure may be, it's preferable to raising a child in such unsavoury surroundings.

DEAR MISS DIX: Several months ago I met a man who is 24 years old and married. He told me he was separated from his wife and loved me. He is now overseas and writes me frequently. I wonder if I should answer his letters, as he seems to be getting serious. I do not love him, but I respect and admire him very much and would not want to hurt him. V. B. E.

ANSWER: As much as I like to see the morale of our servicemen kept high with letters from home, this is one correspondence that should be terminated. Just tell him that until he is free, you think it best not to write to him. His pride and vanity may be slightly bruised, but it's better than going along until you do fall in love with him and wind up with a broken heart.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

MARY MOORE SAYS:

High Percentage of Shrink Found In Smaller Roast

Sticking my neck out seems to be the normal attitude for me these days. It's awkward, but I do it for my beloved fans.

I know why you are tempted with and why you buy small roasts roasts (I do it sometimes, too)—because small roasts keep down the current week's food bill. It seems more economical to buy three $2.00 roasts over a period of three weeks than to buy one $6.00 roast. I know either of these purchase-methods would have to be supplemented with other varieties of "small meats."

But a small roast, it is maintained by many, has a higher percentage of shrink that a large roast.

If the beef is Red Brand and properly hung (from 14 to 20 days) any roast cut from the rump up to below the shoulder will be tender when roasted. This includes rump, sirloin, T-bone, porterhouse, wing, standing rib and short rib. Any of these could be boned and rolled, but the finished flavor is better when the roast has the bone in.

How To Roast Choice Beef

After you have made this costly purchase, treat it right.

Wipe beef with a cold damp cloth. Mix together ½ cup flour, 2 teaspoons salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper and dredge all of the cut surfaces with this mixture.

One chef of my acquaintance adds 1 to 3 teaspoons paprika to this dredging mixture to give the surface a rosy glow. Place meat in roasting pan on a trivet if you have one, with fatside up or with pieces of beef fat on top. Place in oven of 500 deg. Fahr. uncovered for 18 minutes to the pound for rare meat. (See more on rare meat below.) Give the roast 22 minutes to the pound for medium done, and 30 minutes to the pound for well-done. (I hope you can convert to rare meat if you are a well-done addict now, for flavor and texture are ever so much better.)

Rare-done beef seems a little cannibalistic to some of you but after a few forkfuls you will understand what the rare-done fans are raving about. Besides, when this delicious roast is cold and you come to the next meal to slice it, you have moist meat — not hard tack that is more like dried out shoe leather than the fancy joint you paid so much for.

If you belong in the meat thermometer class 140 deg. Fahr. is the inside temperature for "rare"; 160 deg. for "medium" and 175 deg. for "well-done."

To Make Rich Brown Gravy

When the roast is done to your satisfaction, lift it to a hot platter with two strong spoons. Do not use forks or they will pierce the meat and your lovely puices will escape. If the fat is excessive skim most of it off. Stand the roasting pan over your biggest burner and add about 2 tablespoons flour to pan juice and stir until blended. Add 2 or 3 cups water or liquid from boiling vegetables such as potatoes, carrots, peas, asparagus or beans and stir until thick. Strain into hot gravy boat. Now this needs tasting and testin—for if some of the flour fell from the roast while it roasted the gravy will be thick enough; if not you should add 3 or maybe 4 tablespoons instead of two. This is where experience in making gravy pays. Am I invited?

Fine Needlework Revealed In Royal Clothes

LONDON (CP) — Britain's greatest needlework show is the display of contemporary and historical work opened by Queen Mary at St. James Palace, a wealth of historical garb including centuries-old pieces.

Many royal robes are on view in the palace throne room in the exhibition organized by the Royal School of Needlework, which since 1872 has been encouraging high standards of craftsmanship.

Along with coronation robes there are the little lace dresses and robes in which Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret appeared at the coronation of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth in 1937, the robes worn by the Duchess of Northumberland, the suits of the pages in attendance and the mantles and full dress of the knights of various orders of chivalry.

Great interest is shown in the pieces which come from Britain's great houses. They include a military scarf said to have been presented by William the Conqueror to an ancestor of the Fitzwilliam family, a marshal of the Norman army which defeated the English at Hastings in 1066. The 900-year-old scarf is of white silk gauze with interwoven stripes of colored silks, sewn with silver and silver-gilt thread with fringes at each end. The fragile piece is mounted on a piece of green silk used at the christening of each male member of the Fitzwilliam family.

Fashion Vignettes

By Evelyn Kelly Croucher

ARTICLE 1

Fashion is yesterday's whim and tomorrow's fancy. It's what every woman knows is serious business and what many men believe to be feminine nonsense. But when a woman tries on a hat which suddenly transforms her, brightening her eyes, as perfect as if custom-made for her alone, that's the same thrill a man knows when he happens on a fast-rushing stream alive with flashing, speckled trout.

While fashion seems to move in a wide circle often back to yesterday's vogue to prove the old saying that styles repeat themselves every seven years or so, there are always little differences here and there to mark a distinction from season to season. Little things which tell this year from last.

It's knowing the little slant on colors, fabrics and design which observed by the fashionwise will keep them apace with the style, if not ahead of it. Vignettes of Fashion will bring you the news as we see it, along with helpful messages from the experts we interview about care and preservation of fabrics, furs, leathers. Special articles will follow the trends for you.

Today we give you a couple of suggestions on imparting this year's look to last year's items.

The shoulder area is one of the giveaways. This year's shoulders are natural, with padding kept to a minimum by means of softer, rounder and much flatter pads than those of last year. You may find that changing the shoulder pads is all that's needed to revitalize a coat, suit or dress.

A plain suit with hip pockets could stand a bit of buckram faced in to give your jacket this spring's arched line. Your plain dark dress could be brightened with a large flared and stiffened collar and large patch pockets in a brightly harmonizing printed taffeta.

A black woollen frock might be smartened up with shepherd's plaid banding at the neck and sleeves, perhaps adding plaid-covered buttons. Or try a great frou of spanking white starched pique. Froths of dazzling white will give a dark frock that 1951 lift as does no other accessory.

Steam up a tired felt hat, brush it softly, present it with a brand new lining. Then try wearing it at a different angle, maybe back to front. The gayest, prettiest veiling ... nd ... like turquoise, white fish-netting ... so long as it's bright and light-hearted Edge it round with black velvet banding, fasten tiny matching flowers here and there and be prepared to receive compliments on how smar you're looking!

About the angle of hats, this spring i"s straight and level for street and daytime wear. But the chapeaux move back for flattering face-framing come evening!

Can Bones, Blood Vessels For Future Transplanting

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., June 12 (AP)—Human bones and blood vessels are being vacuum-packed in glass jars for transplanting weeks or months later into other people.

This simple new method of banking spare parts was shown Monday to the American Medical Association by three navy physicians, Drs. G. W Hyatt, T. C. Turner, and Andrew Bassett.

It promises easy storage without expensive or difficult refrigeration, and easy transportation of bones or arteries to people needing them.

Bones have been kept vacuum-packed for 1½ years so far, and used, successfully experimentally. Blood vessels have apparently still been in excellent condition seven months later.

The bones and blood vessels are taken from dead persons or obtained from amputations or operations. The materials are quick-frozen in liquid nitrogen. Then they are dried under vacuum in a deep freeze and are sealed in glass jars, evacuated of air.

Vacuum - packed bones have been used successfully in some humans, the doctors said. Blood vessels have been transplanted successfully in animals. Humans are to be tried next.

Alberta Indians Lose Old Friend

WATERTON, ALTA., —(CP)— have said a sad goodbye to a Blood Indians of Southern Alberta staunch friend.

He is the Ven. Samuel H. Middleton, archdeacon of Lethbridge, who has worked with the Bloods since 1909.

Archdeacon Middleton retired because of failing eyesight from his position as rector of St. Paul's Anglican church for the Indians at Cardston, of St. Thomas' church at Cardston and of All Saints' church in the town of Watertown.

Although retiring as Archdeacon of Lethbridge, he will retain the titel of archdeacon by special permission of the Rt. Rev. Richard Ragg, bishop of Calgary.

Fittingly enough, his last sermon was preached on the grass beside a running stream, a few miles from the reservation where he began his missionary work 41 years ago. As the snowy-haired priest ended his last service, Chief Joe Bull Shields told a reporter, "it's awfully hard to see him go."

Says Communism Puts Capitalism On Trial

LISBON, Portugal, June 12 — (Reuters)—Communism has put capitalism on trial everywhere, Paul G. Hoffman, former Marshall Plan administrator, today told the Congress of the International Chamber of Commerce meeting here.

"Some people have suggested that the Kremlin has now extended its domination as far as it cares to go, that its program henceforth is merely the consolidation and protection of the gains made since the war," he said.

"This is a point of view which Moscow itself is very glad to encourage. But this to me is mistaken judgment on a colossal scale." Ten Canadians are attending the meeting.

Showman Defies Death Just Once Too Often

LUTON, Bedford, Eng., June 12 (Reuters) — Sideshowman Steve Shill, 40, has defied death for the last time with his buried-alive act.

At a fair here, Shill was wrapped in a blanket, tied and laid in the bottom of a box.

Four tons of sand were shovelled on top of him. He was to stay there for 20 minutes, breathing by means of a trick which he never divulged.

But after 15 minutes Shill's handlers sensed that something was wrong. They began digging.

Shill was lifted out unconscious, his face black from strangulation. He died without regaining consciousness.

Minor Earthquake

Alarm increased as this noise was soon accompanied by unusual tremblings in the walls of the building. An investigation delegation soon discovered the cause of the uproar. Operations had begun on the installation of the central heating plant for the new city hall which will also heat the library. Men were drilling a hole in the ibrary basement wall in preparation for the new oil heating system.

Service Marks Sunday School Anniversary

MILLBROOK, June 12 (ENS)— A special service marking the Sunday School anniversary and flower Sunday was held Sunday morning at St. Andrew's United church here. Children of the Sunday school marched in, bearing bouquets and occupied the front pews of the church.

The Sunday school orchestra—Frances Dawson, Hilda Brown, pianos; Beverley Patton and Mac Ingham, violins; George Ingham, cello—played the hymns.

Children of the Mission Band, trained by Mrs. G. A. Spicer, Mrs. Arnold Fallis and Mrs. Bert Gardiner, sang "I Think When I Read That Sweet Story of Old". The choir was composed of teen-age girls, also trained by Mrs. Spicer, who sang "Springtide Hour."

The Rev. T. G. Husser told the children stories of "The Lord Is My Shepherd", accompanied by music from the choir.

Sunday school superintendent Herbert Patton conducted the service. Miss Mable Clarry supervised decoration of the church, and Miss Estella Hetherington accompanied the choruses on the organ.

India Appreciates 'Generous Gesture'

NEW DELHI, June 12 (CP)— Prime Minister Nehru of India said today that the "generous gesture" of the American people in loaning India 2,000,000 tons of wheat "will evoke friendly responses in India and bring the two people's nearer one another."

Nehru and other Indian officials said the loan will alleviate the food crisis brought on by drought.

Food ministry officials indicate that current negogiations with Russia and Communist China can now be brought to a halt. Agreements already reached for import of 100,000 tons of Soviet grain and 520,000 tons from Red China will still go through, however, as soon as terms are set.

Police Drag River

recalled that a boat answering the description of Mr. Graham's, went through about 4.30 p.m.

Some time later a powerful motor boat went by and there is some speculation that the swell from it would be sufficient to rock the Graham boat dangerously if he were standing up in it.

When found by his family the boat was intact but the gasoline caps on both the motor and the auxiliary tank were removed. This leads the family to think he was standing up in the boat, either refueling or restarting the motor, when he fell ino the water.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham often take a cottage near the Bensfort bridge in the summer, and it is a favorite spot with both of them. He was heading there when the accident occurred.

Nearby cottagers are assisting provincial police in the search.

Prompt Action Needed On Housing Plan

"I think the city council should take immediate action to enquire into the housing plan announced by Premier Frost in London Monday night," said Ald. Hugh Waddell today in referring to the announcement by the leader of the Ontario government at the annual convention of Canadian Mayors and Municipalities.

"Personally I would like to have the full and exact details of the project before expressing any considered view on it. Mayor Swanston will have more information when he gets back from the convention."

Family Needs

Ald. Waddell said the council was aware of the continuing need of housing accommodation in spite of the hundreds of houses built here in recent years, and of the interest of the municipality in trying to meet the situation. He said he was impressed by the approval expressed by mayors at London who had heard the announcement, and also by the purpose of trying to meet the needs of family units, that is houses that would be available to families with children.

Adam B. Sands of the insurance and realty firm of Sands and Bateman, and a former member of the council, said: "It looks like a good try by the government, but I would like to have the details before saying much about it."

On the basis of one house for every 500 of population, Peterborough would be entitled to at least 70 of the proposed houses, Mr. Sands said.

"That would be some relief of the city's housing need, and that is why I consider it a good try."

Just as a rough estimate he said monthly cost to the tenant of a $9,000 house would be around $55.

Amortization rate would be at least $36, plus $15 for taxes, plus further allowance for management, and something for maintenance cost. Possibly the range of monthly rental might be up to $60 or something more than that.

"I'd rather defer comment until I could see the entire details of the scheme," Mr. Sands said.

Ten candidates have been nominated to contest the seats made vacant through death and resignations.

Nominations closed Monday at 2 p.m. local standard time in the Ontario constituency of Waterloo South, the Prince Edward Island constituency of Queens and the Manitoba constituencies of Winnipeg South Centre and Brandon.

Three of the seats were previously held by Liberals; the fourth — Waterloo South — was made vacant by the death of Karl Homuth, veteran Progressive Conservative member.

The Waterloo South Progressive Conservatives have nominated Howie Meeker of New Hamburg, 28-year-old right winger with Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey League. J. H. Charges Papers Taking Unfair Rate Advantage

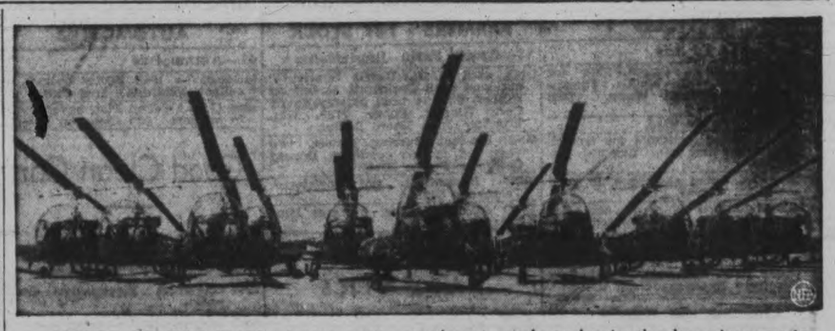
OTTAWA, June 12 (CP) — Postmaster General Rinfret said Monday certain newspapers are "taking advantage" of proposed increases in postal rates to "pass on to their rural subscribers some of their other charges."

He read to the Commons a letter which he said was sent out by the Toronto Globe and Mail. Addressed "to dear postmaster or rural mail courier," the letter announced an increase to $10 from $7 in the mail subscription rate.

The letter said the increase, effective June 1, has been "forced by the government's action in announcing a staggering increase in postal rates on newspapers." Formerly the postage on a "yearly subscription cost $2.34. Now it costs $6.24 a year."



Mr. Rinfret said the new subscription rate became effective June 1, although the legislation providing for the increase in postal rates has not passed parliament.

Figures Correct

Ray Forrest, director of circulation of the Toronto Globe and Mail, said Monday night in Toronto that figures he used in a letter to postmasters which was read in the Commons Monday night by Postmaster-General Rinfret, were "entirely correct."

Mr. Forrest said:

"The postage on a year's subscription has increased $3.90 since 1938—that was the statement I made. Mr. Rinfret is not including the previous increase in rates since 1938 made by his department when he charges that the postal increase is $1.70 a year and not $3.90."

Drastic Tariffs Seen Unlikely

OTTAWA, June 12 — (CP) — The government's top tariff official said Monday he finds it hard to believe Canada can expect drastic tariff action by the United States to bar important Canadian commodities within the next three years.

Hector McKinnon, chairman of the tariff board, told the Commons banking committee more than 90 percent of Canadian exports to the US are covered by three-year tariff agreements which should prevent any repetition of drastic tariff-raising action which struck Canada in the 1930s.

But, he conceded, repitition is not impossible.

Predicts Shortage Of University Men

SYDNEY, Australia,— (CP) — Businessmen might soon have to sponsor university students if they want their services as graduates, Prof. Sir Douglas Copland, Vice-Chancellor of the Australian National University, said recently.

He warned that by 1960 Australia might not have enough graduates to meet her needs in every field.

He said that by 1960 Australia would need 4,000 school teachers a year instead of the present 2,500; 1,000 medical students instead of 700 and 1,000 engineers instead of 500.

By 1956, he said, Australia might have a university population of 50,000 — equal to British enrolments in 1939.

A deportation order was recommended by an immigration board hearing Monday for Nick Grigorchuk, 59, who has been held in Detroit since he jumped a $5,000 bail bond in Windsor and fled to the United States.

Grigorchuk was charged, along with John Prowse, 32, of Brantford, with safecracking at the British American Oil Company offices March 4. Prowse was convicted last week by Judge J. A. Legris and sentenced to four years.

TANKS FOR THE DRYING JOB—Tankers of the First Marine Division always claimed they could make their tanks do anything. They're helping prove it here by drying their pants before a tank's hot exhaust. It beats waiting for sun and wind to do the job, both of which are much too slow for the Marines.

Final '51 Meeting Of Bethany WA

BETHANY, June 12—(ENS)—The final meeting for the summer of St. Paul's Woman's Auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. Emory Smith, with 14 members present. The president, Mrs. J. H. Hamilton, was in the chair and opened the meeting with prayers. The Scripture lesson and minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. Allan Gribble. Miss Winnifred Nesbitt, treasurer, reported a balance of $153 on hand.

Mrs. Earl Smith gave a report of the Junior Auxiliary activities and it was planned to have the presentation of badges and stripes to the junior members at the Sunday morning church service on July 1. The sum of $100 which included a gift of $25 from Mrs. H. Lowe of Los Angeles, Calif., was voted to the wardens of the church to aid in the expense of installing a new furnace.

Mrs. T. S. Gault read an interesting chapter from the study book on Islam, and closed the meeting with prayer.

Mrs. Smith and her assistanes served lunch during the social hour which followed. Everyone sent congratulations and good wishes with Mrs. Smith to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Preston, who next week are celebrating their golden wedding anniversary. Mrs. Smith leaves on Saturday to celebrate the occasion at her parents' home north of Winnipeg. A feature of the meeting was also the attendance of Mrs. Harry Lowe of Los Angeles, Calif., who is visiting with Dr. J. J. Hamilton and Mrs. Hamilton. She was a former member of St. Paul's Church and welcomed the opportunity to meet old friends. The members were also pleased to have Mrs. John Smith, Sr., present at the meeting, after an absence of over a year due to ill-health.

Lonely Sentinel Guarding Deserted Gold Mine

By TED BYFIELD
Sudbury Star Staff Writer

SELLWOOD, Ont., June 12 (CP)—The old-timers who helped blow up the Moose Mountain iron mine bubble and lost their shirts when it burst say Sellwood is dead—and that's the way it will stay.

They're unmoved by talk that the new search for iron ore might breathe life into this ghost town 34 miles north of Sudbury.

Sellwood was the big ballyhoo of the Sudbury district back about 1916. It was going to change the Nickel Belt to the Iron Belt. It was going to dwarf Sudbury. It would make nickel a secondary industry.

The dreams vanished in 1919. The Moose Mountain mine closed and the population went with it. Now only one man remains of the 900 boom-day residents. The stores are going, the theatre, the wine, the women, the mine concentrator and crushing plant.

But the magnetite ore is still there and steelmen haven't forgotten. Geologists came here last year to sample it. They're expected back this year. Their visits have stirred some hope that the mine may open again and that Sellwood may become a booming community of 1,000 or so once more.

The district's oldtimers scoff, as only those who have lived through the death throes of a mining town know how to scoff.

Boom of 1910

They remember only too well the story of the boom. Before discovery of iron ore in 1910 Sellwood was a sawmill town with about 100 population. The iron discovery spurred activity which reached its full flower with the outbreak of the First World War and its demand for iron.

First, a railway spur came from Milnet, now on the Canadian National Railways line linking East and West. Then came the construction crews, then the miners. Houses sprang up almost like grass. A second sawmill moved in, a theatre and stores opened.

The booming town was rowdy by day and night. There was no legal liquor sale but a former resident recalls eight bootleggers with around-the-clock delivery service.

By 1916, expansion had reached a frantic pace. Two trains came each day—one to haul out ore, the other to bring in men. Prospectors staked all the surrounding area. Mining magnates came from New York to see the new mine, which operated 24 hours a day.

The mining company built rows of neat houses. It put in a sewer system and fire hydrants and graded the streets. Proudest home of all was the mine manager's. It was high on a hill, overlooking the town.

But by 1918 and the end of the war all was not well, though few suspected it. The first high-grade ore was gone and the miners turned to deposits of magnetite with 25 to 30 per cent iron content. In its concentrator, the mine turned out briquettes of 62 to 68 per cent iron.

Ran General Store

Alec Nepitt, who had a general store at Sellwood and now is in the grocery business at Capreol, recalled the indications of the slump. The mine's operations changed frequently. They'd make briquettes, then something else. They'd ship to Parry Sound for trans-shipment by boat to the United States. Then the shipments went to Hamilton.

He told fellow business men this wasn't a healthy situation. But booming Sellwood laughed off such fears. It didn't waver when it got the news of the crash of Cobalt's mining boom. It thought Cobalt's trouble was that it relied on silver. Sellwood with its iron would be different.

But when the time came, Sellwood fell harder than Cobalt. It didn't make as big a noise because it was smaller.

The news came on a snowy day, Nov. 19, 1919 in a telegram to the mine manager: "Close the mine. Lay off all men."

All Sellwood had the news when the next shift came off. Hundreds of single miners were away on the next train. The married men who didn't own their homes were next to go. By next morning, the population had dropped from 900 to 300 and by the end of the year it was down to 150. There it stayed until 1923. The merchants, left with stock and no customers, had to stay for a while. They sold to each other and to wrecking crews which came to dismantle equipment. Then they went too.

Today the only resident is Bob Sturgeon, who works for the Moose Mountain company, standing guard over the property and buildings.

PO Discrimination Charged In House

OTTAWA, June 12—(CP)—W. Chester S. McClure (PC-Queens) charged Monday night that the post office department is discriminating against small dailies through its proposed increases in mailing charges for newspapers and periodicals.

He told the Commons during debate on the new rate that 'all the favors are going to the large newspapers in the big centres. These could go to the "big industries"and get a couple of more pages of advertising to meet increased costs.

Mr. McClure is former publisher of The Charlottetown Guardian, a 16-page daily with a circulation of 13,000 of which 8,000 are mailed.

Faces Another Trial Of Unlawful Imports

WELLAND, June 12—(CP)—Albert Hambley of Toronto, partner in Dominion Novelties Ltd., will face another trial on a charge of having goods that were unlawfully imported into Canada.

County Judge Harold E. Fuller Monday declared a mistrial in the crown's case against Hambley because the crown prosecutor had prevented evidence which amounted to "forbidden comment."

A simlar charge against George Alfred Hambley was dismissed on grounds of insufficient evidence. Both were earlier acquitted on charges of conspiring to smuggle into Canada goods subject to duty of $200 or more.

Fire Inspector Raps Storing Furniture In George St. Block

Criticism of the storage of furniture in the George St. business block which burned May 19 with a loss of $500,000 was offered today at the inquest into the causes of the fire and the death of the four men. Fire inspector Orville Wilson said he didn't approve of the methods of storage on the second floor of the building. He said there was too much weight of furniture there. Furniture dealer Ben Swartz estimated on Tuesday that he had $21,000 worth of furniture stored there.

"How much would you say it weighed?" asked Crown Attorney John Bradshaw. "I couldn't say. It varied from time to time," Wilson answered.

Asked if he had any suggestions or criticisms, Wilson said "I'd like to suggest that all these storage jobs should be put in proper places." He said he felt there were other trouble spots in the city.

No Report

Jury foreman Jack Sinclair asked Wilson if any report had been made to his superiors as to the overloading of the floor. Wilson said there hadn't been.

In this morning's session of the inquest, over which Chief Coroner Smirle Lawson is presiding, 28 witnesses were heard. On Tuesday, 26 were heard in the afternoon and evening.

Suggestions for battling major fires were offered by witnesses, the crown attorney and the chief coroner.

Dr. Lawson said it might be a good idea to have walkie-talkie sets provided. He cited the evidence of Captains Garnet Brown and Albert Mason, who testified Tuesday that they shouted to the men who were later trapped. Both said the men did not hear them.

Would File Plans

Crown Attorney Bradshaw, questioning Assistant Fire Chief Virgil Carr at his home, suggested plans of the major buildings in the city be filed at the fire department.

Assistant Chief Carr said that lectures were held at times in which methods of fighting fires in various buildings were discussed. The assistant chief, who suffered injuries at the fire, was too ill to attend the inquest, and was interviewed at his home by the jury, Mr. Bradshaw and Chief Coroner Lawson.

No definite evidence was offered today as to how the fire started. Witnesses were wary of saying outright that the fire could have been caused by arson.

Praises Firemen

Dr. Lawson had many words of praise for the Peterborough fire department.

"We all have the greatest admiration for you brave men of the fire department," he told one fireman.

On Tuesday, he told Fireman William Sorrie: "I don't think I ever saw anyone in a more

Two Brothers Perish In House Fire

TORONTO, June 13 (CP). — Two young brothers were burned to death early today in a fire that trapped them in an upstairs bedroom of their east-end home. Several other persons were injured when the blaze swept the house on Carroll St.

Dead are Ambrose Merrick, 18, and Gordon, 13, sons of Mrs. Pearl Merrick, 39.

Injured were two other sons, James, 23, and Harold, 19; Vincent McGarroch, a son-in-law; and two boarders, Louis Quesnel, 35, and Lorraine MacDonald, 19.

Nell McGarroch, daughter of Mrs. Merrick, said she and her husband jumped from a rear window, the husband, Vincent, carrying their two-month-old child.

Door Blocked

"We were asleep in our room," said Mrs. McGarroch. "When we realized there was a fire, we couldn't get the door open. I jumped out of the back window and then Vince took the baby and jumped too."

Mrs. Merrick, only member of the household sleeping on the ground floor, fled through the front door. She was taken to hospital.

Iranian Soldier Shot At Border

TEHRAN, Iran, June 13 (AP)—An authoritative government source said today an Iranian frontier patrol soldier was shot and killed by Russians along the border east of the Caspian Sea.

The informant said an Iranian military commission was sent to the frontier to investigate the incident, which took place three days ago. He said the Russians reported the soldier was shot because he was found on the Soviet side of the frontier.

There have been a number of clashes between Soviet and Iranian troops in the last few years in border areas.

The new incident came, however, at a time of great tension in Iran, where much agitation against all foreigners is being carried on.

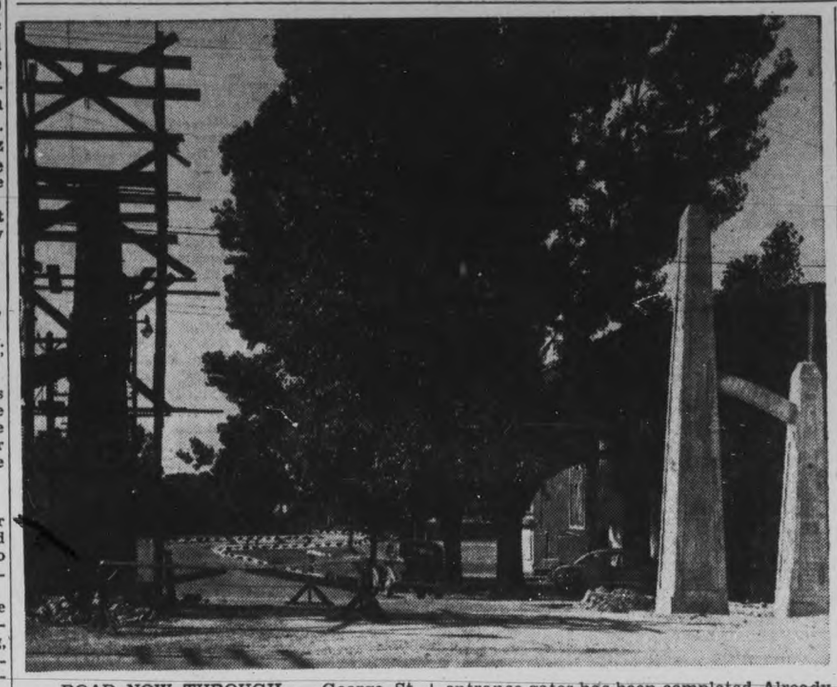
The British Ambassador, Sir Francis Shepherd, has just warned Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh that continued Iranian propaganda against Britain may touch off a powder keg of violence against all foreigners in the southern oil field areas.

Born Beside Lions Ducklings Friends

PHILADELPHIA, June 13 (AP) —Three weeks ago a Mallard duck built a nest at the Philadelphia Zoo in the outdoor lion cage occupied by Simba, Pharaoh and Tarzan. In it she laid seven eggs.

The three lions could have reached out and smashed Mama Mallard, the nest and the eggs. But they left her alone.

Tuesday, Mrs. Duck padded out, seven ducklings waddling behind her. They splashed into the moat that surrounds the den. Then says Keeper Montgomery Simmons, she introduced her brood to the lions.



Morrison Challenges Pravda To Interview

LONDON, June 13 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison today challenged Moscow's Pravda to interview either him or Prime Minister Atlee and then print their answers faithfully.

Morrison issued the challenge at a luncheon of The Press Association, a British news agency.

The present international tension, Morrison asserted, is "increased by the systematic blocking and fouling of the channels of information."

Morrison said the speeches and statements of Russian leaders are printed freely in the world's press, but that the Soviet journalist "only writes what he is told to write."

ROAD NOW THROUGH — George St. south has now been extended through the exhibition grounds to connect Lansdowne St. with McGill St. The new section will not be officially open until work on the entrance gates has been completed. Hospital Staff Walks Out Over Dismissal

SHAWVILLE, Que., June 13 — (CP).—The entire staff of the Pontiac Community Hospital here walked out of the hospital today in protest against the dismissal of the institution's superintendent.

The move left 26 patients and four infant babies without care or service.

Mrs. Irene Benny, superintendent, who said she considers she has been fired by the hospital board said the nursing staff walked out shirtly after 11 a.m. EDT. The kitchen staff remained on duty until lunch was served and then joined nurses and doctors in the "strike."

Involved in the walkout are about 14 persons, including four doctors.

Shawville is 40 miles northwest of Ottawa.

Mrs. Benny was dismissed following a board meeting last Friday. She received a second letter Tuesday from the board demanding that she leave the hospital premises immediately. The letter was signed by J. M. Argue, chairman, and Harry Thompson, secretary of the board.

Following a protest meeting on Tuesday night, attended by about 50 Shawville residents, the board was advised the strike action would be taken unless a complete investigation was held into the dismissal.

Ignore Allied Protests Reds Block Shipments

BERLIN June 13 (AP).—Ignoring allied protests, the Russians turned back hundreds of West Berlin export shipments today in a move which threatened to become an economic blockade of this Soviet-surrounded city.

Western allied officials talked of shutting off vital supplies to East Germany in retaliation if the Russians refused to yield.

"But we are still hopeful," one high American official said. "We are just sitting tight waiting for a Russian reply to our protest."

The protest was against the new Russian regulation requiring West Berlin manufacturers to show the origin of their strategic raw materials before they can ship their finished products through the Russian zone to the west.

Doctors Advise King Take Prolonged Convalescence

LONDON, June 13. (CP)—A medical bulletin from Buckingham Palace Tuesday night said the King has been advised to take a prolonged convalescence. The bulletin said the King is recovering from a lung inflammation. The brief announcement from Buckingham Palace, where the King has been confined for several weeks, said:

"The King continues to make good progress. The temperature has been normal for the past week and the inflammation in the lung has subsided.

Prolonged Rest

"In view of the attacks of catarrhal infection His Majesty has suffered this year we have advised that a prolonged convalescence is essential."

The bulletin was signed by four doctors: Daniel Davies, Horace Evans, Geoffrey Marshall, John Weir.

No July Engagements

Doctors again today saw the King. Later a court correspondent learned it was unlikely he would undertake public engagements during July.

The prolonged convalescence will not prevent him carrying out state duties, a Buckingham Palace spokesman said today.

He was emphatic that there had been no suggestions of appointing a council of state to relieve the King of these duties.

Such a council is appointed only if the monarch is out of the country or if he is too ill to carry out his duties.

Neither of these conditions apply, the spokesman said, and the King will continue to approve state papers and deal with other official business as he has been doing throughout his attack of influenza.

BULLETIN

DUBLIN — (AP)—Eamon de Valera was elected Prime Minister of Ireland tonight. The vote in parliament was 74 to 72.

Police Strike Called Mutiny

KHARTOUM, Sudan, June 13 (Reuters)—The Sudan government today branded a strike of police as "mutiny" and sent out troops and special constabulary to deal with a "state of emergency."

More than 900 of the 1,300 policemen, on strike for the last week in support of demands for better pay and the right to form a union, ignored the final warning to report for duty at 6 a.m. today.

Serious disorders broke out three days ago when 30 prisoners escaped from Khartoum jail and began looting stores.

One man was shot dead by special troops during demonstrations in which crowds set fire to government automobiles and buildings.

Sudan authorities arrested the president and secretary of the Workers Union Association and members of the unofficial strikers' committee on charges of inciting the illegal strike.

The police strikers include both non-commissioned officers and men.

May Discuss Pact

WASHINGTON, June 13—(AP —State Secretary Dean Acheson said today that United States proposals for a Big Four meeting would not preclude discussion there of the North Atlantic Pact. He declined to elaborate. The subject has been the key issue between the West and Russia in preliminary talks at Paris, where efforst have failed so far to produce agreement on agenda.

Tutoring Anxious Offspring Before Exam At Early Hour True Test Of Parenthood

(By a Harried Parent)

These final High School exams are getting me up far too early in the morning. It's getting me down.

Accustomed as I am to having the family pet lick me on the ear just before the alarm clock goes off, the other morning was different. My daughter prodded me out of a sound sleep and asked me to help her with her Canadian history.

Did I want my dressing gown? — it was freezing cold— and would I be quick about rubbing the sleep out of my eyes and explain the workings of the Family Compact?

"Really, Dad, the book's upside down."

Found Trouble

By the time we had revealed the wickedness of the FC and got down to the findings of Lord Dunham's Report, there was a smell of coffee boiling. I waited for the breakfast call.

I wanted to shave. But, no, why and how did Canada get into the League of Nations? There was more mumbling and groping for facts. Had better let the dog in. No, sir. Tell me why Canada and the United States objected to Article 10.

I found out more that I didn't know about Canadian history at 6 a.m. than I thought was possible.

All I can say to you, daughter, is this: May you have good luck on your history exam for I am afraid, as an early morning tutor, I'm a flop. Sing, ho, for summer vacations and the sooner the quicker. I can then sleep in till seven.

Forced To Buy Coal Back From Other Lands—Ruhr

DUSSELDORF, Germany, June 13 (AP).—Ruhr industrialists claim the allies are forcing them to export so much coal they are forced to buy back their own fuel —at almost three times the original price—to run their plants.

The Ruhr chiefs complain this enforced export of their coal is wasting millions of dollars a year. Much of it, they claim, comes out of the pockets of the American taxpayer.

American officials privately admit the Germans have a point.

"Their coal exports are pretty high," one leading United States official said. "Something will have to give soon."

He also agreed the Germans should be allowed to charge more money for their coal.

Here's how the Germans describe their plight:

Every three months 6,200,000 tons of Ruhr coal must be shipped to other European countries at a fixed price of 43 marks ($10.23) a ton.

This is compulsory. The six-country Ruhr authority tells the Germans how much coal they must export, where it shall go and how much they can charge for it.

After shipping out this coal, the Germans haven't enough to cover the needs of their iron and steel plants and other industries.

So, they have to buy foreign coal at 120 marks ($28.57) a ton. The Ruhr chiefs claim that some of this "foreign coal" is actually German coal, which is being resold by European dealers to Germany at a big profit.

The United States is footing much of the bill for West Germany's economic recovery. Gift dollars help cover Germany's trade deficit, since the Germans are not earning enough by their exports to pay for all their essential imports.

Rule Out Sabotage On Aircraft Carrier

TOKYO, June 13 —(Reuters)—Naval experts decided today that sabotage could be ruled out as the cause of contamination found in the aviation fuel tanks of the 14,000-ton royal navy aircraft carrier Glory.

A naval spokesman said the experts had carried out a preliminary examination when the Glory returned to a base port in Japan today. The spokesman was unable to describe the nature of the contamination, but said it could have been caused by salt water.

Some Mayors Oppose Housing Plan

Dunbar, Opposition Cause Rumpus In Hotel Lobby

LONDON, Ont., June 13. — (CP) — A maverick uprising against a new housing plan proposed for Ontario will seek support of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Reeves today in a move to delay the plan's implementation until it can be discussed more fully. Mayor Arthur J. Reaume of Windsor, said he will put a resolution before the Federation's annual convention here asking it to appoint a committee to meet with a group of Ontario mayors and the Federal and Provincial Governments.

The fiery Windsor Mayor said his motion is backed by about a dozen mayors whose communities are vitally concerned with housing—and with the plan announced here Monday by Premier Frost of building 5,000 low-rent houses in Ontario through joint financing of Federal, Provincial and municipal Governments.

The president of the Ontario Federation of Mayors and Reeves, Mayor Eddie Sargent of Owen Sound, also is not in accord with the scheme. He said Tuesday he would name a committee from the Ontario body to get more complete information from the senior governments.

The move to delay putting the plan into effect was formed at a rump meeting attended by Mayors Reaume, Sargent and W. C. Nelson of Sarnia.

Playing Politics

It was followed with a charge by Munuicipal Affairs Minister Dunbar that the three were "playing politics instead of getting houses for the people who need them." The charge was returned in kind by Reaume, after Mr. Dunbar and Mayor Sargent engaged in a shouting battle in a hotel lobby.

Several municipalities, including London, Fort William and Hamilton, have voiced support of the plan, but opposition from others comes on several issues.

The rump group complained that municipalities weren't consulted in the deal under which

Jailed One Year For Non-Support

ROUYN, Que., June 13 (CP)—Husbands convicted of non-support in the Rouyn-Noranda district are in for a rough time. Judge Leopold Larouche made that clear to Gil Charron, 40, who pleaded guilty Tuesday to a charge of failing to support his wife and child.

Police chief Emile Dussault, in outlining the new policy, said:

"In the past, we've tried to get the families back together working through a suspended sentence. We find that our system wasn't doing much good so we're going to get tough."

He revealed that 10 districts men are wanted for non-support. He believed several of them are living under new names in Ontario.

Charron was sentenced to one year imprisonment. The term is believed one of the longest imposed in Quebec courts for non-support.

London Dock Strike Will End In Day

LONDON, June 13 (Reuters) — The 10-day unofficial dock strike which has almost paralyzed London shipping will end Thursday, a mass meeting of cargo checkers decided today.

About 1,500 clerks, key men who check the cargoes have been out.

In addition more than 9,000 stevedores and dockworkers have been idle because there were no checkers to supervise them.

Th strike followed charges that the dock labor board had violated its agreement with the union not to recruit any more checkers.

More than a week's meat ration for the whole country was held up by the strike today, and 107 ships lay idle.

Postpone Fight

NEW YORK, June 13. — (AP) — Tonight's 15-round fight between Joe Louis and Lee Savold was postponed until Thursday night because of rain and threatening weather. Weather permitting, the heavyweights will slug it out Thursday night in the Polo Grounds. Eddie Eagan, chairman of the New York Athletic Commission, said that if the bout was held then a second weigh-in would not be necessary. Louis weighed 211¼ pounds today and Savold 190.

Former PM Of Australia J. B. Chifley Dies

CANBERRA, Australia, June 13 — (AP). — Former Prime Minister Joseph B. Chifley collapsed and died tonight.

The former railroad engineer, long-time Leader of Australia's Labor Party, was Prime Minister form April, 1945, until December, 1949, when the Labor Government was succeeded by a Liberal-Country Party coalition. He was 66.

Chifley suffered a seizure in his hotel room during a state ball, part of the celebrations of the 50th anniversary of the Federal Government.

Many at the ball wept openly as the music was stilled and news of his death announced. The ball was cancelled.

Labor Party Chief since the death in 1943 of John Curtin, Chifley was a genial homespun who lived and talked simply.

The son of a blacksmith, Chifley was "Mr. Labor" in Australia and enjoyed great popularity, mainly because he never became inaccessible to old friends or ordinary citizens.

He progressed to the highest office on a platform of social reform and increased security benefits.

Revolutionary Policy

The nasal-voiced, pipe-smoking former prime minister was appointed treasurer in the Labor government of the late Prime Minister Curtin in 1941. He became the author of a revolutionary banking policy calling for nationalization of the country's banks. His government passed the legislation in 1947 but it was declared unconstitutional by the high court of Australia.

Chifley opposed the outlawing of the Communist party as advocated by his political opponent and successor Prime Minister Robert C. Menzies. Chifley maintained there were sufficient laws to curb Communist influence in the labor unions.

In the 1949 elections, his government went down to defeat when Menzies campaigned on the issue of a return to the free enterprise system and an end to socialism. Chifley's Labor party, a trade union party, was tightly organized and pledged to a policy of gradual socialization.

Chifley again led his party in the elections of last April when the coalition defeated Labor for the second time.

Allies Roam Unopposed In Triangle

Battle of Ridges Begins Again In Rugged Country

TOKYO, June 13. (AP) — Thousands of beaten Communists streamed northward in Korea today as Allied task forces roamed unopposed over their abandoned "iron triangle."

Allied tanks and men spilled out over the flat lands north of Chorwon and Kumhwa. They made good advances toward Pyonggang, northernmost point of the triangle. But censors would not permit correspondents to mention the distances.

The big Red withdrawal was in the wild, rugged country east of the triangle. North Koreans sweated up the mountain trails in groups ranging from a few hundred to more than a thousand.

Cover Retreat

Smaller Red forces covered the retreat. They slowed advancing UN infantrymen in "bouncing battles" over the ridges stretching north of the Kwachon reservoir eastward toward the sea of Japan.

UN officers said the only significant action was the Red flight behind the cover of mountain-top defences.

The mountain warfare followed a uniform pattern, bouncing from ridge to ridge.

United Nations forces attacked. North Koreans, entrenched on hilltops and supported by artillery and mortar fire, halted them. UN air strikes and artillery then blasted the Reds. Communists pulled back to the next ridge.

There the same performance was repeated.

The troops gave this type of warfare the name: "Bouncing Battle."

The ridge climbers drove forward to straighten out the Allied battleline. Their immediate ob-

Will Introduce Rail Legislation

OTTAWA, June 13 — (CP) — Transport Minister Chevrier today gave notice to the Commons that Thursday he will introduce legislation implementing some recommendations of the Royal Commission on Transportation, including a bill for country-wide equalization of freight rates.

The measures will include:

1. Authority for the Board of Transport commissioners to equalize freight rates as between the different areas of Canada.

2. Provision for the interior of western Canada to get part of the benefits of low "transcontinental" freight rates between the east and the west coast.

3. Amendments to the Canadian National-Canadian Pacific Act of 1933 to give parliament a closer check on joint economies put into effect by the two big companies.

Housing Future Not Good Resources Minister Fears

LONDON, Ont., June 13 (CP). —Housing, one of Canada's two major domestic problems, will most clearly reflect the diminishing effect on "current conditions" at the end of this year, Resources Minister Winters said today.

Mr. Winters indicated the future for housing does not look good, but so far it has not been too bad. It was after 1951 that the situation could become critical.

He said it appeared the number of new housing units completed this year will not be far short of the 90,000 units completed last year.

"We entered the year with a very heavy carryover of incomplete houses," he said in a prepared talk to the 14th annual conference of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities.

But the other major domestic problem — national preparedness —and increased costs were taking their toll.

"If, as I fear, current conditions are going to have an important bearing upon the volume of new housing, those will be reflected and shown most clearly in a reduced carryover as at the end of 1951, as compared with the end of 1950."

He estimated that all the housing started in the first four months of this year—"and perhaps some of the starts in May, June and July"— will be completed.

Even if it were possible to maintain new housing starts at the 1950 level, there is reason to believe insufficient serviced land exists for that purpose, Mr. Winters said.

In the past two years Canada undoubtedly had the largest housing years in its history, completing more new houses in relation to its population than any other country in the world.

"I find it quite impossible to speak with any certainty of the future.... but the government recognizes the need for housing and ....is doing everything it can to assist all those concerned."

Easy Money Era Over In Canada Economist Says

OTTAWA, June 13 (CP)—A Toronto consulting economist told the Senate's finance committee Tuesday that the era of easy money was over and Canada was now walking a dangerous tightrope between either inflation or a collapsing deflation.

Prof. Gilbert Jackson, formerly of the University of Toronto, said the government now had put the brakes on the main inflationary factors—too much credit and an outstripping of production by purchasing power.

Getting back to normal wasn't going to be easy. Many people on fixed income alread, were feeling the pinch. Many others would feel it sooner or later.

Under Pressure

Already, he said, he understood there were strong pressures for a relaxation on the government's curbs on credit buying, probably by those it was hurting. "But," he said, "we should not let ourselves be deflected from our purpose." To do so would simply mean a return to the easy money era which probably would bring a ruinous runaway inflation.

The professor appeared before the committee which is studying the government's 1951-52 estimates of expenditures. It is attempting to determine the effect of government spending on inflation.

On that point Professor Jackson did not seem to think it had a large effect except perhaps in wartime. In 1939 the total of all government spending in Canada as a percentage of the gross national production stood at 12.9 in 1939, rose to 42.2 in 1944 at the peak of the Second World War effort and dropped to 12.9 again in 1949. It would be higher now because of Korea and rearmament.

He told Senator Thomas Vien (L., Quebec) that it was much too early to say it had failed, or even partly failed, as the Senator suggested.

"Our inflationary economy," he said, "has been going on for some time. It is like a heavy train—you have to put on the brakes a half-mile before the point at which you want to stop if you are not going to derail the train."

Give Moscow New Weapon

WASHINGTON, June 13 (AP)—Moscow has seized on a document State Secretary Dean Acheson asked the MacArthur inquiry panel to keep secret as evidence the United States is playing a "dirty game" in Asia.

It is the guidance sent out by the State Department to officials abroad Dec. 23, 1949. It told American officials to play the strategic importance of Formosa, Chinese Nationalist island refuge then threatened with Communist capture. Over the secretary's objections, the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees voted June 1 to make the document public. The committees sitting together, are investigating Far East polcy and the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as Pacific commander.

Acheson contended Russia could use the document to discredit the "Voice of America" and other U.S. government overseas information agencies.

Moscow broadcasts, reported today by U.S. government monitors, gave a Soviet - slanted summary of the directive and said it showed that the U.S. is "pursuing a false and dishonest policy" toward Formosa and Communist China, and also in Korea.

Jailed For Year For Abducting Kingston Boy

KINGSTON, June 13 (CP)—An Ottawa boys' worker with what doctors called "sadistic tendencies" has been sentenced to reformatory for a year definite and 18 months indeterminate for holding captive and torturing a Kingston schoolboy last Easter weekend.

Judge W. S. Lane of Picton Tuesday told Owen C. Dulmage, 29-year-old former civil servant:

"If you had been normal, I would have sentenced you to four or five years."

The sandy-haired defendant, asked if he had anything to say, told the court that he realized his urges and desires were not normal. He said he was ashamed of his abnormality and had tried to overcome it. He had consulted psychiatrists in Ottawa but lacked the courage to discuss his main problem with them.

Couldn't Remember

He said he could not remember striking 13-year-old Teddy Wainwright with a stick in taking him prisoner in Kingston. The boy testified that he was struck, then bound and gagged and driven to Ottawa, where he was strung up with a rope in the basement of a home while clad only in tight bathing trunks. The boy's initials were scratched on one thigh.

Dulmage also said he had no recollection of taking pictures of the nearly-nude boy suspended from the ceiling in strange positions by a rope-and-pulley arrangement. He said the boy probably could have escaped during the week-end that ended with an automobile ride back to Kingston and a car accident, but had not tried to do so.

Three psychiatrists were agreed that Dulmage was not insane but suffered from disturbances of his emotional system. They were of the opinion that he could be cured after long treatment, perhaps lasting four or five years.

Dulmage's lawyer suggested a suspended sentence with a condition that Dulmage surrender for treatment at any hospital the court designed. Judge Lane refused the request and told Dulmage:

"I'm afraid to turn you loose on society at this time."

Urges Church Fight Inflation

ST. THOMAS, June 13 (CP)—The church must attack "the new four hundred"—the cost of living indices—the Rev. J. R. Mutchmor of Toronto told the London Conference of the United Church today.

The new "top crust" of society includes those commodities listed on the cost of living index near the 400 mark, the secretary of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church explained.

Names of the new group appear in the June 5 statistical review of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Among the leaders are tea, coffee, cocoa, and spices at 374.5 and fresh meats at 417.9.

"This is the four hundred that makes it impossible for the lower income families to get the essentials of life," he said.

Inflation in essential goods must be fought and curbed, he added. Dr. Mutchmor did not explain how.

Wins New Trial After Appeal

TORONTO, June 13 (CP)—Michael Manos, 27-year-old former detective, Wednesday won a new trial when he convinced the Ontario Court of Appeal that his former trial, at which he was sentenced to six years for stealing $38,500 from a law firm, was unfair.

In an affidavit, Manos said a lawyer whom he had paid $300 for acting as his counsel at a preliminary hearing refused to act for him at his trial unless he received an additional $500. Another lawyer agreed to act for him but had previous commitments for the day the trial was due to start and suggested Manos ask for a one-day adjournment.

Manos said that, when he asked Judge Robert Forsyth for the adjournment, "my remarks were cut off by his honor and I was forced to proceed without legal assistance."

Said Chief Justice R. S. Robertson:

"I think this man has not had a fair trial."

Pilot Reports Plane, Passengers Safe

EDMONTON, June 13 (CP)—The pilot of a missing helicopter Tuesday walked into Wrigley to report his craft and its two passengers safe. The pilot said he had come down on the side of a mountain, apparently because of a shortage of gas and planned to return with supplies.

The helicopter was carrying the pilot and two passengers, all army personnel on a map surveying trip from Camsell Bend to Wrigley, 70 miles to the south. Wrigley is 280 miles north of Yellowknife. An Indian guide led the pilot into Wrigley.

The air force in Edmonton said the position given by the helicopter pilot for his landing was 52 miles north of Wrigley whereas the search had proceeded all day Tuesday south of Wrigley. There was no explanation of the change in flight plan. The name of the Indian guide who brought the pilot into Wrigley by canoe was Edward Nayally.

Sixty firemen called in and the gasworks' own emergency fire squad soon had the blaze under control.

There were no casualties and gas production was not interrupted.

Plan To Give Italy Stronger Government

ROME, June 13 (AP)—Premier Alcide de Gasperi laid plans today to give Italy a new and stronger anti-Communist government.

Highly reliable sources said the Christian Democrat leader intends to bring new faces into his cabinet because of the recent elections. Main reasons, these sources said, are the Communist gains and the pro-Fascist show of strength.

Italy's would-be strong man, Interior Minister Scelba, reportedly is slated to go. A Sicilian, Scelba runs Italy's police. His ministry's banning of the pro-Fascist Italian social movement (MSI) 1951 convention had aroused resentment which increased MSI election showing, reports said.

"I saw the wall waver and then crash," he said.

Seconds' Warning

"How much warning did you have?" asked Dr. Lawson. "Seconds."

Fireman Clarence Bennett said he went around to the back, where he heard Vinette and Black shouting after the first crash.

"I was looking at the rear wall and saw it wasn't safe. I thought the trapped men were dead and I couldn't see sense in risking the lives of other men," Bennett said.

Door Open

Fireman William Bloom said there was an open door at the rear. "I don't know who opened it."

"You don't know where it led to?" asked Crown Attorney Bradshaw. "No."

"You were one of the first ones in the lane?" "I was the first and the door was open then. That was when I brought in the hose. The assistant chief might have opened it, but I think he was right behind me when I went out for the hose."

Saw Door Open

Fireman Hubert Kennedy—on crutches—said the door was open when he got to the rear of the building. Kennedy suffered a broken heel when he fell off a ladder at the fire.

"Did you notice the size of the door?" asked the crown. "About the size of an ordinary house door."

Captain George Gimblett said that just before the crash his attention was drawn by Fire Chief George Smith's voice "saying he wanted some men to go in and tear down some metallic sheeting."

Ordinarily Good Judgment

"That would be normally good judgment?" asked Dr. Lawson. "Yes, ordinarily."

"You didn't order your men out; you thought they were safe, is that it?" "Yes." Captain Gimblett said he had three men on the second floor.

"About the men downstairs, somebody had to go in and put the fire out, didn't they?" "Yes."

"Did you consider it a hazardous place?" "I didn't think it was the safest place."

"Have you any criticism of anyone? Now is the time to say so," Dr. Lawson asked.

More Careful Examination

"I would say that before men were sent in, the lower part of the building should have been examined more carefully."

"By whom?"

"By the chief and the assistant chief."

Harold Black, one of the trapped firemen, said assistant chief Foster gave the order for him and Bill Sorrie to go into Riley's store.

"He said: 'Harold and Bill, get a couple of pike-poles and come in here.'

Small Blaze.

"The fire, where I was, was just about the size of your hat."

"You didn't think it was justifiable to send men in there and risk their lives?" asked the crown. "I hesitated myself. The fire wasn't threatening other buildings."

Black said he didn't hear anybody shouting warnings.

Fire Chief Smith has not yet been called to testify. He is expected to appear this afternoon. None of the inspectors from the fire marshal's department have been called.

The inquest continued this afternoon.

Some Mayors

the federal government will pay 75 per cent of cost of the houses, the province 17½ per cent and municipalities involved 7½ per cent—approximately enough to pay for such services as roads, sewers and water.

Not Big Enough

Mayor Reaume said the plan wasn't big enough. Windsor's share of 300 of the 5,000 wouldn't meet her needs; the city already had 3,500 applications for rental homes, and he hoped for at least 1,000.

(Premier Frost said that if the plan—homes costing about $9,000 to rent for approximately $45-$65 monthly—were successful it could be expanded to 25,000.)

Mayor Nelson argued that the province should pay a full 25 per cent, with Ottawa's 75 per cent. "We've got enough trouble now to keep from sinking without further troubles," he said.

The scheme should be administered by the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, the federal crown company, instead of leaving local governments to bear the weight of determining who should get homes.

"I don't want to pick them out," he said. "Thousands need them and only hundreds can get them."

Hopes For Aid

Mayor Lloyd Jackson of Hamilton, whose city would get 500 of the proposed 5,000 homes, said he wanted between 3,000 and 4,000. He hoped for further federal aid in view of Hamilton's defence industry.

In the hotel-lobby argument, Mayor Sargent, who was heading for the rump meeting, told Mr. Dunbar that Premier Frost's terms left municipalities without a voice.

"It's only an offer," Dunbar replied. "You don't have to accept it."

"I bet there's not anyone else but Liberals up at that meeting," Dunbar added.

"We're not playing politics," Sargent said. "We're worried about housing. You could have given us a better housing plan two years ago."

Couldn't Be Done

"We couldn't have done it two weeks ago," Dunbar replied.

Ottawa's woman controller, Dr. Charlotte Whitton, said in an interview that the new plan wouldn't help the aged or low-income families with children.

It would provide houses for people with incomes slightly above average, while those in lower brackets would move up to homes vacated by those with a little more money. The process would continue down the line until the poorest families moved up one step from "the rabbit warrens."

Comment on the housing proposals came from other sources.

The United Church's committee on Evangelism and Social Service of the London Conference, meeting at St. Thomas, urged the federation meeting in London to support the project and guarantee the municipal share "shall be contributed."

It commended Federal Resources Minister Winters and Premier Frost, and noted "with approval" that rentals would be low and priority given to families with children.

Fine Man $400 For Smuggling

MONTREAL, June 13—(CP)—Louis Szelle of Montreal Tuesday was fined $400 and costs by Judge Omer Legrand for smuggling 264 Swiss watches into Canada from France.

The court case followed an arrest earlier by customs men in Montreal's Central Station, who were on the lookout for the contraband.

The watches, with a retail value of more than $5,000, were found when customs men searched a trunk and emptied out feathers and cotton waste.

Apply For Houses

TORONTO, June 13. (CP) — Planning Minister Griesinger said today that initial discussions on allocation of housing rental units under Ontario's 5,000-homes plan have been begun with Windsor, Oshawa and several other municipalities. "As soon as the others mull the plan over, I'm sure they will be applying for housing," he said.

While UN patrols uncovered more abandoned stockpiles at the base of the triangle, planes hammered at Red efforts to drag equipment out of the top.

Fan Out Three Miles

Tank-led forces fanned out three miles and more beyond the front lines around Chorwon and Kumhwa, former anchors of the road hub area. They found and blew up 4,000 rounds of Chinese artillery and mortar shells near Kumhwa. Another large cache was demolished near Chorwon.

Patrols smacked into entrenched Chinese each side of the triangle. They blocked the roads toward Kumsong, new Chinese base to the east.. They fought probing efforts toward the Imjin on the west, beyond which Lt.-Gen. James A. Van Fleet said the Reds "would be in a fairly secure position."

UN planes mounted a total of 1,050 sorties Tuesday, including seven bomb-pocking strikes at West Korean air fields. They were back at it again Wednesday through clouds and rain showers.

Thomas K. Finkletter, US Air Secretary, toured UN air fields in Korea with top Air Force commanders in the Far East. The secretary said he was proud of "the high morale and spirit of the Air Force."

He conferred with Van Fleet, UN ground commander.

Van Fleet said he thought the United Nations now has the military might to win in Korea.

Warn Iranians On Propaganda

TEHRAN, June 13 (AP)—British Ambassador Sir Francis Shepherd has warned Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh that continued Iranian propaganda against Britain may touch off a powderkeg of anti - foreign violence in the oil port of Abadan.

Shepherd disclosed his warning as top officials of the British-controlled Anglo - Iranian oil company prepared to start negotiations, perhaps today, with Iran's government on the nationalization of the company's vast holdings centred at the Persian Gulf port.

From Abadan AP correspondent Fred Zusy reported the situation there appeared extremely delicate.

Shepherd said he had told Mossadegh on Saturday he thought "the Iranian government is not taking sufficiently into account the danger of stirring up anti-foreigner feeling in the Abadan oil area."

Abadan is the seat of Anglo-Iranian's major installations, chief among them the world's largest refinery. Some 2,000 foreigners, mostly Britons, are there in an area crowded with 80,000 Iranian workers and ringed by fierce nomadic tribes.

Riots in the refinery centre in mid-April resulted in the deaths of three Britons and six Iranians.

Crime To Take Small Lunge

CAMPBELLFORD, June 13 — (ENS)—Rotarians heard one of Canada's well-known outdoor writers on Monday noon, when Pete McGillen spoke to the local club on the topic of "Conservation."

During his talk, Mr. McGillen said that the "muskie is virtually the goose that lays the golden egg for this porion of the province." Each muskie, he figures, is worth about 500 tourist dollars to t district. Years ag e odd 'lu ge taken by spear in he spawning season did not mean so much, but today, the conservation of these fish is everyone's business.

Public Support Lacking

The game wardens do not receive the support of the public, nor the co-operation of the magistrates, he said. The poacher and the fellow who exceeds legal bag limits are not reported to the authorities, who cannot be everywhere. The reason the speaker gave for this, is that we do not want to be informers. On the other hand, we could not stand idly by and see a thief rob a grocer or take things out of our neighbour's car, but we will not report a man who has taken a 20-inch 'lunge, or an 8-inch bass.

If we want to improve the fish population, we cannot allow the taking of fish that are too young to spawn.

The Ontario government realizes this is a serious situation, and for that reason has established the Deer Lake hatchery for the growing of muskie fry. They capture the female muskie, release the spawn, cover it with milt from from the jack fish, and after hatching, they release the small fry by the millions every year.

"It is the concern of each one of us to see that fish and game laws are enforced," he said, otherwise Canada is in danger of becoming one of the greatest nations of wasters ever known.

Mr. McGillen, was introduced by past-president Bert Taylor, and Rotarian Bill Hogle moved a vote of thanks to the speaker.

Tariff Policy Sparks Debate

OTTAWA, June 13 (CP)—The Senate engaged in a good old-time trade debate Tuesday — the free traders versus the tariff protectionists.

Senator John T. Haig, opposition leader, speaking for the protectionists, warned that it would be "disastrous" if Canada tied trading policies too closely to the United States. The minute Canadian exports began hurting the US producer, the US would shut them off.

"They did it in 1886 and they'll do it again."

Senator Arthur Roebuck (L—Ontario), a freetrader, said Canada would be better off if she threw open her markets and allowed people to buy in the cheapest and sell in the highest.

He told Senator Iva Fallis (PC—Ontario) that he would advocate opening Canadian markets even if the US and other countries maintained tariffs against Canadian goods.

The debate arose on a government bill to make reductions and equalizations in the Canadian tariff on a number of items. It was given second reading and sent to a committee for further study.

Undemocratic Vote At Eighteen

A Parliamentary committee has recommended that persons on "active service" be given the vote at the age of eighteen. The sentiment behind this proposal seems to be that if a man has the right to fight for his country at that age he has the right to vote. We have discussed this proposal several times in these columns, and have had the example of Saskatchewan for illustration. In that province persons aged eighteen have been given the franchise. In all other provinces (Alberta, excepted; there the voting age is nineteen) as it is in Federal elections, the minimum voting age is twenty-one.

* * *

We have noticed that the demand for reducing the age-limit seldom comes from the teen-agers themselves, or from the soldiers. It is politician's gambit, perhaps made in the hope of establishing a manoeuvrable new bloc of votes. Many of its supporters seem to be moved more by sentiment than sense.

* * *

Setting a minimum age for the franchise is, of course, an arbitrary matter. There is no universal principle that all persons under twenty-one are incapable of casting votes intelligently, and that on reaching twenty-one, they are mystically endowed with enough capacity to qualify them. There are youths of fourteen better able to vote than men of forty. Twenty-one has been fixed as a desirable age chiefly because a person legally becomes adult at that age. If there were to be any revision, we suggest that, as the trend is to keep the young longer at school, longer under the family roof, longer in a state of dependency, the legal voting age might be raised to twenty-two or twenty-three, rather than lowered to eighteen.

* * *

To give the vote to persons on active service at the age of eighteen could be both unnecessary and undemocratic. How many youths in uniform feel that they are being cheated because they are not given a vote until they are twenty-one? The sentiment that a man who fights for his country has a right to vote is a generous one, but unrealistically applied if the vote is given to all on "active service." Few of the teen-agers on active service get to the front lines. They are kept at home, under training or doing useful garrison work, like driving trucks or maintaing planes. To give this group the vote, and not their brothers and sisters of the same age who may for physical or occupational reasons be refused the right to enlist, is to set up a special class of voters. That is undemocratic. It is a special privilege if persons aged eighteen are given the vote because they are in uniform and the vote is withheld from others of the same age, who through no fault of their own devising are refused the right to put on uniform. Such special privilege is not the democratic way of doing things. Let us hope that this year's pother about giving the teen-aged soldier a vote subsides as it has done in other years.

The Swimmer With The Broken Neck

When the Toronto Y.M.C.A. swimming coach George Hebden Corsan came down to Peterborough one summer—the summer of 1905—to instruct Peterburians, he decided to exhibit his prowess and technique by swimming from the village of Lakefield down the Otonabee river to the Lift Lock, a distance of nine miles. To give the event a sporting and publicity flavour a race was planned, and a Lakefield man, Harry T. Strickland, was persuaded to swim with him. The race drew crowds, and reporters from even distant Toronto. Unfortunately, Mr. Corsan had to be pulled out of the canal before the last mile. To the delight of local people, Mr. Strickland reached the Lift Lock, completing the nine-mile swim in five hours and five minutes, which included 25 minutes occupied in passing through the five locks between Lakefield and Peterborough.

This was one of the few mishaps, one of the rare lapses from strength, which Mr. Corsan ever had. Others might make the excuse that Strickland was Corsan's junior by a dozen years. Strong, athletic Mr. Corsan would not; at the time of the notable swim he was only 48 years old. Another mishap occurred three weeks ago when the hearty vegetarian fell twenty feet out of a nut tree and broke his neck. But the patient is recovering speedily in a Toronto hospital where, last Monday, he celebrated his 94th birthday.

Mr. Corsan has a habit of making news which he acquired long before his dietary theories and longevity outpaced his athletic prowess. He has a passion for fruits and cultivates excellent orchards in Florida (where he grows seven different varieties of bananas), and a model nut farm at Islington which is making Ontario farmers nut-conscious. His health and strength are remarkable. His very way of breathing, consciously-practiced deep breathing, is a matter for comment.

And what this hale gentleman of 94 has to say on any one of his dozen favourite topics makes a good story in itself. From his plaster-casted head and sick-bed (which he expects to leave on Saturday) he gave this birthday advice: Let us turn the world into a paradise by turning all dairy farms into fruits farms. "It would save valuable land—the farm boys wouldn't smell of manure and could keep their girls. Besides, dairy products, milk, cheese, eggs, are the cause of cancer and the savants bear me out."

His bride of last year may bear him out in this; some savants may; his own health habits have borne him from strength to strength. We happily bear with him so long as his active tongue and limbs enliven the Ontario scene from the high branches of a nut tree. Let the people in the byre keep their place when George Hebden Corsan is about!

We almost forgot to mention that until he broke his neck, Mr. Corsan took his daily dip whenever open water could be found.

Why Shouldn't Hangings Be Horrible?

Last week Walter Rowe was hanged in London, Ont., because he had committed a murder which merited that punishment. There has been some newspaper discussion of the matter since then; some of our contemporaries feel that hangings should not take place in county jails, because tney are disturbing to the community; other papers say that Rowe was treated with inhumanity because he could hear the carpenters building the scaffold the day before his execution. It has been suggested also that hanging is an outmoded way of despatching a murderer.

In all this discussion we have not seen a word of concern for the man whose life was taken by Rowe. We do not think that he should be forgotten.

We feel that the hanging of murderers is a deterrent to murder. There will always be murders, and no doubt all murderers are deserving of pity, but we think that it is mistaken tender-heartedness to endow them with extreme sensitivity of feeling. Rowe had committed a dreadful crime; if he is so sensitive that the sound of carpenters at work on his scaffold disturbed him, we may assume that the pangs of conscience disturbed him even more. If he suffered bitterly before his death, we suggest that the story of his sufferings be distributed as widely as possible, for it may deter some other hot-headed man from murdering another innocent one.

We do not counsel inhumanity or a parade of the horrors of capital punishment, but we protest against this deep concern for the feelings of men who have behaved so badly that society has decided to kill them. It is possible to make a good case against capital punishment, but we keep it in order to frighten people who are tempted to do murder. Whenever we are tempted to coddle a murderer, let us remember what he has done; we cannot discourage murders by treating killers as persons of unusual sensitivity and distinguished intellect.

All Secret, Of Course

The American State Department is reported to be shocked at the disappearance of two British Foreign Office officials, lest they should be able to reveal secret Anglo-American exchanges on such subjects as the North Atlantic Pact, the Korean War and the Japanese peace treaty. But, really, the vast amount of official "secret" information that is made public property, especially in the United States, should by now have cushioned Washington against any shock the missing diplomats might cause.

Secretary of State Marshall holds a "secret" meeting with General Ridgway, supreme commander in the East. The "secret" is splashed over the front pages of the world's papers before the conference is well-begun. High army officials advise, as is their duty, the President on military strength. High State Department officers advise the President on policy. Yet these civil servants who have given their confidential advice to the Executive are brought before the unjudicial tribunal of a Congressional committee to reveal all, while the world listens.

If there is anything sacred any more, there is nothing secret.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A recent invention is a yo-yo with a light inside, which gives the lie to those who assert that science is concerned wholly with creating new methods of destruction.

We read that a robin eats fifteen worms an hour and lives four years. Surely it is time for some insurance man to tell the robin that if it cut down to eight worms an hour it could live six years?

ON THE MARGIN

Fiction for Summer

WELCOME DARKNESS, by Leon Statham (Ambassador Books Ltd.).

THIS book is a 'must' for everyone who is buying Japanese goods for gifts under the misapprehension that they are cheaper. "Welcome Darkness" will give them an idea of just how much Japan has already cost us, not necessarily financially, but in human suffering during the last few years. For the base around which to weave his story the author has taken seven men, all newly commissioned noncombatant officer specialists (in various types of service except medicine) who are marooned in a jungle after being blown off their course on their way to join units in the Philippines, and forced to land by parachute. The story follows their endeavours to escape from the jungle which is in Japanese-held territory and their subsequent capture and internment. Leon Statham has a remarkable gift for characterization; all his men are real, their fears and angers easily understandable, their aloofness from their Japanese captors and each other quite comprehensible. They start out with little respect for each other and their distrust grows daily. The deterioration of their moral and physical strength is so gradual that although the reader is aware of it and the dangers it imposes, it is impossible to foresee just when each will reach the limit of endurance.

The descriptive passages are excellent and the feeling of alien territory and personnel is present throughout the book.

The whole story is powerfully and brutally written; if the author was endeavouring to show us the real face of Japan behind the smiling hard-working mask shown to us today, he has succeeded. He hasn't made heroes or angels of his United States soldiers, so that it is not by unfair comparison that the Japanese captors appear so offensive. Mr. Statham may have exaggerated a bit, but I doubt it; it is easy even for a base man to appear virtuous in defeat, but it takes a very strong man to be virtuous in victory, and that sort of strength may not appeal to the Oriental mind. I think this book is more for male readers, especially those who fought in the Eastern theatre, than women. Certainly not a book for those whose men are off to the Korean war, but nevertheless a very realistic chronicle of a very tough adventure. S.S.T.

TIDEWATER TO TIMBERLINE, by Dan McCowan (Macmillan Company).

TO one to whom the surrounding scenery has always been a matter of complete indifference and whose association with animals has been limited to obstetrical dealings with sophisticated Siamese cats, or their commoner sisters, this book of Dan McCowan's opened a new world. No longer shall I regard the Squirrel as a rather attractive coat, nor the Hungarian Partridge as a table treat; they have suddenly developed personalities. "Tidewater to Timberline" is filled with interesting details, along with descriptions of the countryside and amusing animal stories. The author tosses in such examples of patient study as the fact that a Caterpillar travels at the rate of one yard a minute (not fast enough to suit the cottagers up north last year!) but a Jack rabbit can travel as fast as a passenger train. Squirrels can apparently eat poisonous toadstools without even having the grace to develop indigestion, and porcupines, at birth, weigh more than a newborn grizzly bear. There is an interesting account of a man's fight with a grizzly, which, even though mortally wounded, almost accounted for the man before it died. There are some attractive pictures in the book and its fascination for the young can best be exemplified by the fact that it hadn't been in this house twenty-four hours before it had become dogeared from the enthusiastic mauling of small hands. THE PROVINCIALS, by John Cornish (William Sloane Associates).

THIS is a first novel by a new Canadian writer and it is an interesting and well-published book. Set in Cornish's own birthplace, Vancouver, "The Provincials" follows the life and adventures of a wealthy Vancouver family as they are seen through the eyes of the hero, (and their friend) Kenneth Menzies. Mr. Cornish, who was educated at private schools himself, manages to draw a very authentic and lively picture of life in a small boys' boarding school were Kenneth first strikes up his friendship with the Dunseith family. From then on until after the second world war, their joys and tragedies are his too. "The Provincials" reads almost like a biography, the characterization is so remarkable. Obviously this is an author of some promise and it seems rather sad that, once again, a Canadian has had to turn to the United States to get his first chance at publication. S.S.T.

✧ ✧ ✧

A SEASON IN ENGLAND, by P. H. Newby (Clarke, Irwin & Company).

MR. Newby's "Season in England" is not exactly a social one. It is a visit of leave paid by an English professor from the University of Cairo to the parents of a deceased friend, also a professor in Cairo. The hero, Passmore, is in love with the friend's widow, a beautiful young Greek, Renee, and when she scorns him, he departs for England and revenge. He leaves her in Cairo (penniless, he hopes) and goes to inform her in-laws of her existence (their son having omitted to do so during the years he was married). He feels they will reject her, and he will be all that is left. However, as he omitted to brief the other members of his cast on the parts he had planned for them, they do not react according to schedule, and he ends up with quite a few dramatic situations on his hands that he is not exactly competent to deal with. Although some of the situations may seem a bit improbable or absurd, the dialogue and characterization redeem them by is authenticity. One can easily imagine a man like Passmore (who is one of those easily-offended and easily-embarrassed Englishmen that we have all met) doing the things he does with painstaking care, taking twice as long as anyone else to come to the point and then having his whole plan completely ruined by the quick and thoughtless actions of either Renee or her mother-in-law, neither woman having any patience with any plan other than her own, or anybody, other than themselves. "A Season in England" is really a comedy of errors, very light and entertaining reading. S.S.T.

BLAME THE TROUT

Coming home one Sunday afternoon with a string of trout, Robbie was suddenly confronted by the local minister. There was no way of escape, but the boy rose to the occasion. Going up to the minister he said: "Minister, d'ye see what thae troots got for nabbin' worms on Sunday?"

ITALIAN RENAISSANCE

Unfair To Journalists

(LONDON TIMES)

IT is a matter for reasonable doubt whether politicians think worse of journalists or journalists of politicians. Nowadays, however, the politicians seem, on the whole, to express themselves with the greater vigour, and many a poor, working journalist—both adjectives are, of course, redundant—must have been wondering just how he came to sink so low in the estimation of public men.

It cannot, he thinks, be his work, for there is nothing in that scrupulously objective paragraph on utility blanket prices to disturb the nicest consciences. It cannot be his private life, for this is spent almost entirely in washing dishes and hoeing the garden.

Where then do they get this picture of a venial and slightly raffish figure who nightly prostitutes his soul for gold? The answer, as so often, must be found not in life but in literature.

In all novels with a nineteenth-century background the journalist starts with a fatal handicap: he is never a gentleman. We may take Mr. Timothy Turbot as a fair example of the type. He was > a middle-sized round man, with loose lips and pendant indigo jowl, whose eyes twinkled watery, like pebbles under shore-wash, and whose neck-band needed an extra touch from fingers other than his own.

This is Meredith. To make matters worse we are told that "like most men who have little to say, he was an orator in print" and would have gone farther than the editorship of a country newspaper if he had not "worshipped the nymph Whisky."

Trollope's Tom Towers was almost a gentleman but then Tom Towers was on the Jupiter—and the Jupiter was a very superior newspaper. Even so he is not an admirable figure and we are left in no doubt that Mr. Bold expresses the author's opinion when he says that Tom Towers is a prig and a humbug.

Journalists fare no better in those novels which deal with their profession and are written by those who should know better. C. E. Montague's Colum Fay is no doubt an attractive character but one feels the Press Council, if it ever is born, would hardly approve of a man who wrote Tory leaders for the Halland Warder and Liberal leaders for the Stalwart at the same time and, on one famous occasion, the same leader for both.

No, Fay will hardly do as a model for young journalists or old politicians. Still, we must prefer him to those bloodthirsty but sentimental vultures whom Kipling describes as war correspondents in The Light that Failed, even though Dick Heldar does admit to being "a public school man."

These journalists of fiction are a poor lot. One has a faint recollection of better things in American novels — of young reporters, thirsty, maybe, but indomitable, unmasking corruption and rescuing innocent victims of the Courts, but English writers have done all too little for those who are called—obviously ironically—"gentlemen of the Press."

The remedy is plain. Some writer who has been a journalist or some journalist who hopes to be a writer must fill the gap.

Perhaps Mr. Graham Greene will oblige with a novel in which the hero, burdened by a quivering conscience and a sense of sin, will set a standard of unshakable morality.

In the meantime, while they are waiting, journalists may find it some consolation to reflect that if politicians seem ill-disposed towards their profession it is probably only because they are well-read.

Strange Power Of Comic Books

(OTTAWA CITIZEN)

COMIC books which have been blamed recently for overplaying crime and sex, may have to answer a third criticism. The power they wield may be too great. "We can do anything," is the boast they are currently making, according to an article in the New York magazine, The Reporter. One cartoon book publisher is reported as saying that, given a print order and two weeks' time, he can start a revolution in a banana republic and "have 'em stringing up the President before you can say 'mass medium'." A company that issued three million comic books glamorizing President Truman claims much credit for his 1948 victory. Another, which produced a 16-page cartoon book aimed at increasing American Reserve Officer Training Corps enlistments, claims credit for a 15 per cent. enrolment jump.

The influence of comic books is tied in directly with large readership figures. A survey conducted by one publication purports to show a readership of 81.1 per cent. of American urban adults and 92 per cent. of their children. The rate for unskilled labourers is given as 78.9 per cent; for professionals and executives 78 per cent. Last year a comic book entitled "Dagwood Splits The Atom" sold nearly a million copies. Some cartoon books such as "Donaid Duck And The Red Feather" raise funds for charitable purposes; these have a definite value. But booklets such as that which interpreted the American Revolution as being aimed at "those government planners in London" are guilty of seriously distorting history. Opponents of the comic book, such as Dr. Augusta Jellinek, the American educator, feel that such cartoon material is making children reluctant to read, and making the job of teachers more difficult.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Jehoshaphat the son of Asa began to reign over Judah in the fourth year of Ahab king of Israel. (I Kings 22: 41.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And the Lord was with Jehoshaphat, because he walked in the first ways of his father David, and sought not unto Baalim; but sought to the Lord God of his father, and walked in his commandments, and not after the doings of Israel. Therefore the Lord stablished the kingdom in his hand, and all Judah brought to Jehoshaphat presents; and he had riches and honour in abundance. And his heart was lifted up in the ways of the Lord: moreover he took away the high places and groves out of Judah. Also in the third year of his reign he sent to his princes, even to Benhall, and to Obadiah, and to Zechariah, and to Nethaneel, and to Michaiah, to teach in the cities of Judah....

And they taught in Judah, and had the book of the law of the Lord with them, and went about throughout all the cities of Judah, and taught the people. And the fear of the Lord fell uopn all the kingdoms of the lands that were round about Judah, so that they made no war against Jehoshaphat. (II Chron. 17: 3-7, 9, 10.)

✧ ✧ ✧

When a man's ways please the Lord, he maketh even his enemies to be at peace with him. (Prov. 16: 7.)

✧ ✧ ✧

The Lord is righteous in all his ways, and holy in all his works....

The Lord preserveth all them that love him. (Ps. 145: 17, 20.)

Rainbow Time

(New York Times)

In early summer the rainbow season is in full swing. Not that the prismatic arch of promise may not hang in the sky at any time of the year, but its appearance is almost invariably linked with an electric storm, and summer finds Jove in his most aggressive mood as a hurler of thunderbolts. The bow usually adorns the east, when the rain is moving off in that direction and the sun is shining in the west. Hence the assumed promise of fair weather. A morning rainbow is possible, with the sun bright in the east and a rainstorm approaching from the west, but most thunder showers are afternoon or early evening phenomena.

The rainbow is really a complete circle, as aviators know, but groundlings never see more than half of it. Its centre is the point in the sky opposite the sun. If the sun is more than 42 degrees above the horizon no rainbow can appear. A sun just rising or setting produces the ideal bow, some 42 degrees high, often with a fainter bow about 8 degrees higher. The upper band of the primary bow is red and the lower band violet; in the secondary bow the colours are reversed.

Science long ago solved the geometry of the rainbow. Part of a sunbeam striking a drop of water penetrates the drop and is reflected from the inner surface. Both in entering and in leaving the drop the beam undergoes refraction, which splits it into six or seven colours. Drops at a certain height send red light to the observer on the ground; drops at a slightly lower level give him green light, and still lower ones violet light. In the secondary rainbow there is a double reflection from the back of each drop, which reverses the colours.

Science can also explain the retreat of the rainbow as the watcher approaches it in search of the crock of gold known to rest at its end, but science still has ahead of it the task of finding a way to anchor the bow until the searcher can seize the prize.

English

(The Tulsa Tribune)

An irate professor of English at the University of Illinois has been studying the language habits of his students.

Precise comparisons, he says, tax the college mentality too much. Instead of searching for an accurate, expressive word it is easier to refer to things as "terrific" or "lousy" or "sharp" or "cute". Each of these dubious adjectives can cover a multitude of meanings, thus relieving the speaker of the brainwork necessary to search his vocabulary, if any.

Worst of all, he says, is the over-use of "very" by co-eds. We once had a prof who fixed that. A young lady brought in a theme which reported that the picnic was "very nice", that the woods were "very lovely", that the food was "very good", and her companions "very funny", etc. The prof called her up and made her read her theme, substituting "damn" for every "very". It sounded a lot better.

Bank Messengers In Pink

(London Economist)

The court of the Bank of England has issued a handsomely illustrated and wittily written brochure, telling the story of the Bank's development "over two and a half centuries....in a typically British way into something quite different from what it was to start with". The brochure is designed for Festival visitors to the city but one suspects that some of the sidelights in it—such as why the bank's messengers wear pink tail-coats (they are in the private servants' livery of the first governor) or the reason for the wind-vane in the court room (which is there to forecast arrivals of sailing ships in the Port of London and with it the probable variations in the day's demand for money) will be new to some of those visitors' hosts.

Laurel and Hardy Make Comeback On Television

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 13 (AP)—"Why," exclaimed Oliver Hardy, "it's just like the old days!"

Hardy, the man - mountain member of the comedy team of Laurel and Hardy, was speaking of their new-found popularity. Their old comedies have been running on television and have created a new audience for them.

"It's hard to believe," said Hardy. "Right now we're getting more fan mail than we ever got in the old days. And it's all due to television."

Their TV popularity has brought them a variety of movie offers, including a possible deal with director Billy Wilder. And there are numerous offers for TV.

Unfortunately for them, Laurel and Hardy have no rights to their films now being shown on TV. They were owned by Hal Roach, who sold them and his other films to a distribution company.

Heard Too Late

"I understand the price was $750,000," said Hardy, "and I have heard that the films have already brought back three times that amount. I wish I had known that Roach was going to sell them. I could have raised enough money to buy them."

Laurel and Hardy recently returned from France, where they made their first picture together in several years, "Atoll K." They planned to stay 10 weeks but remained 11 months, due to Laurel's illness.

Last year, Hardy performed a couple of film roles without his partner. I asked if they planned to make any seperate appearances in the future.

"I don't think so," he replied. "I took those jobs frankly because I needed the money. I called up Stan and asked him about it and he said I'd be foolish not to take the roles. But now, thanks to television, we have all the offers we can handle."

BACK HOME—Ronald Yinger, who was unmasked as a missing parolee and returned to a Missouri jail after he became famous as the father of Brooklyn's "Mid-Century Twins," has a happy family re-union after his release from prison. Yinger holds his son Donnie while little Pattie sleeps and Mrs. Yinger looks on happily.

New Zealand Pays Bonus To Parents

By J. C. GRAHAM

WELLINGTON, N.Z. —(CP)—Officials are hard at work givnig effect to the New Zealand government's novel decision to use part of its budget surplus for a bonus payment to parents. The extra payments are expected to be distributed in July.

New Zealand already [illegible] about $2 a week to parents [illegible] of financial position, on account of each child regardless of the number. The bonus of about $15 however will be paid to a somewhat wider group, affecting about 600,000 children in 255,000 families. It will go to parents or guardians of all children under 16 and to certain additional categories as well.

Buoyant revenues provided a surplus of $25,270,000 in the accounts of the last fiscal year. A large part of this will be used to establish a war emergency account, but the balance will go for the child bonus.

Explaining the decision to make the extra family allowance payment Prime Minister Sidney Holland said: "The world-wide inflationary trend and competition for scarce materials continue to cause all price levels to rise. We have had substantial increases in wages, greatly increased government subsidies and increases in social security benefits. Now, in view of the extremely buoyant condition of the country's finances, the government is making the bonus payment to parents."

Need More Leaders Brigadier Declares

MONTREAL, June 13 (CP)—Brig. D. R. Agnew, commandant of the Royal Military College at Kingston, Tuesday said there is a need for the type of men who can lead an army and not merely a platoon.

Speaking during Founder's Day ceremonies at Lower Canada College here, he said the real business of schools was to produce such leaders.

"We need men who can lead an army and not merely a platoon," he said, "men who can plan a campaign, organize industry and lead our government."

Local Tax

KAMSACK, Sask. — (CP) — After considerable debate a local amusement tax of 10 per cent now is in effect here with the town collecting on all entertainment tickets except those for charity affairs. The money will be used for a new administration building.

Ends Water Shortage

CANMORE, Alta. — (CP) — Rains and melting snows have raised the Bow River level and are bringing surface wells back to normal, relieving the water shortage here. Policeman's Creek, a dry bed of stones for several months, is filling again as the spring at its source revives.

Trained Librarians In Big Demand

TORONTO, June 13 (CP)—There is a tremendous demand for trained librarians, the Canadian Library Association was told Tuesday.

Vernon Ross, director of the library school at McGill University, Montreal, told the association that there were so many applications for librarians that the university couldn't take care of them.

McGill and the University of Toronto are the only two accredited library schools in Canada, Miss Ross said. About 40 students were enrolled in McGill Library School—75 per cent of them women.

Refund License? Maybe—Ald.

Probably as a new member of the council this year Ald. H. T. Rehill did not feel the binding of precedent when he suggested at the finance committee Monday night that Ambrose E. Lee be refunded $39 of the $52 which he paid in license fees.

Mr. Lee was in business only seven weeks at Lock St. and Braidwood Ave. when an oil stove in his newly occupied premises blew up during weekend, "apparently with a total loss."

Council custom has been to refuse repayments of license fees.

Compassionate Grounds

"But this might be on compassionate grounds," said Ald. Dewart.

Mr. Lee had taken out licenses for his restaurant, plus milk and tobacco vending licenses.

"I don't know Mr. Lee, but I'd say he didn't get much value for his money," Ald. E. C. Braund commented. "It looks as if he has had hard luck."

The committee finally decided to invite Mr. Lee to a meeting to tell his story, "and how badly he was hit."

Ald. Rehill agreed to withdraw his motion to pay Lee 75 per cent of the license money he had paid the city.

Says Low Wages Delay Expansion

SMITHS FALLS, June 13 (CP)—C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO), said Tuesday night that low wages and poor working conditions are important factors in delaying industrial expansion in Eastern Ontario.

Addressing a dinner sponsored by his union's Local 3140, he said:

"The longest hours and the poorest wages in the province prevail in the eastern part of Ontario and in the Ottawa Valley . . . new industry must be able to attract at least a small percentage of skilled and trained workmen. Such workers will not follow industry to low wage areas, particularly in periods of industrial expansion.

"The industrial development division of the Ontario Department of Planning and Development has failed to make that point clear enough to Eastern Ontario employers."

Expect CBC Board To Consider Report

OTTAWA, June 13 (CP)—The nine - member CBC board of governors is expected to consider recommendations of the Royal Commission on Arts and Science at meetings here June 21 and 22, it was learned Tuesday.

The Royal Commission recommended that the CBC be left with control over publicly and privately-owned broadcasting and television stations. It made a series of recommendations touching on programs, networks and expansion of CBC services.

Among applications to be placed before the board are those dealing with the transfer of shares in existing radio stations.

Applications were filed by the Northern Broadcasting Company which operates CFCH in North Bay, CJKL in Kirkland Lake and CKGB in Timmins.

An application for an emergency transmitter licence has been filed by station CJOY in Guelph.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

It's on again, off again, in the case of the top perch in the OLA senior "A" scramble. The Petes are presently there by themselves, but they've got to keep winning to maintain the pace. They hope to pluck the Fergus Thistles tonight in Miller Bowl, but upsets are by no means unusual this semester in gutted-stick circles, and the Thistles are building up to be real contenders. The blue and whites have Speck, Killingbeck, Mackie, J. J. Hill, Black, Hall, Pearson and some more experienced players, and have been after several of the defunct Owen Sounders and Westons for the past week or 10 days. It ought to be a right interesting tilt tonight.

* * * * * *

A fellow who played a lot of good lacrosse for the locals up till last autumn is now coaching the junior OLA entry here. And Lou Vitarelli thinks his junior "B" provincial champs of last year will be a serious contender for "A" honors this summer. And a crack at the Dominion crown, if they get by the Niagara Falls team (last year's St. Kitts champs of Canada) and a few more toughies in their grouping. They open the home season here Friday against the Falls, and it will be something to see, undoubtedly. The senior Petes are watching the juniors closely, too, as there should be enough potential senior talent there to make further importations unnecessary another year.

* * * * * *

Ball Club Tops, Too

Don't forget that the baseball senior Petes are also tops now in the Viaduct Major League and can't be dislodged from that spot for a few more days, anyway. They'll be trying to rack up another win in Oshawa tonight and also against Toronto Kingsways here on the morrow under the Riverside arcs. It's that postponed game of last week, and Kingsways are now tied in second place with Oshawa. A fine ball game is likely when these teams face each other, weather permitting, on Thursday. Ed Whitehill will probably pitch Bunny Maeson—the tall ex-junior from the Motor City—in that one, and the game rates a hefty crowd.

* * * * * *

It takes time to mould a winning ball club, but the Petes are doing right well to date. They stress the use of home-brews, but don't hesitate to bring in a few outside stars to bolster weak spots. With the addition of another twirler from the States— and they hope for that shortly as college courses finish—they'll stand pat with what they have, and it is the top team so far. Howie Dalton apparently is going to stick to softball, but Dick Golden takes up the slack in the infield where Johnny Denofrio left off when he pulled out a week or so ago. Our outfield looks solid, the infield is clicking well, and the battery setup should do, too, with another hurler added. After all, you can't be higher than first place.

He Cuffs The Cabbage

While Dick Golden leads the Petes' hitters to date with a grand mark of .600, he has played but one game. Actually, George Brabin, the chunky young outfielder who hails from Oshawa is topping the local batsmen with a nifty .450 average in six games. If he keeps that pace up, he will be the outfield find of the season in the Viaduct Loop. Fred Plato, elongated second-sacker, is away up there also with .412 in five frays in his first year in senior ball. Joe Lowrey, Bill Dadson and Joe Stewart are others powdering the pill in robust fashion. True, the season is young yet, and there'll be some changes made no doubt in hitting marks a month hence, but these chaps are off to a fine start.

Things are levelling off nicely now in the men's City Softball League over at the Bowl. Balance of power is beginning to be felt, and some keen contests may be looked for henceforth. Orphans edged out UEW 5-4 in the ninth last gloaming as Terry Woods and Reg Gordon both hurled good ball. Revoy's took a 14-9 win over a stronger Lakefield team —Joe Blewett is back, too—with Don Bigford and Lefty Mel Smoke showing well on the mound. The Merchants wear snappy new uniforms, and all clubs are in proper diamond toggery these nights. Revoy's lead the loop with four wins and a loss, Orphans and UEW are tied with three and two each, as Lakefield still seeks a win. Games tomorrow: Orphans vs. Revoy's, and UEW vs. Lakefield.

FACES OF SPECTATORS are tense as they watch Roberto De Vicenzo of Argentina miss a putt by inches for a birdie on the 9th hole during the Palm Beach Round-robin golf tournament which he won recently to carry off top money award of $3,000 with a five-round plus total of 40. He was 16 under par with successive scores of 69-68-68-67-75. Jim Ferrier, the ex-Australian, who finished second with a plus 28, which was worth $2,000, looks as De Vicenzo's putt fails to drop.

Revoy's Hand A Reverse To Lakefield

Revoys won number four in the nightcap of men's softball last night handing Lakefield Merchants a 14-9 defeat in a hard-fought game. The visitors almost pulled it out of the fire with a spirited five-run rally in the seventh and another three-run splurge in the eighth off Bigford after Don had held command in the early stages. The best efforts of the plucky gold and black Wasson squad (all neatly decked in new uniforms) fell just short again but the Motor boys had to go all out to win. Mel Smoke, a left-handed curve-ball artist, toiled for Merchants and showed well wtih seven miscues behind him.

Bobby Crowe proved the big sticker for Revoys with three solid hits, one a double, to account for three runs driven in, closely followed by Bigford with three also and a pair sent over. Chum Fryia played well and hit two safeties, one a long triple to left. Thomson and Conlin each hit twice, the former a triple. Wyatt's fielding again featured.

Larkman, Red Wasson and Henry were the most effective stickers for Merchants with two safe bingles each.

Brabin Clouts .459 To Lead The Petes

Orphans Climb With Win Over The UEW

Orphans moved into a second-place tie with UEW in the hectic men's softball race last night as they edged Howie Dalton's men 5-4 in a sizzling opener before a fair crowd, at the Bowl. Each club has won three and lost a pair to place one game behind Revoys.

Terry Woods twirled for the Dormer lads opposing Reg Gordon in a spicy duel as each allowed six safeties. The former struck out two and walked a pair while the latter fanned four and walked three with errors at three apiece.

Orphans took a three-run lead in the fourth on Scriver's homer with Sullivan and Lewis aboard but UE tallied in the fifth and eighth and tied the score in the ninth with a pair after Orphans added another in the bottom of the eighth. Victory came in the final half for the scrappy Dormer pack as Griffin walked and scored on McGrath's hard drive to right to win by a whisker. Harold Grafstein homered for UE in the fifth while White and Woods hit doubles for the only extra-base clouts of the game. Both teams fielded well.

Bisons Upset Ottawa In 6-0 Triumph

By The Associated Press.

George Toporcer, freshman pilot of Buffalo Bisons, is a prime candidate for International League "manager of the year" honors.

Toporcer, who inherited a tail-end club, has upset the pre-season pennant dope. The Bisons have swarmed into second place on wings of an eight-game winning streak.

Righthander Ernie Silverman pitched the Bisons to their eighth straight victory Tuesday night with a neat 6-0 four-hit triumph over Ottawa Giants.

Silverman walked three and fanned five in posting his sixth victory. The Bisons wrapped it up in the first inning, scoring four runs against Alex Konikowski. Hank Biasatti featured the uprising with a two-run homer, his third of the season.

Edge Leafs

Montreal Royals, meanwhile, remained 6½ games in front of the Bisons. Jim Hughes pitched the Royals to a 5-2 triumph over Toronto Maple Leafs. The victory was Hughes' third without a loss. Hector Rodriguez clinched the game with a three-run homer in the third inning.

Jackie Collum and Jack Faszholz pitched Rochester Red Wings into third place by turning back Syracuse Chiefs 6-1 and 3-1. The Chiefs dropped from third to fourth.

Collum limited the Chiefs to six hits in the opener and Faszholz checked Syracuse on three blows in the nightcap. Ed Mierkowicz drove in three runs in the first game on a pair of hits. Don Richmond banged out three hits for the Wings in the nightcap.

Bill Padget pitched the tail-end Springfield Cubs to a 9-3 decision over the seventh-place Baltimore Orioles. Padget, in posting his eighth victory scattered 11 hits. Padget helped his own cause with a double and two singles.

Queen Alex Wins

Queen Alex walloped Queen Mary 21-14 in a girls' school softball encounter Tuesday at Queen Mary. They scored a run in the first, five next time up, seven in the third, three next heat and five in the fifth. The losers counted four in the first, one in the third, six in the fourth and three in the fifth of a hard-hitting tilt. Teams:

CANADIAN SPORTS PARADE

ALMOST in spite of themselves Canadian fight fans are taking new interest in championships. Since the days of welterweight Jimmy McLarnin, Canadians have had little to cheer about but it's just possible now that the lightweight crown may rest on the brow of Ontario's Arthur King before the leaves turn borwn this fall. In a sequence of events resembling a movie script L'il Arthur has become the number one contender for the lightweight title recently lost by stable mate Ike Williams. Canadian promoter Frank Tunney is understandably anxious to stage a Carter-King bout in Canada but Tunney will have to combat the International Boxing Club and its obvious intention to control all championship bouts.

Exit Williams

Ex-lightweight champion Ike Williams of Trenton, N.J., originally lifted the title by knocking out Juan Zurita in Mexico City in April, 1945. Then for six years Williams coddled the crown, defending it only when absolutely necessary. In the meantime Canadian Arthur King had also joined the boxing stable of Blinky Palermo of Philadelphia and was generally considered Palermo's "insurance" against title disaster.

A week or so ago the roof fell in on Williams. Considered a likely pushover for Champion Williams, one Jimmy Carter climbed into the ring at Madison Square Garden at an easy 133 lbs., while the champion was strained to exhaustion meeting the 135-pound limit. Both fighters were tipping the years at 27. Carter was hungry and Ike Williams was almost his usual, confident self.

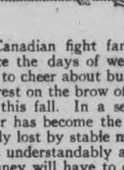
In the fifth round Carter flattened Ike and the crown began to slip. Int he 14th round, game, old Carter brought up his Sunday punch for the wife and kid. He kept bouncing Williams to the mat until the fight was stopped. The lightweight title had been won by a dark horse.

Last week, Arthur King returned to his home town and fulfilled a previous engagement with the current Canadian lightweight terror, Armand Savoie of Montreal.

Thumbs Down

The Savoie-King bout set an all-time high as far as the gate was concerned (over $24,000) and an all-time low in cheers as far as the fans were concerned.

King fought his usual cagey fight while Savoie tried desperately to tag the polished performer. Savoie lost out and so did 9,000 spectators as the bout went the full ten rounds in waltz time.



Having seen Arthur King on many occasions, we would say that his American experience has only improved his ability to win bouts. It has done nothing to increase his prestige as a crowd pleaser. An accomplished boxer, King looks and acts like a high-explosive without a detonator.

Boxing, generally, is considered to be at an all-time low level and we're inclined to blame its management. The promoters and managers have gained too much power while the spectators (who pay the shot) are forced to sit and suffer as the fighters protect their so-called reputations in the safest manner possible. Win or lose, they're sure of the payoff at the end of an evening's fun.

Perhaps the Romans were right. Sitting in the tiered seats of the Coliseum the speciators decided if a fighter should live or die. The crowd was given the deciding vote as to whether a gladiator was paid in gold or thrown to the lions.

Boxing needs a comparable voice today.

Canadian Champion?

Whatever the present abilities of Mr. Arthur King as a fighter, however, the fact remains that if he manages to meet Jimmy Carter (here or elsewhere) Canada may again boast a boxing champion. Eligible for the American draft as a resident alien, King may yet do his fighting in a uniform but it's to be hoped that he gets a chance at the lightweight crown.

Perhaps, as champion, he will turn on the earnest ferocity we feel is naturally his. As lightweight champion of the world, Arthur King may bring us another glimpse of the glamourous days of Jimmy McLarnin.

White Sox Blank Senators Kretlow Latest Chicago Star

By RALPH RODEN,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Until now, Lou Kretlow's chief claim to fame was:

1. He received a $35,000 bonus to sign with Detroit in 1946.

2. He was shipped to St. Louis along with $100,000 by Detroit for Jerry Priddy in 1949.

Today the lanky righthander is blossoming into a winner for the amazing Chicago White Sox. The Sox picked him up for a song from the Browns last year. The coming of Kretlow into his own is just another feather in the cap of freshman manager Paul Richards, an expert handler of pitchers.

Kretlow, who failed as a starter early in the season, was given another chance last week and rewarded Richards with a 4-2 victory over Washington.

Tuesday night Kretlow again faced Washington as the White Sox opened their second tour of the east. Lou came through with the first shutout of his major league career—a 3-0 four-hit job.

The victory enabled the White Sox, who won seven straight the last time they visited the east, to boost their American League lead to 3½ games over the runner up New York Yankees. The Yankees were upset 5-1 by the Browns.

Ed Robinson clinched the game for the White Sox by driving in his 51st run, high for the league, in the fifth.

Haunted Yankees

Duane Pillette, who was exiled to the Browns a year ago, came back and haunted the Yankees at the Stadium. The righthander stopped the bombers on four hits. The Browns collected only five hits off Fred Sanford and three relief pitchers but made the most of 10 walks. The Browns wrapped it up in the seventh when Tommy Byrne walked home two runs.

Cleveland Indians moved within one game of the third-place Boston Red Sox, outlasting Philadelphia Athletics 8-6 in a night game at Philadelphia. The Red Sox dropped a 7-3 decision to the Detroit Tigers under the floodlights at Boston.

Cleveland's Bob Feller, with help in the ninth from Lou Brissie and Mike Garcia, gained credit for his ninth victory. Al Rosen paced the Cleveland attack, driving in four runs on a homer, double and single.

Ted Gray turned in his second victory for the Tigers in spiking the Red Sox. A five-run blast in the first inning against Harry Taylor did the trick.

Preacher Roe and New York Giants provided the fireworks in the National League.

Ninth Victory

Roe turned in his ninth victory without a loss as he pitched the pace-setting Brooklyn Dodgers to a 6-2 victory over the Cardinals in St. Louis. Home runs by Jackie Robinson and Gil Hodges gave Roe an early margin. Hodges' homer was his 19th. Stan Musial of the Cards got four hits to take over the circuit's batting lead from Robinson, .380 to .375.

The Giants turned back the Reds 6-3 in 10 innings at Cincinnati. The victory moved the Giants from fourth to second place six games behind the Dodgers.

Monte Irvin broke up the game with a three-run homer in the tenth off Ken Raffensberger.

Johnny Sain coasted to his fourth victory of the season as Boston Braves humbled Pittsburgh Pirates 13-3. The Braves pounded out 15 hits and scored in every inning.

Philadelphia Phillies came from behind to beat the Chicago Cubs 6-5 in National's only day game.

Selling Browns To Syndicate Because Of Debt

By JOE REICHLER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 13 (AP).—Despite denials, negotiations for the transfer of the St. Louis Browns to a syndicate headed by Bill Veeck have been completed, The Associated Press learned today.

Only one thing is holding up the sale. One American League club owner is opposed.

The transaction involves the purchase of the entire stock in the Browns at the cost of $2,200,000. The present owners, Bill and Charlie Dewitt, who purchased 56 per cent of the stock from Richard Muckerman two years ago for a million dollars, are forced to sell because they are up to their necks in debt.

Why must the Dewitts get the consent of the American League club owners before they can sell? Because one of their loans for $300,000 was made from the league in 1949. The Dewitts, according to the informant whose identity cannot be divulged, haven't paid any of it back. The entire note is due at the end of this year.

When the league granted the loan, the Dewitts agreed to two stipulations.

One—should they desire to sell the club, the purchasers must first be approved by the other seven club owners.

Two—they should not sell any of their top stars to a rival club without the league's consent. The latter, incidentally, is the real reason why the New York Yankees have been unable to purchase Ned Garver, star pitcher, from the Browns.

In addition to the league loan, the Dewitts recently borrowed $600,000 from a St. Louis bank. They also owe notes to Muckerman.

Now here is what is holding up the deal.

One owner at least frowns upon the idea of having Veeck back. He does not relish Veeck's unorthodox method of running a club.

It is no secret several owners heaved a sigh of relief when the promotional minded Veeck sold his Cleveland interests in the winter of 1949.

A new baseball rule, permitting club representatives to discuss contracts with boys before they are graduated from high school, is in the making.

Under the present rule, which expires Dec. 31, ball clubs are not allowed to approach a high school player until he is through with his academic work.

Baseball commissioner A. B. Chandler said Tuesday the decision to let the bars down a bit was reached at a meeting Monday among representatives of the major and minor leagues and the National Federation of State High Schools.

At Ascot, England, Royal Ascot opened in traditional pomp and splendor Tuesday.

Normally the crowds pay more attention to the people than to the horses, but they got some racing excitement Tuesday when an objection was lodged against the winner of the feature race and it was sustained.

Guerrier, six-year-old chestnut, was given first place in the Ascot Stakes Handicap after apprentice jockey Tommy Mahon claimed that the winner, Royallte IV had crossed in front of him.

Maurice Podoloff Tuesday was re-elected president of the American Hockey League. John Chick was named vice-president for another term.

Four Ivy League colleges—Cornell, Princeton, Columbia and Dartmouth — informed Pennsylvania Tuesday they would refuse to play their scheduled football games at Philadelphia next fall if Penn insists on televising the contests.

Both Cornell and Princeton are top-notch drawing cards in Franklin Field, which seats 76,000, and Dartmouth and Columbia have solid followings.

Penn precipitated a collegiate crisis last Wednesday by announcing it would televise its eight home games.

Members of the Horsemen's Benevolent Protective Association are seeking higher purses for races on the Ontario circuit, it was disclosed Tuesday.

It was reported that the increase will be sought for the last seven days racing at each track. In all, 14 days racing is allowed a track annually.

The HBPA request is reported based on higher costs of operating racing stables and the increase in attendance and betting this spring over 1950.

Former halfback for the Toronto Argonauts Football Club from 1913 to 1915, Hugh Wilfrid (Dutch) Brophy died Monday. He also played in the Toronto Rugby and Athletic Association.

At Victoria, BC, an arbitrator will be appointed to settle the purse dispute between horsemen and operators of Vancouver race tracks.

Horsemen have demanded purses of $950 at Lansdowne Park and $1,000 at Exhibition Park with the operators offering $850 minimums.

Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer announced Tuesday both sides have agreed to accept "any decision reached by a competent arbitrator."

Prince of Wales intermediates of the School Softball League pulled out a 10-5 victory yesterday over Confederation on the latter's diamond. Three runs in the second and seven in a big third frame did the trick, the losers only threatening in the third when they sent five runs scampering over the plate in a fair tussle. Teams:

Confederation: Walling, Jones, Parnell, Chesney, Druery, Brown, Hotston, Ferguson, Trotter.

Prince of Wales: Jay, Foster, Douglas, Aulbrook, Morley, Scharfe, Francis, Ashby, Vargo, Faulkner, Fuller, White.

One of hockey's greatest goaltenders, Charlie Gardiner of Chicago Black Hawks, died 17 years ago today. The Scottish-born player, brought up in Winnipeg, was only 30 years old and at the peak of his career in the National Hockey League. The Hawks had won the Stanley Cup just two months previously.

Central Lasses Take Title In School Loop

Ceitral defeated Prince of Wales 23-7 yesterday to capture the championship of the Girls' Public School Softball League. They hit the ball hard for a run in the first inning, nine in the next, four in the third, another one in the fourth and eight in a big fifth frame. The losers tallied two in the first and five more in the fourth having 10 hits to 19 for the winners. The latter booted but one as Prince of Wales have three miscues. B. Tiffin had a double and two singles to lead Central at bat, while C. Munn and E. Gilders of the other side hit a homer each. Teams:

Fans Uninterested In Louis-Savold Fight

NEW YORK, June 13 (AP). — Joe Louis and Lee Savold predict all sorts of explosions tonight when they clash at the Polo Grounds. But even the promise of such fistic fireworks has failed to arouse the fans.

Only about 15,000 cash customers or so will shell out about $100,000 for the make-or-break fight for both of the aging heavyweight contenders. Louis ruled a 3 to 1 favorite to win the (10 p.m. EDT) 15-round and there wasn't much betting going on.

The 37-year-old Brown Bomber promised his followers a knockout victory, "inside of the six rounds."

Savold, a 35-year-old reformed playboy who has had more ups and downs than a kid on a polo stick, is confident he'll do all the blasting. "I'll knock him out in five rounds," said blond Lee.

Fireballer Loucks Hurls Team To Win

PORT HOPE, June 13 — Fireballer Doug Loucks pitched and batted Lindsay Merchants to an 8-2 victory over the Port Hope Ontarios here in a Lakeshore Baseball League intermediate ball game. He gave up but two hits, struck out nine and walked but one. At the plate he had a perfect showing, batting three for three and scored two runs while driving home a third.

Junior West was another important cog in Lindsay's win, hitting two doubles and a single in four trips and driving in two runs.

Port Hope's two runs did not come in the inning in which Loucks gave up the two hits. The Ontarios took the lead in the second on three errors by Lindsay and a walk. Their hits came in the fifth, Darce Campbell and Len Ashby each driving singles into left field.

Fight Book Tax

TORONTO, June 13 — (CP).—Federal sales taxes on books are a tax on intellect, the Canadian Library Association contended on Tuesday. Delegates attending the CLA Book Fair said booksellers are facing perilous times due to a slump in the sale of books. They asked in a resolution that both sales and customs taxes on books be removed. This has already been urged in the report of the Massey Commission.

Presbyterians Oppose Criticism Of Service Clubs

OTTAWA, June 13 — (CP).—An aroused General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada has erased all critical reference to service clubs and fraternal societies from the report of one of its most important committees.

The Assembly commissioners overrode the 17-member committee on Church and Nation by a two-to-one majority after a vigorous 1½-hour debate late Tuesday. They removed the section dealing with service clubs and fraternal orders from the committee's Article-of-Faith report.

Remainder of the long-range report, which aims at fashioning a clear statement of Presbyterian doctrine concerning the relationship between church and nation, will be sent to the church's 47 Presbyteries for study and comment by January 31 of next year.

Many of the commissioners at the 77th General Assembly are members of fraternal societies and service clubs

Controversial Issue

The controversial section declared:

"Insofar ass uch societies make use of the Bible but ignore or obscure its central testimony to Jesus Christ as Redeemer, they pervert the Gospel and entangle men in human error; to the extent they encourage men unto good works which, however, are not done from, in and unto Christ as Lord they minister to human pride and vain glory; offering themselves to men as organizations for moral training, fellowship, they deprive Christ of His glory as men substitute them for the Church.

"Yet insofar as these organizations do enshrine certain elements of biblical doctrine and morality, their presence in society must be taken as a rebuke to a weak church, their teachings as a challenge to a non-witnessing church, their fellowship as an indication of lack of love within the church and many of their benevolent activities as pointing the church to duties too long neglected."

C. M. Pitts of Ottawa touched off debate on the section when he demanded it be deleted.

After the Rev. George L. Douglas of Woodstock had outlined the two-year work of the joint committee in preparing the article of faith and declaration of faith contained in the report, Mr. Pitts said the section is "outside our province."

He told the assembly there was "enough material for earnest consideration of the whole church in the fundmental principles enunciated in this article of faith without steping outside our immediate province ot criticize—or appear to criticize — in pharisaical manne: the labors of other organizations with the best of inventions."

Dr. T. Wardlaw Taylor of Toronto, veteran clerk of the assembly, crossed swords with Mr. Pitts, declaring the church should have the right to evaluate every element in society.

"There is no such thing as exemption from the teaching and thought of the church," he said.

Farmers To Trap Alberta Beaver

EDMONTON — (CP) — More than 18,100 of Alberta's beaver are earmarked for the furcoat market this year in a government program to keep the dam-building animals in equilibrium between the harm and good they do.

Beaver have been heavily protected for 10 years and now are flourishing in most parts of the province. So, under a conservation scheme, 914 permits have been issued to Alberta farmers, allowing them to trap varying numbers of beaver on their lands. The number has been set by individual inspection of each farmer's land. He car sell the furs he collects.

The permits are bound to widely ranging points as far north as the Peace river and as far south as the Crow's Nest Pass.

Volcanoes On Island Bar Firms From Sulphur

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, N.Z. — (CP) — New Zealand is looking with a good deal of frustration at a valuable source of sulphur lying only 20 miles from her eastern coast.

As the world sulphur shortage cuts down the dominion's supplies, attention is being turned again to White Island, an intensely volcanic cone off the north island. The sulphur is there, but it is still judged too difficult and dangerous to get it.

Activity on White Island is so great that it puts other famous New Zealand thermal regions like Aotorua in the shade. It ranks high among the world's most amazing natural phenomena, but it is not likely to become a tourist attraction, for the volcanic activity is violent and terrifying. At times clouds of poisonous gases drift across the landscape. Several parties have narrowly escaped with their lives.

It has been the scene of one tragedy which ended an effort to extract sulphur commercially. One of the giant vents was blocked by a fall of debris in 1914, and in the resulting explosion boulders weighing tons were hurled to the farthest extremities of the island. The interior was buried to a depth of several feet with debris and all traces of the 12 men engaged at the workings, the jetty, buildings and machinery were obliterated.

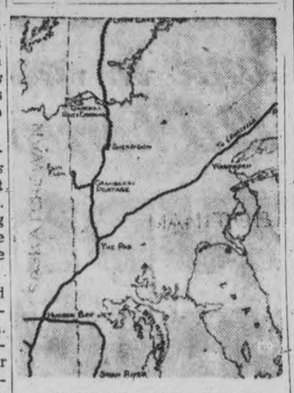
Treacherous Footing

Today it is possible to land only in calm weather and even then the footing is treacherous owing to boiling springs among the rocks.

The visitor crosses a shaking mass of hot, hissing silica. There is a bright green lake, boiling furiously at one end. Boiling sulphur pools emit clouds of vapor. Brilliant splashes of bright color reveal deposits of many chemicals. In one place there is a small stream of hydrochloric acid; once there was a whole lake of it.

But the blowholes are the most awe-inspiring phenomena. They emit gases with a reverberating roar which continues day and night year after year. The sound is like a thousand great steam boilers blowing off at once. It is deafening and numbing. Speech is impossible. The earth shakes and boulders rolled into the vents are hurled back again high into the air.

The blowhole known as Schuoert's Fairy belches sulphurous fumes at such a temperature that they are invisible for many feet. Then they condense in a dancing blue "fairy" of flame high in the air, while above it soars a white steam cloud.



Knives corrode overnight and silver turns jet black. Temperatures of the gases are very high. A party of scientists which tested one hole with a thermometer reading up to 350 degrees centigrade found the thermometer quite inadequate. It buckled and broke at once.

Too Many Obstacles

Despite the 1914 tragedy several companies have since tried to extract sulphur and other minerals from the island. One company shipped sulphur for several seasons, but the dangers and difficulties have always proved too great in the end.

Already the buildings erected by the last company to try are collapsing under the attacks of intense chemical activity. Concrete structures have bulged through corrosion of the steel reinforcements. Roofing iron and railway lines have become heaps of rust. Machinery collapses at a touch.

The sulphur shortage may lead to a further effort to conquer the intense forces of nature on the island, but at the moment it lies deserted. An Auckland stockbroker who bought the island from the last company operating there purchased it with no idea of exploiting it but simply because he liked the idea of owning a volcano.

NEW RAIL LINE—Construction is expected to start this summer on a 155-mile railway line from Sherridon to Lynn Lake, Man., 550 miles northwest of Winnipeg. The project, which will cost $14,500,000, will link the nickel and copper deposits of the region with main Manitoba centres. The Canadian National Railways map shows the location of the route.

Giving Answers Becomes Big Business

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK, — (CP) — Life has become so complicated that answering questions can be big business. Lots of people would rather pay some one to find out the facts than wear themselves out trying to dig up the information, whatever it may be.

This fact led Pierre Marquis to start an organization known as Facts, Inc., which now answers 400,000 to 500,000 question a year for about $500,000 a year.

Who are his customers? Well, people like Gypsy Rose Lee and Faye Emerson — and institutions like General Electric and the International Business Machines Company.

Marquis, a slender 29-year-old lawyer who was wounded during the Second World War, started his unique enterprise a couple of years age from scratch — about $1,500 in scratch.

"There are a lot of things people want to know," Marquis said happily, And individuals pay $35 a year and business firms up to $2,500 to get his answers.

Publicity Angle

His biggest current job is to find a pretty gal relative of Bathsheba, the Biblical siren. This commission came from the 20th Century-Fox Studio which poured out $3,000,000 on a technicolor movie called "David and Bathsheba." It is looking for a glamorous female descendant of Bathsheba to help publicize its venture.

"There are at least several hundred thousand desendants of Bathsheba alive today," Marquis said.

One query he got was "how many toes does a tiger have?"

A prominent museum told him a tiger usually had five toes on each of its front feet and four on each of its hind feet. Dissatisfied, he checked further and found the nearest live tigers had five toes on each paw.

He notified the museum. They rechecked their stuffed tigers and said, "sorry. You're right. Five is correct."

Want Casualties Buried In Canada

SARNIA, June 13 (CP) — The Sarnia branch of the Canadian Legion proposed Tuesday that the bodies of Canadians killed in Korea be returned home for burial.

A resolution forwarded to Legion headquarters in Toronto said the task could be undertaken as fatalities so far have been comparatively few. Bereaved families would find it difficult to visit graves in Korea, it said.

Canada in the First and Second World Wars followed a policy of leaving war dead in cemeteries overseas. She now has a brigade in action in Korea, the first time the country has participated in an Asiatic war. Korean war dead to date total 44.

Looks Like Home

HALIFAX — (CP)—Joan Powley of Charlottetown, coming home on holiday after a term as a British civil servant in India, said she had spent some time in Ceylon during an international labor conference there. She said sections of Ceylon with its red soil and green foliage reminded her of Prince Edward Island.

Won't Give In To Pressure

OTTAWA, June 13 (CP)—Production Minister Howe refused to budge Tuesday in the face of United States pressure to have him block a proposed $10-a-ton boost in the price of Canadian newsprint.

In an interview he expressed skepticism of reports that the U.S. may plan retaliatory measures if the government allows the price increase to go into effect July 1.

So far, he said, a report that the U.S. may curb arms buying in Canada as a result is "nothing but a rumor." So was the possibility of a U.S. price ceiling on newsprint imports.

"We'll talk about that," he said, "when we actually see them."

The price increases proposed by the industry were "justified in view of the factors involved," Mr. Howe added.

A Washington dispatch Tuesday uoted Michael V. DiSalle, U.S. price stabilizer, as saying the U.S. government is considering limiting the price American newspaper publishers may pay for imported newsprint.

French Politicians Forecast Trend To Right In Election

By ALAN HARVEY

PARIS, June 13 —(CP)— With fingers crossed, French politicians cagily forecast a slight trend to the right in the forthcoming national elections.

Intricate new electoral provisions make predictions a gamble but the guessing is that the biggest losses in the June 17 voting will be suffered by the Communists and the Catholic-supported Mouvement Republicain Populaire, the party of one-time Prime Minister Georges Bidault.

The Communists with 28.2 per cent of the votes and the MRP with 26 per cent were the two largest patries in the last national assembly, which was elected in November, 1946, and was dissolved last month.

The Communists are expected to be hit hard by the new election law, which permits alliances against extremists, while the MRP may suffer from the stigma which usually attaches to a government party in France. They were one of the outstanding groups in the coalitions which ruled for the last 4½ years.

Biggest New Force

The biggest new force in the election will certainly be Gen. Charles De Gaulle's Rassemblement du Peuple Francais (Rally of the French People), running for the first time. The Gaullists are regarded as likely to pick up anywhere between 100 and 200 seats in the 621-member assembly.

Nobody ventures to say for certain that any one party will win enough seats to govern with a clear majority.

That is partly because of the vast number of parties, including 15 "national" groups with candidates in at least 30 of the 90 departments. Though some of the weird characters which enliven French elections aren't running this time, there are still some laughs. In one constituency, a husband, wife and their three sons are grouped as a party dedicated to the "consolidation of republican institutions."

Party tags are as confusing as they are diverse. For instance, three of the 15 national parties contain the word "socialist" in their titles. But the party that everyone recognizes as the real Socialist party—the one whose members include planner Guy Mollet and Defence Minister Jules Moch—does not so style itself. It is known officially as La Section Francaise de L'Internationale Ouvrier, or French Section of the Working-Class International.

Similarly "Communist" appears only in the trade names of groups which disdain the Moscow brand, while the Communists themselves are tagged as a "Union for national independence, bread, liberty and peace."

Tough Decision

Of all the issues among the parties, one in particular is of interest to the Socialists and the MRP. As collectivists, the Socialists would like to nationalize the schools. The Catholic MRP, on the other hand, would like to see Catholic schools receive the same financial support as state schools.

For voters of either party, this will mean a tough decision wherever Socialists and the MRP team up to try to defeat Communists or Gaullists.

This was the state of the leading parties at dissolution last month:

Communists (including 14 progressives) 181; MRP 145; Socialists 99; Radical Socialists (including Edouard Daladier and Edouard Herriot) 47; Parti Republicain de la Liberte 29; Independents (including former Premier Paul Reynaud) 25; Union Democratique et Socialiste de la Resistance (including Former Premier Rene Pleven) 15.

International Tensions

OSLO — (CP). — Sponsored by the newly established Norwegian Institute for Social Research, sociologists from 10 nations will meet here next fall to map plans for an investigation of the causes of international tensions.

Problem now is getting a suitable feeding formula.

NY Breakwater Made Of Ballast From ManyLands

NEW YORK — (CP) — Rocks and sand from many old world countries went into the building of the giant breakwater that protects Erie Basin, one of the busiest Marine terminals in New York.

The narow 4,000-foot strip, now called the International Fill, is the result of the foresight of William Beard, a canny Irish business man from Ulster who bought the land in 1843 from George Hall, the first Mayor of Brooklyn.

Beard sensed the shipping potential of the basin and contrived to protect it against the seas. He first moved a sand hill to build up the land covered by the high tide, but found that the material at hand was not nearly enough to do the job.

Accept Offer

At that time, much of the trade was out of New York, with sailing ships touching port here laden down with sand, soil, rocks and gravel for ballast. Beard invited the skippers to dump the ballast on his property. They were glad to save cartage fees and ships from England, Spain, Italy and many other nations accepted the offer.

With improvements now under way, the breakwater soon will be able to accommodate five or more deep-draft ships at a time.

Beard's original strip, now valued in the millions, was more than 300 acres, but only 105 are still owned by his descendants. He sold 23 acres to the Anglo-American Dry Dock Company in 1864, out of which developed the largest shipyard on the continent.

Besides the 105 acres, Beard's Erie Basin, Inc., now owns five large corvered piers and the breakwater, which produce an annual gross income of nearly $250,000. It is one of the few properties in the country owned and operated by the same family for more than 100 years.

A BONNIE LASSIE indeed was three-year-old Elma Joan Sherrington, of Quebec City, when she travelled to Lachine, Que., recently to take part in the annual Scottish games. To the fashion expert, her sporran may seem a bit askew, but she was a popular figure in the C.N.R. recreation grounds where the games were held.

Summer Theatre Actor To Miss First Play He's In Kingston Pen—For Good Reasons

Gerry Sarracini, popular actor with the Peterborough Summer Theatre during its first two seasons, will not be on the boards when the first play of the current season opens on Monday, June 25. Gerry Sarracini is in Kingston Penitentiary.

This fact is not as horrifying as it seems on the outside. The actor is in tht Pen for only the first three weeks of this month, and he is there voluntarily. He is playing the lead in a National Film Board movie on "Crime Does Not Pay", being filmed on location, in the penitentiary itself. Gerry Sarracini will join the Peterborough company for its second production "The Vinegar Tree."

A new and strong addition to the company is Betty Leighton, and Joy La Fleur recently returned from playing in England will come to Peterborough for the leading role in "Separate Rooms". One of the highlights of the season is the double bill of "The Browning Version", Terrence Rattigan's brilliant psychological drama with Bill Needles and Betty Leighton in the leads, and "Red Peppers", Noel Coward's musical extravaganza with Peter Mews and Betty Leighton as the English music-hall comedy team.

Berlin Cabbies Experiencing Tough Times In Old Cabs

By RENE CAPPON

BERLIN (AP)—Asking a German cab driver about his business is like waving a red flag in front of a bull.

"What business?" snorted one cabbie. "On good days I may make seven marks ($1.66) for myself. My rent is due tomorrow and I've half of it ready. I don't smoke, don't drink, and barely eat."

Another veteran driver said he made more on tips before the war than on his regular earnings (25 per cent of the meter reading) now. He proposed a special Marshall plan for taximen.

Despite such circumstances, more than 700 cabs are rolling around West Berlin. Nine-tenths of them are ancient and slow. The speedier ones bounce and pitch like destroyers on a rough sea.

The machines—held together by grit, thread and a prayer—are generaly owned by small companies with two or three cabs apiece. Operating costs since the war soared between 200 and 300 per cent, the owners say, while rates have gone up only 35 per cent.

Spare parts are difficult to come by. A brand new cab is an extreme rarity, six years after the war.

Some cabbies are handicapped also by the small size of their cars which hold only three persons in dubious comfort.

By contrast, you also see huge, box-shaped antiques which could swallow 10 people—though they'd probably crumble to dust if it were tried.

At that, Berlin taximen are better off than their brethern in the Russian-occupied territories.

In Dessau, until quite recently at least, they had wood-burning cabs, chugging along disconsolately with a chimney for an exhaust and trailing smoke and occasional flame.

At Leipzig, the cabs are if possible still more dilapidated than in the West. Polished and well-fed with gasoline for the Leipzig Fair, they gave an impression of brisk business until you listened to the driver. When the semi-annual fair is over, gas rations return to normal, meaning little or none. There's a black market, of course, but prices ar ealmost prohibitive.

Anyhow, "who in this town has the money to ride cabs?" a Leipzig cabbie demanded. "I wouldn't ride in this egg-beater myself if I didn't have to. Don't repeat this here, it might be considered anti-state propaganda."

A West Berlin taxi driver pointed up this dismal estate of his clan like this:

"I'd do better collecting unemployment insurance, which isn't exactly luxurious. But I guess I prefer to drive around and pretend I'm making a living."

Legend Leads To Deposit Of Tungsten

SYDNEY, Australia. —(CP)—A native legend may lead to the discovery of tungsten deposits in New Caledonia, Pacific island off the east coast of Australia.

For many years local natives have said that remote mountain regions near the little settlement of Canala, on the east coast, are inhabited by ghosts and devils. They have consistently refused to hunt or work in the neighborhood.

Recently prospectors decided to investigate the reason behind the Kanaka superstition.

They observed the fluorescent phenomena often associated with large tungsten deposits—a weird, blue-green glow above areas where the ore has been exposed by erosion.

They took specimens and had assays made. These showed promising percentages of the strategic mineral.

Mining rights in the region were owned by an old farmer. A leading local business man quietly bought his concession, and now proposes to develop the lease with private capital.

The whole island is experiencing an unprecedented mining boom.

Australian interests have bought concessions near Canala to mine cobalt, another strategic mineral.

The island already produces considerable quantities of nickel and chrome.

Tough On Cow

KIRKCALDY, Scotland (CP)—A farmer here took by mistake medicine intended for one of his cows and gave the animal medicine he should have taken himself. He recovered but a vet was called to the cow.

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP)—The acute housing shortage here will be helped somewhat by conversion of a former army administration building into 54 apartments.

Postal Rates Rapped By CDNA As Discriminatory

BRANDON, Man., June 13 (CP) —The Canadian Daily Newspapers Association Tuesday termed "still very discriminatory" proposed increases in postal rates for daily newspapers.

Postmaster General Rinfret announced in the Commons Monday night fractional reductions in rate increases originally proposed — from the original $1,000,000 a year to $810,000. The new rate for newspapers with a daily circulation of more than 10,000 will be four cents a pound on the advertising sections and 2½ cents a pound on the news portion. The original proposal was for a four cents a pound increase, regardless of advertising content.

E. C. Whitehead, CDNA president and publisher of The Brandon Sun, Tuesday issued the following statement:

The Canadian daily newspapers were naturally disappointed in parliament's action in passing the third reading of the bill to raise second class postal rates. The increase, while not as great as at first proposed, is still very discriminatory against daily newspapers and against the rural subscribers of daily newspapers.

The case for the newspapers was presented in a seven-page brief which went to the Postmaster General and to all cabinet ministers. They did not, however, see fit to establish the rates on a scale that would enable the daily newspapers to service the rural subscribers at the low rates these subscribers have enjoyed ever since Confederation.

Delay On Freight Increase Collapses In Commons

OTTAWA, June 13 — (CP). — A delaying action against further freight-rate increases collapsed Tuesday in the Commons.

A CCF move against possible higher rates was ruled out of order in the House while the Board of Transport Commissioners was hearing a railway application for a new 15-per-cent increase.

The attempt came on a motion by Hazen Argue (CCF-Assiniboia), which would have put the Commons on record against any further rate boost until it has dealt with expected government legislation for the country-wide equalization of rates. Speaker Ross Macdonald ruled it out on the ground that the issue was before a court — the Transport Board — and therefore was sub judice.

The government's equalization measure is expected to be brought in at this session but to have House consideration and passage deferred until next fall. Effect of the CCF motion would have been for the House to ask Cabinet — which can overrule board decisions—to put off any increase until then.

In the case now before the board, there is one possibility of a rate increase in the meantime. The board is holding brief hearings to determine if a temporary boost should be granted the railways, and the sessions will be concluded today or Thursday.

The Commons Tuesday heard further argument over Postmaster-General Rinfret's proposal to increase postal rates for newspapers and periodicals, eventually approving the higher charges.

Defeat Motion

By a vote of 136 to 30, it defeated a motion by George Drew, Progressive Conservative Leader, to delay approval of the rates until the newspapers had had a chance to present their case. Then it gave third and final reading to the measure, which also revises the Post Office Act generally. It now goes to the Senate for ratification.

The proposed new rates, to become effective after Senate passage and Royal Assent, would add $810,000 to the yearly bill of daily publications going to rural and other readers.

The House devoted much of the time to Canada's fishery, with Fisheries Minister Mayhew the target for the customary annual barrage of requests from members for aid for their ridings.

He told the House:

1—He is confident something will be done to halt the killing of young seals off Newfoundland by Norwegian hunters in the spring.

2—The United States has not yet replied to proposals for revision of the Canada-US Treaty on halibut fishing off the Pacific coast.

3—The Fisheries Department is going to make it tougher on poachers of lobsters and other fish on both coasts.

Many Firms Explain Annual Reports

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

An increasing number of companies are showing in simple fashion what happens to the money they take in.

They do it in their annual reports, in explanations of the meaning of the complex balance sheet and such.

The latest such report at hand is that of Dominion Textile Co., Ltd., with plants in several centres in Quebec. The report comments:

"Accounting terminology is apt to be rather misleading when it refers to 'profits'. Actually, none of the earnings of the company can be deemed to be a profit until all charges against those earnings have been met."

Receipts Handled

The report states that its receipts from the sale of goods and other income, was disposed of as follows, in the year ending March 31:

Paid for raw cotton 37.7 per cent; for wages, salaries and employees benefits, 25.4; for materials, supplies and other services 17.7; as a provision for depreciation of goods on hand, buildings, machinery and other equipment, 6.6; for dominion and provincial taxes 6.7; for dividends to shareholders 2.8; retained for use in the business 3.1.

The company gives this further information about tislef:

More women than men own its common stock—3,110 against 2,-225. More than 95 per cent of the total of both men and women live in Canada, the majority in Quebec, Ontario and Brjtish Columbia, followed by Manitoba and Nova Scotia. The report adds:

"No one of these individual shareholders owns more than two-thirds of one per cent of the common stock."

Get Stamps Back

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., June 13 — (CP). — Newfoundlanders had a touch of pre-Confederation flavor Tuesday when Newfoundland stamps, removed from post offices shortly after the Island became a province in 1949, went back on sale. The Postmaster-General's Department, which has been storing the stamps for two years, has redistributed them to Newfoundland post office where they will be sold until the stocks, numbering several millions, are disposed of.

Must Have X-rays

TORONTO, June 13 (CP). — Acting on legislation passed at the last session of the legislature, Education Minister Dana Porter Tuesday issued an order which will require all non-teaching employees of school boards to have a chest X-ray examination before the opening of school next September. The order requires, for the first time, that all school board employees, including teachers, caretakers, bus drivers, maintenance workers, clerks and other persons in contact with the pupils, have X-rays taken.

Regional Foods

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 13 (CP).—Regional foods should be featured on Canadian restaurant menus, the managing director of the Canadian Restaurant Association said Tuesday night. Mrs. F. G. Montgomery told the 16th convention of the Canadian Diatetic Association that eating places ought to offer tourists and other patrons such items as honey, maple syrup, fresh aple pie, homemade sausages, Canadian bacon or other specialities of their districts.

Ask For Pickers

TORONTO, June 13 — (CP).— Picking of this year's first crops still is some time away, but the Ontario Agriculture Department Tuesday issued a call for persons who will help this summer in harvesting fruit and vegetables. Crop prospects are good and help is in short supply. Twenty-two supervised camps in the districts where fruit and vegetables are grown will accommodate girls over 16 who are prepared to spend a month or more harvesting.

Governor Backs St. Lawrence Seaway Plan

OTTAWA, June 13 —(CP)—G. Mennen Williams, Michigan's bow-tied 40-year-old millionaire governor, came to Ottawa on a visit Tuesday as a staunch champion of the St. Lawrence seaway.

The big, friendly governor, a wartime combat flier, told reporters at least 10 US states will have representatives at a conference in Omaha, Nebraska, next Monday to discuss the possibilities and advantages of the seaway.

He didn't predict victory in the seaway fight but he did recollect that the crucial battle being fought in Washington congressional committees is pretty well hanging in the balance and it is the aim of the conference to tip the battle in the right direction.

The governor later said Michigan's civil defence chief, Brig.-Gen. L. J. Maitland, had talks with Gen. Worthington and inspected Canada's CD school near here Tuesday. He noted that Ontario and Michigan have common problems in the Detroit-Windsor, Port Huron-Sarnia and twin Sault Ste. Marie areas.

Approve Wage Boost

WASHINGTON, June 13 (AP). —The Wage Stabilization Board Tuesday unanimously approved an over-the-ceiling wage boost negotiated by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and American Railroads. The board said the 33-cent-an-hour increase for yard workers and 18½ cent an hour raise for road workers should be approved because it had taken the union more than two years to negotiate the contract signed May 25. There are about 150,000 trainmen.

Plan Pilot Plant

BRUSSELS, Belgium, June 13 (Reuters)—Manono, a Belgian Congo village about 100 miles north of Eliasabethville, may soon become the recognized world centre of atomic energy, informed sources said Tuesday night. In agreement with the United States government, the Belgian tin mining company "Geomine" is to set up a pilot plant for the production of lithium—key-metal for the hydrogen bomb—following discovery of rich deposits at Manono.

Approximate Date Set For CGE Vote

Voting Late In June To Pick Union To Act For Workers

An approximate date has been set for the vote among more than 3,500 production workers at the Peterborough CGE plant. Tuesday afternoon representatives of the company and the two rival unions—UE and IUE (CIO) — agreed on June 26-28 as most suitable for the vote.

An official of the Ontario Labor Relations Board will arrive next Monday to make a final decision on which of the three days will be most suitable for the balloting. He will check the voters' list, supplied by the company, to see how many production workers are eligible. And he will complete other arrangements.

On March 22 the IUE applied to the OLRB for certification at the Peterborough plant, claiming they had a majority of the production workers signed and paid up. It was their second bid in 16 months.

Investigation

Last week the OLRB ordered a vote after a preliminary investigation of the cards filed by both unions. The company at that time produced figures showing 3,598 workers in the unit. And, according to the report of A. M. Brunskill, OLRB examiner, the IUE had 1,727 admissable cards, or one card less than 48 per cent of the total.

Since the cards were filed in April, the UE has signed a two-year contract.

Both unions have now started active campaigning.

This weekend a CCL institute is being held in Peterborough, and it is expected that the two main speakers will urge the CGE workers to vote for the IUE. The speakers are James Carey, secretary-treasurer of the CCL.

Tuesday the UE had a group of workers in from Toronto CGE shops. They included John Bettes, president Local 507 (Davenport), Jack Turner, president Local 516 (Ward Street Works), Norman Choate, president Local 515 (Royce Avenue), Lionel Bell, secretary Local 526 (Carboloy), and George Hyndman, president Local 537 (Lamp Works). All spoke at a plant-gate meeting at noon.

Today the UE have a representation from the Mine, Mill, and Smelter Workers, another left-wing union that has been expelled from the CCL.

They are Mike Kopinak, president Local 637, Port Colborne, Bill Cowper, financial secretary of the same local, and George Herman, Mine-Mill organizer.

Mr. Kopinak claims that his union, though expelled from the CCL, has the highest base rate in Canada—$1.53 an hour.

Prepare Plans For Building Masonic Temple

The directors of the Peterborough Masonic Hall Ltd. have directed their architects ,Blackwell and Craig to complete working drawings on the proposed masonic temple. The temple will be situated on Rubidge St. in the block between Hall and Brock Sts. It is known as the Hamilton property and on it is situated a stone house the central part of which was built more than 100 years ago. In it Corinthian Lodge held its early meetings.

This property was purchased last fall by the masons of Peterborough for their new masonic temple. It is proposed that a lodge room and dining room will be built immediately to the west of the house and the house will be renovated into the necessary rooms which go along with a masonic temple.

It is expected that working drawings will be completed within eight weeks and then tenders will be called and it is hoped that work will commence and building completed before September 1952.

Sufficient funds were obtained in the recent canvass to commence work on the project and it is hoped that when the building is completed it will be entirely free of debt.

Thieves Take Station Safe

For the second time within a few months, the Canadian National Railways station at Woodville was broken into and a new safe, estimated to contain about $10, was carried away. It is still missing, according to the Provincial Police who are investigating.

Entry was gained through a window in the north side of the station and four express parcels, besides the safe, were taken.

The police have requested that anyone finding the safe will notify them before handling it. It weighs 350 pounds and is of a dark green color and was comparatively new, having been installed in the station sometime in February of this year.

Stable Owner Sells 7 Horses

TORONTO, June 13 (CP). — Seven thoroughbreds owned by Joe Holbeck of Toronto from his Double Blue stable were sold to three purchasers for $42,350 in an auction, June 5, at Woodbine Park.

Six of the thoroughbreds were sold again Tuesday for $28,000 by Holbeck at Thorncliffe Race Track. Among them was Mount Branca, King's Plate entry, sold for $16,300 the first time and $9,000 the second.

Ontario Racing Commission Stewart W. S. Risewick, said today that neither sale is considered a sale by the Commission.

He said no record of the first sale has been sent to the Commission. As for the sale Tuesday, he said it will not be recognized and approved until the Commission meets today to determine if the new owner, El Mar Stable of Oakville, trained by Dic' Townrow, can afford to race the horses

The other horses sold were Sir Strome, Medalofreedom, Good Sir, Isis and Pandamont. The seventh, Fair Lotus, was not sold the second time.

Risewick said Holbeck probably bought his horses back at the first sale—a legal procedure in Canadian racing auctions.

DR. JOHN S. BRAUND, graduated from the University of Toronto in dentistry last week. Son of Dr. and Mrs. Stanley Braund, 657 Bethune St., he will practise here with his father.

Congratulations

Before adjourning court at the general sessions for Peterborough, Judge J. A. McGibbon, Lindsay, took time out to congratulate Crown Attorney John Bradshaw, KC, on his forthcoming marriage. W. J. Arthur Fair, KC, rose to add his sentiments. It was one of the few times during the sessions that Judge McGibbon and Mr. Fair saw eye to eye, and the Judge didn't let that go without comment. "It's nice to see you smile for a change, Mr. Fair," he said.

Tree Planting Bee Planned Also Crow Hunt

An emergency call is being sent out to members of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association, to take part in a tree planting bee next Sunday. The program is arranged for Sunday because so many members have to work Saturday, and the trees must be planted this weekend or they will be dead.

This decision was made at a meeting of the executive Tuesday night. Norm Bradley presided in the absence of president Jack O'Neill. Members will meet at the CPR freight shed at ten o'clock Sunday morning and each is asked to bring a pail, shovel, lunch and cup. Coffee will be provided. The 1,500 trees, all firs, will be planted at the Buckley lake game sanctuary near Lakefield.

A report on the recent visit of Bill Lang, who showed colored movies at the Collegiate revealed it was nip and tuck to clear expenses but the club came out on the right end wih $2.25 and this amount is being forwarded to the Mayor's Fire Fund. The committee worked hard to make the show a success, and spent considerable on advertising but the crowd was poor, both nights.

Arrange Crow Shoot

A crow shoot is being arranged for Saturday, June 23, when it is hoped sufficient members will take part to produce a suitable report for the federation. This is a project requested by the Ontario Federation to reduce the crow population, which is rapidly increasing to the detriment of song birds and ducks.

Ken Strasser, treasurer, reports he is having difficulty getting all the bills in from the recent Sportsmen's Show. These should be mailed to him at once at his home, 12 Victoria Ave. He hopes to have a complete report at the next and final meeting of the summer to be held in the Library on Tuesday, June 26.

Dissatisfaction was expressed that the general membership of the club is not showing too much interst in club activities, and a greater effort will be made to have more of them take an active part in the various conservation projects in the future.

Millbrook To Name Assistant Constable

MILLBROOK, June 13 (ENS)—An assistant constable will be appointed for Millbrook. This decision was made at the meeting of the village council last week following complaints received from residents.

Several complaints have come before the council about motorists on the main streets at night. Dangerous driving, horn-blowing and generally creating a public nuisance have been the main criticisms.

An enquiry was made by Homer Ouellette as to whether the council were taking steps to substiute for the discontinuation of the telegraph service following the shut-down of the railway between Millbrook and Port Hope.

Sought Daughter Here Found In Rochester

William McAvilla, 83, Brooklyn, USA, left Peterborough Tuesday at 5 p.m. for Rochester to locate his daughter whom he has not seen since she was 10 months old. In 1896 his daughter was left with her grandparents.

On Friday the Peterborough police were asked if they could locate the woman. Mr. McAvilla explained that he was getting old and wanted to see her again, if she had not died since he left the city. Mr. McAvilla has been living in the United States and worked as an engineer on one of the New York state's larger railway systems. He retired a few years ago.

Police investigated and reported that she was working in a law office in Rochester.

Deloro Smelters Pay Increases

MARMORA, June 13 (ENS).—Discussions between the negotiating committee of Local 889 International Union of Mine, Mill, and Smelter Workers (CIO) and the management of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company Limited, ended Tuesday afternoon in agreement on a new contract providing increases in pay.

Thanksgiving Day is added to the five holidays already granted to the employees. The hourly rate of pay has been increased by 9 cents, retroactive to May 25, with an additional increase of 6 cents to fall due in six months. The shift differential has been raised from 3 cents to 5 cents per hour.

Burned Boy, 9 Fights For Life

Eugene Kuzmin, 9, third of a family trapped in their burning Verulam township farm home, is putting up a strong fight for his life. He is in critical condition with burns in Lindsay hospital.

His mother, Mrs. Eugene Kuzmin, 46, and his five-year-old brother Allen, both perished in the flames of the fire that broke out late Sunday night.

Hospital authorities said today that Eugene's condition remains critical but he is slightly improved.

Eugene escaped death when he was thrown from a second-storey window by his mother, or else he jumped voluntarily. There were no eyewitnesses to the escape.

The body of the mother was found 8.30 a.m. Monday in the ruins of the house, located two miles west of Bobcaygeon, and the body of Allen was recovered 3 p.m. Tuesday.

Fire started on the ground floor of the large brick house, owned by the grandfather, J. H. Allen, when a coal oil lamp was dropped to the floor and the oil ignited.

The funeral will be in Christ's Church (Anglican), 2.30 p.m. Thursday and burial will be in Verulam cemetery. Until the funeral, the bodies will be at the Nisbett funeral home, Bobcaygeon.

Chief Coroner Seeks Signs Of Arson In Zacks' Fire, Carelessness Says Captain

Chief Smith Asked For Men To Enter Firemen Testify; Could See Floor Wasn't Safe Captain Brown Says

A suggestion of arson crept into the testimony of witnesses at the first day of the inquest into the deaths of four firemen in the $500,000 May 19 fire. Chief Coroner Smirle Lawson told a number of witnesses: "I'm interested in whether someone set the place on fire." Acting captain Bill Sorrie said: "I don't know; honestly, I don't." But Sorrie said the flames "were an unnatural color, which indicated either inflammable liquids or gases built up. Gases could only have been built up if the fire had been going since the night before."

"Do you thing the fire could have been going the night before?" the chief coroner asked. Sorrie said "Yes".

There was also a suggestion that water pressure was not as high as it should have been. Sorrie at one point in his testimony told the inquest that firemen changed from two-and-a-half-inch hose to one-and-a-half-inch hose when the pressure "was not so good."

Captain Albert Mason, second last to testify in the evening session, said he and another fireman were using a hose from the top of the aerial ladder.

"There was not enough water to get it to points I think we should have got to," he said.

Carelessness

Captain Mason said be believed the fire was due to somebody's carelessness. Dr. Lawson had asked him:

"From your 29 years eperience as a fireman, do you think this fire was accidental or set?" — "I think it was somebody's carelessness."

The question: "Who sent the firemen into Riley's store?" cropped up often. Fireman Adelard Vinette said that Fire Chief George Smith "said he wanted four or five men to take hose into Ed Riley's shop.

"There was quite a bit of fire up at the ceiling after we'd pulled the false ceiling down. Weplayed hose on it and got it pretty well out.

Knocked To Knees

"Rome was about two feet from me. I turned around to go out and the roof hit me on the head. It knocked me to my hands and knees.

"I could hear one of the fellows moaning behind me. I thought it was George Reynolds, but I don't know."

30 mph Limit On Highway Entering City

A 30-mile-an-hour speed limit may be set on Highway 28 between Western Ave. and the junction of Highways 28 and 7 following a meeting Thursday afternoon.

Members of the North Monaghan township council, Ald. James Gillespie, representing the Peterborough council and James Fraser, manager of the Chamber of Commerce will meet with W. A. Anderson, divisional engineer at the highway junction to discuss this matter.

Under the Ontario Highways Traffic Act a 30-mile-an-hour speed limit may be enforced on a highway or county road where it has been built up on both sides for 300 feet or on one side for 600 feet.

Complaints have been received about speeding along this stretch of Highway 28, which is considered a threat to the increasing number of children in the area.

Should the speed limit be decided on at Thursday's meeting it will go into effect as soon as signs can be erected, Bruce Johnston, county clerk of North Monaghan said today.

1,630,000 Muskie Fry, 53,000 Trout Planted

The weekly report from the Lindsay district office of the Department of Lands and Forests shows their activity in fish planting operations in the Kawarthas this spring. Fifty-three thousand speckled trout yearlings were planted in suitable Haliburton County waters with stock from the Skeleton Lake Hatchery near Parry Sound.

Muskie fry from the Deer Lake Hatchery had a total distribution of 1,630,000 and was broken down as follows: Victoria, 410,000, Peterborough, 850,000, Northumberland, 230,000, Durham, 70,000 and Haliburton County, 70,000 fry. Haliburton and Victoria received 900,000 and 300,000 pickerel eyed eggs respectively.

Gun Law

It is now unlawful to carry a gun on Sunday in any inhabited game area, under the 1951 Amendments to the Ontario Game and Fisheries Laws. Sections of the Act now reads:

"In any locality which game usually inhabits or in which game is usually found, no person shall have any air-gun, rifle or firearms in his possession, unless it is unloaded and encased or dismantled, between one-half hour after sunset on Saturday and one-half before sunrise on Monday next following, except as may be provided by the Regulations."

Caterpillar Peak

Forest tent caterpillar infestation seems to have reached its peak this season, according to department observers. They found that although some areas have been severely attacked the overall damage this year seems to have been less than last. Fire towermen noticed that defoliation took place in large bands or streaks across the forests running in a general east-west direction. It was also found that in some places great masses of caterpillars forming on single limbs and tree trunks were dead, indicating that some parasite or other controlling agent has been attacking the pest.

The present outbreak which started in 1948 should be less widespread in 1952, experts state, since it appears that they decrease after a four-year cycle.

Outdoor Market Moves To George Street Site

The Outdoor Produce Market, which has been located North of Charlotte Street and West of Water Street, will be moved to its new location on George Street, between Townsend Street and Rink Street, commencing with the Market to be held Saturday, June 16th. All produce usually sold on the Outdoor Market should be taken to the new location commencing on that day, since there will be no space available for market sales on the old location.

The City now will commence immediately to install the parking meters on the former Market Square; these meters having been delivered and awaiting installation for several months.

The Upstairs Market will still be available for sale of fowl, eggs and butter from baskets, as formerly.

Few Women Are Operating Eating Places

NIAGARA FALLS, June 13 — Regret that women operators of restaurants are becoming fewer, for the majority of famous eating places have a woman's touch, was expressed Tuesday night by Mrs. F. G. Montgomery, managing director of the Canadian Restaurant Association, to delegates from cost to coast at the 16th convention of the Canadian Dietetic Association at Niagara Falls.

"Canada needs famous eating places" she said. Through provincial tourist agencies a summary of tourists' comments have been collected. According to these, 75 per cent have been satisfied with Canadian meals. "But it is a serious matter that 25 per cent commented unfavorably" she claimed.

Canadian foods could be featured more than they are, according to locality — honey, maple syrup, fresh apple pie, homemade sausages and Canadian bacon, she maintained. Some consideration should be given to patrons who require special diets.

"Whether it be a full course meal or merely a pot of tea, unending attention to detail is necessary to promote higher standards in meal service across the Dominion" declared th speaker.

W. M. Rosenburgh Weds Toronto Girl

The marriage of William Murray Rosenburgh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Rosenburgh, Division St., Peterborough, to Miss June Elaine Sanderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Lieut. Gardner Robinson RCD was groomsman. Donald Rosenburgh and Robert Stinson of Peterborough and Rodger Barrie and John Sanderson of Toronto ushered.

Receiving, the bride's mother wore navy crepe with corsage of roses and the groom's mother chose navy lace over powder blue with corsage of roses.

After their honeymoon the couple will live in Toronto.

DOROTHY DIX

Girl Penalized By Family For Her Unwise Marriage

DEAR MISS DIX: Several years ago I made a mistake for which I have paid dearly, and am still paying with a broken heart and bad memories. Against the advice of my family, I married a worthless man who betrayed my love and made a fool of me.

I have one sister, four years younger than I, who seems to think that because she has made a happy marriage she is much better than I. The rest of my family acts the same way, too. I came back to them after my marriage broke up, but they refuse to forgive me or offer any signs of love and affection. I thought a family should stick together, especially when one member is in trouble, but my people don't seem to think that way. Is it my fault alone?

Dorothy Dix

CORINNE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your sister had better be careful how she deals out rash judgments. Such things have an unpleasant habit of returning home to roost. The fact that she has been fortunate enough to make a good marriage does not give her the right to put on a holier-than-thou attitude with you. She must be hard indeed to refuse love and sympathy to a sister who has already had a difficult time of it.

You're On Your Own

You might as well face the fact, Corinne, that you're not going to get much comfort from your family, and begin to build a new life by yourself. Perhaps they're afraid you're going to sit around them weeping and pining. As soon as you show you can stand on your own two feet, your sister's estimation may change.

And if it doesn't you will at least convince yourself that you can be independent, financially and socially. Don't live in the past. The future can be as bright as you make it, but don't be so trusting the next time you fall in love.

You'll do much better to make a new start away from your family. They'd never stop saying "I told you so" (the sorriest words of tongue or pen), opening old wounds and reminding you of the past. What you need more than anything else is to forget what has happened and can't be undone. When you're back on top, that family of yours will be delighted to welcome you with open arms.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: How can I get a man I like interested in me, and keep him coming back? This man I speak of took me out several times, but it has now been six weeks since our last date and although I see him two or three times a week during business hours, he hasn't asked me out again. He doesn't go steady with anyone, but keeps taking different girls out. He is 39 years old and I am 38. He claims he doesn't want to get interested in any one woman because for family reasons he doesn't want to marry. Well, I have a good job and am not interested in getting married either. What shall I do?

DOT

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your friend is just afraid of being driven to the altar, like all confirmed bachelors his ago. Are you being strictly frank when you say you aren't interested in marriage? Perhaps unwittingly you had a gleam of wedding-bands in your eye and your friend shied off. Women are possessive creatures, and after even a few dates are apt to feel ownership over a man. Even the most tenuous string cannot be attached to a 39-year-old bachelor without him knowing all about it and resenting it. Remember, he's old enough to know all the tricks of Eve and won't be caught by any of them. When you have a chance to talk to him again, perhaps you can convince him that you're just as disinterested in marriage and being tied down as he is. If he knows there are no obligations to be incurred by taking you out, I'm sure he'll go back to dating.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I was married only six months when my child was born. Shortly after, my husband left me. When my son is old enough, should he be told the truth? And if I ever have an opportunity to remarry, should I tell the man? MABEL

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Don't go around inflicting your mistakes on other people. You did get married, so your baby is legitimate, which is the important thing. Keep your own counsel about the details, both with your son and with any future husband you may acquire.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Offer Family Oven Dinner As Special Purpose Menu

Family Oven Dinner
Grapefruit Juice
Macaroni Supper Dish (see below)
Tossed Garden Salad with Garlic French Dressing
Hard Rolls
Baked Caramel Custard (see notes)
Tea

✧ ✧ ✧

Directions

There are three reasons for the choice of custard for dessert to go with this almost-meatless meal: (1) because the main course hot dish is low on protein, and eggs in the dessert will help to balance this lack; (2) it is a good dish to know. The caramel flows down over the turned-out pudding and acts as a rich sauce; (3) it may be baked at the same time and temperature as the macaroni dish.

✧ ✧ ✧

Macaroni Supper Dish

Boil 5 ounces uncooked macaroni until it is very tender, with 2 large finely chopped onions and 1 cup finely chopped celery. Make 2 cups medium white sauce by melting 4 tablespoons margarine and stirring into them 4 tablespoons flour until blended. Now stir in 2 cups hot milk until thick. Add ½ cup undiluted canned tomato soup to this sauce. Have ready ½ lb. cheddar cheese cut up in dice or slices. In alternate layers in large baking dish, put macaroni with vegetables, sliced cheese, and the sauce until all are used up. Sprinkle top with 2 slices cooked side bacon broken up and sprinkle it with a little grated cheese. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. until bubbly and golden.

To make Garlic French Dressing simply drop a clove of garlic which has been peeled and cut in halves into French Dressing bottle.

✧ ✧ ✧

Tossed Garden Salad

A garden salad to me consists of anything that can be eaten raw that you have in your garden. But since World War II back gardens are not so plentiful so I shall be more specific: leaf lettuce broken into pieces with the fingers—one medium head which has been washed and dried; about 12 stalks of chives; chopped, about 10 thinly sliced radishes, a few chopped mint leaves, wafer thin slices of cucumber, one carrot chredded on the coarse shredder, about one-half of a green pepper shredded finely and if the salad needs to be bigger, put a few tiny cauliflower flowerets, cooked or uncooked in it. Marinate in a little French dressing for ½ hour, in the refrigerator, then toes it well. Add garlic French dressing to make it moist enough and serve at once.

✧ ✧ ✧

Baked Caramel Custard

Melt over low heat to caramelize it, ½ cup granulated sugar. When it is golden brown, pour it equally into six custard cups. Tip so caramel will coat sides a little. When caramel is hard, fill cups with custard: Scald 2 cups milk. Beat 3 eggs enough to mix them, add ⅓ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, and ¼ teaspoon vanilla. Add scalded milk and stir in. Strain if desired. Pour into caramel-coated custard cups equally and sprinkle tops with freshly grated nutmeg. Stand in pan containing 1 inch warm water. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for from 30 to 35 minutes. To test insert silver knife in centre. If is comes out clean custards are set. This may be baked in large baking dish if desired.

Chill in dishes in which they were baked. When ready to serve turn out and pass at once. Top may be sprnkled with grated lemon or orange rind instead of nutmeg if desired.

Control is the keynote of new summer coiffures, whether the hair is styled for formal, dress-up occasions or for more casual work-a-day wear. Glamorous styles (upper left and center) are simple as well as sleek; so, too, are competent but feminine arrangements (lower left and upper right) and cool, comfortable halo-effect (lower right). Exposed ears and unusual parts play important roles in this season's brushed up-and-back hair-dos.

Soft Waves And Curls Featured In New Hairdos

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

For a coiffure in tune with the times, rhythmic swoops and swirls are your best bet this summer. This is indicated by a survey of new styles by leading New York hairdressers, all of whose creations stress sweep and grace despite differences in hair-lengths and purposes.

Although locks are longer in general, they are still a far cry from the loose-hanging shoulder-length bobs of a few years back. Control is the keynote this season.

Hair styles are following fashion's lead toward the elegant and feminine. Brief boyish cuts, gamin tousle-heads and little-girl fluff have all yielded to sleeker, more mature arrangements.

If you've been clinging to an outmoded hair-do because of its ease and comfort, perhaps you should take a closer look at new coiffures. Most of them offer the same simplicity American women learned to appreciate in the short-hair days.

Now, however, instead of brushing your tresses down at the sides, you sweep them back and up from your temples to reveal—partially or wholly—your ear.

The part in your hair is important this year, too. No longer should you whisk it casually from crown to forehead, wherever your comb chances to fall. Your part should be an integral element in your hair-do; it should serve a definite purpose.

John Fonda, in one interesting style, uses a slanting part that emphasizes the gleaming fall of curls that swirls around the side into a half-bang upon the forehead. This treatment of the front hair softens the efficient-looking unswept sides and relieves them of all severity. This is an excellent choice for the woman who wishes to combine a look of femininity with that of efficiency and competence.

In another arrangement, Fonda draws the part across the head, in a direction just opposite to the usual manner of parting. He turns the short front hair over to make a low roll that points up an interesting hairline. The center section of the hair is dressed smoothly back toward the crown, and the side locks are brushed up to add a look of height and importance. This style, although fundamentally simple, appears sufficiently sophisticated for the most elegant occasions.

Another glamorous, but easily-managed style—this one by L. Nicholas—features this season's popular center part. Called the "Cloverleaf" by its creator, this coiffure, swirls toward each side to brush the forehead lightly with smooth wing-tips of hair. Cloverblooms nestle in the part, offering a textural contrast to the sleek, gleaming tresses. An illusion veil, adorned with artfully-placed dots, adds a final touch to this belle-of-the-ball coiffure.

Robert Fiance sections off softly-waved bangs by means of a semi-circular part rising from the forehead. He then pulls side tresses back into wide, sweeping waves which complement the back curls and lead an observer's eye to them. These curls, formed of hair long enough for a complete turn, are brought up off the nape for the high-clustered look preferred by Fiance.

Even in casual styles, such as that created by Henry of the Roosevelt, accent is upon the part. His "Auriole", which forms a soft, becoming halo around the head, is set around a part that is drawn clantwise across the head. It ends a bit lower than the crown, giving the head a well-formed, delicate appearance.

He turn, rather than curls, the ends and brushes them upward to the ears then downward in back to form a soft U centered on the nape of the neck. This cool comfortable hair-do is of particular appeal to those who like prevailing fashion adapted to nonchanlant living.

Says 18-Hour Day In Italy Better Than Hollywood

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON, June 13 —(CP)— Freckle-faced Lois Maxwell, a Canadian girl who swapped a long-term Hollywood contract for an 18-hour day in Italian films, says she still thinks she made the right choice.

"I'd do it again if I had to," said the 24-year-old actress from Kitchener and Fort Erie, who made a name for herself in Italian movies without speaking a word of the language.

One June day two years ago Lois snapped her fingers at Hollywood—"that place wasn't teaching me anything"—flounced into New York and caught the first ship. It happened to be headed for Italy, and ever since her career has had a Latin touch.

Now she's taking a kind of busman's holiday. Here to appear in the British film "The Woman's Angle," Lois finds she has time on her hands. It wasn't that way in Italy.

In contrast to the usual conception of Latin languor, the caramel-blonde says in Italy an 18-hour day is routine. If it ever got down to 12 hours a day, the cast would think it was on bankers' hours.

"As far as films are concerned," says the quiet-spoken Lois, "doing what Rome does means that the only thing you have any energy left for after shooting is sleep."

Makes Own Sound Track

Her first Italian film was "Tomorrow is Too Late," with English dialogue. Later she made films with Italian dialogue dubbed in. Now she makes her own sound track—in Italian.

Lois has appeared in "Amori E Veleni," "Queen Marie Christina" and "The White Leper," story of a young cocaine addict.

Despite the grind of long hours, she is happy working in Italy and hopes soon to interest Canadian sponsors in Italian-Canadian productions. She has no regrets about leaving Hollywood, where she played in such movies as "The Big Punch," "That Hagen Girl" and "The Dark Past."

Lois started her career by broadcasting on a Canadian radio program at the age of 14, without her mother's knowledge.

While in London she is staying with two other Canadian girls. They are Gwen Dante, professional name of a London cabaret star who is a daughter of the late Ernest Dainty, Canadian pianist; and Barbara Cummings of St. Catharines, a budding stage actress. Gwen and Lois played together in London in 1943 with the Canadian Army Show.

GARDEN PARTY—Margaret Truman left, daughter of the President, and Mrs. Walter Gifford (centre), wife of the U.S. Ambassador to Britain, chat with Queen Elizabeth at a traditional English garden party given by American-born Lady Astor at her country home in Taplow. Miss Truman is on her first tour of the European continent.
